No Promises of Tax Cut by Either Party

Few Individuals Say Slash Likely; Most Leaders Cautious

By ROBERT E. LEE
(Of The Independent, Press-Telegram's Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON—At least for the record, the word from both political parties on a tax cut next year is, "Wait and see."

With only a few notable exceptions, Republicans and Democrats alike are making no promises to the voters about income-tax relief.

Usually both parties come back here to start an election-year session of Congress figuring angles on how to reduce taxes—and how to steal the credit from the other fellow.

But a fortnight before the 2nd session of the 84th Congress opens, prospects for personal income-tax reductions are not much better than fair.

* * * *

THE INFLUENTIAL Sen. George (D-Ga), senior member of the Senate Finance Committee, thinks the budget surplus will be enough to warrant a $3.5-billion cut. And he thinks there will be so much sentiment for it that the House Ways and Means Committee, where revenue bills must originate, will go right to work before the members' seats are warm.

But House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) wants to move cautiously, and so do many Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee.

The prevailing Democratic feeling in the House seems now to be that a decision should be delayed until the Spring, when the budget-balance picture is clearer. Republican strategists agree generally that this is the safest course—both economically and politically.

* * * *

ANY BETS PLACED now against a cut next year would fly in the face of not only the election-year tradition but also a political rule of thumb that when there's a budget surplus, you have to slice the melon.

Some Republicans, including Senate Minority Leader Knowland (R-Calif) and reportedly Rep. Reed (N.Y), ranking GOP Ways and Means Committee member, believe a surplus should be applied against the national debt.

AND THE ANGELS CAME!

Ravaged by time and want and chilled by lack of heat this Cincinnati couple discovered Saturday that the spirit of Christmas still reigns. Mrs. Thomas Osborne, 89, (right) reported her husband, 93, missing. Officers found him getting warm at a Salvation Army station. Patrolmen gave them funds for food, the utility firm turned on the electricity, and welfare workers sent coal.—(AP)

PCH Smashup Kills Girl, 17; Driver Jailed

Lakewood Man Arrested on Felony Drunk Charge

Peggy R. Brown, 17, of 2735 E. Hill St., was fatally injured in a two-car smashup here Saturday night and police jailed the driver of the other car on counts of felony drunk driving and felony manslaughter.

Patrick R. Bloomfield, 31, of 2722 Hardwick St., Lakewood, was arrested after he allegedly ran a red light.

The girl was thrown from a car driven by her father, Bee Augusta Brown, 51, in the collision at Pacific Coast Hwy. and Junipero Ave.

Miss Brown was dead on arrival at Community Hospital

Her father was treated at the hospital for extreme shock and other injuries.

His wife, Maggie E., another passenger, was uninjured.

* * * *

OFFICERS SAID Bloomfield was driving east on Pacific Coast Hwy. when the mishap occurred.

Bloomfield was treated at the hospital for head lacerations and abrasions and then taken to city jail.

Earlier Saturday, in another accident, a 3-year-old boy was injured when a milk delivery truck backed into him.

The boy, James R. Tebbetts, 3921 Livingston Dr., Apt. No. 1, was in serious condition in Community Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises of the left leg and possible internal injuries.

* * * *

THE ACCIDENT occurred in front of 3950 E. Ocean Blvd. The boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Tebbetts, 25, suffered bruises on both knees.

Police said a Mountain View Dairy truck, driven by Edward E. Miller, 29, of 1009 W. 133rd St., Gardena, backed into the child as he, his mother and a younger sister stepped off the curb to cross the street in the middle of the block.

Mrs. Tebbetts shoved the girl, Carol Sue, 2, out of the path of the truck.

ROSEMOND MOORE, 23, of 1337 School St., Compton, was killed Saturday when his car smashed into a power pole along Alameda St. south of Henry Ford Ave., Wilmington. High-voltage wires, ripped by the impact, hampered removal of the victim's body for 30 minutes.

James Britton, 19, and his brother, Charles Britton, 21, both of 5242 McCallum St., South Gate, were injured when their car crashed at Terminal Way and Seaside Blvd., San Pedro.

The auto, driven by the older brother, struck a traffic island and sailed through the air for almost 100 feet, then skidded until it smashed a masonry wall. The victims were taken to Harbor General Hospital with fractured legs and possible internal injuries.

SMILES ARE GONE NOW

When Mrs. Wanda Jennings of St. Louis, Mo., won the title of Mrs. America in 1954, her husband, Madison, rewarded her with breakfast in bed as son Michael admired his mother's tiara. Saturday, Mrs. Jennings, now 29, filed suit for divorce, charging general indignities. She alleged her husband refused to accompany her in public unless she paid the bill. ## Would Curtail Yule Flights at L.B. Field

Strike Scheduled for Wednesday in 12 West States

Western Air Lines pilots Saturday broke off talks with company representatives for a new contract and set a strike for 6 a. m. Wednesday that would sharply curtail flight operations at Long Beach Municipal Airport.

The walkout, scheduled to take effect at the peak of the Christmas travel season, would halt the line's entire operation.

Western serves 45 cities in the 12 western states and Canada. A strike would ground 81 daily flights—6 of them daily from the Long Beach Municipal Airport.

WESTERN OPERATES three daily flights to Seattle and three daily flights to San Diego from the Long Beach airport, according to George G. Cain, district sales manager.

Other service at the Municipal Airport here is provided by United Air Lines, which operates two flights daily to San Diego and two flights daily to Inter-

Crane Dings Auto Up, Down in Parking Fuss

CHICAGO (AP)—A crane picked up an automobile and dropped it to the street three times Saturday in the climax of an argument over whether a motorist could park near a construction project.

Policeman Nicolla Esposito said the principals gave this version of their tiff:

Edwin Williams, 41, a fire captain, pulled up to an intersection in his car, with trailer, and parked to load some bicycles he had bought at an auction.

Brooks Faulk, 43, foreman of a crew building the Congress St. Expressway, told Williams:

"Your car is in the way. You can't park there."

An argument followed.

Faulk told a bulldozer operator, "O.K., tear that auto to pieces."

The bulldozer operator refused, so Faulk ordered his crane operator, Guy R. Hamm, 44, to attack the car. He did.

Hamm's crane grabbed the trailer and lifted, standing the car on its front end, then turned loose. The car and trailer smashed to the pavement.

Williams ran to call police.

The crane took hold of the trailer again and lifted both vehicles a little way before the crane jaws slipped, dropping car and trailer again.

Then, the crane grabbed the car by the roof and swung it 20 feet above the ground before dropping it a third time.

Police arrived about this time and, Esposito said, both Faulk and Hamm apologized to Williams and offered to pay for the estimated $800 damage to the car.

Hamm was charged with malicious mischief and disorderly conduct; Faulk with disorderly conduct.

China Issue Raised for '56 by Knowland

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland challenged all prospective presidential candidates, Saturday, to declare whether, if elected, they would resist admission of Red China to the United Nations.

A probable candidate himself if President Eisenhower retires, Knowland said he wants the issue raised before, not after, the 1956 election.

He also made clear to reporters that he still is dissatisfied with the package plan by which 16 new members were voted into the U. N. last week.

* * * *

"THE DETERIORATION of the moral position of the United Nations as a result of the package deal raises the ominous issue of the admission of Communist China into that organization by a similar deal before or after the American presidential elections of 1956.

"Each candidate for President of the United States in both the Republican and Democratic parties should give a forthright answer to the question whether he would, if elected, instruct our representative at the United Nations to work and vote against the admission of Communist China, including, if necessary, the use of the veto," Knowland said.

* * * *

"THE AMERICAN people are entitled to a clear answer to this question before they nominate candidates in either party. It is bound to be an issue in the solemn referendum of 1956."

Can't Swim So He Holds On 13 Hours

GRIMSBY, England (U.P.) — A British seaman who can't swim told Saturday how he battled 13 hours to reach shore after he was washed overboard in the storm tossed North Sea and given up for dead.

Harold Cook, 25, was swept overboard from the trawler Denton two miles off this Lincolnshire port Friday, police reported.

His shipmates searched for him for three hours before turning to port and reporting him lost. They knew he couldn't swim.

But 10 hours after the search was abandoned, Cook staggered ashore on the beach at nearby Cleethories, half-drowned and his mouth full of water.

A local resident, out duck-shooting, saw Cook stretched out at the water's edge and dragged him to safety.

Cook was taken to a hospital for treatment.

* * * *

HE SAID Saturday that for the first 10 minutes after he went overboard, he struggled half above and half below the waves.

"Then I saw a floating log and managed to grab hold of it," Cook said. "It seemed hours until daylight and my legs and one arm were practically numb with cold.

"Once or twice I lost consciousness. But I always managed to keep hold of the log. The next thing I knew I was bumping against a concrete pillar."

The pillar is part of a beacon at the end of a 400-foot long pipe carrying sewage out into the sea.

"Finally I managed to crawl onto the pipe," Cook continued. "But then the log drifted away.

"I hung on all day and then finally I saw a light and managed to crawl ashore towards it. It was the duck shooter."

Cook's widowed mother, Mrs. Annie Cook, said Saturday she felt sure her son was dead when crewmen of the Denton told her of his disappearance.

"Imagine him holding on all that time," she said. "He can't see a thing without his glasses."

Urge Rest in South for Ike

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (U.P.)—President Eisenhower's heart specialist Saturday prescribed a brief after-Christmas vacation in the South to speed the chief executive's excellent and encouraging" recovery.

The specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, who examined Dr. Eisenhower at his farm home here, also fixed a target date of mid-Febuary for "a medical estimate as to the ability of his heart to stand" the strain of a second term.

White discounted the importance of the fatigue Mr. Eisenhower suffered from his recently increased activities, and said, "He has stood the strain of the past six weeks very well."

Reporters pressed White for a forthright opinion on whether the "trend" of Mr. Eisenhower's recovery indicates he will be "physically able to run again."

* * * *

"THE TREND is good," White replied. "But we've got to have another examination to see how he stands up under the full load." He said Mr. Eisenhower probably could resume a fairly normal work load when he returns to the White House about Jan. 9. He said the southern vacation is necessary because the President needs exercise he can't get in cold climes.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said plans for the trip had not been completed. But Mr. Eisenhower probably

Aliens Must Report Soon to Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing reminded the nation's aliens Saturday they must report their addresses to Washington next month.

January is registration month under a law passed in 1952. It requires every alien in the United States to report his address to the Immigration Office. Excepted are diplomats and United Nations representatives.

More than 2,300,000 reported this year. Swing said this may increase to 2,500,000 next year.

* * * *

ALIEN REPORT cards are available at post offices and immigration offices. Parents or legal guardians must fill out cards for children under 14 or persons in custodial care.

Five-Billion Aid Rumors Astounding

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislative leaders reacted with astonishment Saturday to reports that administration officials are considering asking Congress for nearly five billion dollars in new foreign aid money next year.

A strenuous struggle appeared certain in Congress if such a request actually is forthcoming.

Officials said the plan calls for stepped-up military and economic aid to other countries with a new appropriation $2,200,000,000 higher than the amount voted for the current year. The program was said to be aimed in part at countering Russia's new tougher policies.

* * * *

HIGH AUTHORITIES said the proposal has been cleared by all interested government agencies but President Eisenhower still could change it.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee evidenced complete surprise when reached by a reporter at his Vienna, Ga. home.

Need Schoolroom Every 10 Minutes, Knight Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Goodwin J. Knight told a nationwide radio audience Saturday California would have to build a new schoolroom every 10 minutes of every working day for the next five years to fill the state's anticipated educational needs.

Speaking in a recorded CBS program, "The Warning Bell," the governor said California will need 53,000 new classrooms by 1960 to replace facilities that are now sub-standard and to handle expected increases in enrollments.

Brings Gifts Home, Finds Tots Dead

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Mrs. Edna Lopez took her long-saved Christmas spending money from a secret hiding place Saturday morning and slipped out to buy presents for her three young children.

Her husband was at work at a metal plant, so Alicea, 2, Carmen, 1, and Carlos, 5, were left alone.

Mrs. Lopez did not want to leave the children long, so she spent only 30 minutes shopping. She bought dresses for the girls for Christmas and a toy pistol for the boy. For herself, she bought a pocketbook.

When she returned home, proudly clutching her parcels, Mrs. Lopez saw a terrible sight. The family's Bronx basement apartment had been swept by a fire. Both of the little girls were dead. Carlos suffered second degree burns of the face and shoulders.

Still clinging to her packages, the hysterical mother was taken to a hospital.

Police Fail, Lost Boy Finds Self

WILMINGTON — A 13½-hour search for a missing 10-year-old Wilmington boy ended at 10:30 p.m. Saturday when the youth walked in the door of his home at 636 E. Denni St.

David Infante, the object of a house-to-house check by 20 law officers and numerous neighbors, explained he had been away all day playing with a friend named "Gilbert" on L St. On Saturday evening, he said, he watched television.

Officers said the boy went outside at 9 a.m. Saturday, presumably to feed his dog, and failed to return.

Dismal Weather Today, Monday

Clouds and low fogs are predicted for early today and Monday morning.

The fog is expected to give way to hazy sunshine in the afternoons, according to the weather bureau. Little change is expected in temperatures, the high expected to be about 56 degrees.

Snow virtually has vanished from local mountain areas. The only area reporting snow sports is Moonridge, near Big Bear, where an artificial snowmaker has powdered the slopes.

1,000 Cars Checked; No Drunk Drivers

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The holiday is off to a careful start, Sacramento police concluded Saturday.

After they stopped more than a thousand cars they didn't find a single drunk driver.

L.A.C. SAYS:

A Rundown House

A house or store building not kept in full repair, painted and landscaped quickly loses value. It becomes a liability to all property owners in the area. A factory or store that fails to keep modernized will soon lose its profit and eventually find its investment dissipated. That is the reason sensible people keep up their property value by maintaining its vital parts.

A city is a house lived in by all its citizens. If that city allows its vital parts to deteriorate it reduces the value of all the privately owned property in that city. It quickly becomes known as a backward city and therefore ceases to attract new industries and residents. A city can coast just so long without having to do the things necessary to maintain its vital services. The longer it waits the more it will cost to repair the losses it incurs.

Long Beach has long waited to do things that are vital to its growth and maintenance of property values.

MONEY? HO, HUM . . .

After All, It's Only $552,000

In some sections of Dallas and Rolling Hills, a half million dollars is nothing that one cares to shout about.

This became evident Saturday when reporters followed up the news that a Pittsburgh judge had handed down a decree awarding a total of $1,104,000 to two grandchildren of the late James M. Bailey, steamship operator, oilman, lumberman and Realtor.

Asked to comment about his award of $552,000, Bailey Balken, 51, Dallas oil operator, said:

"That's not much money around here, is it?"

Independent, Press-Telegram reporters required two phone calls to get a word or two from Balken's cousin, Mrs. Wilhelmina Bailey Pruyn, 49, of Rolling Hills, who was also awarded $552,000.

The maid who answered the first call to No. 7 Crest Rd. said that Mrs. Pruyn did not wish to be disturbed. She said she believed Mrs. Pruyn's bath water was running.

Then the efficient bridget had an afterthought: "No, I believe they are changing the water in the swimming pool."

Mrs. Pruyn answered the second phone call. She said she did not wish to discuss:

A. Her reaction to the award.

B. Grandfather Bailey's career.

C. The $552,000.

When the receiver clicked, life at No. 7 Crest Rd. returned to routine.

A Rundown House

It has waited for oil money to provide the things other cities provide from taxes. Now Long Beach faces a decision. It must either do the things as other cities do, or sink into a dangerous situation which will injure every piece of property in the city. It means voters must approve bond issues to provide the facilities which have long been delayed as we waited for oil money to do them for us.

Specifically the people are faced with expenditures of some $29 million for six projects. One project is the airport extension, which would assure continuance of the largest payroll in the area. It would also provide a safety factor of a longer runway which is vital regardless of the use by Douglas. Without that extension we are almost certain to lose the greater amount of the 22,000 jobs now provided by the Douglas plant. Those who oppose this project assume a grave responsibility, because they are gambling with the greatest economic factor in the community and the jobs of over 11,000 Long Beach families whose income comes directly from the Douglas plant.

There will be a bond issue for hospitals. Every family in this, or any other community, faces the probability that one or more of its members will need hospital care this year or next. It could be today. But anyone who has tried to get into one of our hospitals must realize the danger we face. Patients must be kept in halls or emergency receiving rooms waiting for a vacant bed. A large portion of our present hospital rooms are so dangerous they should be condemned. But if they were, several hundred patients today would have no place to go.

Our city parks are in deplorable condition. Most of the land is not even planted. We do not have sprinkling systems, so watering must be done by hand. We must modernize neighborhood parks so our young people will have places to play. But we have waited on this, hoping to use oil money. Now we either must do it by a bond issue or get along on park acreage far below what a city of this size requires.

Anyone who has visited our jail or juvenile department must be appalled by the crowded and depressing conditions. We still have about the same space for the police department as when we had half as many policemen and population. One of the expected bond issues will provide money to build a Public Safety Building to house these and other departments. At present the city is paying rental for space in privately owned buildings which would be eliminated by the new city building.

Another project involves $650,000 to provide and enlarge neighborhood libraries. A much-needed new building is asked for the main branch in Lincoln Park. But the Mayor's Committee held the proposal to the minimum amount needed for branches scattered throughout the city.

The sixth proposal is for a freeway extension down the east side of the flood control. It is the DeForest Ave. extension to take traffic off the Long Beach Freeway before it gets to the congested harbor area.

These are six bond proposals expected to be on the ballot Feb. 9. They are projects vital to the health and safety of the people. They are essential projects if we are to provide adequate facilities to match the growth already achieved and hoped for in the future. The voters should carefully refrain from taking an arbitrary NO attitude. They should view these propositions from the same standpoint they would view the house they live in. Unless you keep up your property it will depreciate far beyond the cost of maintaining it in good order. It is now up to Long Beach residents to do for themselves what they have so long waited for oil money to do for them. We have waited long enough.—L.A.C.

U.S. and Britain Offer Egypt $70-Million Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain countered Russia's Mideast political offensive Saturday with a 70-million-dollar offer to help Egypt begin bulding one of history's greatest dams at Aswan on the upper Nile River.

The two Western powers further assured the Egyptian government that they are prepared to put up more money—possibly another 130 million—to carry forward the project after the first phase of work is well started. This latter pledge is subject to approval by Congress.

Of the initial 70 million dollars, 56 million would be given by the United States and 14 million by the British.

The construction of a great dam at Aswan—it would be three miles long, 365 feet high and create the greatest man-made lake in the world—long has been an Egyptian dream. The Western powers have considered assisting in the work for several years but their studies were speeded up by Russia's wooing of the Arab world and particularly by Communist Czechoslovakia's agreement to sell arms to Egypt.

The Western powers decided against engaging in an arms race with the Reds in the Middle East but determined that by economic means they would seek to beat the Russian game. Officials regard the Aswan dam offer as spectacular evidence of Western willingness to work with a Middle Eastern country in building up its peaceful economy and raising the living standards of its people.

Five-Billion Aid Rumors Astounding

But he said he would withhold comment until he receives some official figures.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee reacted similarly at his home in Berryville, Va. Byrd said he wants to consult with Budget Bureau officials next week before making any statement.

George and Byrd were among those who attended a White House briefing on foreign and defense matters last Tuesday. At least three of the conferees said afterward that President Eisenhower and his aides had assured the congressional leaders then that only a slight increase over this year's $2,700,000,000 foreign aid appropriation would be asked.

* * * *

THERE SEEMED little doubt that George and Byrd would join forces against any such increase as is said to be under contemplation. This is understood now to include $1,900,000,000 in new money for economic and and about three billion dollars for military assistance.

Dr. White Says Decision on Ike Fitness Due in Feb.

will go to Augusta, Ga., one of his favorite spots, right after Christmas. He has a cottage there on the borders of famous Augusta National Golf Club.

White said the President could chip and putt but was not yet ready to play 18 holes of golf, his favorite sport.

Hagerty said tentative plans called for Mr. Eisenhower to return to Washington Jan. 3, to consult with Republican legislative leaders at the opening of Congress, and then go back to Augusta until Jan. 9.

This schedule means Mr. Eisenhower may be away from the capital when his state of the union message goes to Congress. Hagerty said it has already been definitely agreed with congressional leaders that Mr. Eisenhower will send the message to Congress in written form rather than delivering it in person.

Explaining why he suggested the southern vacation, White said Gettysburg's wintry weather has made it impossible for the President "to get as much exercise as we would have liked."

"Since the weather here probably will continue to be cold he could find a visit to the South helpful from that standpoint," said White. "It is not because he needs a rest for the heart, but because he needs exercise for his health—as a test."

White, who has been chief consulting physician since the President was stricken with coronary thrombosis Sept. 24, examined him for 90 minutes Saturday with Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, White House physician, and Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of cardiology at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington.

IT WAS THE FIRST time White had personally examined Mr. Eisenhower since Nov. 7, shortly before the President was released from Fitzsomons Army Hospital at Denver.

White said that despite increasing activities of the past six weeks, Mr. Eisenhower's heart showed "no symptoms" of deterioration.

"His general health is good," he added.

In addition to personally examining Mr. Eisenhower, White reviewed the results of the extensive tests which Mr. Eisenhower underwent at Walter Reed Hospital last Saturday.

After those tests, Snyder told reports the President was making a basically good recovery, but was showing signs of fatigue from such activities as long meetings with the cabinet and national security council.

Snyder ordered the President to take it easier, and Mr. Eisenhower has been following that advice with a comparatively restful week at his farm here.

* * * *

WHITE SAID the fatigue noted by Snyder had nothing to do with Mr. Eisenhower's heart condition, but was "a nervous symptom in all probability."

White said Saturday's examination showed the President's pulse and blood pressure normal. An electrocardiogram showed an improvement over the last few weeks, with the heart action "fairly well stabilized."

White, who met reporters in downtown Gettysburg after leaving the Eisenhower farm, tried to head off questions about Mr. Eisenhower's political future by saying, "The future rests in the laps of the gods as it more or less does with all of us. . ."

"With average luck and common sense care, it is possible for the President to live for years and be fully active," he said.

* * * *

HE ADDED THAT "many others among my patients" have done just that.

But he quickly qualified this by saying none of his other patients had been Presidents of the United States. "Therefore I can't speak with experience" on the effect that the presidential work load might have on a coronary patient.

Noting that Mr. Eisenhower "has not yet been subjected to his full load of work," White said it won't be until after his return to the White House about Jan. 9 that Mr. Eisenhower will be entirely back in harness.

"Four or five weeks of exposure to this full load of work should suffice for a medical estimate as to the ability of his heart to stand the work," he said.

White emphasize that even in mid-February, "we can only advise the President medically" about his chances of holding up under the demands of another term.

E. Germans Tighten Berlin Border Ring

BERLIN (UP)—East German Communists tightened the border-control noose around West Berlin Saturday by shutting down elevated railway exits to the isolated western sector.

Alfred Neumann, first secretary of the Berlin Communist Party, said the Western sector's anti-Red policy would "isolate West Berlin still more" and bring "serious disadvantages" for West Berliners.

He told West Berlin workers to band together with the Reds to overthrow the West Berlin city government.

Neumann described West Berlin as "an island, a lost position," and implied that four-power rule in Berlin is dead as far as East Germany is concerned.

The East German Communists ordered police reinforcements to the border to control highway and elevated railway traffic between West Berlin and surrounding Communist territory. West Berlin police described the new controls as "strong."

The Red police checked trains en route from the Soviet sector to West Berlin in an apparent effort to catch smugglers and to stem the flow of refugees to the West.

The Communists closed exits leading to West Berlin at the only two elevated railway stations on the East-West city border. Police barred the exits with large iron gates.

The only way passengers could reach Berlin was by a round-about route from exits in the Soviet sector. This meant enduring stricter border controls.

The Communist drive against alleged smugglers resulted in at least 23 arrests, but this was believed to be only a small portion of the persons actually apprehended. The Communist press said Red customs police were working at "top pitch."

Monroney Plans to Probe Ouster of CAA Leader

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said Saturday he has unanimous backing of the Senate Aviation subcommittee for an investigation into the ouster of Frederick B. Lee as Civil Aeronautics Administrator.

Monroney, chairman of the aviation subcommittee, said in a statement that "the purpose of the investigation is to determine whether political considerations entered into the dismissal of a career civil servant, and whether or not there has been seizure of power by a ground-minded clique in the Department of Commerce, in a bid to control all civil aviation."

The plane cracked up a half mile east of the small town of Hollywood, near State Highway 165.

WHO IS HE?

Kindergarten Looks at Santa

As everybody from Virginia on down knows, there IS a Santa Claus.

But who and what is he?

A sampling of opinion in Miss Marie Turner's kindergarten class at Lafayette School shows there is a certain amount of confusion about the man with the whiskers.

Some of the answers may suggest to parents that it's time for a conference.

The question was: "Who is Santa Claus?"

The answers follow:

Rickey Eddenfield—A man that brings toys.

Glenn Goldman—He has a long beard. He brings toys to good boys and girls.

Denny Grandle—A man. He has stuff around his chin. It looks like cotton.

Karl Maxson—Santa Claus gives you a little bit of money to help you buy presents. He finds them for you, too. If you are not good he puts a black mark in his book. If you are good he puts a gold star in it.

Craig McCarthy—He is just make believe.

Ronald McEwen—He brings toys to all the boys and girls. He brings them to the neighbors' houses.

Dick Miller—Him bring toys. You go to sleep and every time him comes.

Chuckie Pardy—If little boys don't be good he don't bring them nothin'. If big men don't be good Santa Claus don't bring them nothin'.

Mark Pritchard — Man who brings toys and candy. He brings things to men and mothers.

Marion Reno — I don't know yet, but I'll know when Christmas comes.

Darrell Roessler—He has a beard with strings going 'round his ears.

Jimmy Silvers—Santa Claus makes toys. He comes down and gives you the toys at night. He lives in the sky.

Gary Trupp—He is a man that gives kids toys. Last year he was on the boat. He got seasick. I couldn't see him.

Bernard Yperman—He is a man. He has a lot of toys. He has a fire engine he is going to give to me.

Christina Dausel — I don't know. I don't know anything about him.

Candis Davis—A boy and he has long whiskers. He has a mustache right across his nose. He brings good things to good girls—bad things to bad boys and girls.

Cindy Egley—Santa is a man. There is no Santa Claus girl.

Jan Haderlie—I don't know. Do you know who he is? Huh? Do you?

Sheri Lyn Johnson—He has a long beard, but he looks like a girl to me.

Jeanne Joyce—A man. He has a big paper. He writes down names of bad boys and girls. He won't give you presents if you don't be good.

Hazel Jones—He is a boy with whiskers. He has a bell on his cap.

Cathy King—I don't know. Who is he?

Cynthia MacFarland—He decorates the Christmas tree. Teacher! Don't you know?

Susan Start—I think he is a man.

Beverly Taylor—A man with a long beard. He makes toys. He wears red clothes. He will bring me a tiny tears doll, puzzles and bike, if he can find them.

Joey Clark—I think Santa Claus is my father 'cause my mother told me.

Douglas Scott—Just a plain old man.

Dale Shefficld—I think he is our baker. He talks a little like him.

Theresa Rathbun—Santa Claus comes from the North Pole.

Mike Lee—He might be my daddy, but I know he isn't.

SANTA COMES OUT SHORT

Too Few Yak Hairs for Beards

The plight of the poor yak behind the Iron Curtain in Siberia is having serious effects on Santa beards.

And on top of it all, St. Nick's red suits (no relation to the political shade of said curtain) are going to be harder to get in Long Beach come Christmas.

It seems that the yak, a Siberian version of the ox, is distinguished by long hair on its stomach.

When this hair is properly treated, it's as realistic a beard as though shaved from the Man from the North Pole.

Yak hair forms the beard and hair in many of the Santa costumes being rented at Hudson's Costume Shop, 1227 Atlantic Ave.

* * * *

"SEE HOW nice it looks?" asks Mrs. Forrest Hudson, co-owner of the shop with her husband. The snow-white yak hair only lacked a jolly red face to complete the Santa illusion.

"But the Siberian ox is becoming extinct," explains Mrs. Hudson. "And it's getting harder to get the yak hair from behind the Iron Curtain."

So when the yak hair is exhausted, she resorts to a nylon material aimed at creating an authentic-looking beard.

However, poor Iron Curtain yak or not, there's likely to be a shortage of costumes this year which will keep Santa away physically—if not in spirit—from Christmas parties for kids and grown-ups.

* * * *

VIRTUALLY all available Santa costumes have been reserved at Hudson's as well as at the Goodwill Industries, 457 Golden Ave.

Reservations for Santa suits began coming in shortly after Halloween.

"We started the season with 50 Santa suits and are making 10 more," says Mrs. Hudson, who began making costumes as a child in England. When she came to America 35 years ago, she brought Welsh costumes. She first lent them, then made more costumes and began renting them.

Mrs. Lila Hawkins, manager of the costume department for the Goodwill Industries, reported reservations have been made for most of her 50 St. Nick costumes. Only a few remain available for given days.

Charge for the costumes depends on the quality and quantity of the material, fur trim and type of boots.

Hudson's charges from $10 to $15 a day, while the Goodwill Industries charge is from $5 to $15 per day.

Western Air Line's Pilots Call Walkout

national Airport for connection with other flights.

Pilots originally had set their walkout for last Thursday but postponed that strike to resume negotiations.

The negotiations in Los Angeles between the company and the Airline Pilots Assn. broke down over a pension plan.

The firm said it contacted the National Mediation Board in Washington, D. C., and was informed by the board that it "intends to use every means within its power to avert this strike in the interests of the traveling and shipping public."

* * * *

THE COMPANY said the pilots are demanding an additional pension plan to supplement Western's present system-wide retirement program.

It said the proposal called for Western to establish a "variable annuity pension plan" in which the company would make contributions to an investment trust.

The management said wages were not an issue. Western employs 257 pilots, whose salaries range from $1,200 to $1,500 a month.

Howard Jones, regional representative of the pilots' union, said setting of the strike date followed four days of unproductive conferences with company representatives.

* * * *

"THE COMPANY'S hasn't deviated from its basic position," Jones said.

In addition to the pension issue, Jones reported another issue is a union demand for incorporation of civil air regulations into the labor contract. Jones said this had been done in 20 other pilot agreements.

A temporary restraining order was issued earlier this week by a federal judge to prevent 850 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks from striking against Western.

The union, with jurisdiction over station and clerical personnel, had been scheduled to strike Dec. 16.

A hearing has been set for Dec. 26 for the clerks' union to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

Rock Strike Negotiations to Resume

Negotiators will huddle again Monday morning in an attempt to settle the 77-day-old rock industry strike.

Federal Conciliator Earl Ruddy said joint and separate sessions are planned.

No meetings were conducted over the weekend.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn's proposal for a 90-day truce did not come up for discussion in Friday's session, Ruddy said.

Hahn had suggested a truce to provide workers with pay during the Christmas season.

Bandit Takes $2,000 at Compton Market

COMPTON—A bandit robbed two women clerks of $2,000 early Saturday in Wiley's Market, 1739 N. Santa Fe Ave.

The victims, ordered into the washroom as the bandit departed, were Mrs. Patty Wiley and Mrs. Mary Wiley, wives of the store's co-owners, Earl and Raymond Wiley. The women called police as soon as they heard the gunman slam the door.

LOGIC COSTS COMMUTER $5

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—With the logic born of a commuter's exasperation, Mark J. Hroncich insisted Saturday that the Long Island Rail Road honor a weekly commutation ticket 57 minutes after it had expired.

After all, he argued, the railroad owed him 45 minutes—his train Friday had been that late getting into New York.

Hroncich's insistence created such a fuss that it landed him in First District Court. And his logic cost him a $5 fine.

Man With Five Wives Gets Five Years in Prison

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Third District Judge Ray Van Cott Jr. Saturday sentenced a 49-year-old Salt Lake City man to five years in the state prison for unlawful cohabitation with five women.

Louis Alma Kelsch pleaded guilty to the charge when brought before Judge Van Cott. The five women reportedly bore him 31 children.

Kelsch was one of four Utah men arrested in a polygamy crackdown during October. One of the others, Carl Jentzsch, previously was sentenced to five years. The other two are awaiting hearings.

Despondent Cop Misses Self, Hits, Kills Another

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—Taipei policeman Sun Tsung Ping, despondent because of a long illness aimed his service pistol at his head and fired a shot.

The bullet missed and killed a fellow policeman who was passing by outside.

Sun was sentenced to one year in prison.

Guatemala Goes to Polls Today to Elect Congress

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemalans elect a new Congress today to support the anti-Communist government of President Carlos Castillo Armas.

Sixty-six deputies are to be named for the first time since Castillo Armas overthrew the Red-tinged regime of Jacobo Arbenz 18 months ago. The voters also are to choose mayors for 321 municipalities.

No defeat for the president's national democratic movement or comeback for Guatemala's Reds is possible under the provisional election law.

All the candidates for Congress and most of those for mayors are entered by the six parties which support the president.

Police early Saturday shot dead a man they suspected of running contraband arms to the Communist underground. They seized a bundle of four rifles which they said were stamped with Hammer and Sickle designs. This was the only violence in a listless campaign.

THIEVES TAKE LIGHTS OFF 2 YULE DISPLAYS

Thieves are on the prowl for Christmas lights, police reported Saturday. Forty-five blue and white candle-shaped lights were stolen from the stairway of the home of Phyllis M. Turman, at 58 64th Pl, early Saturday.

At the same time, police reported that 40 colored lights were stolen from trees at the home of James W. Dawson, 3618 Ocana Ave.

To discourage thieves, police suggested that all outdoor lights be turned off at midnight.

Pedestrians on Freeway Cause Crash

NORWALK—Three cars were involved Saturday night in a crash on the Santa Ana Freeway as drivers swerved to avoid hitting two Marine pedestrians. One driver was hurt, but both pedestrians escaped injury.

Claudia Ruth Thompson, 7144 Benares St., Downey, was taken to Carobil Hospital here with minor injuries.

Others drivers in the crash were Rae Marrita Morin, 14536 San Dieguita Dr., La Mirada, and Donald Allen Decrona of Los Angeles.

The two pedestrians involved were Jackie C. Payne and Benjamin Jackson Walker, both of the Camp Pendleton Marine Base. California Highway Patrol officers said they may issue a citation to at least one of the men.

Officers said the men were crossing the freeway at Rosecrans Blvd. and that the cars collided while trying to avoid hitting the pair.

SLEUTHS FAST SPRINTERS

Jail-Camp Escapee Caught

PARAMOUNT — An escapee from a jail road camp was captured Saturday night after a block-long chase here when he ventured into a cocktail lounge.

Milburn R. Cloninger, 26, had been sought since Nov. 13 when he escaped from a county road camp near Malibu where he was serving a sentence for failure to provide.

Cloninger entered the bar near Orange Ave. and Compton Blvd. and spotted Sheriff's Detectives A. W. Dillbeck and L. F. Stuck, who were looking for him there.

He recognized the officers and ran from the door. The detectives ran faster.

Peacock Peeks at Beauties on L. B. Float

"WELCOME ABOARD," said Miss USA (Carlene King Johnson), as she helped Miss Universe (Hillevi Rombin) to clamber onto the frame of the Long Beach float at Pasadena. A happy peacock got a close-up of the Miss Universe Pageant beauties as they warmed themselves in the huge quonset where floats are decorated. The girls will ride the float in the Tournament of Ross, sharing the floral throne with Judy Ware, Miss Welcome to Long Beach.—(Staff photos by Chuck Sundquist.)

52-YEAR EXPERIENCE

Winner Fashions L. B. Float

By SPENCER CRUMP

Fifty-two years ago a young Pasadena girl entered her first float in the Tournament of Roses.

It was her own horse-drawn buggy, attractively adorned with roses and ferns. Its beauty drew cheers along the route.

The young lady is now Mrs. Isabella Coleman. She is still building floats for the Rose Parade and they are still drawing "ohs" and "ahs" from onlookers.

For the past six weeks, in a big Quonset warehouse in northern Pasadena, she has been building the Long Beach float. This is the 30th consecutive year she has designed the local float and she hopes the 1956 version will be another Sweepstakes winner.

The Long Beach float won the much sought-after Sweepstakes prize, top award for cities, in both 1954 and 1955.

* * * *

"IT'LL BE HARD to win three years in a row," Mrs. Coleman admits, carefully checking the water-color painting of the float with the frame-work of the rising float. "But this is going to be a beautiful float and I'm hoping we can repeat."

Helping the flowered beauty assembled by Mrs. Coleman will be two of the most beautiful girls in the world.

They are Hillevi Rombin of Sweden, the current Miss Universe, and Carlene King Johnson, the reigning Miss U.S.A. The two beauties visited the warehouse Thursday to watch construction of the float. Both girls expressed considerable enthusiasm over riding the float on Jan. 2 (when New Year's Day falls on Sunday, the parade is held the following Monday).

"It's something I dreamed about but never thought would happen to me," Carlene said.

Hillevi nodded.

"Even in Sweden the Pasadena Tournament of Roses is famous," the Swedish beauty said, "and Long Beach is noted for its beautiful floats. Riding the float will be a great honor."

Judy Ware, Miss Welcome to Long Beach, also will grace the float.

* * * *

THE THEME of the float will be "Let Beauty Reign," carrying out the parade theme of "Pages from the Ages."

Mrs. Coleman's know-how accumulated during more than a half century of building floats is going into the project.

After proudly riding in her first float, she went on to design her first commercial float. Her first venture was for the Pasadena real estate board, a project obtained for her by her father, one of the city's leading real estate men.

The float won first prize in the category for horse-drawn floats.

Pleased, the real estate men gave her more money the second year and she designed an automobile powered float which won first prize in its division.

Her fame spread and in 1915 the city of Los Angeles, hoping for the coveted Sweepstakes prize, commissioned her to build a float. L. A. won and she continued to design the city's float up until three years ago.

"The spectacular parade lasts for only a few hours," Mrs. Coleman notes, "but it takes hundreds of hours to prepare a float."

* * * *

IN THE LONG BEACH case, after award of the contract the city council approves the preliminary sketches. The basic framework for the float, incorporating wheels and the engine, are owned by the city.

This frame is low on the ground, which pleases Mrs. Coleman's taste in floats.

"When a float is low, people can look down on the flowers and the people riding on it," she explains. "When it's too high, people must look up at it and most of the beauty of it is hidden."

This framework was taken to Pasadena shortly after Nov. 1 and work on the 1956 float has been moving ahead full speed ever since.

Craftsmen for construction details are carefully chosen for the work.

"Many of the same people return every year to help with the floats," she says, "and to them building a float is more than work. It is an art and each worker is hoping the float will win as he or she builds it."

* * * *

WELDERS . . . CARPENTERS . . . artists . . . painters . . . all lend their talents. Some take vacations or leaves of absences so they can help with the floats. Others work at night or in the early morning hours.

During the final days of construction, Mrs. Coleman also receives help from her two sons, who were initiated into the work while youngsters. One is a dentist now and the other a physician.

This year she also will be helped by her 10-year-old granddaughter, Kathleen Coleman.

Many Tournament of Roses Association rules govern the construction of the float. These include a maximum height of 17 feet, a width of 20 feet and a length of 40 feet.

ISABELLA COLEMAN
First Came the Buggy

A busy woman, Mrs. Coleman also is directing construction of floats for West Covina, All American Rose, Occidental Life Insurance Co., Franilla Ice Cream Co. and the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel.

* * * *

THREE FLORAL PEACOCKS will grace the front of the Long Beach float and a fountain will be in the center.

At this stage, the float has been shaped with wire which in turn has been covered with paper mache and spray-painted white.

Mrs. Coleman envisions using nearly 250,000 flowers, including 5,000 roses in addition to orchids, sweet peas and chrysanthemums. The flowers will be attached to the float with hot glue, which Mrs. Coleman finds helps preserve the blooms.

Miss Universe and Miss U.S.A. each will wear ice blue evening gows, while Miss Welcome will wear a pink evening gown.

"Evening gowns make the girls look dignified whether they are standing or seated," says Mrs. Coleman.

"Brief costumes are all right for majorettes," she adds, "but not for true beauty queens."

The gowns, incidentally, will have straps on the shoulders.

"We want to be sure there are no accidents," Mrs. Coleman explains.

Ex-Rose Queens Pasadena Luncheon Guests Tuesday

The damsels who took the spotlights in past Tournaments of Roses, the parade queens of yesteryears, will be guests Tuesday at a luncheon in Pasadena.

The queens will be honored on "Royalty Revisited," Occidental Life Insurance float for 1956. It is being designed by Mrs. Isabella Coleman, who also is executing the Long Beach float.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Hosmer Promises Startling New Angles on River-Water Battle

By The Lookout

"Sensational developments" in California's Congressional battle over Colorado River water were promised Saturday by Congressman Craig Hosmer as he left Long Beach for Washington preparatory to the reopening of Congress in January.

Back from a four-day helicopter expedition into the Colorado River country of Utah and Arizona, Hosmer refused to divulge at the moment the purpose of the trip or what he found. But he indicated he had picked up information that he expects to use in an aggressive campaign in Congress to prevent what he calls "the attempts of Upper Colorado River states to jump California's water claims."

Two geologists, Dr. Harold Hoots and Peter H. Gardett, were in the party with Hosmer, which went by car to Arizona and used the helicopter to get into otherwise inaccessible areas along the river.

Hosmer said he was going back to Washington early to prepare for the fight against the Upper Colorado River Storage Project. His family accompanied him Saturday.

The Long Beach Congressman recently was hailed by Southern California water leaders for proposing a compromise for federal-state operation of the San Joaquin Valley's San Luis Dam project. He said the plan will clear away one of the difficulties in the way of the $1½-billion state Feather River plan which would double Southern California's water supply.

Hosmer remarked that Southern California must get all of its just share of Colorado River water and must add it to water from Northern California if it is to continue to grow in population.

BATTLES LOOM—Ballot battles loomed large on the local horizon last week as plans shaped for a special city election on Feb. 9 and politics began to heat up in advance of the statewide primary on June 5.

Registration for the city election closed Saturday, and there were lineups at various registration stations around town. Indications are that the most warmly contested issue at the Feb. 9 election will be the bond issue to finance extension of the main airport runway.

Democratic political circles here were stirred by the prospect of a fight between Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver for California's Democratic presidential preference at the June primary. Both have declared they will file in this state, and both have some rabid supporters in Democratic ranks here.

Stevenson backers have been invited to a meeting Monday in the Music Room of the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m., when Hy Raskin, Stevenson's deputy campaign manager, will be on hand. Purpose of the meeting is to provide for an exchange of information, and its sponsors emphasize the "open" nature of the affair, with any interested person welcome.

An interesting angle is that the meeting is called by Elizabeth Snyder, Democratic state chairman, and Paul Ziffren, the national committeeman. The announcement was put out under the heading of the Democratic National and Democratic State committees.

Sen. Kefauver has been complaining that California party leaders are trying to "freeze" him out and has pointed out that no one is the official party candidate. The "official" nature of the call for Monday's meeting is indicative of the sort of thing he has been talking about.

* * * *

ENDORSED—A ticket of incumbents headed by President Eisenhower was endorsed at a meeting last week of the 70th District Republican Assembly. The group favored the national ticket of Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, Congressman Craig Hosmer, and 70th District Assemblyman W. S. Grant.

Warren Doherty, insurance man, was re-elected president of the Assembly. Other officers: Frank Lowry, first vice president; Mrs. True Anderson, second vice president; Mrs. Helen Mozingo, third vice president; I. G. Batdorff, treasurer; Margaret Apgar, recording secretary; Fred Goppert, corresponding secretary.

SEEKS OK ON PROPOSITION 3

Prisk Leads Drive for Safety Building

William F. Prisk, retired Long Beach newspaper publisher has accepted the post of general chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Public Safety and will lead the drive to win approval for Proposition 3 at the Feb. 9 special municipal election here.

Proposition 3 authorizes construction of a Public Safety Building in Long Beach to house the Police Department, Juvenile Bureau and Central Fire Station.

More than 300 prominent local citizens form the nucleus of the Citizens' Committee for Public Safety.

"Construction of the Public Safety Building is vital to the welfare of every man, woman and child in Long Beach," Prisk declared.

* * * *

"WE ALL RECALL that construction of the Public Safety Building was voted on and approved by an overwhelming majority of 34,531 YES votes to only 13,204 NO votes at the special election held here on June 1, 1054," he said.

"Because the June 1, 1954 vote authorized use of tideland oil revenue to construct the Public Safety Building and because the courts subsequently ruled that tidelands funds cannot be used for such purposes, it is necessary to have a second vote on the project," Prisk explained.

City officials have pointed to the need for more space to accommodate the Police Department, Juvenile Bureau and Central Fire Station.

"The Public Safety Building will supply this critically needed space," Chairman Prisk stated.

* * * *

PROPOSITION 3 will be presented as a bond issue and will require a two-thirds majority for approval.

"However," Prisk said, "Proposition 3 will not, in all probability, require any direct taxes on property because it is expected that the bond interest and redemption will be paid out of oil revenues accruing from city-owned wells producing on upland sites.

"A charter amendment," Prisk continued, "making mandatory the use of upland oil revenues after July 1, 1957, to pay interest and principal on public improvement bond issues is included as a proposition on the Feb. 9 ballot here."

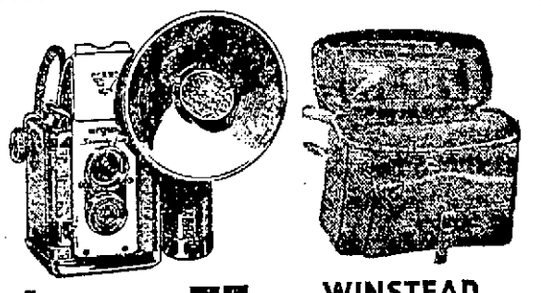

Proposition 3 provides for an expenditure up to, but not to exceed, $4,660,000 for the Public Safety Building project—including land acquisition, plans and engineering, construction, landscaping and equipment.

Site of the ultra modern Public Safety Building will be immediately south of Broadway, between Chestnut and Magnolia Aves.

Watkins Sees Upper Colorado OK in '56

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) predicted Saturday that Congress will approve the Upper Colorado River Storage Project in 1956.

Legislation to authorize the billion-dollar series of power and irrigation dams along the upper Colorado and its tributaries was passed by the Senate but failed to make it through the House in the past session of Congress.

34 Lose Lives in Series of Tex. Mishaps

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — A tragic series of fires, headon car wrecks and a gas explosion killed 34 people in Texas Friday and Saturday.

Four elderly people burned to death Saturday when fire leveled a rest home at the coastal city of Beaumont.

Five high school football fans en route to a big game died in a headon crash near Hallettsville in south Texas.

In another headon crash, near Belton in South Texas, five more were killed.

At McAllen in south Texas Friday, a gas explosion burned four small children to death.

* * * *

TO THAT TOLL of 18 dead in four instances of tragedy were added eight other fire deaths for a total of 15 fire deaths, five other traffic accidents for a traffic toll of 15, and one death from exposure to sub-freezing temperatures.

Fire which raced through a 10-room, frame nursing home at Beaumont killed Mrs. Emma L. Harper, 82; Mrs. Malathann Cox, 80; Mrs. O. E. Perry, 76, and Mrs. Annie Kratzer, about 90.

Beaumont Fire Chief Steve O'Conor called it the most tragic happening in his 37 years' service. Six other elderly residents of the home were rescued. One, Mrs. Etta Redman, 77, was severely burned. O'Conor blamed the fire on a defective heater.

* * * *

THE FIVE KILLED at Hallettsville were on their way to the Weslaco-Hillsboro schoolboy football game, winner of which plays in a state championship. They were James Allen Holmes, 48; his wife, Clementine, 46; Robert Edwin Martin, 48; his son, Thomas Fred Martin, 18, and a woman tentatively identified as Mrs. Thomas Fred Martin.

Four members of a Greenville, Tex., family were among the five killed in the headon two-car crash 10 miles south of Belton.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Love; their two sons, Rufus Jr., 15, and Sammie, 13; and Sgt. Joseph P. Lyvers, 24, Loretta, Ky., a soldier stationed at Fort Hood, Tex. Love, 50, was a Greenville manufacturer. Lyvers was in the other car.

Burned to death in fire which swept their Quonset hut home near McAllen were Maria Del Rosario Moncerrata, 9 months old; Maria De Moncerrata, 2; Amadeo Mercado, 7 months old, and Eva Mercado, 3. They were children of two families living in the quonset.

Flames Sweep Home, Kill Three Children

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Three small children perished Saturday when flames swept their second-floor apartment home.

They were identified as Barbara Ann Holton, 4, Equillia Jones, 3, and Mary Alice Byrd, 4 months, the daughters of Mrs. Lucy Byrd.

Workmen at a nearby tobacco warehouse noticed the flames and turned in the alarm. Flames had enveloped the upstairs portion of the building before firemen arrived, but they saved the first floor. The mother was visiting nearby.

2 Airmen Perish in Cape Cod Fire

MASHPEE, Mass. (UP)—Two airmen burned to death and three other persons were injured Saturday when a wind-whipped fire destroyed the 24-room Hotel Attaquin, one of Cape Cod's most widely known inns.

Fire Chief Ellsworth Peters said the two-story wooden structure, where President Grover Cleveland and Daniel Webster once stayed, "burned like a matchbox." Damage was officially estimated at $50,000.

The victims were identified as Master Sgt. Luke Concannon, 37, of Holyoke, and Staff Sgt. George A. Gray, 29, Bainbridge, Ga.

Scout Saves Pal as Skate Severs Vein

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy's jugular vein was severed Saturday by a friend's ice skate, but his life was saved, doctors said, because the friend remembered his first-aid lessons.

Robert Alman, 15-year-old star Boy Scout, clamped his fingers on the severed vein of David Jones to stop the flow of blood. For 30 long minutes, which included an ambulance dash to a hospital, Alman applied pressure to keep the younger boy from bleeding to death.

Police said Jones slipped and fell while playing hockey on a pond in suburban Greece. Alman, they reported, skated into the fallen boy and the blade of his skate pierced Jones' throat.

Another boy hailed a passing motorist who, in turn, summoned an ambulance.

Life-Term Felon Asks for Parole

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harvey Bailey, one of the nation's most notorious criminals in the early '30's, is seeking a parole after 22 years in prison.

Joseph M. Miniage, Kansas City attorney, disclosed Saturday he had been retained by the 68-year-old kidnaper to seek a parole for him. He said he had visited Bailey in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth last Thursday.

Bailey is serving a life sentence for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oilman, in July, 1933.

He first gained notoriety as the leader in a $32,000 bank robbery at Fort Scott, Kan., in 1932. He escaped in 1933.

Between the prison break and his apprehension occurred the $200,000 Urschel kidnaping and the Kansas City Union Station massacre in which Frank Nash, a federal prisoner, was killed, and four officers lost their lives. Bailey was identified as one of the gunmen.

Report Gasoline, Oil Tax Near $6 Billion

WASHINGTON (UP)—The annual tax take of all governments—federal, state and local—on gasoline and other oil products is nearing the $6 billion mark, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Industry sources said Saturday it will break through that barrier easily if Congress decides to finance President Eisenhower's multi-billion dollar highway building program with more taxes on motorists and other petroleum users.

The ever-increasing total is causing industry alarm. President T. S. Petersen of Standard Oil of California warned recently that another federal tax on gasoline might push the price of the fuel "to the point of diminishing returns."

The API's Tax Economic Bulletin said that taxes absorbed 6.2 per cent of each gross income dollar in 1954, compared with 4.4 per cent paid to stockholders as dividends and 5.8 per cent reinvested in the industry.

* * * *

IT SAID the average tax on finished crude oil products last year was $2.02 a barrel, about 71 per cent of the average price of crude at the well and more than double the rate in 1946.

It will be even higher this year. Federal taxes alone on gasoline, diesel oil, lubricants and pipelines totalled $1,070,792,000 for the first six months of 1955—a $13 million jump over the comparable period of 1954.

Congress is scheduled to take up Mr. Eisenhower's highway plan soon after it reconvenes Jan. 3. It already has rejected his bond-financing proposal and is talking in terms of increased highway user taxes, including a one-cent hike in the federal gasoline tax.

Petersen stoutly opposes this. He said he favors a tax base which would tap all persons who benefit directly or indirectly from highway traffic such as stores, farms, homes, places of business, suppliers of automobile accessories, and paving materials.

Driver Dies, Tourist Saves Bus From Fall

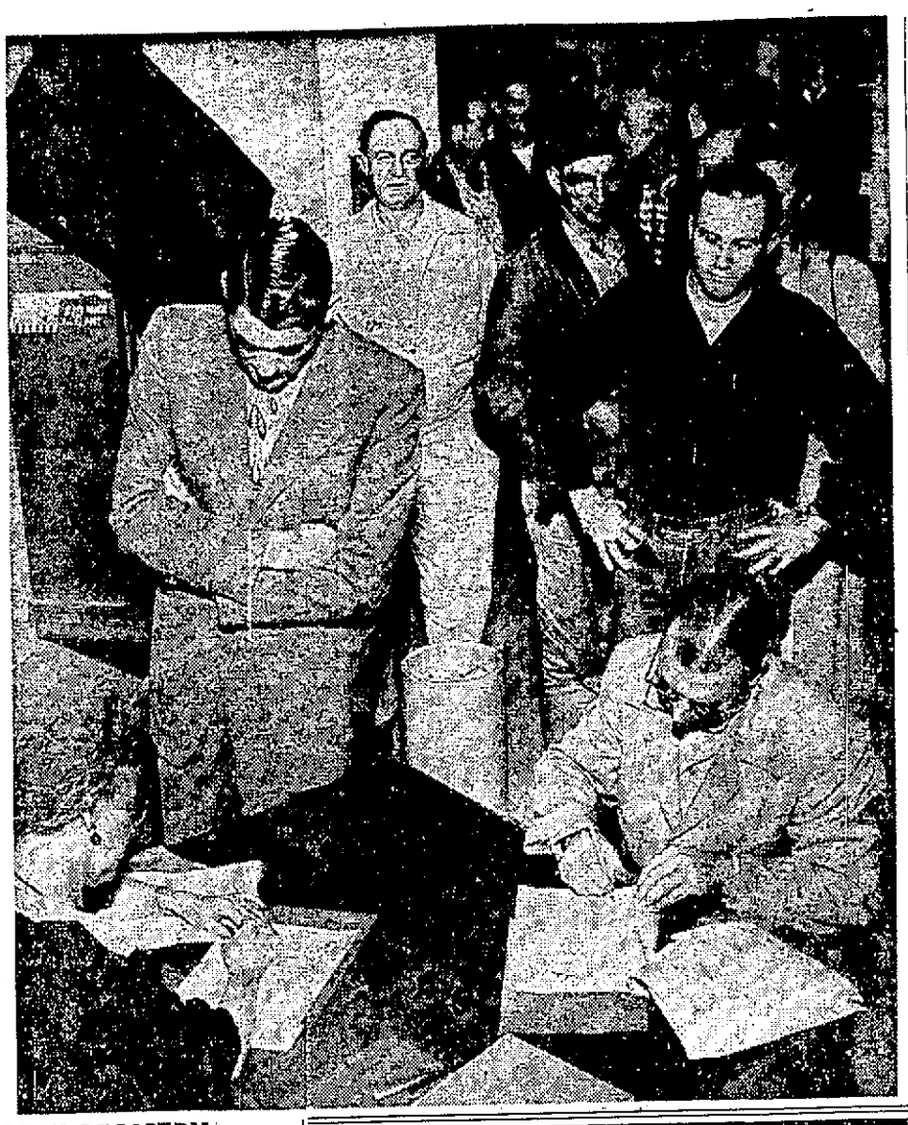

COPPERFIELD, Utah (AP)—A quick-thinking passenger Saturday saved a bus from plunging into the 1,960-foot-deep Kennecott copper pit after its driver had died at the wheel.

W. R. Corl of Detroit, Mich., one of six tourists on a Gray Line Motor Tours sightseeing bus, saw the driver slump over and he quickly leaped to the driver's seat and applied the brakes just as the bus scraped a parked car about 100 feet from the pit.

The driver, Ira Jack Nicholes, 60, of Salt Lake City, died of a heart attack after he drove the bus through a tunnel leading to the pit and turned it onto a downhill street that led to the mine.

Investigating officers said that had Corl not been alert the bus probably would have continued straight down the street and crashed through a small fence that rims the open pit mine, largest of its kind in the world.

Corl was the only passenger who saw Nicholes slump over. The others were looking out the bus windows.

5 Teenagers Die in Truck Hit by Truck

GILLETTE, Wyo. (UP)—A Burlington Railroad passenger train hit a pickup truck on an unmarked grade crossing Saturday night, killing five teenagers.

Authorities said the truck was registered to George Seifert of Scottsbluff, Neb., leading them to believe his son, Robert, about 18, was the driver.

The other victims were residents of Gillette.

They were identified as Daryl Johnson, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Johnson; Dale, 16, and Gary, 15, sons of Mrs. Velmer Russ, and Glenna Phillips, 15, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth McCoid.

The accident happened on the western edge of Gillette. There is no signal at the crossing to warn of approaching trains.

Officers said the passenger train, two hours late on a scheduled run from Billings, Mont., to Lincoln, Neb., hit the pickup squarely, throwing the wreckage up over the engine cab. It was impossible to determine which of the teenagers was driving.

The driver's vision might have been obscured by frost on the windshield.

Bullet Meant for Son Hits Mom in Head

EARLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Louise Smith, 36, was critically wounded Saturday when she stepped in front of a pistol leveled at her son.

The father, Ezra Smith Sr., 43, was charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Constable James Todd said the son, Ezra Jr., 20, gave this story:

The father and mother became involved in an argument over ornaments on a Christmas Tree they were preparing.

When the son intervened, Smith warned him to "keep out of this" and threatened to kill him.

Young Smith said his mother jumped between them when Smith produced a .25 caliber automatic and fired.

Imperial Valley Has 7 Quakes Saturday

BRAWLEY (UP)—New earthquakes shook cities in the Imperial Valley, Saturday, raising the possibility of another sleepless night for edgy residents.

However, most of the shocks throughout the day were too light to be felt and residents believed they were tapering off. Imperial Valley Irrigation District headquarters counted seven, Saturday. An attendant on the canal said he had felt at least 78 tremors since 7:43 Friday night, when the series started.

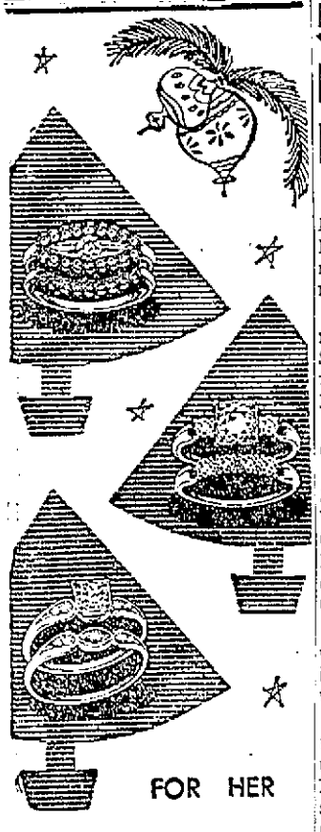

This city received most of the damage, mainly broken store windows and cracked walls. The Chamber of Commerce estimated damage at more than $50,000. Damage included a dozen broken water mains.

Downtown Brawley, roped off because of possible looting when store windows were broken Friday night, was open late for "business as usual" for Christmas shoppers Saturday night.

The tremors posed a threat to the All-American Canal, this farm region's vital water link.

Please, No Jibes About Old Maids!

LEICESTER, England (AP)—Dr. Leslie Weatherhead, president of Britain's Methodists, thinks it's disgraceful to joke about old maids. "Jokes about unmarried women between 40 and 60," he says, "are feeble and more cruel than funny." The reason many women are spinsters, he adds, is that so many men were killed in two world wars.

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany intends to order three atomic research reactors from the United States and Britain. In addition, the federal government and private industry are building a fourth. # California Educators to Receive Awards

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Inc., announces awards totaling $235,000 to 24 faculty members engaged in basic scientific research at 16 colleges and universities.

These are the first of a series of grants which will be made from the foundation's fund to support basic research in the physical sciences.

The fund was established this year by the trustees of the foundation as a result of a gift of $5,000,000 from Alfred P. Sloan Jr. and his wife.

Among faculty members who received awards are these Californians:

Dr. Richard Feynman and Dr. John R. Pellam, California Institute of Technology; Dr. Harold S. Johnston and Dr. Walter E. Meyerhoff, Stanford, and Dr. William D. Gwinn and Dr. Walter D. Knight, University of California.

McCarthy Urges Cleanup of Reds

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) demanded Saturday that the Senate investigating subcommittee "resume efforts to expose the Communists who are still in the government."

McCarthy, former chairman and now ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, made the demand in an open letter to the present subcommittee chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark).

McCarthy said he believes McClellan personally would like to expose Communists.

DATE LINE DILEMMA

1,500 to Sail Past Christmas

SEATTLE (AP)—Eighteen hundred soldiers bound for Japan are in grave danger of having Christmas Day snatched right off their calendar—just because the world is round.

They're aboard the Navy transport Mitchell, due to reach the international date line about Christmas Eve. This means they could sail from Dec. 24 right into Dec. 26 without even catching a glimpse of the day of days.

They may miss the date, but they won't miss the event.

"We'll have Christmas even if it comes on Saturday," said Chaplain D. R. Kruse as the Mitchell sailed Saturday. Gift packages were taken aboard and every soldier will get one. In addition, the crew of the Mitchell will distribute cigarets and candy to all.

Those 300 crewmen are on the gift-package list, too.

When the big gray transport reaches Japan the crew will observe Christmas again—with 80 youngsters from Yokohama's Our Lady of Lourdes Orphanage as their guests at a turkey dinner and holiday program.

Ike to Light White House Tree Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his country home at Gettysburg today, President Eisenhower will flip a switch at 5 p.m. (EST) to light the giant Christmas tree behind the White House in Washington.

The 65-foot spruce from the Black Hills of South Dakota stands in the ellipse, or President's Park, between the White House and the Washington Monument.

Vice President Nixon will be on the stage near the tree to make the introductory remarks. Then the voice of the President will be broadcast over the grounds and through national radio and television hookups.

• • • •

SATURDAY, the White House and the high command sent Christmas greetings and hope for continued peace to the nation's soldiers, sailors and airmen stationed around the world. The President told them that "the Christmas season is the time for renewal of hope for peace and justice and good will throughout the earth." He expressed the hope that the coming year would be "one of continued progress toward justice and brotherhood among peoples everywhere."

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said in his message that "the spirit of Christmas, peace and good will are especially needed in the world today."

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, urged that "each of us repledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor in an earnest resolve to preserve our faith and our freedom in the spirit of true peace and security."

DOBBIN WINNER IN MAIL RUSH

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (UP) — The horse - drawn parcel post delivery system tried out experimentally here during the Christmas rush last year went back into service Saturday.

Acting postmaster Ben A. Redfield said the dobbin-powered delivery, using a flat-bed wagon, turned out to cost less than borrowed National Guard trucks previously used, made handling easier and speeded deliveries.

TWO NEEDY FAMILIES TO BENEFIT

Sailors Tired, Happy After Shopping Spree

SAN PEDRO—Three foot-weary sailors Saturday trudged back to their ship tied up at Terminal Island, tired from a three-day shopping tour.

Two harbor area families, including 15 children and an 80-year-old grandmother, will have a happier Christmas because of the sailors' spending spree.

From a list of needy families provided by the Long Beach Welfare Council, crewmen aboard the USS Cavallaro, tied up at the Bethlehem Shipyard, picked the "two largest and neediest."

• • • •

USING $80 from the ship's recreation fund, and another $180 donated by crewmen when the hat was passed, the buying committee toured Long Beach stores to buy a pair of shoes for every member of both families; a 21-pound turkey for each family, at least two toys for every child, five cases of food and armloads of blankets, clothes and other gifts.

These were augmented by second-hand toys collected by crewmembers and repaired and repainted in the ship's shops.

Fear Benefits Cut

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said Saturday many veterans fear that the President's commission on veterans' pensions will recommend curtailing their benefits.

College Head Explains His Resignation

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Clark G. Kuebler, 47, issued a statement Saturday following the acceptance of his resignation as provost of Santa Barbara College, Friday, by the regents of the University of California.

A morals charge against Kuebler was dismissed last Nov. 10 in New York City by Magistrate Hyman Bushel on grounds of insufficient evidence.

In his statement Kuebler said:

"During the past six weeks I have tried to evaluate objectively the results of my tragic experience in New York. Clearly exonerated in a court of law, I am innocent of the charge and its ugly implications, and yet the publicity given to the false accusation has done me irreparable damage.

"There are always those who consider an accusation a conviction of guilt. Either they habitually believe the worst of others or they are jealous of the success the accused may have had or they dislike him for what he is or stands for and use the accusation as a weapon for character assassination . . ."

Kuebler said, "My first interest is in the university . . . I am determined that my personal tragedy will not stand in the way of Santa Barbara College's future. Accordingly, last Wednesday I formalized the resignation I submitted Nov. 17 by wire from New York, out of respect and affection for the university."

Kuebler formerly was president of Ripon (Wis.) College.

Dean John C. Snidecour of the school of applied arts at Santa Barbara has been acting as provost during Kuebler's absence.

Truck Industry Gross Revenue Makes Record

WASHINGTON (UP) — The trucking industry's gross revenues for 1955 are estimated at $5,400,000,000, an all-time high, American Trucking Association, Inc. reported. It anticipates a substantial increase next year.

Association president C. J. Williams said also that during 1956 the industry, which now has more than 10,000,000 trucks and trailers on the highways, will spend $3,000,000,000 for equipment, plus additional millions for terminals, expansion and modernization.

He said the industry spent $2,500,000,000 for trucks and trailers this year, divided about 65 per cent for replacements and 35 per cent for expansion. This is 12.5 per cent above 1954 when gross revenues were $4,700,000,000.

Adlai Member of 2 Churches, Pastor Says

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Adlai Stevenson is still a Unitarian although he joined a Presbyterian church near his home in October, a Unitarian minister friend said Saturday.

The Rev. Jack Mendelsohn, pastor of All Souls Unitarian Church here and a personal friend of Stevenson, said the presidential aspirant has retained membership in his family's Unitarian church in Bloomington, Ill.

Mendelsohn said he and three other ministers, representing both denominations, drafted a statement in Chicago Thursday for Stevenson's use in answering letters received at his Chicago campaign headquarters. Stevenson is again seeking the Democratic nomination for President in 1956.

The statement, signed by the four ministers, said in part: "We understand perfectly that you have found a local church home without forsaking a lifelong commitment."

• • • •

MENDELSOHN SAID letters arriving at Stevenson's headquarters have come both from Unitarians, accusing Stevenson of deserting, and from other Protestants, including Presbyterians. Some of these, he said, welcomed Stevenson as a new Presbyterian and others questioned his sincerity.

The minister, who met Stevenson while serving as a Unitarian pastor in Rockford, Ill., said there is no Unitarian church close to Stevenson's farm near Libertyville, Ill., so he joined the First Presbyterian Church in nearby Lake Forest, Ill.

Mendelsohn said the Lake Forest church's assembly agreed, when Stevenson joined, that he could also retain his Unitarian membership in Bloomington.

Stevenson's mother was a Unitarian, his father a Presbyterian.

The Unitarians, a liberal free-thinking denomination, often draw fire from orthodox churches for not requiring members to consider Christ divine. That is part of the Presbyterian creed.

Others joining in drafting the statement for Stevenson were the Rev. Robert Andrus of the Lake Forest church; the Rev. Kenneth Walker, of Stevenson's Bloomington church, and the Rev. Richard Graebel, Springfield, Ill., whose church Stevenson attended while he was governor of Illinois.

Detectives, Barman Hurt, Two Jailed

Two Long Beach detectives and a bartender were injured early Saturday in a brawl with two other persons in a cocktail bar at 2100 American Ave.

The detectives, Alexander M. Myers, 38, of 3324 Maine Ave., and James E. Lynch, 32, of 3041 Charlemagne Ave., were treated at Seaside Hospital for facial cuts and bruises. Myers' nose was fractured.

Bartender Orville B. Finch, 28, of 313 Dawn St., Anaheim, suffered cuts on the hands.

• • • •

POLICE SAID THE fight started when a waitress attempted to get James Ortega, 20, of 6838 Belice St., to give up his drink because it was closing time.

Booked in city jail for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon were Ortega and his companion, Ernest Larragoitiy, 38, of 21733 Evanda Ave., Paramount.

DUTCH PUZZLE OVER 'EFFIGY,' A BAD PLACE

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UP)—The antics of American college boys who string up dummies to voice their displeasure at certain officials are beyond the understanding of some foreign observers, it developed Saturday.

Leon Van Weerdt, a graduate student at the University of Florida from the Netherlands, said this item appeared in the newspaper Het Huisgezin at Den Bosch, Holland, as freely translated:

"About 2,000 technical students in Atlanta, Georgia, have on early Saturday morning in the heart of Atlanta burned Governor Marvin Griffin on a lamp post in the suburb of Effigie."

Dock Union Sendoff Mystifies Senator

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Idahoans Saturday night were wondering why longshore union officials gave their Republican Sen. Herman Welker and his family an elaborate sendoff when they sailed from New York Friday.

A union official in New York said the union officers "were acting in accordance with a policy to give all government officials an opportunity to see the longshoremen and their leadership at first hand."

But the senator's press secretary said the delegation was attempting to embarrass Welker.

"The party, complete with champagne, was held in the two-room senatorial suite on the top deck of the Grace liner Santa Rosa. Union leaders brought gifts and flowers and wished the Welkers "bon voyage" on their Caribbean trip.

Jim Hayden, Welker's press secretary, said in a telephone interview with the Idaho Daily Statesman of Boise that the party "was obviously an attempt to get even with the senator for his outspoken criticism of Communism and his personal fight against the Commies."

Hayden said Welker aroused the wrath of unionists during internal security committee hearings which he conducted in New York on Communist infiltration in the waterfront.

"Welker and his family were completely surprised and amazed when the union bosses showed up," Hayden said.

The union delegation on the boat was headed by Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia, boss of of the Brooklyn waterfront. Others were Thomas Gleason, national organizing director of the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn.; Willie Lynch, union business agent; Harry Cashin, an ex-convict who is now secretary of the ILA's New York district council, and Stephen Foster Bell, a convicted extortionist who is chief of an ILA local.

The union has figured in strikes which have tied up the New York port for weeks at a time. It has fought city, state and federal efforts to have longshoremen represented by other unions.

Planning for New Brazil Capital

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —Acting President Nereu Ramos has given a special commission the five-year job of planning a new modern city to which the federal capital will be moved. The constitution adopted in 1946 provides for moving the capital from this semi-tropical port city to a cooler, more central location. A site on the temperate plateau of southeastern Golas State has been picked.

Packages Stacked Up Like Alps by Clerks

By CLARENCE B. PROPES

Mountains are being built, torn down, and built again in a huge warehouse at 2401 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

The mountains are not of Everest size, but they would certainly make fine ski slopes. They are made of parcel post packages flowing in and out of Long Beach. The mountain makers are 160 post office employes, both regular and temporary.

Five thousand bags of parcel post pour into this warehouse every day where they are emptied and resorted into new bags destined for every corner of the globe (with the sole exception of the Iron Curtain countries).

Edward V. Rowe of 2175 Orange Ave. is in charge of outgoing mail—a gigantic job he regards as routine. "There's no particular problem here," said Rowe. "After 27 years in the post office it's simply a matter of carrying out procedures and putting in 12-hour days toward the last."

* * * *

CAESAR DIVIDED Gaul into three parts. Rowe has the world neatly divided into five. Sacks of mail flow into the five divisions—four domestic and one foreign—and are sorted into 625 new sacks bearing labels like Moosejaw, Rochester, Las Vegas, French Zone and Japan. One parcel received by the post office Dec. 13 was addressed to a lady in Tokyo and bore instructions not to be opened until Christmas. It will reach Tokyo about the middle of January.

Prentice Smith of 12131 Faye Ave., Garden Grove, is in charge of incoming parcels destined for Long Beach. His men separate them according to zone and they are delivered from the warehouse.

Smith's greatest headaches are caused by poorly wrapped parcels that have fallen apart in handling. Toilet waters, jams or honey are often in these packages. "If a parcel smells too good," said one employe, "someone is going to be disappointed.

"It's the poorly packed jars and cans of honey and jam that can cause the most interesting messes. When they spill, just about everything in the parcel is ruined and so are our dispositions, since we have to clean up the mess."

* * * *

"I WISH PEOPLE would learn to use more care in wrapping parcels," commented Smith. "Breakables need plenty of padding and good strong wrapping. All these broken packages mean disappointment this Christmas for some, and we don't like to see that."

According to Postmaster George McMillin, Christmas mail has increased from 10 to 15 per cent over last year.

"The public has been mailing earlier this year," said McMillin. "The regular as well as the temporary employes are working hard to get all the mail out. As far as parcel post is concerned we have key men at the warehouse, and if it is possible to get the packages out before Christmas, they will do it."

You'll get your parcels on time, but not that lady in Tokyo.

POST OFFICE OPEN, 10 TO 5

Long Beach's main post office, American and 3rd St., will open its stamp and parcel post windows from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. today to accommodate Christmas mailing.

Windows in branch offices will not be open today, but clerks and mail handlers will be on duty.

Tell Record Find of Aquamarine

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Manoel Menezes, a gem hunter, reports he discovered an aquamarine stone weighing 134 pounds, probably the largest ever found. Other hunters, buyers and gem lovers are flocking to the area near Governador Valadares, in Minas Gerais State, where he says he found his prize.

At Pippa Passes, Ky., Pippinest Kind of Thing Comes to Pass for School

By CLYDE C. BALL

PIPPA PASSES, Ky. (AP) — The pippinest thing that ever came to pass in Pippa Passes passed through the post office this week.

An estimated 60 bags of mail, containing money for Mrs. Alice Lloyd's Caney Creek Community Center, in rural southeastern Kentucky, flooded the tiny office and created some pleasant problems.

The financial floodtide — still being counted but rumored at $200,000 or more—was set into motion 10 days ago when Mrs. Lloyd, now about 80, left her educational and social fortress in the hills for the first time in a quarter century to appear on Ralph Edwards' "This Is Your Life" television show in Hollywood.

Near the end of the telecast, Edwards invited his nationwide audience to contribute to the center.

One letter received was postmarked only an hour after the telecast was over. Most contributions have been just a dollar; the largest has been a check for $150.

Mrs. Lloyd founded the center in 1916. Ill, she left her husband behind in Boston and came here with her mother to establish a school.

The center, which is privately supported, has received many outside contributions over the years, but never anything like the bonanza that came this pre-Christmas season.

Twenty bags of mail, all containing cash or checks, arrived in one day. That was the high point. By Saturday, the mail had dropped to two or three bags a day, said Mrs. Mannis Sloane, wife of the postmaster.

The Sloanes have the only telephone at Pippa Passes, a community of about 30 families, six miles northeast of Hindman. There is no phone at the center. Mrs. Sloane said she knew of no one who could say what the contributions totaled—"They're still counting and don't want to say what it is until they're through."

"I heard one rumor of $40,000," she said, "and another rumor of $200,000—that sounds more like it."

Jarvis Allen, Prestonsburg attorney and graduate of Caney Creek, was instrumental, in interesting Edwards in the center. He sent Edwards "Stay On Stranger," a book about Mrs. Lloyd. Others from this area wrote the TV producer about the woman who gave this mountain fastness its first school.

The institution, which has about 300 students in grades from first through junior college, has buildings constructed of rough lumber.

Some of the buildings, like the village, are named for poems. One is called simply "If," for Rudyard Kipling's poem.

"Pippa Passes" comes from Robert Browning's poem about a lighthearted Italian girl whose lowly estate belied her personal influence. The song in "Pippa Passes" ends:

"God's in his heaven.

Indeed it is in Pippa Passes.

Army to Try Released GIs

BERLIN (UP)—Two American soldiers arrested in East Berlin 10 days ago and later released by the Soviets will be tried by a U.S. Army court martial on charges of being "disorderly," the Army announced Saturday.

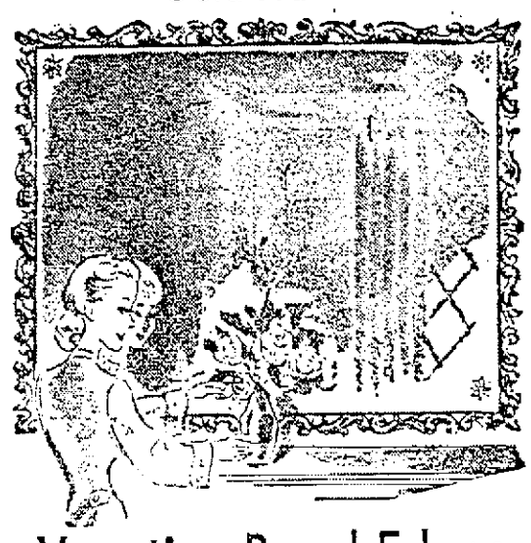

The soldiers, Pvt. Willie J. Holden, 19, of Poplarville, Miss. and Pvt. Richard L. Calbert, 22, of Kansas City, Mo., were arrested Dec. 7 by East German police for allegedly attacking a Communist cabaret actor.

The East Germans tried to blow up the incident into a test of East German sovereignty by demanding an East German trial for the men. The Soviets, however, conformed to four-power agreements and returned them.

Merrill Led 'Lean, Mean' Men Blazing Jungle Trail in Burma

By STERLING BEMIS

Californians who served with Merrill's Marauders or in the China-Burma-India Theater will remember the late Maj. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, who died last week in Florida, as a soldier with one of the roughest assignments in World War II.

In the theater with the lowest priority for men and supplies, his mission was to protect the builders of the Ledo Road as they bulldozed through hostile, monsoon-swamped jungles toward a hookup with the historic Burma Road.

After the fall of Burma to the Japanese in 1942, Merrill had walked out in the terrible trek led by "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell. Handicapped by injuries from a warehouse explosion in the destruction of Rangoon, he narrowly escaped drowning in the flood of the Irrawaddy River.

He was fainting with exhaustion when a young Baptist missionary serving with the Seagraves Hospital Corps waded to the rescue and lifted Merrill aboard a raft.

* * * *

IN 1944, Merrill returned to Burma with the Marauders (he pronounced it "Mer-Raiders"), a patchwork force of three battalions and three Texas pack troops.

The welding of the three battalions into a battle team was a triumph over geography and the bitterness of a thousand men placed in double jeopardy when they were fated to serve in two fields of action overseas.

All were volunteers who had been given a promise in about these words:

"Just one more mission, men—and you'll have it made."

One battalion — each counted 950 men—was assembled from the Caribbean Command. The men landed by air at Miami and then traveled slowly by train across a land that many of them would see no more. Due to the top secrecy of their mission, they could not be given furlough.

A second battalion was raised from Stateside volunteers. These two battalions sailed from San Francisco aboard the Lurline on Sept. 21, 1943.

The third battalion was composed of battle-hardened jungle fighters rounded up on Guadalcanal and New Guinea—again, without furlough.

* * * *

THE THREE BATTALIONS went hungrily into training at a primitive little camp operated by the British with profiteering Indian contractors at Deolali, a hundred miles north of Bombay. The standard "reverse lend lease" rations consisted of tea, goat meat, unleavened Indian bread and corn syrup. The bearded Marauders grew lean and mean.

The march back into Burma, through the homelands of the Naga headhunters, started in January, 1944. The men were confronted not only by wily, hidden bands of Japanese in the soggy, black jungles, but also by a plague of disease.

During the critical siege of Myitkyina (pronounced "Mitchena") the force was so riddled with fever and dysentery that Uncle Joe Stilwell flew to Calcutta. There he combed the hospitals for combat veterans able to stand, and pushed Garands into the reluctant hands of rear echelon clerks, cooks and bakers.

But the Ledo Road went through. GI trucks loaded with supplies for Claire Chenault's Flying Tigers and the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, droned up the hairpin switchbacks to Kunming.

FROM JUNE to December, 1944, as deputy India-Burma Theater commander, Gen. Merrill was in charge of rear echelon operations at New Delhi.

On the day he made his farewell rounds before following Vinegar Joe to 10th Army on Okinawa, the men of the Historical Section were drawn up according to rank to greet him.

Suddenly the door banged open and there stood the general, hatless, tieless, smiling over the open collar of his bush jacket.

His eyes swept past the colonel, two lieutenant colonels, a captain, three lieutenants and the writer of this piece, a technical sergeant.

General Merrill marched straight to the foot of the line and shook hands first with Cpl. Paul Geren.

It was Cpl. Geren who had pulled the General aboard the raft on the yellow waters of the Irrawaddy in the trek out of Burma.

Capital Capers—

By Walter T. Ridder, Robert E. Lee and William W. Broom

WASHINGTON — The Young Republican National Federation has just ended a contest designed to pick a new name for the YRNF News, its monthly paper. Officials report that "an overwhelming majority" of those responding suggested the old name be kept.

Just like Old Republicans and Middle-aged Republicans, Young Republicans obviously want to get through the next year with as few changes as possible on the political front.

Nevada's GOP Senator George Malone has come out again for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, now that everybody else has stopped talking about it. Malone is distributing copies of a speech he made on July 27, 1949, when the Senate was debating an ill-fated set of amendments to the then-controversial act.

His theory then and now: Labor-management relations were a big problem when the Pyramids were being built; nothing has happened in the last couple of thousand years to improve the situation; therefore, scrap all labor legislation.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson came back to town last week with kind words for President Eisenhower, a boost for "moderation," and a 13-point program for legislative action.

Discussing the proposed legislation with reporters, Johnson was asked what he thought the Senate would start with as the first order of business. The astute Texan, never one to prematurely tip his hand, replied: "We'll probably start with a prayer."

This recalled to capitol observers the famous crack of Joe Martin when he was about to take over as speaker of a Republican House under a Democratic administration: "We'll begin every day with a prayer and end it with a probe."

Unified Atom Bureau Urged Upon Europe

PARIS (AP)—The United States moved on two fronts to promote European union as a pillar of Western defense and to prevent a separate German nuclear power development which might endanger Western cohesion.

In a series of talks with European leaders, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported to have pledged American support for a unified European atomic authority for peaceful industrial power and warned that this aid probably would be withheld from individual national programs.

The secretary, who left for Washington Saturday night aboard a special plane from Evreux military airfield, was said by diplomatic sources to have given this message to French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, and Jean Monnet, the latter a key man in a new project for a European nuclear energy pool.

• • • •

THE SECRETARY told Spaak and Monnet the Eisenhower administration is ready to ask Congress to amend the U.S. Atomic Energy Act to authorize the export of American secret know-how and fissionable matter to a European atomic authority. Spaak is head of a committee working on technical plans for such an authority.

Dulles cited the precedent of the so-called Richards amendment to show that Congress would be extremely reluctant, if not definitely opposed, to loosening the Atomic Energy Act for the benefit of any one country. The Richards amendment, now outdated, would have withheld American military aid from countries which refused to enter the European army.

• • • •

THIS POINT was stressed in the Secretary's talk with Von Brentano, according to reliable sources. Dulles said the United States would do all possible to assist a European organization which operated under a supranational central authority with power to take and enforce decisions.

The unspoken reason for the American opposition is that a nuclear industrial energy plant also produces some by-products of use as weapons. Plutonium, for example, could possibly be used for explosives. France would certainly oppose seeing this in German hands.

Von Brentano and the whole Adenauer administration are ardently pushing the atomic pool project.

Saar Return to Germany Leaders' Aim

SAARBRUECKEN (U.P.)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Saturday urged voters in today's Saar legislative election to support parties favoring return of this disputed border area to Germany.

At the same time, Heinrich Schneider, principal pro-German leader in the Saar, predicted the new legislature will eliminate pro-French clauses from the territorial constitution.

Schneider's supporters are sure they can increase the two-thirds majority that defeated internationalization of the Saar two months ago to the three-quarters needed to amend the constitution in today's vote.

"No one, not even France, will be able to prevent the new legislature from altering the constitution," Schneider said in an election-eve statement. "It will be altered."

Adenauer urged the Christian People's Party (CVP) — pro-French in the past—to throw its votes to the local branch of his Christian Democratic Party (CDU), which favors reunion with Germany.

"I desire that the CDU should become the focal point of all the Christian (meaning Catholic) forces in the Saarland, including those who do not yet belong to it," the Chancellor said in a statement published by the local CDU organ, Neueste Nachrichten.

"This is necessary so that the Saar problem may be brought to a good solution from a German, European and Christian viewpoint."

Red Cruelty to Be Told in White Paper

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The State Department is preparing a white paper on the "cruel and inhuman" treatment of American prisoners by the Chinese Communists, it was learned Saturday.

American officials made the disclosure after the two countries traded bitter statements on exchange of prisoner negotiations at Geneva. They said this country will continue the negotiations despite the dispute.

Red China started the controversy Thursday when it charged the United States with violating an agreement to exchange civilians and demanded the names of all Chinese in the United States.

The State Department charged Friday night that the Communists have broken their word to free all Americans held in Red China and noted that 14 U. S. citizens still are held there.

Russia Fears Comparison, Briton Says

LONDON (U.P.)—Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan said Saturday night Soviet leaders have slammed down the Iron Curtain again because movements toward freedom may be growing up in the Communist world.

In a Conservative party broadcast over the BBC, Macmillan said the Russians were afraid to compare their life with the West's.

"I don't mean that they are in the least afraid of our greater power of material wealth or productive capacity," he said.

"What they are really afraid of concerns the other side of life, the spiritual side. They are just not ready to subject their doctrines or their institutions to the same kind of critical examination, for and against, which we so much enjoy discussing."

Macmillan spoke after returning from the NATO talks in Paris.

Skull and Bones

LONDON (U.P.)—A "jolly Roger" flag, the symbol of piracy, fluttered briefly over London Saturday from the tower of Big Ben. Pranksters apparently fastened the banner with black skull and crossbones to scaffolding on the historic tower. The flag was hastily removed.

Flutes of Shepherds Whine at Bethlehem

By WILTON WYNN

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (AP) —On the Plain of Boaz to the east, little Bedouin girls follow the wheat harvesters to glean bits of grain.

The whine of reed flutes from distant slopes heralds the passing of lonely shepherds watching their flocks.

Identical scenes might have welcomed the holy family on the outskirts of the little town of Bethlehem the day Christ was born.

At the time of Christ's birth, Bethlehem was a market town for rural people, especially for Bedouins to the east and south. In this respect, the town has not changed.

As long ago as David's time, 900 years before Christ, David's son Chamaan built a caravanserai here which served as shelter for Bedouins and their flocks as they moved in and out of town. That same caravanserai was probably the inn where Joseph and Mary were unable to find lodgings. The caravanserai has disappeared but the same kind of Bedouins still come to Bethlehem.

* * * *

MARKED BY the typical Arab headdress falling down over the neck and shoulders, the wide-shouldered cloaks, and their loping gait, these Bedouins throng Bethlehem's streets almost any day. They come in to buy and sell on a meager scale and spend long hours in crude sidewalk cafes sipping thimble-sized cups of bitter Arab coffee.

The market place for these people is an open square, paved with flagstones. The grain, rice, vegetables or old clothes for sale are displayed on flat trays on the ground or stacked in crude temporary wooden stalls.

The settled inhabitants of Bethlehem's population, numbering normally around 10,000, live in a city which still bears the mark of the Crusaders. The overwhelming majority of the population is Christian; only one Moslem minaret competes with innumerable church spires and domes in Bethlehem's skyline.

These people live in stone houses, many of them with low domes as protection against summer heat and winter rain. Some of their houses date back to Crusader times. Many open into cobblestone streets barely wide enough to accommodate an automobile. The arched gateways and vaulted roofs stretching across the streets recall the medieval Europe of the Crusaders.

* * * *

COSTUMES OF THE WOMEN of Bethlehem bear the Crusader mark. Those who wear traditional dress have long full garments, usually black or dark red, decorated with square-stitched red or gold embroidery, usually in the form of a Crusader's cross.

These women wear a headdress found only in Bethlehem and unknown in the rest of Palestine. This is a conical shaped high hat, covered with a large white veil. The conical dress usually is worn by older women; younger ones wear the white scarf without the high hat. Since most of these women are Christian, their faces are rarely covered.

When Christ was born, the people of Bethlehem lived largely from sheep-raising and olive-growing. Many live from the same occupations today. Olive groves braced with stone terraces fall away from the edge of the town to the Plain of Boaz below. On the plain wheat is grown. Here Ruth of the Old Testiment story gleaned behind the harvesters, just as Bedouin girls do today.

A new element has been added to Bethlehem's population since 1948—Arab refugees from Israel. Driven from their homes by the Arab-Israeli war, these people live in the outskirts of the town in tents, hovels, and caves. Many a baby has been born in the past seven years in circumstances similar to those of Jesus—in a grotto shared by animals, placed in a crude wooden crib made by the father.

On Christmas Eve, these refugees sit sullenly beside the road watching well-dressed tourists arrive for Christmas ceremonies at the church of the Holy Sepulchre. Since there are no European-standard hotels in Bethlehem, most visitors stay in Jerusalem. They drive back and forth for the Christmas Eve services which recount the incidents of the day the holy family came into a crowded Bethlehem and found "there was no room for them in the inn."

* * * *

ALMOST FOR THE FIRST time in history, the shepherds of Bethlehem today have their freedom of movement restricted. Within sight of their town is the military frontier dividing Arab Jordan from the newly created state of Israel. With the war unsettled, shepherds are forbidden to approach the demarcation line for fear of touching off a frontier incident. Such clashes usually leave dead or wounded on both sides of the line.

Bethlehem's status as the birthplace of Christ has given the town a new modern industry—tourism. The otherwise sleepy little town ranks as the one of the foremost sites of religious pilgrimage in the world, and every year it is visited by thousands of tourists from all continents.

Radical Party Aide Ousted by Mendes-F.

PARIS (U.P.)—Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France fired ex-Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet from his Radical Party Saturday in a pre-election shakeup.

Mendes-France ousted Bonnet for running a Radical ticket of his own in the forthcoming national elections.

Two weeks ago Mendes-France swung the party ax on his one-time best friend, Premier Edgar Faure, after Faure dissolved the National Assembly and ordered elections Jan. 2.

Mendes-France Saturday angrily denied press allegations that he might make peace with Faure's outgoing right-center majority to combat the extreme right and left.

"There will be no compromise with those guilty and incapable ones," he snapped.

Mendes - France's newspaper L'Express explained that he was wooing the voters of the Faure camp and not its leaders when he called on "courageous men" among Faure's supporters.

Eden Gets Sharp Criticism From Two British Papers

LONDON (U.P.)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden, nursing a feverish cold, was subjected to sharp criticism Saturday for the way he has handled the job he took over from Winston Churchill.

The criticism came from the moderately conservative Times, which usually supports the government, and the Daily Herald, organ of the opposition Labor Party.

The Times said of Eden's administration:

"Here and there it has fumbled."

Less politely, the Daily Herald said:

"Eden dithers, and his notoriously bad temper takes on a sharper edge . . . He is far from robust. Now there is talk that he cannot last another two years, and the battle for the succession (to the prime ministry) is on."

The Times and the Daily Herald agreed that Harold Macmillan has not been successful as Eden's foreign minister.

Send Surplus Abroad Now, Ike Urged

WASHINGTON (UP) — Church leaders will appeal to President Eisenhower to break a bottleneck that is restricting the flow of America's surplus food to hungry families overseas, informed sources said Saturday.

The bottleneck is a shortage of funds to pay ocean freight on the surplus wheat, corn, rice, dried beans, dairy products and other farm commodities the Agriculture Department has offered to give to relief agencies for distribution abroad.

Informants said less than $5,000,000 is now available in the special fund Congress voted last year to pay ocean freight on relief shipments of surplus foods. Congress provided that President Eisenhower could enlarge the fund at his discretion by transferring to it any money that was appropriated, but not spent, for other foreign aid purposes.

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish relief agencies which took the lead in organizing the "share our surplus" program, are now planning a joint appeal to the President to exercise this power.

They will tell him that a relatively modest diversion of funds —say ten or fifteen million dollars out of the current overall foreign aid budget of more than two and a half billion dollars— would make it possible to double or triple the flow of surplus foods to needy people in all parts of the world.

Lonardi on Way to U.S. Hospital

NEW YORK (UP)—Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, who ruled Argentina for 50 days after dictator Juan D. Peron was overthrown, arrived in the United States Saturday for a month-long hospital checkup.

Lonardi, 59, arrived in New York aboard the Argentine state liner Rio Tunuyan. He will spend a week in New York City before going to Georgetown Hospital, Washington, D. C.

An aide said Lonardi is suffering from high blood pressure.

PRISON EXPERT SAYS TOO MANY . . .

Too Long Behind Bars

By VERA WILLIAMS

"Too many men spend too much time behind bars. Ninety per cent of them shouldn't be there in the first place."

Speaking is Dr. Harry A. Shuder of Rolling Hills, "father" of California's prison educational system. In his 20 years in state service at San Quentin, Folsom and the Medical Facility at Terminal Island, many thousands of men have gained his guidance, learning all the way from how to read and write to mastering university and college graduate courses.

"Many of them," he says, "are fine men, good friends of mine. . . . My mail is full of letters from them. A former inmate friend telephoned me the other night from New Jersey, to wish me 'Merry Christmas.'

"He had been a bad boy — a very bad boy—but that is behind him now. He is married, has a new job, a new home. He is a success. A good many of these men look on me as their philosophical father. I tried to interest them in philosophy, something outside of themselves, something to give meaning to their lives."

* * * *

IN 1930 Dr. Shuder became California's first prison education superintendent, appointed by State Supt. of Instruction Vierling Kersey. He was at San Quentin 13 years, then he was in the Army four years, then he set up the education program at Folsom where he spent four years.

Then he set up the education program at Terminal Island, retiring last year.

Dr. Shuder believes that the answer to crime is early counselling.

"I would say it should start in the grades," he says. "Some psychiatrists go farther back, and say the pattern is set in the cradle. I don't go in much for that cradle stuff. Most people who get in trouble in their adult life begin getting in trouble in the grades.

DR. HARRY A. SHUDER
Too Many Behind Bars

"I would have counsellors — they needn't be teachers, but other intelligent adults who would be willing to listen and help — call in each child each semester and say to him, 'John (or Mary, or whoever), I have been looking at your grades. They are pretty good (or they could be better). What do you plan to do with your life? What are your hopes? Your ambitions? What are you doing about them?'

"I would continue this counselling through high school. There are many adults, retired folks who could give invaluable service to young people. They could talk to them about their problems, their ambitions. They could suggest chemistry or Latin or Greek or a Great Books course to augment their studies.

* * * *

"AND THERE ARE many adults who are afraid they are not on the right road, who would like some way of checking up on themselves. It would cost them a lot of money to go to a psychiatrist. If they went to an M.D. the M.D. would give them a sleeping pill. How about a board of adults who would listen to these people's problems and help them evaluate themselves?"

A good deal of adult discontent, Dr. Shuder believes, is caused when people find themselves in the wrong line of work.

"It isn't reasonable," he says, "to assume that at 20 a person can always pick out the work in which he will be happy and successful for 20, 30, 40 years. But somehow we have an idea that a person who changes his line of work is a failure. He isn't a failure if by changing he gives himself a fair chance for happiness."

But how about that idea of too many men spending too much time in prison?

"—and jails, too," he adds hastily. "There are many men in jail who shouldn't be there." He believes there should be much counselling in jails; as a matter of fact he thinks jails should be "not much more than schools; places where people can get hold of themselves."

He believes in probation; in early, supervised parole. He thinks many prisoners are ready for parole long before it is granted.

* * * *

ARE THERE no exceptions?

"There are," he says grimly. "There are people who are rattlesnakes, who were rattlesnakes from the day they were born. Nothing much can be done about them. They have to be shut up—maybe all their lives—to protect society. I'm not talking about them; I'm talking about the great majority of people who have decent instincts and will be decent if they have a chance."

Dr. Shuder says that the IQ of the state's prisoners is about the same as that of people on the outside—moron to brilliant with the great majority around normal. The average state prisoner has had an eighth grade education. Some can not read and write; some have college degrees.

A graduate of Harvard in 1914, Dr. Shuder has continued his education in "whatever college or university happened to be handy" and has five degrees from as many colleges.

Dr. Shuder spent 32 years in the Army and served in both World Wars. He is listed as "Col.," not "Dr." in the telephone directory.

He and his wife, Evelyn, live in a seven room house, with two acres of ground at 5 Williamsburg Lane, Rolling Hills. They spend some time in their cabin at Lake Tahoe.

ARE YOU HYPOKINETIC?

Flabby U.S. Kids Should Walk to School, Health Expert Says

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP) — America is paying twice for its autos, elevators, automatic furnaces, washing machines, tractors, vacuum cleaners and other aids to the more relaxed, luxurious life. Once in money, again in aching backs.

With every new work-saver or foot-saver, human muscles become more flabby, less fit to perform the functions for which they were intended. This is not ironic theory, but a physical fact which is causing the medical profession increasing worry.

It even has a name: Hypokinetic disease, indicating the role which inactivity plays in producing illness—ranging from malfunctioning organs and malformation of bones to emotional and mental disorders.

A ranking authority is Bonnie Prudden, a researcher for New York University-Bellevue Hospital's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. She tested almost 6,500 "normal, healthy" boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 19. About 4,500 were American children, the rest were youngsters living in comparable urban and suburban areas in southern Austria and northern Italy. The simple tests involved muscles of the back, abdomen and legs.

"More than 78 per cent of the American children failed one or more of the tests," Miss Prudden reported. "Only 8½ per cent of the European children failed. Just about the only difference between the two groups is that the European children live in a much less mechanized society."

* * * *

YOUNG ITALIANS and Austrians walk to school, frequently trudging long distances. They indulge in active rather than spectator sports, so most of their recreation is based on active use of their bodies.

Other studies of both active and sedentary adults indicate that men and women who use their bodies are able to stand stress better, build up less tension, tire less easily, age more gradually, have lower blood pressure, greater strength, larger breathing capacity, lower pulse rates.

A British survey found that among those who exercised little there was more appendicitis, lung cancer, prostate disease, varicose veins, osteoarthritis, myositis and fibrositis, inflammations, respectively, of the muscles and fibrous tissue. It showed also that coronary disease is twice as frequent among those who don't exercise much; that there is considerably more diabetes and duodenal ulcer among the inactive.

The crushing wartime statistics of nearly 1¾ million rejects out of 3¾ million men examined for the draft indicated to the medical world that the American body, in spite of orange juice, vitamins and high living standards, wasn't as great as it was touted.

* * * *

MISS PRUDDEN, a one-time professional dancer, believes in research, but she also believes in applying what she learns. So she applied the stack of statistics and medical terms she had accumulated to her own children, two teen-age girls. Both of them, "normal and healthy," were television addicts, spectator sports fans and, like their friends, were accustomed to being driven almost everywhere they went.

Their mother decided a program of physical fitness was indicated. She started two classes of five pupils each, each class including one daughter and four of her friends in the same age group.

Suddenly, Miss Prudden found hereself in business. The project grew out of hand. Classes in dancing, judo, tumbling and games grew to 20. Other children wanted in. Parents pleaded. Doctors and even psychiatrists began prescribing her classes for boys and girls with problems ranging from overweight to crooked spines to shyness. Then adults wanted classes of their own.

BONNIE PRUDDEN . . . 'Their Stomachs Stick Out'

So Miss Prudden acquired an abandoned elementary school to care for the crowds.

But she continues to devote a lot of time to nonprofit crusading.

"Most Americans," she'll tell you, "don't even know how to walk. Backache isn't a killer, but too many people are hobbling around suffering from it. Forty-four per cent of our children can't even touch the floor with their fingertips without bending their knees. And, at any European beach, it's easy to pick out the American children. They're the ones with sway backs and big stomachs.

"Most of our youngsters today have been so carefully protected that they've never been hot—or cold. Or pushed, or wet, or hungry. Most of them have never even been really frightened—and I think it's very important for everybody to understand something about fear. Our kids have been chauffeured, they've been protected in playpens, walked in strollers. Not many of them really know anything about free play."

SHE ALMOST SNORTS at the mention of physical education classes in schools:

"So they have an hour of physical education — about 30 children with one instructor. I figured my own children were getting about 6½ minutes of exercise in that hour, after you'd deducted time out for changing clothes, showering, and the teacher attending to other pupils."

Miss Prudden has several people over 70 in her classes and one woman over 80, and she finds them easier to put into condition than teen-agers.

"Men and women over 40 have had to use their muscles at some time," she says, "so it's just a retraining job. But the teen-agers have never used them. Their stomachs stick out, their backs are wobbly, their shoulders are round. They have no pride of body."

Jewish Groups to Hear Sen. Jackson

Members representing organizations of the Long Beach Jewish community will assemble in the Wilton Hotel tonight to hear a major address by U. S. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, in behalf of bonds of the Israel government.

Jackson is expected to discuss the crisis in middle eastern affairs which has been increasing tension steadily between Israel and surrounding Arab states.

* * * *

IRVING SCHNEIDER, chairman of the Long Beach campaign for Israel bonds, announced that tonight's gathering "represents the climax of our 1955 campaign. Our dollars invested in Israel's economic security through bonds do not go for military purposes. But they provide the means which enables Israel to continue to progress in her development. Every American who invests in Israel is strengthening democracy. And to make democracy strong anywhere is to make it stronger at home."

Senator Jackson's address, Schneider pointed out, is of added importance, since it will give the Southland an insight into the thinking in some quarters of the upper house of Congress as regards the maintenance of peace in the Mid-East.

With MALCOLM EPLEY

SOMEBODY wanted a Cadillac engine—not a Cadillac—for Christmas, and just went out and stole one.

That's the logical assumption from what happened to a car belonging to the local Cad agency operated by Bud Ridings.

The 1956 Cad was stolen from the American Ave. establishment a week or so ago. A day or two later Ridings was informed by sheriff's deputies to come and pick up the car, which had been located off Redondo Beach Blvd.

A Ridings man went out there, got the car, twisted the starter switch. Nothing happened.

He looked under the hood. No engine. No transmission either.

Everything else was in perfect condition. A neat job had been done in removing the vital parts, and the hood was carefully replaced. The speedometer showed the car had been driven only a few miles—only far enough, apparently, to get it into a place where the motor could be removed.

Ridings figures that by this time, his motor is spinning the wheels of somebody's hot-rod. "And no doubt doing a good job of it," he added with pride.

AMONG the many unique ideas for Christmas greetings thought up by Long Beachers this year is a family newspaper produced by Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Perry, 105 Rivo Alto Canal.

"It's volume 1, No. 1 of the Perry Periodical, and covers five years of family residence in Long Beach. Editorials on topics ranging from world peace to family nicknames, chatter about relatives, friends and trips, an "In Memoriam," and some family pictures are features of the little sheet, edited by Mrs. Perry. As we've always said—a newspaper is the best way to keep everybody informed.

SOMETIMES I think it's too bad people don't wear license plates like automobiles.

If they did, we could and would print the identification of the sandy-haired, middle-aged fellow who performed a litterbag act at Fifth and Pine a day or two ago to the indignation of several observers.

It seems this fellow had bought himself a package of Country Doctor tobacco. As he stood on the corner waiting for the light, he dumped the tobacco into a leather pouch. Then he tossed the empty paper package on the street.

Not five feet away at the time was a rubbish receptacle, with swinging lid, ready to receive just such junk.

LONG BEACH banks are alert about what some people want to give for Christmas, and every year at the opening of the season they lay in supplies of crinkly new currency. They get it from the Federal Reserve Bank at L. A.

People who give money in currency form at Christmas invariably want it to be in new bills. The big demand is for fives, tens and twenties, but there are also requests for fifties, one hundreds and even a few five hundreds. (How lucky can some recipients get?)

One woman walked into a local bank the other day and asked for five new $100 bills to give to five grandchildren.

The banks get a few requests for new coins at Christmas time. New pennies, dimes and quarters are available, but new silver dollars are scarcer than the proverbial hen's teeth. Silver dollar requests, by the way, are more likely to come in connection with silver weddings than at Christmas time. Some banks will polish up old dollars for their customers.

SPEAKING of giving money, how about you and the Christmas Cheer Clearing House?

Gifts of cash to the Cheer program have been meager this year. Time is getting short and there are commitments for turkeys and some other things that must be paid for in cash. Gifts of canned goods and other articles are welcomed, but there's just nothing to take the place of cash for certain purposes.

So why not dig down and give a little. It can be mailed to the Christmas Cheer Clearing House, 654 East Seventh St. Or better yet, take it there and see what's going on.

The Christmas Cheer people, by the way, will be glad to take just any old bills.

How It Feels to Tune In on 'Enemy' Sub

Flying Boat Joins Pack at 'Kill' Scene

By LEE CRAIG

How does it feel to go on a mission in a big Martin PBM flying boat and be in on the "kill" of an "enemy" sub?

An Independent, Press-Telegram reporter and photographer went on a special flight recently to watch planes of the Navy's Patrol Squadron 50 go through their paces in a phase of their Operation Final Exam offshore here.

Operating from their floating bases, two seaplane tenders anchored a hundred yards off downtown Long Beach, the squadron's 10 planes flew around the clock to prove fitness for their overseas assignment in January.

The PBMs, introduced during World War II, are primarily long range patrol planes, built to serve as the "eyes" of the fleet.

However, much of their value to the Navy has stemmed from their versatility. They're also used for bombing, aerial minelaying, air-sea rescue work and anti-submarine warfare.

★ ★ ★ ★

A SMALL NAVY BOAT took us from the tender USS Onslow to our plane, tied to a buoy a short distance away.

On the way, our pilot, Lt. (jg) Bob Meyer, explained:

"We're one of the last squadrons in the Navy to have PBMs. Most of the others have P5Ms, the PBM's successor. They're not much faster and their cruising range isn't much greater, but they carry greatly improved equipment.

"Another thing—pretty important to us—they're a lot more comfortable for those 12 or 14-hour flights . . . soundproofing, plush seats and more room."

The importance of these latter items became clear to us as the big seaplane lifted from the water.

The thunderous roar of the plane's two engines was deafening. And on the crowded flight deck, it was impossible to turn around without bumping a crewman or hitting a projecting part of the instrument-lined cabin.

★ ★ ★ ★

OVER THE PLANE'S intercom system, Lt. Meyer's muffled voice came:

"We're heading for an area about 120 miles out to sea, where we have a couple of planes hunting for a submarine. If one of them finds him, we'll try to get there to show you what happens."

As we neared the area, our radar, manned by AT3 J. H. Smout, reached long, probing fingers ahead of us. We watched the "bogies" appear on the scope, then, minutes later, saw the ships which had made them slide by beneath us.

Suddenly we intercepted a message from one of the planes ahead, jubilantly announcing a "positive kill" on the submarine. They had tracked it down somehow in an area covering nearly 5,000 square miles.

At Lt. (jg) Noye Johnson, our

Decorated boats carrying carolers will move through Naples canals tonight and Monday night in the eighth annual Christmas pageant sponsored by the Naples Improvement Assn.

Campbell said entries for boat space were limited to the best trained and directed groups available.

Money's Needed for Yule Cheer

With Christmas only a week away, the main needs of the Christmas Cheer Clearinghouse have narrowed down to three items, Dr. Godfrey Pernell, drive chairman said Saturday.

And they are:

1. More money contributions from the public to supplement earlier donations of food, clothing and toys for Long Beach's needy families.

2. Non-perishable foods, including cans of vegetables, fruit, soups, baby foods, cranberry sauce, etc., potatoes, cereals, canned milk. Items suitable for packing in the Christmas food baskets are in great demand.

3. Good toys for all ages of both boys and girls are at the top of many Christmas lists. The 5th Signal Co. of U. S. Marine Corps Reserve reports collections slow on their "Toys for Tots" drive. All toys collected by the Marines in this area will be distributed through the Christmas Cheer Clearinghouse.

THE CLEARINGHOUSE in the National Guard Armory, 854 E. 7th St., is open daily 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Checks should be made payable to the Christmas Cheer Fund. Telephone numbers are HE 6-1506, HE 6-1518 and HE 6-3012.

Approximately 1400 families remain in the files of the Clearinghouse and they will have no Christmas unless enough funds are received within the next five days to cover the costs of necessary food, clothing and toys. Only 350 families have been adopted to date. All packages for these adopted families must be in the warehouse Monday. Deliveries began Dec. 14 and will continue through Friday.

THE PLIGHT of one family may symbolize the need.

Pillagers plied their trade while this family was moving two weeks ago. When they returned for another load, the carefully packed household equipment had been "lifted" by other "movers" who gained entrance through a second-story window. Now this family of mother and four children under 6 years of age, is without dishes, bed, kitchen utensils, linens and chairs.

Of course they want food for Christmas, they told the caseworker who interviewed them, but it would have to be food they could eat with their fingers, for they have no forks, knives or spoons. A bed-divan would keep mother from sleeping on the floor. The father has deserted the family.

Commented the caseworker: "Let's hope the good citizens of Long Beach will not desert them."

AT 71, DOLLS ARE FUN

Unexpected Yule Gift for L.B. Blind Man

An unexpected Christmas present will be presented to Otto G. Benten, 2615 E. 8th St., who recently became totally blind.

It will be a check for hospital payments from the White Cane Fund of the Downtown Lions Club. Joe Robbins, club president, made arrangements for the payment Saturday after learning that Benten and his wife faced Christmas owing $60 for hospitalization.

★ ★ ★ ★

BENTON, who was a barber at the Long Beach Veterans' Administration Hospital, lost one eye in an accident 30 years ago. Last October he bumped into a cabinet in his home, shattered his glasses and lost the sight of his other eye.

Part of the medical and hospitalization bill was covered by insurance. The Bentens sold their car to help pay the balance.

Lions' Club members sell miniature white canes on the streets in September to raise funds used exclusively to help the blind.

Furs Disappear With Redhead

A comely redhead in her late 20s found a novel way to get her Christmas furs a little early, according to a police report filed Saturday.

She went to the Lockwood Furs store, 711 Pine Ave., Dec. 8, and had the owner show her several stone martin furs. Then she changed her mind and asked to look at some mink stoles.

When the owner, Clay P. Marrow, checked his fur stock Saturday he found that a set of four stone martin furs was missing.

He valued them at $250.

Yule Readings by Baxter Slated for State College

Dr. Frank C. Baxter, noted educator and winner of two awards from the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will present a program of Christmas readings at Long Beach State College, Tuesday, 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre.

Dr. Baxter's TV program "Now and Then," which appeared on 95 stations was judged the best educational and information program in the nation for 1954.

★ ★ ★ ★

WINNER OF two "Emmys" for an outstanding educational program, Dr. Baxter last year completed his 25th year of teaching at the University of Southern California.

Regarded as one of the authorities of Shakespearian period, Dr. Baxter has presented a yearly program of Christmas readings which have become a tradition at USC.

There is no admission but reservations should be made. Tickets may be obtained by calling HE 4-3471, the College Activities office.

Senior Citizen Dinner Planned

Volunteers of America will sponsor a Christmas dinner for senior citizens and members of the Sunset Club Friday at Morgan Hall.

Master of ceremonies will be Don Thrall, who will be assisted by his wife, Glada, in a musical program. Sunset Club is a service of the Community Chest.

NEW ROUTES EFFECTIVE

Buses Discover 'Lost Altos' Today

By GEORGE WEEKS

This is the day "Lost Altos" gets found—by the buses.

Service is being inaugurated this morning on extensions of two Long Beach Motor Bus Co. routes into the densely-populated easterly section of the city where thousands of new homes have been occupied in recent years. Improved service is also being provided for the State College area.

Both extensions were authorized last July by the State Public Utilities Commission, but the bus firm obtained a delay because of a mixup in proposed schedules.

Numerous Los Altos residents bitterly protested the postponement, asserting they had to walk "miles" to the nearest bus line.

THE EXTENSIONS, as posted in company buses and announced by Ronald K. Pitcher, superintendent of transportation, are:

Pacific Coast Hwy. Route No. 1—Stearns St. and Palo Verde Ave. Branch: North on Palo Verde Ave. to Los Coyotes Diagonal, northeast to Studebaker Rd.

Atherton St. Branch: East on Atherton to Palo Verde Ave., north to Stearns St., east to Studebaker Rd., north to Walkerton St., west to Los Coyotes Diag., northeast to Studebaker Rd.

Service is abandoned along Willow St., Nipomo Ave. and Ladoga St.

E. Anaheim—State College Route No. 4: East on Anaheim Rd. to Bellflower Blvd., south to 7th St., east to Campus Rd. West, north to Anaheim Rd., east to Studebaker Rd., north to Stearns St.

A portion of the old route along Anaheim Rd. between Campus Rd. West and Bellflower Blvd. is discontinued.

AT THE SAME TIME a minor change of the Bellflower-Clark Ave. Branch Route 11 is being made effective. The new route extends north on Lakewood Blvd. to Willow St., east to Clark Ave., north to Bellflower.

The section of the route along Spring St. between Clark Ave. and Lakewood Blvd. is discontinued.

Service frequencies on the extensions will range from 15 minutes to 60 minutes, depending on the time of day, the day of the week and the locations of the lines.

On both branches of Route No. 1 a fare zone is located at Stearns St. and Palo Verde Ave. On Route No. 4 the fare zone is at Palo Verde Ave. and E. Anaheim Rd. outbound, Campus Rd. West in front of State College for inbound buses.

Also being made effective today are minor route changes and some schedule curtailments on the E. Broadway-Seal Beach Branch Route 12 East. These were authorized by the state commission Oct. 5.

In Seal Beach the branch is operating over Central Ave. rather than Ocean Ave.

ALONG E. BROADWAY the base frequency is 12 minutes instead of 10 minutes, with a 36-minute frequency to Seal Beach and similar schedules to 72nd Pl. and E. Ocean Blvd. Frequencies on these branches were formerly 20 minutes.

The Seal Beach bus passes The Toledo, giving that Naples area alternate 12-minute and 24-minute frequencies in lieu of the former 20-minute headways.

After 8 p. m. the frequency will be 30 minutes along E. Broadway and 60 minutes to Seal Beach and to 72nd Pl. and E. Ocean Blvd.

A minor route change on the Santa Fe Ave.-Dominguez Route No. 12 West sends inbound buses on Anaheim St. to Magnolia Ave., south to Broadway, east to American Ave., north to the 3rd St. terminal, thence west on 3rd St. to Magnolia Ave., north to Anaheim St., west on Anaheim and continuation of the regular route.

Pitcher noted that some adjustments in schedules may be necessary to conform with running time needed between terminals on route changes and extensions.

How It Feels to Listen In on Sub 'Kill'

navigator, charted the submarine's position, he told us:

"For this operation, the planes carry miniature depth charges. If the sub people feel the charge landed close enough so that a real one would have damaged or sunk them, they let us know."

• • • •

A FEW MINUTES LATER, just at sundown, we spotted two PBMs, "down on the deck," making runs over a section of water marked by smoking flares.

The two planes had traced the sub by dropping "soundbuoys," sonar listening devices, Lt. (jg) Ray Burris, the co-pilot, explained.

We "plugged in" with our own listening gear and heard the submarine propellers' metallic beat as the undersea craft twisted and turned, trying to evade the tracking planes.

In a few minutes, however, night had come. We turned back for home. The plane's tiny gallery produced steaming black coffee and we amused ourselves by picking out Long Beach Harbor landmarks on the radar scope from more than a hundred miles away.

A hour later, we were circling Belmont Shore, making our landing approach. Colored lights on the Christmas trees floating in Alamitos Bay twinkled brightly below us.

The old town never looked so good.

Arctic Chill Moves Over Wide Area

MARINES COMBAT CRASHES

Pendleton Cuts Accident Total

(Editor's Note: Something CAN be done to cut down traffic accidents involving servicemen—which around the clock, across the nation reach a horrifying total. Last Sunday The Independent, Press-Telegram set forth some of these servicemen-traffic accident problems. Today's story deals with how two U. S. military bases are trying to meet the situation.)

By VERA WILLIAMS

Accidents don't happen; they are caused.

With this belief, officers of the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton at Oceanside, conduct a relentless education, enforcement and engineering campaign. Traffic is under continuous study by staff officers. A Safe Driving Council meets monthly to consider the various aspects of the problem and make recommendations to improve Camp Pendleton's safe-driving program.

The regular training program for the U. S. Marine Corps includes the subject of Traffic Safety. In addition to service instructors, lectures are given by specialists from the state and local police. The Base Training Aids Library contains a number of training films on safe driving. By roadside signs, posters where men gather and film trailers at the camp theaters, the personnel is constantly reminded to practice traffic safety.

"STRICT ENFORCEMENT of traffic regulations is our policy," says Maj. Gen. George F. Good Jr., commanding general. "It is my opinion that accidents don't happen; they are caused.

"On this base all accidents are investigated and the person or persons at fault charged with a violation.

"Violators of the traffic regulations, in addition to other action taken against them, are required to attend a Base Traffic Safety School.

"Regulations limit the distance from camp that the men may go in a given period of time. This regulation appears to be well obeyed. I have noted that recent fatal accidents involving men from this base occurred at around midnight, within two hours' moderate-speed driving time from camp, six or seven hours before the required time of return, and that the drivers were in the 18-24 years of age bracket.

"In spite of the fact that the vast majority of our servicemen are in the 18-24 bracket, which corresponds to the higher premium age bracket established by automobile insurance companies, our accident rate is relatively low in comparison to accident rates in similar size communities. However, it is my intention that every effort be made to eliminate all avoidable accidents and reduce the toll of killed and injured among personnel of this base."

SCREENING the Camp Pendleton files for 1954 and 1955, the following statistics per 1,000 of population are shown:

| | | Killed | Injured | Accidents |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1954 | On base | .040 | 2.12 | 15.2 |
| 1954 | Off base | .240 | 5.92 | 10.3 |
| 1955 | (To Nov. 15) | | | |
| | On base | .089 | 2.73 | 9.62 |
| | Off base | .878 | 5.07 | 6.78 |

Camp Pendleton is the world's largest amphibious base, having an area of 124,198 acres. The average population of Camp Pendleton, consisting of military personnel, dependents and civilian employes, was approximately 25,000 in 1954 and 45,000 in 1955, and the number of automobiles owned and operated increased from approximately 16,000 in 1954 to 22,000 in 1955.

Even in view of the large increase in traffic the number of accidents per 1,000 people in 1955 decreased from 1954. In analyzing the increase in the number of killed, the primary cause was multiple deaths in recent traffic accidents.

In comparison, the nearest large city, San Diego, had 45 fatalities, 2,124 injuries and 7,087 accidents in traffic in the first 10 months of 1955.

Using an approximate population figure of 335,000 based on the 1950 census, this breaks down into .134 persons per 1,000 killed, 6.34 injured and 21.2 accidents during that time.

MILITARY PERSONNEL of Fort MacArthur at San Pedro have had only 17 motor vehicle accidents off duty, off post, in the last two years, according to John M. Hughes, public information officer.

The command has suffered three fatalities in the last five years. They occurred in privately owned vehicles, off the post.

In order to cut down accidents, the command under the direction of the post safety office has established intensive driver testing, training and retaining of personnel involved in accidents. The motor officer of the command investigates all traffic accidents and interviews the drivers to determine mistakes, if any.

DELIVERS SERMON

Top Adventist Chief Visits L.B.

Reuben R. Figuhr, leader of more than a million Seventh-Day Adventists all over the world, visited Long Beach Saturday to deliver the Sabbath sermon at the local Adventist church, 1001 E. 3rd St.

Elder Figuhr is president of the General Conference of the church. His visit here was one stop on a cross-country trip he is making from the church headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Each year Elder Figuhr makes a 2½-month, round-the-world tour, visiting many of the 119 countries in which the church operates.

His next trip, beginning in January, will take him to the Middle East, India, Burma and Formosa. Last year he spent the major part of his tour in Africa, inspecting the church's missionary work there.

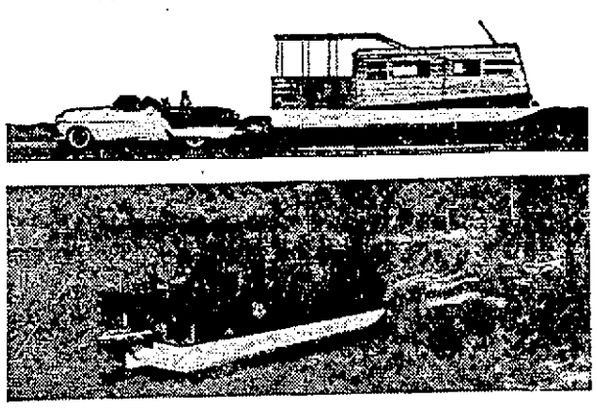

Elder Figuhr, 59, was born in Wisconsin and studied for the Adventist ministry at Walla Walla College, Wash. In 1923 he was sent as a missionary to the Philippine Islands, where he stayed 19 years. He was elected to his present office in 1954, after serving as president of the South American Conference.

Elder Figuhr spoke to the local congregation on "Living and Dying for God." While in Long Beach he was the guest of Arthur J. Escobar, minister of the church here.

DAILY CARE FOR 124

Mayor Heads Polio Drive for 5th Time

Mayor George M. Vermillion for the fourth consecutive year Saturday was appointed chairman for the 1956 March of Dimes campaign in January.

Mrs. Gail C. Hudson, chairman of the Long Beach Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced the appointment.

Mayor Vermillion, in accepting the post, said:

"The fight against polio isn't over yet. In our own area, the local chapter is helping provide daily medical aid for 124 persons for whom the Salk vaccine came too late.

"This year alone, 83 people in our district have been stricken with polio.

"The fight for them has just begun. Your dimes can help them in that battle. Your dimes literally can help them to learn to breathe again."

* * * *

EXTENSIVE PLANS for the January campaign have been drawn. Increased personnel and many more field workers will be needed.

The drive will open with a kickoff luncheon at the Lafayette Hotel on Jan. 5.

One of the major events, a March of Dimes Dance, will be conducted two days later at the Municipal Auditorium.

Sigma Pi, Long Beach State College fraternity sponsoring the dance, is arranging to secure a "big-name" band. Donation will be $1 per person.

A Blue Crutch Tag Day is planned for Jan. 14. The drive will end Jan. 31, with a Mothers' March.

* * * *

RECALLING THAT Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of a "medical milestone" vaccine, was trained under a fellowship made possible by the March of Dimes, Mayor Vermillion said:

"March of Dimes research must be supported with continuing enthusiasm if the job is to be finished. The Salk vaccine is still not 100 per cent effective.

"It will be a good many years before we can afford to stop training polio scientists for the laboratories and professional workers for hospitals—especially in view of the acute shortages now existing in these fields."

When Happiness Turns to Tragedy

JUDSON M. THORPE, 76, and his wife, Jessie, also 76, stood hand in hand at the curb of the busy street.

On the opposite side was a bus stop.

Uneasily, hand in hand, they stepped into the street and started to run across.

They never got to the bus stop.

THEIR NAMES WERE ADDED to the Yule season's swelling list of traffic victims.

That list increases at a faster rate as the holiday period nears its climax.

The same bustle and excitement which are connected with the happiness of Christmastime also contribute to the human tragedies that occur at this time of year.

Pedestrians, making haste to take care of Christmas projects, tend to take chances they would not otherwise take. Carrying packages that cut down their visibility, they put themselves in greater jeopardy than usual.

Motorists, as a rule a discourteous and erratic crowd, become even more menacing. They're out in greater numbers, traveling longer distances faster than usual, and with a larger alcoholic content per capita.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, the only cheerful light, as far as holiday safety is concerned, comes from the fact that the office Christmas party featuring hard drinks is on the decline.

And, oddly, nobody seems to be missing it, which proves that it wasn't really a necessity after all.

The custom has been replaced in many cases with parties or projects which actually have some meaning and bring lasting happiness to someone.

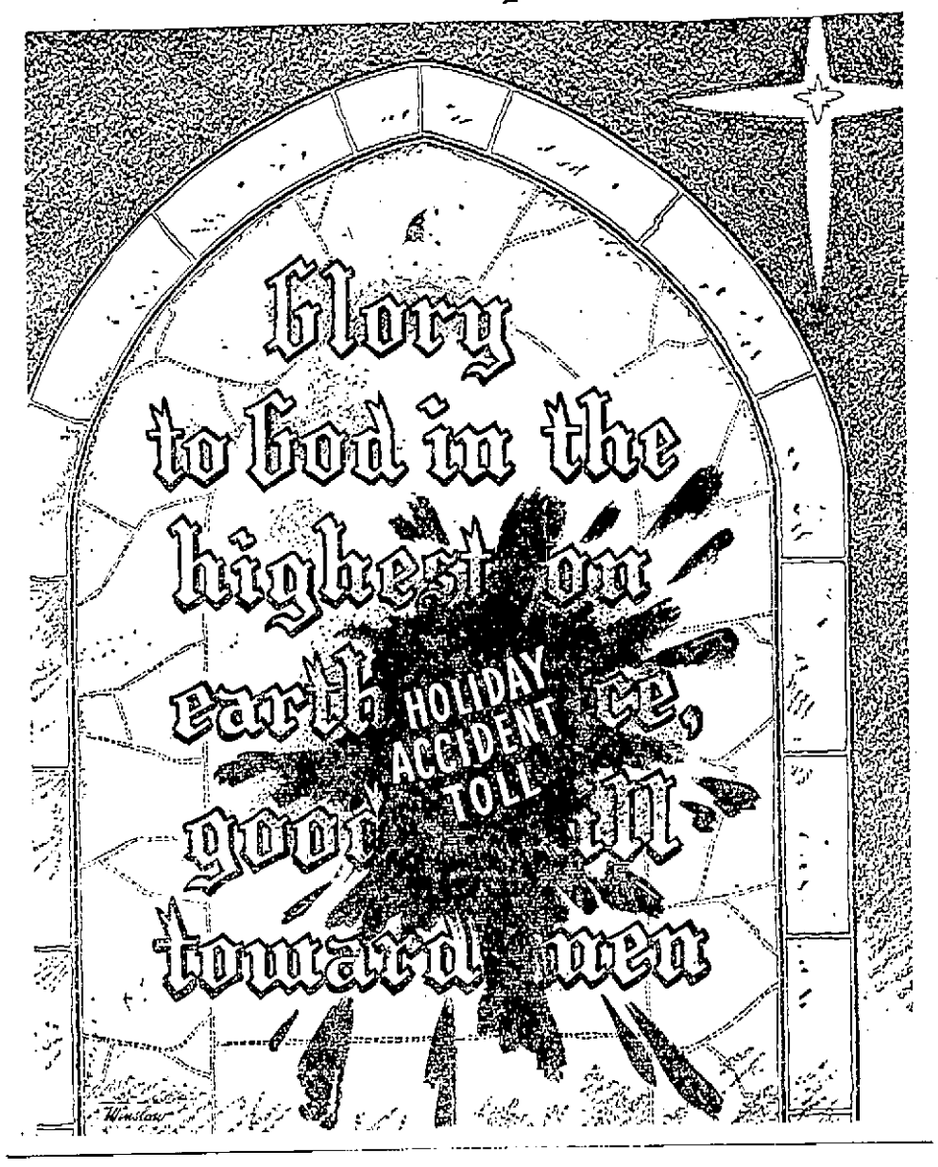

Instead of sponsoring hectic drinking bouts which ends up with inebriated party-goers behind the steering wheels of speeding automobiles, business firms are tending more toward parties for employes' children, or the sponsorship of charities.

FOR INSTANCE, A LOCAL automobile firm last year calculated the amount of money it would have spent on a drinking party. Instead of buying the liquor, the firm turned the money over to a social agency engaged in doing welfare work for children.

Nobody loses when people celebrate Christmas that way.

United Nations Now Revealed as Just Another 'Log-Rolling' Organization

WASHINGTON. The United Nations has revealed itself as just another "log-rolling" organization, with less regard for principle and morality than for political expediency. It's a blow from which the organization may never recover. For, once respect is lost, it is rarely regained.

* * * *

THE CONTROVERSY over admitting new members was on the same low plane that one would find in Tammany Hall in New York City or in the "smoke-filled rooms" of political conventions where "deals" and "packages" are manipulated with all the artful barter and selfishness of the market place.

Nationalist China alone, by her veto of Outer Mongolia, stood out as the courageous champion of morality. Yet it is a sign of the decadence of the times that newspaper dispatches are telling already of the intention of some governments to punish Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government next year and give her seat in the United Nations to unmoral Red China just because the Nationalist delegate didn't bow to expediency.

The day that Red China goes in the U. N., the demand for America to step out will be resumed. For it was Red China's murderous commanders who in Korea helped to bring about the death of 33,000 American boys and the wounding of 110,000 others. The same U. N. which declared Red China an aggressor now is reported to be ready to take the regime unto its bosm.

* * * *

BUT THE AMAZING thing is the way that supposed champions of virtue—those who extol the U. N. as the last word in international morality—are themselves surrendering principle and rejoicing that Soviet Russia did finally condescend to let 16 members come into the organization. The cry is for "universality" at any cost, as if numbers rather than the qualifications of the members to carry out the obligations of the U. N. charter were the real criterion of effectiveness.

It was Sir Percy Spender, of Australia, who, with startling frankness, said the other day: "It is not principle with which we are concerned here but expediency—the expediency of inexorable political circumstances."

This then is the new doctrine of the U. N. which in all the schools and colleges of America has heretofore been praised as the paragon of international virtue and as the last great hope of civilization to settle its disputes.

* * * *

HAVING FAILED to command universal support for armed intervention to repel the aggressor in Korea, the United Nations has since been compelled to rely primarily on moral force. But even this moral force now has deteriorated. For there can be no respect throughout the world for an organization that violates its own principles of law and order. The court of international justice, for example, is an advisory opinion sought by the U. N. itself, ruled in 1948 that "package deals" are illegal and that admission must be on individual merits of the member rather than dependent or conditioned on the acceptance of other members.

All this now has been brushed aside and the new slogan seems to be "numbers for numbers' sake."

* * * *

UNDER SUCH circumstances, it is logical for the United States now to ask all its 48 states be admitted to the U. N. It would augment the number of members considerably. After all, each of the 48 states is "sovereign" and, while the charter uses the term "sovereign equality," there is no inclination today in the U. N. to examine the qualifications of members too carefully.

Also it would solve the controversy here over the Bricker amendment, for if the various subsidiary bodies of the U. N. are to make treaties or agreements binding this country on certain domestic affairs, at least each of the 48 states would have some sort of opportunity to veto such legislation.

Strife Brewing in Both Parties on Pre-Primary Endorsements

RISKY as it may be from the standpoint of party harmony, organizations of both parties are wading into the field of pre-primary endorsements for 1956.

Already, there is some fighting about it. A notable current example is a ruckus between top men of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee and the Los Angeles County Republican Assembly over which group should endorse. Those familiar with the Democratic picture say it will be surprising if the pre-primary endorsement hurdle is crossed on that side without trouble.

This is touchy political business. The primary is supposed to be the place at which the rank and file members of a party choose its official candidates for the final election. Any attempt to give even a hint of official party support for one or another of opposing candidates before the primary is regarded by many persons as a violation of the principle of the primary. It can lead to bitterness and disunity that hurts in the subsequent general election race.

EPLEY

On the other hand, people in both parties feel that party interests are served by encouraging and supporting strong candidates. Candidacies must be launched before the primary, so then is the time for such encouragement. The GOP in California got into the pre-primary endorsement business years ago through the Republican Assembly, an unofficial but sometimes potent body. Democrats set up the Democratic Councils in 1954 along the lines of the GOP Assembly. Those councils likewise are unofficial, so their action will not be construed as violating the moral (and some say legal) bar against pre-primary endorsements by the official party groups like the central committees.

* * * *

LOCALLY, THE REPUBLICANS have smoother sledding this time in solving the endorsement question. Their men—Congressman Craig Hosmer and Assemblyman Herbert R. Klocksiem and W. S. Grant—are the incumbents, and GOP Assemblies here have already endorsed them.

Democrats here may encounter more difficulties, depending on the extent of political ambition among Democrats this time. If there are a number of determined candidates for the various nominations, the endorsement issue could get hot.

The Democratic Councils in the 44th and slated to convene in March to choose the endorsee to run against Republican Congressman Hosmer. Endorsements by the Democratic Councils or the Republican Assemblies, of course, do not preclude anyone from running. Already there are rumors that some aspirants have said they will run for certain offices regardless of endorsing action by the Councils.

* * * *

AMONG THOSE MENTIONED as possible Democratic candidates in the 44th District are Richard Nussell, who ran unsuccessfully in 1954; Raymond Peterson, City Councilman D. Patrick Ahern and Paul De Pietro. "Mentionables" among Democrats in the 70th District include Dan Brice, Mrs. Roy Shaw and Harry Wade.

Wade has also been prominently discussed as a possible Congressional candidate. Among others who have been mentioned in the Congressional speculation are Mayor George Vermillion of Long Beach, Raymond C. Simpson, Mayor Angelo Iacaboni of Lakewood, Councilmen Ahern and John Baker, Dick Cartwright, and Joseph M. Kennick, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee in 1954 and 1952.

Endorsements for state and U. S. Senate positions will be made by the California Democratic Council in convention at Fresno Feb. 4 and 5.

A hot one may develop there over the Senate post. Sam Yorty had already declared for the office, but there are reports of strong opposition. Yorty was unhappy after the 1954 CDC convention, although it endorsed him.

* * * *

THE STATE DEMOCRATIC Council is officially set to avoid an endorsement fight over Presidential preference. With Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver slated to fight it out for California's preference vote at the primary, any endorsement attempt at Fresno could touch off a holocaust.

At a recent meeting, the board of CDC voted against permitting a Presidential preference endorsement by the Council. That, presumably, will be the policy, but the convention might take things in its own hands.

Stevenson is to be a principal speaker at Fresno, and it is reported Kefauver expects to "say a few words." Because of the aggressiveness of supporters of both men, the Fresno meeting could easily divide up into two armed camps.

* * * *

AND THERE IS A DEFINITE possibility that California Republicans could get into a battle over Presidential preference, with Vice President Nixon, Sen. Knowland and Gov. Knight taking a hand. A GOP fight on that score will be avoided, of course, if President Eisenhower decides to seek reelection.

Curtice and O'Mahoney Talk Turk--, Pheasant

WASHINGTON—The public has the general idea that hammer and tongs let fly at congressional hearings. Senators are supposed to look sternly at witnesses, badger them into testifying, threaten them with contempt if they flinch.

This was true at many of the McCarthy hearings, but other congressional probes are frequently featured by human interludes.

No moment in the life of Harlow Curtice, $686,100-paid head of General Motors, probably was more embarrassing than when Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) forced him to sit and listen to the testimony of critical General Motors dealers. However, this did not prevent Curtice and O'Mahoney from holding a pleasant aside on pheasants.

PEARSON

It began when Curtice asked Sen. Francis Case, South Dakota Republican:

"I should like to ask you about your crop of pheasants. I used to enjoy hunting in your state. What has caused the pheasant crop to reach such a low level?"

O'Mahoney—"They have migrated to Wyoming."

Curtice — "There were still thousands of millions of them in the old days. You mean they have some there in Wyoming?"

Case — "I have not even heard of an open season. Do you have an open season in Wyoming?"

O'Mahoney—"We protect our wild life."

Case—"Our pheasant hunting this past fall was by far the best in several years."

Curtice—"From a very low level."

Case—"You could get your bag limit this year in an hour and a half."

Curtice—"If you were a good shot—I do not claim to be one—you could get the bag limit, which was higher then, in much shorter time."

Case—"We had some very severe winters—hunting got low."

Curtice—"Could you not control the winter? Can you not speak to the senator here? Maybe you can get him to help control the winters up there."

* * * *

DIGGING DEEPER than pheasants, Sen. O'Mahoney has dug up some secret General Motors minutes that give a fascinating insight into the world's biggest corporation.

The minutes tell what happened to a top Buick-Pontiac-Chevrolet dealer for talking out of turn.

president. Harlow Curtice.

Lee Anderson had been a GM dealer in Lake Orion, Mich., for 21 years—so hot a salesman that in 1941 he won first place over 18,000 other dealers in the nation. But he made one mistake. He spoke his mind last June to the Oxford, Mich., Rotary Club.

"The old song, I can get it for you wholesale, is heard throughout the land and it is driving many legitimate automobile dealers to red ink and distraction," Anderson complained to the Rotarians. "This situation is particularly acute in the trading area of automobile manufacturing towns, where about 1,000 automobile dealers face extinction under the impossible handicap of direct factory competition at new car discounts of $500 to $800."

THE AX FALLS — Exactly 20 days later, Anderson received simultaneous letters from the Buick, Pontiac and Chevrolet divisions, notifying him that his franchise would be cut off.

JOHN S. KNIGHT

GOP Making Big Error in Permitting Public to Think Ike Will Run in '56

THE REPUBLICANS, it seems to me, are making a monumental mistake in permitting the country to assume that President Eisenhower will be a candidate for reelection.

It is the nature of politicians to be optimistic. But when House Minority Leader Joe Martin, Republican Chairman Leonard Hall and a host of minor GOP luminaries keep answering one and all that Ike will run, they are making an assumption which is not supported by anything more tangible than their self-interest.

KNIGHT

As an early and continuing supporter of Eisenhower, may I say that the opinion that his illness is one of the great tragedies of our times. He has been superb in his grasp of world affairs, a wise and temperate leader at home, a builder of faith and confidence in the future of our nation.

For these accomplishments, the President is esteemed and beloved by his countrymen who see in Eisenhower the qualities of leadership and inspiration which they admire and respect.

* * * *

NEVERTHELESS, it is folly to pretend that the President is not a sick man.

Granted that he is making a satisfactory recovery, for which we all rejoice, it cannot be safely assumed that the President is, or will be able to carry the burdens of his high office.

The Republican chorus, even after Ike had been told to "slow down," has not subsided. It ranges all the way from "Ike has never looked better" to Sen. Dirksen's warbling about "iridescent duty."

I sicken of all this palaver because of the underlying motives of those who spew it out. Many of them are candidates for reelection whose chances of winning will be enhanced by running on an Eisenhower ticket. Others, such as cabinet members and the White House staff, want to remain on the Eisenhower team. The rest, mainly centered around such shrewd and experienced politicians as Republican Chairman Hall, fully understand that without Eisenhower, the GOP 1956 Presidential ticket is in for trouble.

* * * *

THE PLOT, THEREFORE, is to surround Ike with bluff and hearty well wishers like Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, a former heart case, to prove that a coronary is not much worse than a bad cold.

Republican strategists are figuring that if Ike's decision can be postponed indefinitely, the President will ultimately be persuaded that his health is good enough for him to be a candidate.

Or, failing in this, that the time before election is so short that Eisenhower will have to name his preference for the Republican nomination to avoid a bitter contest within the party.

There are several flaws in this line of reasoning: 1—The President, after medical and family consultation, will make the decision. He is inherently too honest to yield to political persuasion. 2—President Eisenhower cannot transfer his popularity to another. 3—Undue postponement of the the President's decision will work against the "build-up" of other Republican candidates.

* * * *

QUITE APART FROM consideration of party strategy, I submit that the politicians should let Ike alone.

As a heart patient, he certainly is entitled to the same rest, relaxation and privacy with his family as any other man.

TOWN MEETING

College Takes No Sides in Election

TO THE EDITOR:

In a story which appeared recently in the press of this community it was implied that Long Beach State College is opposed to the passage of the Airport Bond Issue which will be on the Long Beach City ballot Feb. 9, 1956. In this respect may I state that the college, as such, does not support nor does it oppose any bond issue or proposition on the city ballot. Members of the college staff, of course, may make their own personal decisions as citizens of the community, but the college always has and always will hold itself aloof from local ballot measures.

* * * *

THE SAME news story reported that State College students were circulating petitions opposed to the bond issue. It is my understanding, after talking with the College Placement Office, that a list of available part time workers was given to an anti-bond issue committee desiring paid petitioners, as well as to a group which is supporting the bond issue. The fact that Long Beach State College students, as individuals, are working either for or against a ballot measure should not be interpreted to mean that the college either endorses or disapproves of the measure.

P. VICTOR PETERSON

President Long Beach State College.

L. B. Art Center Sign of Progress

TO THE EDITOR:

Let letter writers Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Brown be reminded that the Long Beach Municipal Art Center also sponsors a non-juried show each year in which the Sunday painters, hobbyists and other less enthusiastic dabblers of the arts usually choose to exhibit their particular brand of expression.

As an exhibitor and patron of the Art Center, I say three cheers for one of the most encouraging signs of progress Long Beach possesses.

Wails From Farm Folk Not Always Warranted

WASHINGTON (NEA)—When it comes to a showdown, some of the farmers who scream the loudest about their present plight may not be hurt as badly as they let on.

An example has just been furnished by Farmer Jay Boston, who operates 610 irrigated acres near Hereford, northern Texas.

When the Senate Agriculture Committee held hearings in Fort Worth, Farmer Boston grabbed the headlines with a proposition:

If Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson would come to Texas, take over the Boston place, run it under existing sliding scale price supports and show a profit, Boston would give his farm to Benson as a gift.

A CHECKUP by the Amarillo, Tex., Globe-News showed that Boston was no shiftless operator. He is recognized as the best farmer in his conservation district. His gripe now is that under existing supports on grain sorghums and a depressed hog market—on which two crops he has been specializing—he can't make money.

"I'm not denying that I made money on my place in years past," he says. "But I haven't made any this year."

The news traveled far and wide. Paul Horn, a Texas-born farmer who now operates a number of properties in the Moorhead, Minn., area—specializing in vegetables—read about it. He immediately wrote to Boston, offering to substitute for Secretary Benson, taking over Jan. 1, 1957.

* * * *

"I WILL TAKE OVER your farm for a period of four years," Horn offered: "If at the end of that time I cannot show a fair average return on the appraised investment, I will not only return the property in as good a condition as it was received, but I will also pay you a fair cash rental."

Horn attached only one string to his offer. He made it conditional on the present administration being continued in office after the 1956 elections. He said he wasn't interested if the federal government was going to dictate methods of farming and marketing.

"The disturbing thing about your statement is that it creates the impression that the farmers of this country are unable to make a living without financial help from the government." Horn wrote to Boston.

"The fact is that the vast majority of farmers in the United States are neither looking for handouts, nor do they expect the government to guarantee them a profit," he said.

* * * *

AN INQUIRY direct to Farmer Horn as to whether the Texan had replied to his offer brought back the reply:

"I have not heard from Mr. Boston to date, and until I do, I can pursue the matter no further."

From Farmer Boston the word is that: "I didn't make a wide open proposition for anyone who wanted to take me up on it."

Canada OKs Flying by Do-It-Yourselfers

OTTAWA (AP)—The Canadian Transport Department plans to make it easier for the do-it-yourself expert to fly his home-made light plane. Tentative regulations would permit the builder to fly within a radius of 25 miles from home base, in daylight and not over thickly populated areas. No passengers, either.

Salvation Army Reaches Peak of Yule Activities

The next week will be a busy one for workers at the Salvation Army Social Service Center, 1370 Alamitos Ave.

Eight days of Yuletide activities start today with special chapel services.

Christmas movies and entertainment will be presented Monday, followed on Tuesday by a party for store managers and married employes.

Special Christmas activities will be conducted Wednesday. Thursday, there will be a Christmas service in the chapel, with Christmas Carol Vespers Friday.

* * * *

THE ANNUAL Christmas party and visit of Santa Claus will be on Saturday. Sunday's activities will start with a Christmas breakfast and candlelight service.

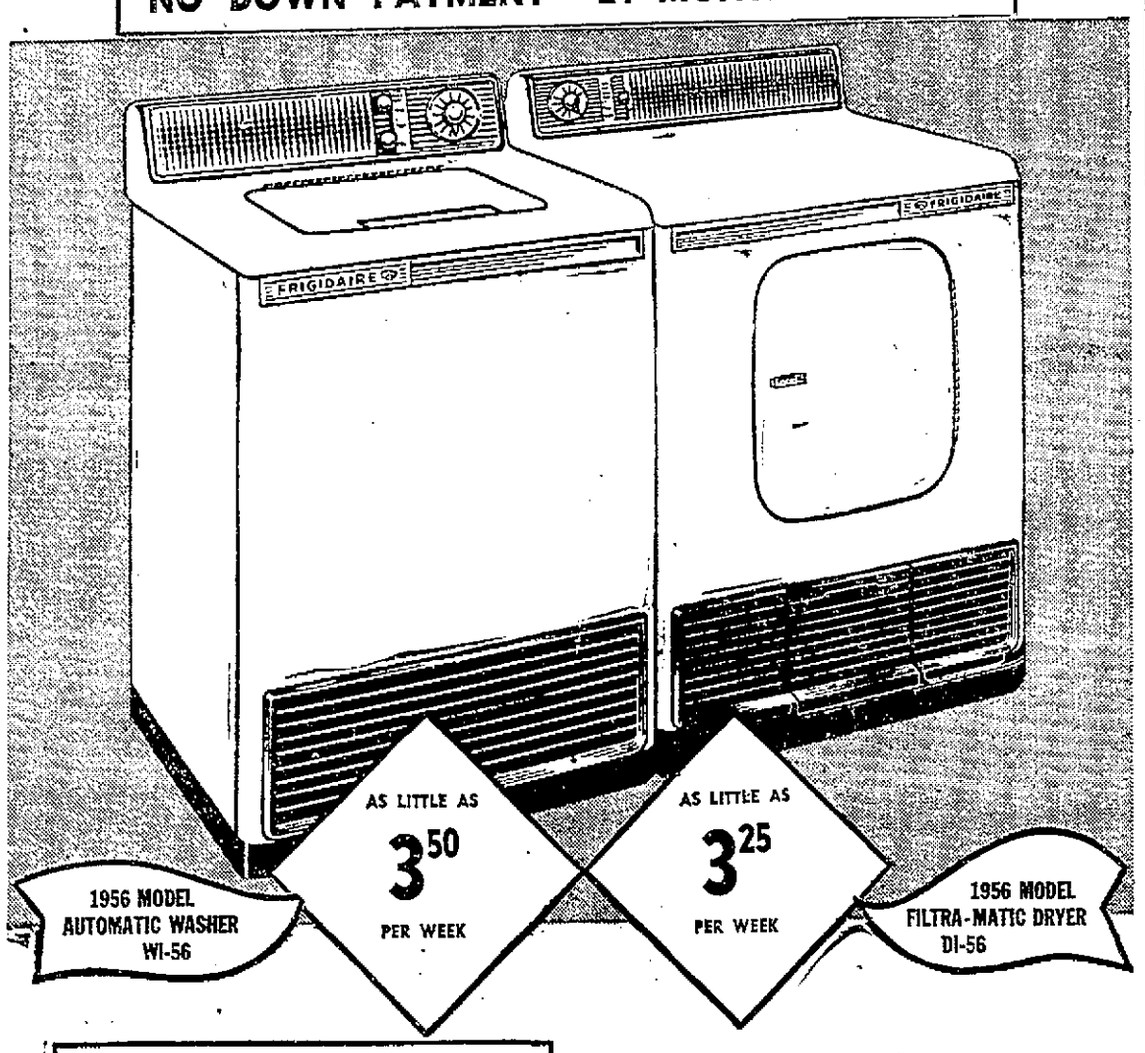

Workers have been busy reconditioning clothing and toys which local residents are contributing to the Salvation Army's Christmas drive.

The articles bring Yuletide cheer to less fortunate men, women and children. In addition, they provide occupational therapy for needy and handicapped men.

Local residents who have warm apparel or toys to contribute are asked to call the center, HE 7-1293, to bring a Red Shield truck.

Youths to See Films About Winter Sport

Films on winter sports will be featured at an open house of the Library Youth Council Monday at 7 p. m. at Alamitos Branch Library, 1836 E. Third St.

Following the films, Miss Kate Stone of the Recreation Department will speak on skiing. She will illustrate her talk with various types of ski equipment and will answer questions from the group.

• • • •

MRS. DOROTHY WATTS, coordinator of Work with Young People at the public library, will greet the guests. Refreshments will be served.

The Library Youth Council is a citywide organization with a chapter in each high school. School librarians working with Mrs. Watts and the Council are Miss Dolores Lawless at Jordan; Mrs. Lucille McGuire at Polytechnic; Miss Cecelia Burch at Wilson, and Sister Rose de Lima at St. Anthony's.

Chapters hold regular meetings at the school and at the public library. Members review and recommend books for their own age group, preview films, select records, plan and participate in discussion programs and contribute to "In Our Opinion," a periodical compilation of book reviews.

• • • •

OTHER ACTIVITIES include the arranging of displays in Young Moderns sections in branch libraries and occasional exhibits of books of special interest to teen-agers.

Monday's program is one of the few during the year which is open to both adults and young people, as well as the general public.

Tele-Vues

by TERRY VERNON

Preparations for Christmas in Cuba, Canad, Mexico and the United States will be the subject for the "Wide Wide World" on (4) at 1 p. m. for 90 minutes.

President Eisenhower will be seen at Gettysburg pressing the button that lights the capital's Christmas tree and he'll give a short greeting to the people. A "posada," or party, will be seen on a visit to Chihuahua, Mexico, and the "procession of cooks" will come from the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, Canada. This event finds the chefs clad in medieval garb and carrying traditional dishes of Christmas.

In Havana we'll visit the world's largest nightclub, the Tropicana, where rehearsal for its Christmas show is underway and within the confines of the U. S. we'll visit New York City, Mount Washington, N. H., and Marietta, S. C.

DRAMA—Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn will portray the characters of "Liz" and "Ben Marriot" in an extension of their famous roles in "The Marriage," on Goodyear TV Playhouse" at 9 p. m. on (4). Eileen Heckart will be featured. Story tells of the Marriots and their Christmas problems. Ben is worried about finances so Liz takes a job in a department store, meets a girl friend and invites her home for Christmas Eve. Ben has to go to the company party and Christmas Eve seems a lonesome thing. Ben comes home early and finally the Yuletide spirit takes over. . . . Barry Fitzgerald stars on the Alfred Hitchcock show on (2) at 9:30 p. m. as a larceny-minded department store Santa Claus. Just out of prison he takes the job in order to go straight but finds temptation on all sides of him. . . . Joan Fontaine is the last of the guest hostesses on "The Loretta Young Show" on (4) at 10 p. m. Loretta returns next week. Starring in tonight's teleplay are Stephen McNally and Mary Sinclair against the background of a hospital and an amnesia case. A mixed-up love affair is the central theme. . . . # Bruins Fall to Wichita WICHITA, Kan. (U.P.) — Wichita University snuffed a determined closing bid by UCLA to gain a 76-68 basketball victory before 7,700 fans here Saturday night.

The Uclans outhit Wichita from the field 8-3 in the closing 10 minutes but Wichita connected with 16 of 19 free throws. At the end both teams had scored 21 field goals and Wichita had hit 34 of 45 charity attempts. UCLA connected with only 26 of 41.

Willie Naulls, UCLA's 6-6 center, captured scoring honors with 27 points. Wichita stopped everyone but Naulls from the field in the opening 10 minutes of the second half and the big center connected only twice during that cold spell.

Wichita was led by 6-6 Bob Hodgson with 25 points. The Shockers never let up although UCLA caught them at 27-27 late in the first half. Wichita led 36-31 at halftime.

JOCKEY COLLAPSES AFTER RACE

Arizonan Beaten by Pokey Vandy

By JERRY WYNN

The railbirds said it would take a track record to beat Arizonan in the $10,000 Autumn Championship Stake at Los Alamitos Race Course Saturday . . . and it did.

The feat was accomplished by a four-year-old mare with the mellifluous name of Pokey Vandy, who raced the 440 yards in 22 seconds flat to equal the world's record for the distance and smash the track standard by a full second.

With jockey Bobby Ford in the saddle, Pokey Vandy overtook Arizonan 75 yards from the wire, and never let up to beat the touted two-year-old by half a length. Miss Pitapat was a surprising, but weak, third, a length and one-quarter behind Arizonan.

"She did everything I asked her," said Ford, a 5-foot, short, 22-year-old native of Wyoming. "She broke well and was in the race all the way. When it came time, she just outrun 'em."

Very few in the getaway day crowd of 7,926 thought Arizonan, who set a world's record for 350 yards here last Saturday, could be "outrun." The Art Pollard gelding went postward a 6-5 favorite. No other horse in the field was below 5-1.

* * * *

POKEY VANDY, owned by Hugh W. Huntley and trained by Newton Keck, returned $14.70, $6.30 and $4.10; Arizonan, $3.70 and $3.00; Miss Pitapat, $4.90 The rest of the field finished in this order: Vancita Dee, Black Mikette, Gold Note, Bobbie Leo, Moon Deck, Ridge Butler and Monita.

In a dramatic anticlimax to the race, Arizonan's jockey, Tommy Chavez—the meeting's top rider—collapsed shortly after dismounting. He was carried from the tack room on a stretcher, and taken to Community Hospital in an ambulance.

Contacted late Saturday night, hospital officials reported that he was suffering from a serious pneumonia attack but was expected to respond to treatment and recover.

* * * *

ARIZONAN BROKE on top and kept the lead until Pokey Vandy's emergence. Whether Chavez' condition had any effect on Arizonan's failure in the stretch must remain in the great realm of racing "might have beens."

The world record time for 440 yards had been set in 1948 by Woven Webb and equaled in 1951 by Monita, who, ironically, was last on Saturday. The track record was set in 1954 by Josie's Bar.

The supporting feature — the $2,500 Endurance Stake at 549 yards—produced a near triple dead heat with Red Pepper Dee nipping Rocket Bar and Aerial Gazelle, in that order, by a quarter horse's eyelash.

Red Pepper Dee paid $9.00, $5.60 and $2.90 across the board. Although no one realized it at the time, it must have been a brave but trying ride for Chavez, who was aboard the winner.

Featured guests in attendance were state Lt. Governor Harold J. Powers and Los Angeles County Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz.

31st Win in Row for USF

CHICAGO (U.P.)—San Francisco's unbeaten cagers coasted to their 31st straight triumph Saturday night, 82-59, over De Paul before 11,448 fans, to capture the championship of the Chicago Stadium Invitational tourney.

Marquette won the consolation tilt, 83-59, over Duquesne as center Terry Rand tied the stadium scoring record at 43 points, although he played the whole game on a right foot "frozen" by a spray of ethyl chloride.

Guard Casey Jones was the main cog for the Dons, ranked as the nation's top team this season after winning the national title last year. Jones played roughly three-fourths of the game, but he dropped 15 points in the first 15 minutes to spark the Dons to a 25-point bulge and he finished with 23 for individual scoring honors.

* * * *

JONES WAS equally valuable on defense as the Dons racked up their fifth straight win of the season. He was a tight guard inside on De Paul's driving offense and snared nearly as many rebounds as lanky Bill Russell, the Dons' six foot-10 center.

Russell, though he made only 13 points, was a standout defensively, knocking away numerous shots by the top Blue Demon marksmen, Ron Sobieszczyk and Bill Robinzine.

Phil Woolpert, the Dons' coach, put into action nearly every player on his roster and eight men got points.

* * * *

DE PAUL HAD the score tied only at 2-2 and 4-4, and then the Dons slowly opened up their 25-point margin at 47-22.

Russell, an All-American last year, was named the most valuable player of the tournament by the Chicago Basketball Writers Association.

Freeman on 39-Pt. Spree as Bucks Win

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (U.P.) — Hot-shooting Robin Freeman, who caged 39 points, and his rugged Ohio State teammates ended St. Louis University's winning streak Saturday night, 89-83.

The defeat was St. Louis' first in five games and OSU's fourth victory in five starts.

There was a brawling finish to the game as the Bills narrowed a big Ohio margin down to three points and Jim McLaughlin and Frank Howard of the visitors were ejected from the game for fighting.

The fabulous Freeman, who scored 20 points in the first half, was only one point away from 40 for the fourth straight game. He now has 186 points for five games and has boosted his season's average to 37.2.

Bill Wilson Sold to Toronto by A's

TORONTO (U.P.) — General Manager Rudy Schaffer of the Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday announced the purchase of outfielder Bill Wilson from the Kansas City Athletics.

"Bill comes to us outright as part of the deal for Jack Crimian and is the right Christmas gift for Leaf fans," Schaffer said.

"He has been up in the majors since 1950 and we know he will do a wonderful job for us in 1956."

Wilson, who hails from Long Beach, Calif., began his professional career as a pitcher-outfielder in the Sunset League in 1947.

SOONERS VS. TERPS IN 'NATURAL'

9 of Nation's Top 11 Vie in Major Bowls

By Associated Press

National champion Oklahoma and Maryland, the unbeaten elite of 1955, meet in the Orange "natural" Jan. 2 to headline a post season football program almost free from the effects of restrictions.

There can be little argument with this year's major bowl slate which presents nine of the nation's top 11 teams according to the final Associated Press poll. Here's the lineup including team ranking and season's records:

Orange—Oklahoma (No. 1, 10-0) vs. Maryland (No. 3, (10-0).

Rose—Michigan State (No. 2, 8-1) vs. UCLA (No. 4, 9-1)

Sugar—Georgia Tech (No. 7, (8-1-1) vs. Pittsburgh (No. 11, (7-3).

Cotton — Texas Christian (No. 6, 9-1) vs. Mississippi (No. 10, 9-1).

Gator—Auburn (No. 8, 8-1-1) vs. Vanderbilt (unranked, 7-3).

Latest odds had Michigan State favored by 7 over UCLA, Oklahoma by 7½ over Maryland, Georgia Tech by 7 over Pitt, TCU by 6½ over Ole Miss and Auburn by 6½ over Vandy.

* * * *

UCLA AND Oklahoma, two of the unbeaten, untied powers of a year ago, were kept out of bowl engagements by conference rulings which forbid appearances by the same team in successive seasons.

The Big Ten-Pacific Coast Rose Bowl agreement and the Big Seven-Atlantic Coast Conference Orange Bowl tie-up drew cries of "mismatch" in '55 when Southern California, No. 2 PCC team, lost to Ohio State, 20-7, and Nebraska was swamped by Duke's ACC champions, 34-7. After all, UCLA had blanked SC, 34-0 and Oklahoma had bludgeoned Nebraska, 55-7, during the regular season.

But this time the bill of fare is more tempting.

True, Ohio State won't make the trip to Pasadena after finishing its second straight unbeaten Big Ten campaign, but Michigan State had a more successful season as shown by its No. 2 rating compared to fifth for the Buckeyes.

* * * *

THE TEXAS Longhorns saved the Cotton Bowl committee embarrassment by whipping Texas A&M in their final game. The Aggies, ineligible for post season competition as part of a conference penalty for a code violation, threatened to win the Southwest Conference title. However, Texas Christian took the championship with Texas' aid and assumes the traditional Southwest winner's role as the Dallas host.

The Sugar Bowl departed from its usual policy of inviting the Southeast Conference titlist by picking bowl-veteran Georgia Teach to face a Pittsburgh team enjoying its best season since 1938 and first bowl shot since 1937.

Even Georgia's Gov. Marvin Griffin failed to halt Tech's 11th trip to one of the five major bowls when his request to pull the Engineers out of the engagement on segregation grounds was rejected. Pitt has a Negro fullback, Bobby Grier, on the squad.

* * * *

THE FASCINATING aspects of the Oklahoma-Maryland clash extend to far beyond their unbeaten records, their reputations as the nation's leading split-T exponents and the memories of their tremendous defensive struggle won by the Sooners, 7-0, in

Spartans Hold 1st West Coast Drill

Michigan State dressed its Rose Bowl football squad in crisp new green-and-white game uniforms for the first Spartan West Coast practice Saturday.

The dandified dress was strictly for show and the photographers who turned out for a picture-snapping session at East Los Angeles Junior College.

As soon as the shutter session ended, the players started getting the uniforms grimy. Coach Duffy Daugherty had his 44-man squad getting in some good licks in preparation for the Jan. 2 date with UCLA.

* * * *

THE SQUAD took along box lunches to eat underneath the stadium—saving a trip back for dinner at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel headquarters at Pasadena.

The afternoon practice, without the distraction of the flashbulbs, was two hours of plain hard work.

"We've got to get on the job," Daugherty explained. "The weather was so bad back home that in our first outdoor practice the kids could hardly handle the ball because of the cold. And in the second session we had to run signal drills indoors on two sides of a basketball court."

The practice counted as the third of 16 allowed days for Michigan State. UCLA was on its sixth day but Coach Red Sanders explained he plans to skip a day or two during the next two weeks.

The UCLA squad concentrated mostly on reviewing its offense with an important point the testing of the passing of star back Ronnie Knox, being nursed back to health after an ankle fracture.

Dr. James Feurig, MSU team physician who had been worried about the climate change for the players from bitter-cold Michigan to usually sunny California, was pleased with the first day weather.

A heavy fog cut off the sunshine and the temperature was 57 degrees Saturday morning. The skies brightened a little in the afternoon.

"It's better working weather for the players than a real hot day or a dose of smog," Dr. Feurig said.

* * * *

SOPHOMORE END Bob Jewett of Mason, Mich., was bothered by a cold aggravated by sinus trouble. He had to leave the field for medication.

The squad was allowed a night out on the town Saturday night, "within limits," Daugherty emphasized.

Arrangements were made to take the players to church services of their faith this morning. This afternoon is free, with most of the players planning to take in a Hollywood tour.

Fort Ord Smashes Pensacola

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The Fort Ord Warriors pushed over two quick first period touchdowns and went on to a 35-13 victory over the lighter Pensacola Naval Air Station in the fourth annual Poinsettia Bowl football game Saturday.

Halfbacks Paul Cameron, former UCLA All-America, and Alex Burl paced the Army ground attack while quarterback Jimmy Powers, former San Francisco 49er, headed the passing game.

Cameron cut through right tackle, shook off two Navy tacklers and ran 23 yards for the first Army score. Al Dattola intercepted Navy quarterback Ernie Brown's pass on the Army 30 and ran unmolested 70 yards for the Warriors' second touchdown.

Early in the second period Powers pitched to end Ron Miller from the 10 for another six points.

Burl ran 25 yards for a touchdown to climax a 46-yard drive after the Army received the second half kickoff. Bob Reinhart capped another 46-yard march with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Dattola to complete the Warriors' scoring.

Pensacola's first touchdown came with 1:30 left in the second period when quarterback Dick Echard passed to end Chuck Wenzlau on the Army's 20 and he got away from two tacklers for the six points.

Halfback John Weaver made a great one-handed catch of Echard's 15-yard pass in the end zone late in the fourth period to account for the Navy's other score.

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

Many persons may be wondering, in view of UCLA's fine defensive record, why Coach Red Sanders suddenly became concerned with his linebacking the past few days as the Bruins resumed practice for their Rose Bowl engagement with Michigan State.

First, it was noted that end Johnny Smith was being groomed for a linebacking role. Then, when he was injured, guard Don Shinnick was moved to this crucial defensive spot.

Sanders' move indicates that he is well informed on Michigan State's attack pattern.

Key to the Rose Bowl game, in our estimation, will be UCLA's defensive backfield . . . not only the quick reactions of the linebackers and other defensive backs, but also the Bruins' "secondary depth."

For instance, Notre Dame players told us following their game with SC out here a few weeks ago that Michigan State's play was featured by "the greatest line blocking we've run up against."

In addition, quarterback Paul Hornung told us that "it's hard to believe how one team can have so many men—linemen as well as backs—so exceptionally fast. The overall team speed is positively fantastic.

"Most teams usually wear an opponent down in the normal way of just overpowering them. However, Michigan State does it through sheer speed.

"When you play Michigan State, you'll find that your backs will make about 75 per cent of the tackles. This takes too much out of them . . . and along about the third and fourth period they are 'dead'—not only on defense, but on offense, too.

"Then, when they slow up a step or two, Michigan State just pours on a little more speed . . . and away they go!"

* * * *

THAT'S WHY Sanders is so concerned with his linebacking. He needs as much depth as possible at all defensive backfield posts because the backs are in for a real rough afternoon.

And it will be necessary to have enough fresh men in there at all times to contain State's tremendous speed.

Michigan State has averaged 6.3 yards per play this season in nine games.

The Spartan line — spearheaded by such standouts as Norm Masters and Buck Nystrom, a pair of All-Americans —charges so fast that State's swift backs are propelled into the secondary on quick-hitters before the defensive line can recover from the initial contact and get in position to make a tackle.

UCLA's basic defensive alignment this year has been a 6-2-2-1. With the emphasis on linebacking the past week, it could well be that Sanders will go with a 5-3-2-1 in an effort to keep the Michigan State quick-hitters to minimum gains.

* * * *

THE SPARTANS averaged 6.3 yards per play mostly because of their success in shooting their backs into the secondary on their quick openers.

In UCLA's "2-2-1" secondary behind a six-man defensive line . . . the linebackers were the center on the left and quarterback on the right; the halfbacks were the fullback and the right half, while the left half (tailback) played safety.

Sanders has pretty fair depth at all five secondary positions except at fullback where Bob Davenport's understudy, Doug Peters, has not been too steady in recent games. It is hoped by the Bruin camp that Davenport, a great defensive back, can go most of the way at top speed.

Thus, the big problem is to find men to fill the third linebacking post in a 5-3-2-1 that Sanders may elect to use.

If the Bruin secondary holds up under the pounding it is due to receive, we think the Uclans will win.

Notre Dame players, beaten 21-7 by Michigan State, don't see how any team can hold the Spartans to less than two touchdowns at the very least.

However, if the Bruins are able to contain them to two touchdowns, we feel they'll be home free.

We feel that UCLA has the striking power to punch over at least three!

Bruins Top Team in Nash Ratings

By WARD NASH

Basic principle of football team ratings is to determine the average percentage of accomplishment against the varying strength of opponents. A team to have a 100 percent rating would have no defeats or ties, would be unscored upon and would have played all of the top eight, nine or ten teams in the country.

The strength of the opponent in the chart below is valued at 60 percent of the final percentage and winning over losing at 20 percent. Offensive points against defensive points also rate 20 percent.

Our top team for 1955 is UCLA, followed by Georgia Tech and Michigan State. Stanford had the toughest schedule in the nation, Oklahoma had the weakest schedule among the top 20 teams, SC had the largest total of points for and against of any team (423) and Georgia Tech held opponents to the lowest total (46). # 9 of Top 11 Teams in Bowls the same Miami arena two years ago.

The question uppermost in the game is whether Maryland Coach Jim Tatum is right in a recent off-guard admission that "Oklahoma has too much speed for us" or whether a phenomenal Terp jinx will hold true.

Not since the middle of the 1948 season has a team which defeated Maryland escaped a beating at the hands of the Terps the next time around.

* * * *

THE SOONERS have to be considered the favorites. They have superior speed and must be granted an advantage in depth, too, though Tatum says his present College Park production has more manpower than his 1953 national champions.

Alternating the two fine backfields and two lines of nearly equal strength, Oklahoma is essentially a ground power but also counts on the timely passing of All-America Tommy McDonald.

Maryland didn't suffer for runners and got great work from halfback Ed Vereb. Quarterback Frank Tamburello, backed by Lynn Beightol, is an effective passer and a fine split-T engineer.

* * * *

THE ROSE BOWL encounter is another replay from the 1953 season when Michigan State defeated UCLA, 28-20.

Frustration is mounting for the Bruins. Like Mississippi, the team hasn't won a bowl game in three tries. And as a West Coast representative, it faces the dismal record of only one Pacific Coast Conference triumph in the nine contests played under the Big Ten agreement.

The coming game will show the fans in Pasadena and the television onlookers plenty of dressed up single wing offense. UCLA works from that formation and it plays a major part in the intricate multiple offense of the Spartans.

The celebrated Ronnie Knox is an uncertain performer as a result of a broken leg received late in the season but it is doubtful he'd get the starting tailback assignment anyway on the strength of Sam Brown's eye opening late season performance.

* * * *

IN MID-SEASON TCU Athletic Director Dutch Meyer said of the present Horned Frogs:

"We think this is the best team we've ever had at TCU. This crowd has more speed and defense than the great 1935 team of Sam Baugh and the great one of 1938 with Davey O'Brien."

The Frogs feature All-America Jim Swink, who has an uncanny ability to follow blockers and 125 points to prove it. But the secret of TCU success in a large measure lies in the befuddling fakery of quarterback Charlie Curtis and a rugged line.

Georgia Tech has an 8-2 record in the five major bowls and has won all three Sugar Bowl assignments.

Kansas State Nods Huskies

MANHATTAN, Kan. (U.P.) — Kansas State outlasted a second half Washington scoring surge to squeeze out a 74-69 basketball win over the Huskies here Saturday night.

The score was tied at 59-59, 61-61, 63-63 and 65-65 before K-State pulled away on free throws awarded when the Huskies pressed.

Top scoring for the night went to Washington's sophomore center, Bruno Boin, 6-0, who hit 25 points. K-State's miniature guard, Pachin Vicens, was high for the 'Cats with 20. The little Puerto Rican dropped in 10 straight free throws and led floor play when the Wildcats put on a stall act through the last 10 minutes.

The score changed hands 13 times and was tied six times. K-State held a 41-34 halftime lead which melted to a 57-57 tie nine minutes after the second half started.

California Whips Santa Clara, 59-51

BERKELEY (AP)—The University of California won its second basketball game in two nights by defeating Santa Clara, 59-51, Saturday night.

The Bears won their initial college game of the season Friday night, when they beat College of Pacific, 70-57.

California Wrestling Ban Possibility

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The possibility that wrestling might be banned in California was spoken of Saturday by the chairman of an Assembly subcommittee which is probing the sport.

"We know that the matches are pre-determined and yet we close our eyes to it," said Assemblyman Frank G. Bonelli.

"We are going to have to take some corrective steps in wrestling in California or the governor is going to take over," he said at a hearing held by his governmental efficiency and economy subcommittee on wrestling and boxing.

Bonelli, a Democrat, also said consideration will be given to recommending that wrestling be taken from the control of the State Athletic Commission.

The surest way to kill wrestling, said Commission Chairman Norman O. Houston of Los Angeles, is to require wrestlers to be "fair."

Requiring scientific matches instead of pseudo matches would kill wrestling, agreed Dr. Dan O. Kilroy of Sacramento, another commissioner.

Kilroy protested against taking the sport from commission control.

"Some semblance of decency must be enforced," he contended, to prevent wrestlers from mixing it up in fish, ice or mud, as he said they do in some states. Kilroy said a watch must be kept on what wrestlers wear and that the audience participation they sometimes encourage during matches does not become a riot. Their physical condition must also be considered, he added.

"It's true we haven't got full control over wrestling," said Commissioner Joseph J. Phillips of San Francisco, "but we have some control." He said it would be foolish to abolish wrestling because "thousands of people enjoy it."

Phillips said everyone knows wrestling matches are "exhibitions" but claimed "some are on the square."

He said more wrestlers than boxers require medical attention.

Kilroy said wrestling has changed slowly through the years to become "shows" instead of matches.

Referees Joe Woods and Al Billings of Los Angeles, who told the committee in October that bouts are fixed, asked the subcommittee to return to Los Angeles and continue its inquiry. They stuck to their previous testimony.

Woods said: "I have lost a lot of work since that hearing and a lot of money."

They asked that a determination be made whether three other referees who told the committee they knew nothing of fixed bouts were lying.

Woods and Billings said they were denied work at the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles and the Hollywood Stadium after they testified.

Iowa's Big Second Half Routs Loyola

IOWA CITY (U.P.) — Iowa's Big Ten championship basketball team, inspired by the first appearance this season of Milton Scheuerman, poured it on in two second half sprees to win easily over Loyola of Los Angeles, 84-61, Saturday night.

Scheuerman was injured playing touch football in November and had not seen action this season.

He scored 15 points and added team balance and spirit as the Hawkeyes blasted Loyola in the second half after holding a 34-33 halftime lead.

It was Iowa's 69th straight cage victory against a non-conference foe on the home floor.

Tom Salvino of Loyola scored 21 points to lead all scorers, and Dave Benaderet added 19.

Iowa coach Frank O'Connor used 14 men of his 15-man squad in the victory.

Bill Logan, Hawkeye center and guard, bagged 17 points. Scheuerman played a minute of the first half and about 14 minutes of the second half, and was Iowa's No. 2 scorer.

It was Loyola's third successive Midwest defeat.

Bunte Paces Redskins to 5th Straight

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—University of Utah's Redskins smashed Washington State College, 91-56, Saturday night behind the 26-point performance of Art Bunte. It was the fifth straight win for the third-ranking team in the nation.

Bunte played only half the game but was a potent weapon while he was in. His three straight tipins in the early minutes sent Utah winging to a 17-8 lead, and his basket-making after the intermission enabled the Redskins to choke off a Cougar rally.

Utah Coach Jack Gardner sent in reserves after his regulars ran up a 32-18 advantage. Then Washington State's Larry Beck and Al Perry started pot-shotting and closed to within four points of the startled Utes at 36-32.

The Redskins first stringers returned and baskets by Bunte and Jerry McCleary made the halftime score 44-33.

Negro to Play in Sugar Bowl Meet

NEW ORLEANS (U.P.) — Al Avant, sophomore guard on the Marquette basketball team, will be the first Negro athlete to participate in the Sugar Bowl Sports Carnival, it was disclosed Saturday, but no trouble was anticipated.

Alabama Coach Johnny Dee, whose team along with Marquette, Notre Dame and Utah will play in the two-night tournament starting Dec. 29, said he definitely anticipated no problem arising from Avant's appearance in the event.

"I don't know whether our school authorities were aware of the fact when we agreed to play in the Sugar Bowl," he said, "but it doesn't matter anyway. We don't anticipate any reaction like that in Georgia."

DOAK ADDED TO WEST STARS

LOS ANGELES (U.P.)—Both East and West representatives to the sixth annual All-Star Pro Bowl football game here Jan. 15 Saturday named a 32nd player to their team rosters.

BYU Rips Colorado

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Unbeaten Brigham Young University trampled Colorado, 81-53, Saturday night for its sixth straight win of the season and second in a row over the Buffalos. Friday night the eighth-ranked Cougars whipped Colorado, 70-53.

The Cougars' 6-foot 7-inch center, Herschel Pedersen, was high point man, with 25. Colorado guard Jim Ranglos was second high scorer with 21.

BYU jumped to an early lead and widened its margin until in the second half when Colorado rallied and came within 9 points. But then Pedersen, Terry Tebbs and Linn Rowe got hot to widen the margin, with the score with 10 minutes to go, 59-42, BYU.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pancho Gonzales combined a booming serve with his accurate forehand to beat Tony Trabert Saturday night, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, and take a 3-1 edge in their professional tour series.

Trabert won his first match Friday night.

Gonzales twice fought off set points in the first set, then lost in the 14th game as Trabert fired a cross-court forehand, then blistered a backhand passing shot for the winning point.

A single service break also decided each of the second and third sets before 4,500 fans at Pan-Pacific Auditorium.

Pancho Segura again whipped Australian Rex Hartwig in the opening singles set, 8-2. It was Segura's fourth straight win.

Compton Cagers Score 67-52 Win

Fort Lewis forward Jay Schrader tallied 16 points.

At halftime, Compton was ahead, 35-28.

Bain Draws With Cotero

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jose Cotero, 129, Mexico City, and Irish Tommy Bain, 125½, Syracuse, N. Y., battled to a draw Saturday night in a wild-swinging 10-rounder at the Legion Stadium.

Both boys started fast and kept the rapid-fire pace over the route. There were no knockdowns although Bain found the going tough in the last two rounds. Cotero was penalized one point on all cards for hitting low in the fifth round.

Referee Mushy Callahan, and judges John Tomas and Russ Bradford each carded the fight 54½-54½, under California's 11 point system.

Pick Olympic Five in Round-Robin

NEW YORK (U.P.) — The United States Olympic Basketball Committee will conduct a round-robin tournament next April to select the players that will represent this country in the Olympic Games at Melbourne, Australia, it was announced Saturday.

Four teams will compete in the tournament at Kansas City, April 2-4. One squad will be chosen from the college ranks and another from the military. The two finalists in the AAU basketball championships will round out the field.

The winning team will qualify no less than five nor more than seven players for the Olympic 12-man squad. The other members will be chosen by the committee.

The head coach of the team that wins the round-robin tournament will automatically qualify as the Olympic mentor, while an assistant coach will be picked by the committee.

The college committee may base its squad on the NCAA winner, plus outstanding players from the NAIA.

The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will hold their own round-robin tournament at Louisville, Ky., March 22-24, to determine the representative for the Olympic finals.

Hungarian Pair Upset by Aussie

MELBOURNE, Australia (U.P.) —Sandor Iharos and Laszlo Tabori, Hungary's two standout distance runners, were beaten in a 5,000-meter race Saturday by Dave Stephens of Australia in a major track upset.

Ivan Roszavolgyi, the third of Hungary's touring runners, won his 1,500-meter event in 3:54.0, but his clocking was far from the world record of 3:44.4 set by Australia's John Landy.

Stephens was timed in 1:07.2 for the 5,000 meters as he beat Tabori by 30 yards. Iharos finished 30 yards behind Tabori.

Peripatetic paragraphing . . .

SATISFIED. The nation's football coaches are well satisfied with the grid rules in their present form. Therefore, there will be no big, black headlines hitting the sports pages on rules changes when the National Rules Committee meets here in January.

About the only revision contemplated is a rule—or understanding—outlawing the sucker shift. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to phrase the rule tightly enough to eliminate the false start as sometimes practiced by a few of the nation's trickier teams and still permit a legal shift.

Therefore, it may be necessary for the rules writers to concoct an honor system provision involving the sucker shift. It's about the only cure possible for teams which deliberately try to draw the other team offside with an occasional sucker shift.

By and large, the nation's coaches are satisfied with the happy balance struck between the offensive and defensive phases of the games by the current rules. Consequently, the meeting here next month may turn out to be a nice social affair—an exchange of ideas, no more.

SOONERS. This Corner filled a vote with the Football Writers Association of America naming Oklahoma's Sooners as the national champions worthy of winning the Grantland Rice Award, first made last year to UCLA.

Briefly, the comment on my vote went like this: "The Sooners did everything asked of them. What better way is there to judge a team?"

COVETED. The NFL didn't exhaust the college supply at its Nov. 28 draft, by a long way.

Thirty - seven collegians were picked in Philadelphia, but a lot more are still to be selected when the pro brass meets in Los Angeles during the Pro Bowl festivities.

One who ranks high on the wanted list is Charlie Sticka, the fine fullback of the two-year unfeated Trinity College team. Sticka, say the pro scouts, is something terrific in the line-backing art, so exceptional, actually, that his defensive efforts overshadow his offensive talents.

In three years, Sticka scored 227 points for Trinity and rolled up 2,292 yards by rushing. He has been picked to play on the East team in the Shrine game. Pro scouts will be there to see if he is a big frog in a big pond. If he is, the mad rush will be on.

Charlie has had an offer from the Canadian League, but refuses to make a move. Like Ohio State's Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Sticka is a baseballer of note and refuses to sign anything until after the college diamond season is over.

VISITOR. Gene (Skip) Rowland, the COP assistant coach, was a local visitor last week after scouting the Junior Rose Bowl game in search of outstanding junior college transfer talent.

He inferred that the Tigers were chiefly interested in Jim Waddell, Compton Tartar ace who was hurt early in the game. But then, he admitted, so were other scouts!

MAIL CALL. Last week This Corner nominated Leo Haggerty, St. Anthony's; Gordon Dooley, Poly, and Mike DeLotto, Long Beach State College, as our town's "co-coaches of the year", purely a personal choice. Comes now a dissenting voice, as follows:

"This is to correct your printed selection of Long Beach's coach of the year. I think the selection could well be cut down to two coaches—Mike DeLotto and Leo Haggerty. With all respect to a fine coach and gentleman, Gordon Dooley has to be dropped. Why? Because he had to win with the material at hand.

"Poly High School, as you all know, has for many years devoted itself to the "B" football team, which itself is wonderful, but someone has to suffer—the varsity.

"May I put a plug in for the third coach, if you have only a three-way pie—Vaughn Gordon of Jordan High—at least for honorable mention. That's all for this trip. Signed Martin Wierman, Huntington Beach Calif."

Balding, Oliver in Tee Lead

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver, the Lemont, Ill., veteran, and Al Balding, young Canadian PGA champion, shattered par Saturday and grabbed the lead after three rounds in the $15,000 Sanford Open Golf tournament with nine-under-par 201s.

But Don Fairfield, a little known pro from Casey, Ill., shot the day's best golf, a brilliant seven-under-par 31-32—63. He set a new course record and climbed one stroke behind the leaders.

Sam Snead, who led the first two rounds, shot a one-under-par 69 but slipped to a three-way tie for fourth. He was deadlocked at 203 with Leo Biagetti and Dow Finsterwald.

Long putts accounted for most of Porky's birdies as he shot a 64. After two-putting the par 5 second for his first bird, Oliver sank putts of 40, 10, 15, 12 and 15 feet for his others.

Balding, who had nines of 35 and 31, also had his blade zeroed in, stroking home birdie putts of 20, 15, 4 and 20 feet.

A double bogey—a rare thing for Snead—cost the slammer a tie for the lead. He pushed his drive under some trees at No. 4 and made a poor out. After clipping to the green he three-putted from eight feet. Leaders:

Trabert Tops '55 Amateur Net Rankings

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, who turned professional after sweeping the Wimbledon and U.S. tennis crowns without losing a set this year, was nominated by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association Saturday at the top of the national amateur rankings for 1955.

Trabert and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, America's veteran Davis Cup team, also were ranked No. 1 in doubles.

The rankings are tentative and must be approved at the annual USLTA meeting at San Francisco Jan. 21, but that usually is a mere formality.

It was the second time at No. 1 for Trabert and the fourth time in his career the stock 25-year-old Cincinnati star had been rated in the first 10. As U.S. champion in 1953 and 1955, he virtually was an automatic choice to lead the rankings. He was listed third in 1951 and second to Seixas last year.

Seixas was included in the first 10 for the seventh time in eight years.

Littler Drops 3 Off Pace

In a surprising turn of events which saw Gene Littler—the defending champion and almost unanimous favorite—drop three strokes off the pace, Jerry Barber and Al Feldman Saturday shared first place after the second round of the $5,000 Montebello Open.

Barber, the little Los Angeles veteran, carded a three-under par 68 while Feldman, an unheralded Tacoma, Wash., pro, had a 70 to meet at the 138 mark for 36 holes.

Littler shot a 73 Saturday for 141. "My putting and chipping were miserable," said the young San Diegan. "It wasn't my day."

The 68 by Barber and Jim Ferrier was the low score of the day. "Comeback" Lloyd Mangrum had a 70 for 142. Long Beach area leader was Johnny Anselmo of the Circle Fairways, also at 142. Lee Eaton aced the 165-yard hole with a 6-iron.

The tournament concludes today. Thirty-six hole leaders:

138—Jerry Barber, 70-68; Al Feldman, 68-70.
140—Dick Campbell, 68-72.
141—Harold Rustand, 71-70; Dave Stanley, 71-70; Charles Sifford, 69-72; Bob Deden, 68-73; Gene Littler, 68-73.

Kaline Youngest Bat King in History With .340 Mark

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Al Kaline, the Detroit Tigers' $35,000 bonus beauty, became the youngest batting champion in major league history this year when he led the American League with a .340 average.

Kaline, born on Dec. 19, 1934, is one day younger than was Ty Cobb when that greatest of all Detroit heroes won his first American League championship. Pete Reiser of Brooklyn won the National League title in 1941 at the age of 22.

Official figures compiled by the Howe News Bureau revealed that Kaline also led the circuit with 200 hits and 321 total bases.

Vic Power, Kansas City's sturdy first baseman, finished second to Kaline with a .319 average, followed by the Chicago White Sox' George Kell with .312 and Nelson Fox with .311. Harvey Kuenn, Al Smith, Mickey Mantle and Mickey Vernon were the only other players to reach .300.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox hit .356, but the slugging outfielder had only 320 official trips.

Mantle topped the league in homers with 37 while Ray Boone of Detroit and Jackie Jensen of Boston shared runs batted in honors with 116.

Pastrano in No Hurry, Will Wait 2 Years to Meet Rock

NEW ORLEANS (U.P.) — Youthful Willie Pastrano, who recently turned heavyweight and is boomed as the ring's fastest and most skillful boxer above 175 pounds, said Saturday he wanted everyone to know, that he's not after heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano right now.

The 20-year-old Pastrano, who was the No. 2 ranking light-heavyweight before making the switch a few months ago, also wanted it known he wasn't scared of Marciano, although he has a lot of respect for "The Rock."

"I just think it's good sense not to fight him right now," said Pastrano, who meets Rex Layne in a 10-round bout here Monday night in his second heavyweight fight.

"I just want to contradict the impression that I'm after Marciano now," he said. "I have no idea of challenging The Rock in the near future."

"When the time comes that I'm on Rocky's trail for a scrap, I want it to be so he's dodging me," Pastrano said. "Right now Rocky ain't dodging anybody.

"Maybe in two years or so he'll soften up and I'll get better. I don't think there's any doubt about either condition because I know he won't improve with age and I know I can't help but improve."

Pastrano is a product of the French market area of New Orleans and a stablemate of Ralph Dupas, the third-ranking lightweight. They have similar styles. Pastrano moves with the grace and speed of a panther, but is more of a puncher than Dupas.

Pastrano is expected to weigh in at 181 pounds for his important battle with Layne, a scrappy Irishman who has fought Marciano, Roland LaStarza and Ezzard Charles, among others. He will give the Utah fighter a 25-pound weight advantage.

Pastrano said he has felt much better since turning heavyweight.

"I've been a lot stronger since I've begun moving with the big fellows. Maybe this poundage is what I've needed to get more power behind my punches."

Pastrano expects an impressive win over the rugged Layne will push him up the heavyweight ladder. He also expects a number of top fights upcoming or planned will bring a lot of chatter for him to meet Marciano, particularly if he puts together a good string of victories.

"But I'm not going to let that happen if I do," he said. "I'm not ging to rush into a scrap with a man like Marciano now. Bring up the subject a couple of years from now and I'll tell you how I feel about it."

Name 18 for 'Anita Opener

The Palos Verdes Handicap, $20,000 opening day stakes at Santa Anita, has drawn the nominations of 18 outstanding sprinters for the six-furlong feature on Dec. 26, Racing Secretary Frank E. (Jimmy) Kilroe announced Saturday.

Topping the nominations were Porterhouse, co-holder of the track's six-furlong mark of 1:09, and El Drag, holder of the world's record of 1:20 for seven furlongs.

Weights for the Palos Verdes are to be announced by Kilroe Wednesday.

* * * *

TRAINER CHARLES Whittingham of Llangollen Farm also nominated Mister Gus and Ordained as a team with Porterhouse, with the likelihood that Mister Gus will be held out for some other stakes engagement at a longer route later on, however.

Porterhouse may hook up with Rex C. Ellsworth's El Drag, which annexed the Hollywood Premiere Handicap last spring. Porterhouse's 1955 stakes victories were in the San Carlos Handicap and the Lakes and Flowers Handicap.

Other stakes winners nominated for the Palos Verdes include L. B. Mayer's Alidon (winner of five stakes in 1955), History Book (El Potrero Handicap), Karim, (four stakes in 1955), One Ton Tony (Bing Crosby Handicap) and Travertine (Peninsula Handicap).

* * * *

NAGPUNI, BRED in Australia and owned by G. M. Bucknam, provides an international touch to the nominations. An Eastern invader listed for the Palos Verdes is W. M. Peavey's Spartan Jett, while also in the field is The Character, Mr. and Mrs. A. Icardo's gelding that was clocked in 1:08 4/5 at Hollywood last summer.

Robert S. Lytle's Correlation, winner of two $100,000 stakes in 1954 and recent victor in sprint events at Tanforan, was also nominated.

Santa Anita's 55-day schedule will feature 32 stakes for a record total of $1,055,000 in added money. The gates will open at 11 a.m. with first post at 1 p.m.

CORRELATION THIRD

Tanforan Feature to Bobby Brocato

SAN BRUNO (U.P.) — Bobby Brocato, a hard luck horse in previous outings here, spoiled Correlation's comeback bid Saturday by romping to a wire-to-wire victory in the mud in the $35,000 Tanforan Handicap.

Taken to the front right at the start by Jockey George Taniguchi, Bobby Brocato was a length in front when the field of six horses passed the grandstand the first time in the mile and an eighth event.

He continued to increase that gap all the way around and finished four and one-half lengths in front of longshot Mintaka, with Correlation another half length behind.

* * * *

THE CROWD OF 14,862 fans had bet the entry of Bobby Brocato and Bassanio down to a 4-5 favorite. Correlation, who had won two sprint preps in the mud here, was 6-5.

Bassanio finished fourth, Grey Tower fifth and Author sixth.

There was an oddity in the betting in the show pool that resulted in a minus-pool of $7,377.57.

The bettors put a total of $57,745 through the mutuels on the show pool and of this amount $50,698 was bet on the winning entry.

There was so little betting on Correlation to show that if the entries had run out, Correlation would have paid about $5 to win and approximately $50 to show.

Future Book Offers 10% Refund Bets

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (U.P.) —Something never before attempted in the operation of a future book on a stakes race will be tried out by the Caliente Future Book on the Santa Anita Handicap, John S. Alessio, executive director of the border track announced Saturday.

Players will recive a 10 per cent refund if a horse bet upon is a starter but loses. And if any portion of a bet loses on a starter, the same refund would apply, Alessio said.

The track executive said that if a player wagered on a horse to win, place, show or run fourth and the horse finished third he would collect his show bet and 10 per cent of the amount bet on win, place and fourth.

The future book is a licensed, legal enterprise at this Mexican border track.

With 91 nominations for the $100,00 race next Feb. 25, a staff of six handicappers has been preparing a tentative opening line which will be posted Wednesday after the weights are announced for the Santa Anita Handicap.

Favor Browns by 3 in Title Tussle

Coach Sid Gillman eased up on the Los Angeles Rams Saturday but the training tempo will step up Monday for the National Football League championship game with the Cleveland Browns Dec. 26 in the Coliseum.

Gillman had the squad out for just a brief drill and today will be a holiday. Then hard work sets in.

The comparative lull between the end of the regular season last Sunday and the title game actually has been advantageous to the Rams.

It particularly will benefit two of the Rams' fine offensive ends, Bob Boyd and Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, both of whom have been sidelined with leg injuries.

* * * *

HIRSCH MISSED the last three games. Boyd got in as a decoy on one play in the Baltimore game two weeks ago, and for one pass reception last Sunday against Green Bay.

Hirsch said Saturday his injured leg is completely mended and he should be ready for starting duty against the defending champion Browns.

Woodley Lewis filled in admirably as a pass catcher, but the veteran is needed more in the position of safety man, Gillman says.

Over all, the club should be in the best physical shape of the entire season.

* * * *

LOCAL ODDS Saturday favored the Browns by three points, but most football men consider the game even.

At Cleveland Saturday, slush, cold and chill winds put the whammy on the Browns practice. If the foul weather continues, Coach Paul Brown may move his charges indoors.

With the mercury hovering around 30 degrees, the Cleveland training field figures to stay frozen and slippery. If it gets warmer, the oozing mud will make drills even less pleasant. Brown hinted that he might move his boys inside where he can better present his pet blackboard theories.

Despite the hardships, Brown will keep the team in Cleveland until Friday. "We can't chance our boys being worn out in the California heat," he said.

* * * *

THE LAYOFF after the close of the regular season has cleared the Cleveland roster of injuries. Middle guard Bob Gain went lame in the regular season finale, but the team medico said his ankle will be in good shape for the title tussle.

Brown credits his defensive team for 10 successive division titles. He never slights his point-making players, but for him a game is just about won when the other team's offense is stifled. "Almost any team in the league is capable of exploding in any game," he said, "and the team with the defense that can consistently stop the opponent's scoring ends on top."

L.A. CITY CHAMP

7-0 Win for South Gate

South Gate High, riding on the sparkling play of quarterback Bob Hivner, edged North Hollywood High, 7-0, before 8,000 fans at the Coliseum Saturday to win the Los Angeles City high school football championship. It was the first grid title in history for the Rams.

Only touchdown of the game came on the first play of the fourth quarter. Hivner tossed a six-yard pass to end Doug Pearson. Sam Boatright converted.

North Hollywood dominated the statistics, but five Husky passes were intercepted.

Larry Griggs, Jane Lange and Pinky Stevenson of Recreation Park; Craig Olson of Lakewood and Meadowlark and Neil White of Virginia and Meadowlark were named Saturday as finalists in the second annual Independent, Press-Telegram Long Beach "golfer of the year" contest.

Miss Lange won the honor and corresponding trophy last year in competition with Andy Holmes of Lakewood, Johnny Lucas of Recreation Park, Frank Morey Jr. of Meadowlark and Del Walker of Virginia CC. She is the only returnee.

Grudge Race Highlights Drag Action

Feature event of today's drag races will match the Rakers Car Club of Long Beach and the Pacific Body Shop of San Pedro in the first "grudge" race to be held at the Lions' Associated Drag Strip, located between Santa Fe Ave. and Alameda St. on 223rd St.

The Rakers' BMC-powered '34 Ford coupe raced for the first time last Sunday, losing by three lengths after a poor start, in a trophy race with the Pacific Body Shop car. Confident that a better start would provide them with a win, they immediately challenged another race. The San Pedro car again proved faster, winning by 1½ lengths, while clocking a top speed in excess of 120 mph.

* * * *

PACIFIC BODY SHOP, racing a '34 Ford coupe equipped with a flat head Merc engine, is full of assurance that it will again trim the Rakers. A $25 U. S. Savings Bond will be awarded the winner of this race by the Lions' Associated Drag Strip.

Racing begins at 9 a. m. each Sunday and continues until 4:30. Any would-be contestant whose car can pass the safety requirements of the Drag Strip is eligible to enter events in which his car is classified.

TUNING UP FOR 'GRUDGE' RACE

Fran Goodyear tunes up Pacific Body Shop's flat-head Merc in '34 Ford coupe body in preparation for today's "grudge" race against Joe Robinson's '34 Ford coupe, powered by GMC truck motor.

PCC Regatta Ends at Newport Bay

By BOB RUSKAUFF

Regardless of who wins out, special attention will be levied on skippers Lewis Bedford and Jack Taylor of UCLA and their henchmen in the 11th Pacific Coast Intercollegiate regatta.

The two-day classic ends this afternoon on Newport Bay, but on Jan. 31 the salts from Westwood campus will be at it again in the 7th edition of the Rose Regatta on the same course.

If their rivals are as tough as the lads their gridiron team meets in the Rose Bowl, going won't be easy. However, two years ago UCLA defeated Michigan State in the series, which proved nothing at Pasadena.

Next up and a big thing is Sunday's Christmas Regatta, which has been a great fixture conducted by the Newport Harbor YC each year since the mid-30s. Over 125 boats in some 15 classes will race on both bay and ocean courses, according to Comdr. Harold Pearcy of NHYC.

* * * *

FOR THE 7TH time stock outboards will battle in another of their televised Sunday Speedboat Rodeos on Lake Los Angeles, Venice, starting at noon. Class B runabouts and A hydroplanes will feature the afternoon racing and stunt feature card.

Upward of 20 yachts are expected in the Jan. 15 start of the 1,450-mile San Diego-Acapulco race. This, the third edition of the ocean classic, will be accompanied by a chartered plane to speak with contenders during the whole trip.

* * * *

APPROXIMATELY a score of sleek yachts were set to leave at noon today in the first annual Portuguese Bend Yacht Club race to Catalina and back.

Five of the entries participated in last summer's Transpacific race to Honolulu. They are the Nam Sang, Diamond Head, Jada, Legend and Altamar.

The contest, which apparently faced inclement weather, is considered a "shakedown" cruise for vessels which will enter the Acapulco race in January.

Aitken, Sherwood, Goodson Lawn Victors

The team of Robert Aitken, R. Sherwood, and William Goodson captured first place in the Long Beach Lawn Bowling Club's annual Christmas Candy Tournament Saturday at Recreation Park. A total of 46 bowlers participated. Results:

1st Place—Robert Aitken, R. Sherwood, and William Goodson.
2nd Place — Paul McCreary, C. McClain, H. J. Goodman.
3rd Place—S. Mix, P. Featherson, Robert Sterret.

Jockey Returns

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — Jimmy Stout, who rode his first winner at Hialeah Park in 1931 and retired from the saddle last year with 2,057 winners, Saturday was appointed as a patrol judge at the track.

Bradley Rolls Over Explorers, 93-78

PEORIA, Ill. (UP) — Bradley rolled to its fifth straight basketball victory Saturday night, defeating La Salle, 93-78.

The big cog in the Bradley offense was sophomore Shellie McMillon who netted 28 points, bagging 13 out of 18 field goal attempts. La Salle's leading scorer was Frank Blatcher with 20 points.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

It has been said that no one can equal an unlucky fisherman's alibis, but close observation of the hunting fraternity has forced me to place the angler in second place to the nimrod, provided such a test were possible.

I have never made any claims about being a sharpshooter because I am not. I have done very little hunting. I am not prudish about hunting. I'd just rather fish. There are hundreds of men in Long Beach who hunt and who are tops in my book for conservation, good sportsmanship and for clean character. And I love 'em for their good conduct.

But there are—in hunting and fishing — men not of excellent character, but instead, CHAR-ACTORS! They start oiling their guns and getting ready for the big BOOM-BOOM before the trees leaf out in the spring. Sometimes they call, asking: "When's duck season this year?" When I tell them that the Fish and Wildlife Service won't designat general dates until late in August, they go into a rampage, shouting:

"Whatsamatter with our lousy government anyway? I want to set my vacation. I'll betcha them dopes in Washington use last year's dates—and was that ever lousy!"

They shout "lousy" so many times that the listener begins to scratch himself.

Then through the summer months they ask such questions as:

"Where's the best place for ducks this year?" . . . "How about Mexico?" . . . "Someone told me you can't use rifles, is that true?" . . . that true?" . . . etc. . . . etc.

* * * *

SO DUCK SEASON finally arrives and what do the CHAR-ACTORS do? They go rushing off into the smog, hell-bent for some pond they saw last March when water was plentiful. Now it's about the size of a pancake and two or three mudhens are trying to eke out a pitiful existence. After knocking down a barbed-wire fence on private property and firing wild shots at anything in sight, they are told by a farmer to get off his property. The farmer's lucky if they don't take a shot at him. At the best, he also hears "you lousy so-and-so" three or four times as they leave.

From there they may drive to the Salton Sea in a bright-color order 300-hp auto that will — AND DOES—90 miles per hour. On the way they fire at highway markers just for practice. Once there, the CHAR-ACTORS, clad in sports wear as bright as Christmas packages, stalk up and down the shore shouting: "Where are those lousy birds?"

You can't blame the ducks. Just one look at those clothes and off the birds go to South America.

..The CHAR-ACTORS finally return home, sampling various sundry offerings of various and sundry distillers here and there. And then they tell you:

No birds!

Screwy guys scared the few birds away by shooting too high.

The weather was too..... (Check one: warm, cold, bright, windy, calm, foggy, smoggy).

What they don't tell you, is that they never tried to build a blind and hide themselves; that they shot at anything in the air from 500 to 1,000 feet; that they had no decoys; that they had no dog; no boat; that they just sat and drank and played cards.

* * * *

WHAT I HAVE tried to say is this: Hunting is more than just taking a gun off the rack and heading for the nearest pond. There's more than just luck connected with hunting, just as there is in fishing.

You have to be smart in concealing yourself from the birds. You need a boat, decoys, a retriever, clothes that blend with your surroundings, no shiny objects flashing in the sunshine and dozens of other things. And you need patience. Read a good book on hunting and study the chapter on the type of hunting you wish to do.

Then if the birds are there, you'll have a better chance.

If you wish to be fancy about your hunting trip, there are other things you can get, says an article in the January issue of Esquire. Such as: decoys that swim, flap their wings and quack, artificial corn to fool the poor ducks; 30 kinds of duck calls; waterproof, electrically warmed suits for cold days; prefabricated blinds, belts to warm the kidneys (with or without pockets for flasks) and guns with every sort of loading and sighting device short of radar.

* * * *

HUNTING GADGETS have been selling like wildfire this season. Many of those will be under the Christmas trees and the hunters will have to wait for another season before using them.

Bob Greenwald, writing from New York, says that if a duck hunter wants to go de luxe all the way, there's a portable stove called the Skotch Grill, loaded with charcoal. Just take along steaks or hamburgers and, if the shooting's dull and you are hungry, fire it up and broil whatever you wish. There's also a flask — for milk, Bob says — that goes along with the grill.

* * * *

FISHING NEWS is at the lowest ebb of the year this week and few except the hardiest even give any kind of fishing a thought from now until after the first of the year.

However, a few boats are still running and it is possible to get a big catch of rockfish (you can almost pick your variety) any day of the winter season. We'll have an early roundup of local ocean fishing activity after the holidays.

Latest word from San Diego is that the yellowtail fishermen refuse to give up and they are being rewarded by occasional catches, even thought they are having to fish deep.

Troy Cagers Busiest With Three Games

SC's Trojans will be the busiest of the Southland's college quintets this week, playing three games.

Monday night Troy entertains Dartmouth's Ivy League travelers at Loyola. Wednesday night SC invades San Francisco's Cow Palace to oppose the Santa Clara Broncos, then plays a return game in the bay city Thursday night against Dartmouth.

Loyola winds up an eastern road trip Monday night at Duquesne, while Tuesday night Los Angeles State College entertains Redlands in the Diablo gym.

Pepperdine and UCLA will confine their efforts to squad practices this week. The Bruins, home from a short trip to Nebraska and Kansas, will sharpen up for their invasion of New York's Madison Square Garden, where on Dec. 26 they meet St. John's in the Holiday event.

RICHARDS IN K OF C MEET

BOSTON (UP) — Rev. Bob Richards, the pole-vaulting parson, will defend his title at the 30th annual Knights of Columbus track meet here Jan. 14, a spokesman said Saturday.

Richards, a minister from Long Beach, Calif., set a mark of 15 feet, 3¾ inches in last year's meet. Don Laz, who defeated Richards two years ago, already has agreed to participate in this year's meet.

The K-of-C Games will be the first major indoor meet of the 1956 season.

Skill, Ex-Poly Flash, to Coach Viking Gymnasts

Wayne Skill, former Poly High and UCLA gymnast, will coach the first gymnastics team in Long Beach City College history next spring, it was announced Saturday, following approval of his appointment by the Board of Education.

Skill, physical education instructor at Marshall Junior High School, will begin organizing the new team after the holidays, starting with members of the City College advanced gymnastics class.

The newest Viking coach won three gymnastics letters at Poly before graduating in 1943. Following a four-year tour of duty in the Navy, he attended Oregon State College and then UCLA, where he lettered on the Bruin gymnastics squad for two years. This is his first year of teaching in the Long Beach school district.

Since both LBCC and El Camino will enter gymnastics competition next spring, the Metropolitan Conference will now include six teams in the sport. Others are East Los Angeles, Harbor, Valley and Santa Monica.

Oil Derrick Becomes Big Yule 'Tree'

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Out in West Texas where the land is flatter than a bride's first cake, people judge the size of anything by how far it can be seen.

Poking 150 feet up above the western outskirts of this oil town and sporting 175 100-watt yellow, red and blue bulbs on 2,500 feet of electric wire, is a Christmas tree that is "about the top of the world for Christmas trees."

In old field terminology, a Christmas tree is an arrangement of valves to keep the lid on pressure from the bowels of the earth.

• • • •

BUT THIS SEASON, the oil workers decided to let the world enjoy one of the unexpected uses of an oil derrick.

The decoration job was done by the Parker Drilling Co. crew at Husky Oil Co.'s No. 1 Fasken wildcat. Bob Parker, president of the Parker Drilling Co., told his crew chief to "fix her up so she'll shine for everybody."

Hubert Whitfield, toolpusher and crew chief of the West Texas Santa Claus Helpers, said, "I've been on oil rigs 20 years and this is the first time I ever saw a derrick really light up like a Christmas tree."

• • • •

FOUR STRANDS of lights outline the four corners of the rig and five strands are wrapped around the derrick every 30 feet.

To top off the "Midas tree," an eight-foot star with 30 lights was placed on top of the derrick.

At the bottom of the giant-size decoration, a concrete walk circles the derrick enabling visitors to get a full view of the structure.

Rivaling tall buildings in downtown Midland, the Texas-size tree can be seen for miles and miles.

THEY'LL SLEIGH IN LAKEWOOD

Carolers from the Lakewood Evangelical Lutheran Church will sing Christmas hymns Wednesday evening from this sleigh mounted on a Park District truck. Other church and club groups will carol from the sleigh on Lakewood streets Monday through Friday evenings.—(Staff Photo)

500 to Ride 'Sleigh,' Carol Through Lakewood Streets

More than 500 youngsters and grownups will ride a Southern California-style sleigh through Lakewood residential streets stinging Christmas carols this week.

The sleigh really is a two-ton truck converted by the Lakewood Park, Recreation and Parkway District for the holiday season.

A Park District crew headed by Maintenance Foreman Adam W. Sofalko converted the truck by welding four park benches to the truck bed and adding a sleigh body made of plyboard.

Monday through Friday the sleigh will make three or four trips nightly loaded with carolers from 14 Lakewood churches, women's clubs, Brownie and Girl Scout troops, and the Lakewood Philharmonic Association.

TOKYO (UP)—U. S. Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas arrived in Japan Saturday from Okinawa on a 10-day tour of the Far East.

Seeks Governorship

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Robert H. Mollohan (D-W.Va.) announced that he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the West Virginia primaries next year.

Mollohan, 46, is a member of the house armed services committee and chairman of a house government operations investigating subcommittee.

NAME HIM OSCAR

Don't Call Your Boy Francis, 'F.H.' Says

By F. H. BORDSEN
Associated Press Writer.

If you haven't decided on what name to bestow on your little boy, present or future, take a tip from a battle-scarred veteran:

"Don't saddle him with Francis, or Marion, or Gail, or Shirley—or any name which is more commonly applied to the female of the species.

Name him Oscar or Osiris, or Carlos. Just lay off the "Oh, that's a girl's name" type.

Otherwise you're storing up trouble for your little one. I've got the experience to prove it.

On my first day of school, bearing a bit of paper on which my mother had written my name, "Francis," I was the target of snickers and giggles when the teacher listed me among the little girls in the primer class. Of course there was the fight in the schoolyard, and I got a bloody nose.

• • • •

NEARLY EVERY YEAR it was the same—new teacher but old routine of being listed among the girls and having to explain that "Francis" and "Frances" were, well, quite a bit different.

Even at home it wasn't always easy. There was the time a relative we'd never seen sent us gifts from the West Coast. My brothers got cap pistols. I got a girl's hanky. Fortunately, I was able to trade this with my older sister for her share of the peanut brittle.

Before entering college, I refused someone's suggestion that I adopt the name "Frank." And I paid for that youthful error.

In my first week as a freshman, I got the works. There were invitations to sorority teas, I was urged to try out for the women's choir and even was assigned to the women's physical education class. During the war, while in correspondence with the Navy, I received glowing literature on the advantages of joining the Waves. Had to pass that one up, too.

• • • •

RIGHT THEN, I decided to use my initials. And I've stuck by it.

It works except when the government, or department stores, or utilities require the full name. Then it's the same old thing.

But once, waiting i na crowded room to take a driver's test, a stocky man looked at the paper in his hand and bawled out: "Francis—".

I broke in fast: "Here."

"Glad to know you," he said. "I've got the same name. So's my boy."

"And you call him that?" I asked.

"Naw. We call him Frank."

I named my son John. I know when I'm licked.

HERE'S GUIDE FOR SHOPPERS

This map, prepared by the Long Beach Retailers Associated with cooperation by city traffic officials, is published as an aid to shoppers coming to the downtown Long Beach area. It shows the varied one-way streets in the area as well as most of the parking lots available. Officials say the recent increase in parking lots downtown has eliminated congestion.

Predicts Big Real Estate Year Ahead

"Realtors are entering a golden era and every indication points to an active real estate market in the coming year" predicts John Cotton, San Diego, president for 1956 of the California Real Estate Association, who met with the Long Beach Real Estate Board last week.

Trends of population movement are continuing from the east to the west and from the north to the south, and this state, Cotton described, as the "end of the rainbow." He stated that people make markets and in the coming year "we will have more people than anything."

The Association president further stated that the combination of a presidential election year and our national and international policy indicate a continued high level of activity.

He advised realtors to continue their education on specialized subjects and techniques if they want to meet the challenge of competition. The last eight years has seen 43,000 enrollments in trade courses on real estate subjects and those not taking advantage of existing educational opportunities may find themselves left behind.

Ad Club to Aid Salvation Army

The Long Beach Advertising Club will hold its annual Christmas party to raise money for the Salvation Army at noon Dec. 22 in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Hazel O'Farrell, entertainment chairman, said the Bel Airs singing group will perform. Club members will donate each time they request musical selections.

Local Salvation Army officials have been invited.

McDermott to Speak Before N. L. B. Club

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club will meet at Mayo's Cafe, 5925 Cherry Ave. Thursday at 8 a.m.

Mrs. Vetra Redford, program chairman for the day, will introduce the speaker, B. McDermott, head of the claims department of the title insurance.

Would Quit Run

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Santa Fe Railroad has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon 4 miles of track in San Bernardino County, from Highland Junction to Del Rosa station.

COMPLETE SPORTING GOODS STORE

Lonnie's Sporting Goods Store, shown here, will open Monday in Los Altos Shopping Center and will carry complete lines of equipment and clothing. The store will provide news on skiing and fishing conditions.

Los Altos Sporting Goods Store to Open

Scheduled for opening Monday in Los Altos Shopping Center is Lonnie's Sporting Goods store, termed by the owner as "the most complete sporting goods store in the Long Beach area."

It will be the second store owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Richmond and their sons, Bob and Kenny. They have been in the sporting goods business here 10 years and have been in a store at 4311 E. Carson St., the past 7 years.

Kenny Richmond will be manager of the new Los Altos store.

One of the features will be a big ski shop with expert professional advice on ski equipment and conditions provided. Complete snow reports will be available and rentals of ski equipment will be available. Famous international brands of equipment will be handled and Bob Richmond has helped in the designing of much of the equipment. The shop also will carry the foremost fashion in ski togs.

For the fisherman Dick Conde will be on hand to provide expert know-how on fishing tackle and equipment.

The store will have one of the city's most complete archery shops and a complete gun shop. There will be a large assortment of tennis rackets offered.

Skin diving equipment will be offered in another section.

"We will carry just about everything else in the sporting goods lines," said Kenny, "including equipment for basketball, bowling, football, baseball, track and field, and golf equipment. We also will have uniforms and apparel for all sports.

From the opening until Christmas the store will remain open each evening. Thereafter the hours will be 12:30 to 9:30 on Monday, Thursday and Friday and 10 to 6 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday.

The store is just north of Walker's on the east mall of the center.

Eastchester Park Terms Low to Vets

Eastchester Park has set new standards of home value, states Mel Mack, sales agent for the popular Fullerton development. Veterans may move into Eastchester Park for only $145, and if this is done before Christmas no payments need be made before February, Mack pointed out.

"The Eastchester Park homes offer the veteran the advantage of liberal terms and provide the kind of luxury features that all home buyers are seeking today," Mack said. "These 3 and 4-bedroom, 1-and-2-bath homes have monthly payments as low as $62.95, and non-veterans may purchase Eastchester Park homes for as little as $750 down."

Especially popular with the whole family are the spacious patios with built-in barbecues, available on most of the Eastchester models, Mack pointed out. The big living rooms have real fireplaces adjoining the barbecues, and the desirable tempo of relaxed indoor-outdoor living is captured by the "Ski-Vue" sliding glass walls in aluminum frames that overlook the patio and recreation areas.

Eastchester Park model homes are at Orangethorpe and Nicklett in friendly Fullerton. From Los Angeles take the Santa Ana Freeway and turn east on Orangethorpe to Nicklett. From Long Beach drive out Carson to Hwy. 39, turn north to Orangethorpe, then east to Eastchester Park.

Offers Home for Non-Vet on Low Down

Top features and quality construction and materials, plus reduced down payments to non-veterans are credited by Holden Mills, sales manager, for spurring sales of Artesia Homes, located at Elaine and 209th St. in Artesia.

The 3-bedroom or 2-bedroom and den plans are offered to non-veterans for $395 down, balance like rent. Persons buying now are assured they will be in their new homes by Christmas.

Features of the homes, which also include bath and one half, include hardwood floors, double garages, garbage disposals, natural finish kitchen cabinets, tile drainboards. Some models have sliding walls of glass and separate service porches.

Models are color coordinated, with choice of detached and attached garages. Curbs, sewers, streets are in, yards graded for lawns.

To reach the model homes, drive east to Pioneer boulevard, continue south on Pioneer to Centralia, turn left to the development.

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

Max Livoni Has Devoted 40 Years to Real Estate

A man with 40 years of successful real estate dealings, who also finds time for an active life in civic affairs, is the Realtor of the Week, honored by the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Mac Livoni, who always has advertised himself as "Your Realtor," and who long ago adopted a motto of "No Deal Too Small or Too Large" is the Realtor given this week's honors.

For many years Max operated his office at 2029 Atlantic Ave., and 13 years ago moved to his present office, 1101 Atlantic. He recently formed a partnership with L. E. Keller of 24 American Ave., and they are known now as Livoni-Keller Realtors. To his former slogan, Livoni has added one of Keller's, "Service In Action."

VIOLA COLLINS
Passed Exam in 1946

Livoni is past president of the Long Beach Board, an honorary life director of the California Real Estate Association, past vice president of the state group, past director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

In civic affairs he is director and vice president of the Long Beach Apartment House Association; member of the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Elks and Downtown Kiwanis Club. He is a former councilman and former civil service commissioner.

Max served as chairman of the War Bond Drive for the real estate division and was a member of the advisory board during the days of rent control.

Viola Collins, the Salesman of the Week, came with her family from Missouri to Long Beach in 1924. After finishing school and business college she worked as secretary for local doctors. In 1933 she was married to P. A. Phelps, affiliated with Richfield Oil Co., in the sales department. They had 3 children, a son and twin daughters.

In 1946 Mr. and Mrs. Phelps both passed their broker exams and planned to open an office. This plan never materialized due to the death of Mr. Phelps in 1947.

In 1950 she affiliated with Bess Colvert and A. A. King and in 1953 she was associated with C. Frank Kendall. Jo Broumley was in the latter office and the two discussed opening an office of their own. They now have this office at 2243 Pacific Ave.

List Reasons for Eating Eggs

KINGSTON, R. I. (UP)—What do you look for in an egg?

If you look for freshness and quality, you're in the majority—at least the majority of persons polled recently by W. H. Wallace and A. L. Owens of the State Agricultural Experiment Station.

They reported their findings in a station publication. About 40 per cent, they found, look for "convenience" and "satisfaction."

Only 21 per cent of the homemakers reported shopping around" or purchasing eggs from a special source to get what they believed was high quality.

The largest group of consumers, 38 per cent, bought eggs in two-dozen lots, while 34 per cent bought in one-dozen lots. The rest ranged from half-dozen to three dozen per-time purchasers.

School Provides Smoking Area

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—Officials of the new Veterans Memorial High School have taken official recognition that some high school students smoke.

They said that an area outside the school has been set aside for student smoking. They added however, that the school does not encourage smoking.

Sees Atom Power for All Ships

OKINAWA (AP)—Navy Secretary Charles Thomas predicts that naval surface ships will be atom powered within two years and atomic carriers will follow shortly after.

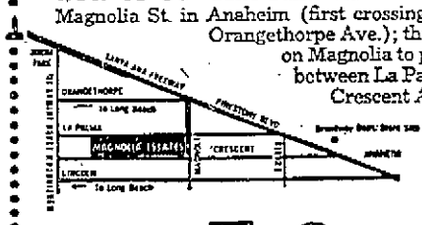

Thomas, on a tour of U. S. naval bases in the Far East, recently completed a one-week submerged cruise aboard the U.S.S. Nautilus when she passed her 25,000th mile without refueling her atomic reactor.

Highest Builder Honors Voted Lloyd S. Whaley, H. C. Roberts

LOS ANGELES—For the first time in its history, the Home Builders Institute has honored two of its members by electing them "lifetime members" of the HBI Board of Directors, it was announced yesterday by HBI President Walter W. Keusder.

Chosen were H. Cedric Roberts, native of Iowa who has been building homes in the Southland since 1923, and Lloyd S. Whaley, Long Beach, who came here from Nebraska and since 1937 has built homes or developed home sites for 11,000 Southland families.

In making his announcement of their election, Keusder said that the HBI Board of Directors had chosen Robert and Whaley to be the HBI's first "lifetime directors" for their service to the home building industry and to the Home Builders Institute.

* * * *

DESCRIBED AS two pioneer home builders who have made signal contributions to the development of San Fernando Valley, Long Beach and other Southland areas, both are charter members of the Home Builders Institute and both have served as elected members of the HBI's Board of Directors for more than 10 consecutive years.

As the HBI's first lifetime directors Whaley and Roberts will be honored by the full HBI membership at the annual meeting for installation of officers on Jan. 9 at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Keusder said.

Whaley arrived in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area in 1935 and two years later had decided to become a home builder, primarily in the Long Beach area. His total production was 10 homes in his first year.

* * * *

NOW JOINED by his sons, Rod Whaley and Lloyd Dale Whaley, the veteran builder built a total of 1500 homes in 1948. At the present time he is busily engaged in selling homes in the 23rd and 25th units of his Los Altos community home additions—an 8000-dwelling project.

The Whaleys also have 411 residences under construction in Nevada at Greater Las Vegas additions No. 1 and No. 2 and are busy on plans for another big community for 1956—the Las Verdes Heights addition to Las Vegas.

A graduate from Iowa State College, Roberts first came to Los Angeles in 1920.

In 1923, he built his first house as a speculation on 11th Ave. near 48th St.

Since that time, he has built steadily at the rate of from 100 to 200 homes per year, moving his operations to the Burbank area in 1937 "so as to have more room to grow and to be nearer to available land." In 1943 he reached a high point of new home production by building 500 homes.

Roberts, who now heads up the firm of H. Cedric Roberts & Sons, has now transferred the major part of his activities to the Garden Grove area at Katella Park, a 100-acre development which calls for a total of 325 homes. Active with him is his son, Jim. His other son, Warren, expects to rejoin the firm after his hitch in the Army.

IN BEVERLY GARDENS

Typical of the homes in the Gateway to Quality Home Show which is featuring its own Santa Claus Lane at Beverly Gardens in Garden Grove is the four-bedroom, two-bath home shown above. Santa Claus is visiting Beverly Gardens daily with gifts for the youngsters, it was announced.

Santa Claus Lane in Beverly Gardens

Activities take on a Christmas glow this weekend at Beverly Gardens in Garden Grove with the official opening of the community's own Santa Claus Lane and the arrival of Santa with a bagful of free gifts for all children visiting this development from now to Dec. 24, it was announced by George J. Heltzer, president of George J. Heltzer & Associates, builder-developers.

Themed the "Beverly Hills of Orange County," the project is expected to take on the atmosphere of a veritable fairyland of toys when the ornamental street lights are turned on, beautifying the entire community, and showing the street of model homes in their brightest holiday attire.

With all the luxury and quality prices remain low at Beverly Gardens, ranging from $14,000. Veterans still pay nothing down except closing costs and impounds, with monthly payments from $72.10, including principal and interest. Anyone may purchase one of these three or four-bedroom, two-bath homes for just 4½ per cent financing, FHA terms of small down payment and terms of $61.35 monthly, also including principal and interest.

From Long Beach Santa Claus Lane at Beverly Gardens may be visited via 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to West St. in Garden Grove, then turn left and drive to Chapman and the street of model homes and Santa Claus with his free gifts for all the youngsters.

Baxter Units Consolidate

J. H. Baxter & Co. has announced the merger of its associated companies and the election of new officers of the consolidated firm, one of the West's largest producers of pressure treated forest products.

Announcement of the merger and election was made by Gardner P. Pond, vice president and district manager of the Southern California office of J. H. Baxter & Co.

C. A. Chadbourne has been named president to succeed A. M. Baxter, son of the founder, J. H. Baxter. A. M. Baxter, is continuing on the Board of Directors as a vice president.

Taking over the post of executive vice president is Alfred X. Baxter R. B. Mossman is secretary-treasurer of the merged companies, and W. W. Jackson, sales manager.

Products of the merged companies will continue to carry the trade name "BAXCO."

The firm has a treating plant and wharfside yard at Long Beach, which also includes a new chlorination plant.

Heated Sidewalk

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (UP) — Employes at the New Britain Federal Savings and Loan Assn., are not worried about slippery sidewalks this year. The company installed a heating system below the surface of the sidewalk to melt snow and ice.

IN BROOKHURST PLAZA

Veterans may purchase homes such as this in Brookhurst Plaza with nothing down.

Brookhurst Plaza Holds Much Appeal to Buyers

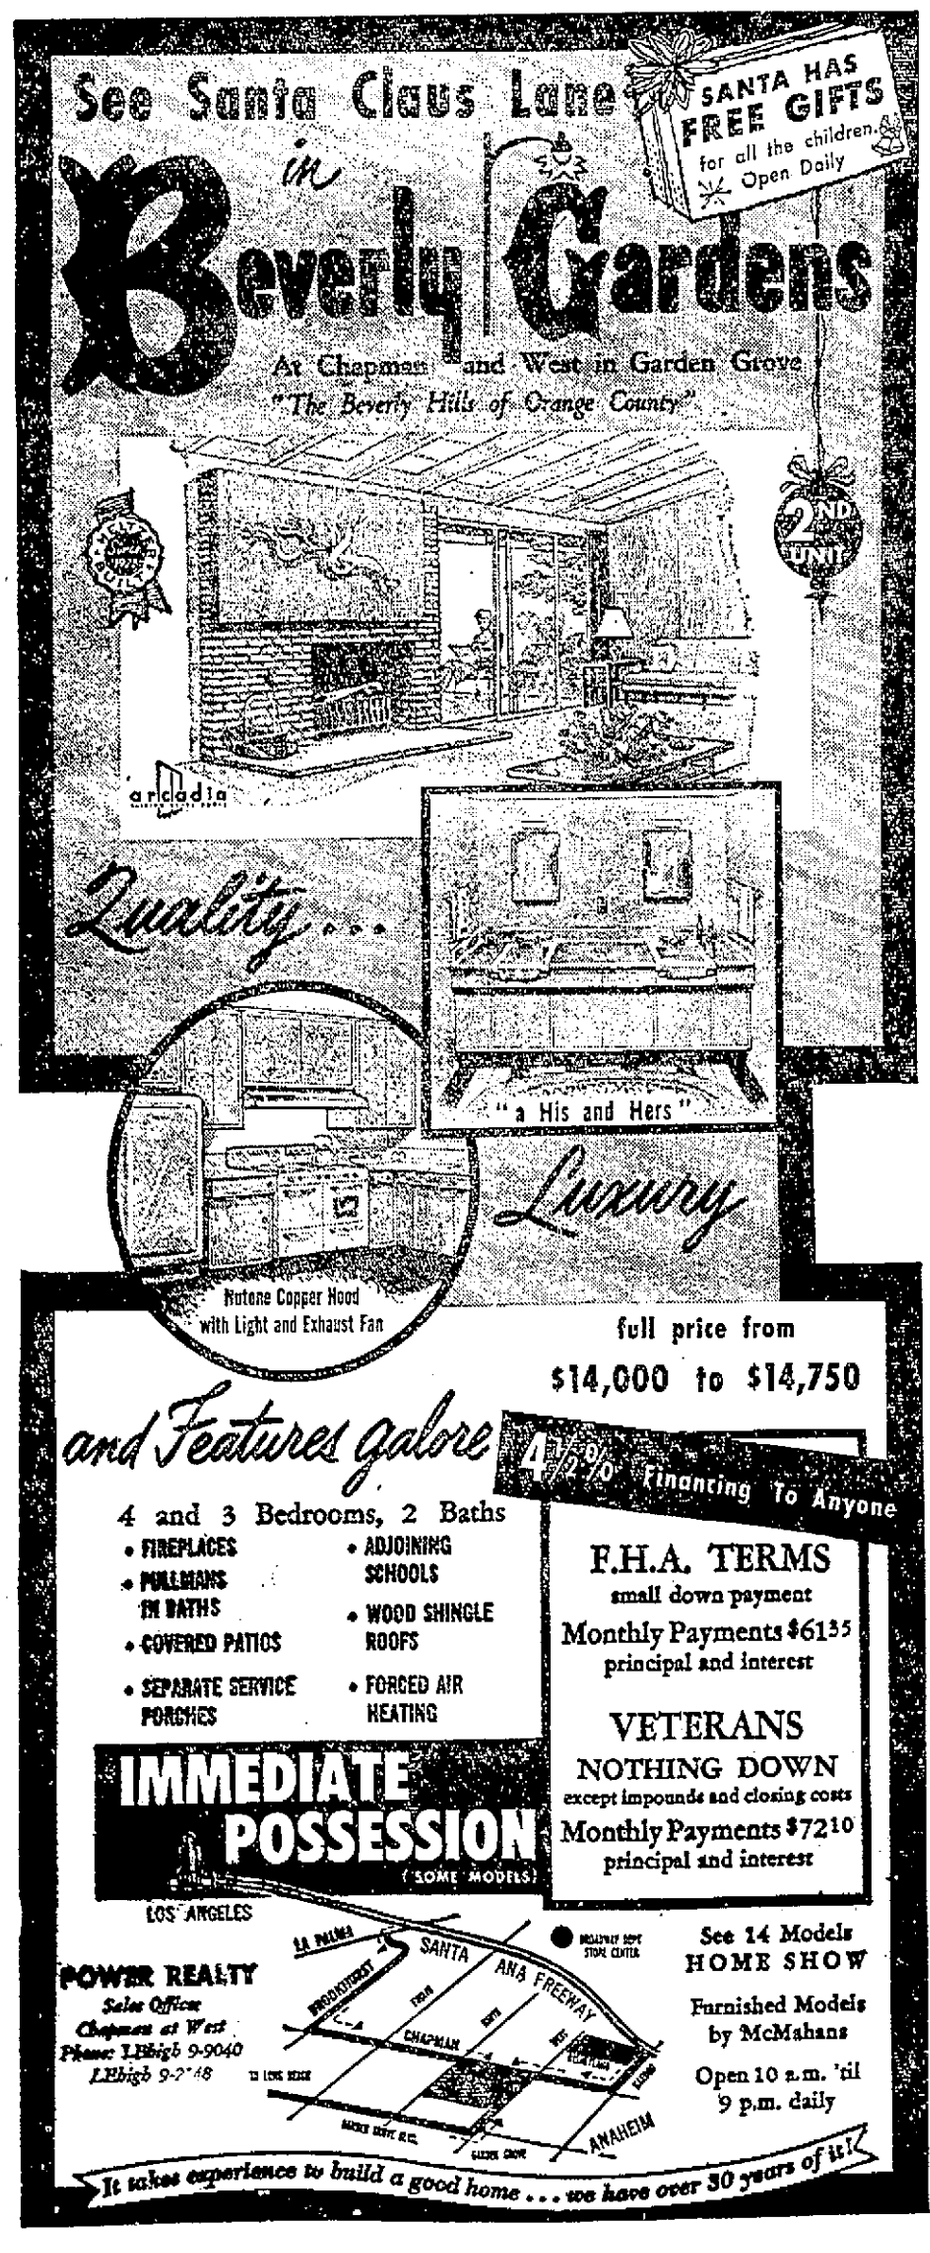

Homes in Brookhurst Plaza incorporate all the excellent features home buyers of today are seeking, according to Reno H. Sirrene, sales agent.

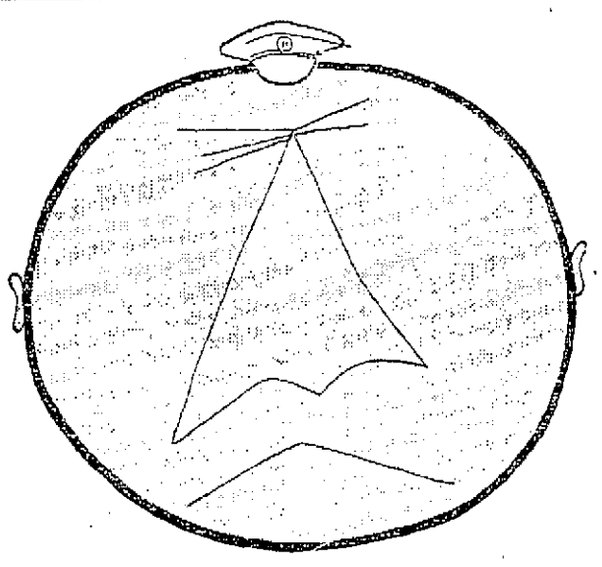

Located in Anaheim, Brookhurst Plaza homes have 3 and 4 bedrooms and 2 baths, and are priced as low as $12,900 with payments from $66.44, Sirrene said. Veterans may purchase these homes with nothing down, and non-vets may purchase for only $1400 down on FHA terms.

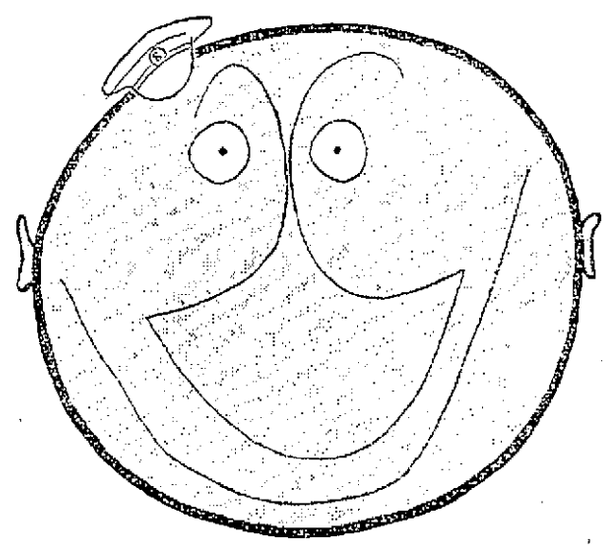

Brookhurst Plaza was built by R. & W. Construction Co., and outstanding features are the efficiently designed and handsomely appointed kitchens, which include built-in Western Holly ovens and ranges, easy to care for natural birch cabinets, electric exhaust fans, GE garbage disposals, convenient double compartments, sinks and breakfast areas.

In the 3-bedroom homes there are 75,000 BTU furnaces, with 100,000 BTU furnaces in the 4-bedroom homes. In the living rooms there are cozy wood-burning fireplaces and sliding windows with French doors that lead to the patio areas.

Brookhurst Plaza model homes are on Brookhurst Ave., just north of La Palma. From Los Angeles and northern areas, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to La Palma, then east to Brookhurst and north to the model homes. From Long Beach, drive out Carson (Lincoln Highway) to Euclid Ave., turn north, cross the Freeway to La Palma, west to Brookhurst and north to the model homes.

THIS VETERAN IS SORRY!

He qualified for a $14,025 house, so he bought it. Now he realizes an Award Home at $12,025 would have given him just as much. He had to move into his new home with his dingy old furniture. That $2,000 meant "No furniture!" His monthly payments are so high that his budget is straining at the seams. No fun for his family!

THIS VETERAN IS HAPPY!

Mechanic Shortage Plagues Auto Firms

DETROIT (U.P.) — The automobile industry has launched a new campaign to try to solve the growing shortage of mechanics which is plaguing automobile dealers and car owners.

With the number of automobiles on the nation's highways doubling in the past ten years and the number growing at a rapid rate, the nation just hasn't been able to turn out enough automobile mechanics to take care of all the cars.

Dealers have had trouble finding enough mechanics to take care of all the cars they've been selling. It has left many motorists with a headache also, as a result.

Merle St. Aubin, director of the service section of General Motors, estimates the nation needs to turn out 40,000 to 45,000 new mechanics each year to take care of automobiles. But instead it is turning out only 10,000.

• • • •

ONE PROBLEM has been the lack of enough automotive training schools to train that many. Another problem has been recruiting teenagers to pick the job as a vocation.

The automobile industry, which normally is one of the most intensive competitive fields around, has joined hands — through the Automobile Manufacturer's Association—to try to lick the problem.

In cooperation with the American Vocational Association, it has prepared a new manual dealing with all aspects of the problem of recruiting, and teaching new auto mechanics.

• • • •

ONE OF THE SECTIONS can be produced by automotive schools as a pep talk, designed to explain the advantages of being an auto mechanic to youths with mechanical leanings. It is designed to encourage students to become auto mechanics instead of heading into electronics or other related fields.

Other sections tell trade schools how to set up automotive shops, what to teach, and how to train students. One deals with setting up cooperative training programs, in which students will get actual in-the-garage training at various garages.

By pooling experience and knowledge with educators, the industry hopes it will be able to help recruit new mechanics, encourage the formation of new automotive trade schools, and make the schools better at the job of turning out mechanics capable of repairing the automobiles which are becoming more complex each year.

Cleaning Bill Is $19 Billion

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Americans spent 10 per cent more this year than last for cleaning up dirt and litter in their homes and places of business, the National Sanitary Supply Association said.

The association estimated Americans paid $19,000,000,000 for the work force to help keep us clean last year and $1,000,000,000 for materials.

As a country, we spend more money than any other people in the world for cleanliness, but it pays off, according to Leo J. Kelly, executive vice president of the association.

Kelly said that as a result of keeping clean, along with a better standard of living, widespread immunization, better medical care and the expansion of local health services, the death rate from all infectious diseases in America dropped from 676 per 100,000 persons to 79 in the past 50 years.

De-Capped

GOSHEN, Ind. (U.P.) — Oscar Holderman and two of his buddies are sound sleepers. They spent the night in Holderman's car near the business district, and when they woke up the next morning all four of the car's hub caps were missing.

Despite Fires State Has Huge Supply of Lumber

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Timberland and watershed blackened by fires in the last three months would equal a mile-wide strip reaching 400 miles from Los Angeles to Sacramento.

Of the 436 fires, man caused 377. It cost 3½ million dollars to put out the blazes.

But despite these ravages California has in its forests enough timber to build 35 million new homes—almost enough to rebuild every dwelling in the United States.

George S. James of the U. S. Forest Service, San Francisco, says the recent fire weather was the worst since 1924.

"The extreme temperatures, in combination with high winds and abnormally low humidities, created a reign of fire and holocaust between Aug. 27 and Sept. 13. Lightning and thoughtless action on the part of many people started 436 fires.

"NINE-TENTHS OF THE fires were controlled at less than 300 acres. Forty-one fires burned between 300 and 80,000 acres. More than 1¼ billion board feet of trees went up in flames—equivalent to one-fourth of California's annual lumber production. The functioning of watersheds has been seriously impaired. Homes, roads, orchards and other improvements lying in and below the burned areas will be subjected to damage from potential floods.

"Replanting with trees should be done before brush takes over the areas . . . The immediate job ahead is to salvage the killed timber in less than 2 years. The next most important job is to re-forest the logged and burned areas within 4 to 5 years."

JAMES SAID THE DEMAND for lumber will continue upward "if population forecasters are correct in stating there will be 21 million people by 1975. Californians are prodigious users of wood—some 500 board feet per capita each year, twice the national average."

The figures on California timber resources were given by President Charles T. Gray of the Stockton Box Co. He said it would take 12 million railroad boxcars to hold the state's sawtimber—trees 11 inches or over in diameter.

"A train of that many boxcars would reach around the earth at the equator four and one-half times," Gray said. He concluded, "Our forests can be our greatest resource to use and fully enjoy."

VETS' LAST CHANCE

This is the final day which veterans may buy an Orangewood Manor home such as this on no-cash-down.

Orangewood Manor's No Down Ends Today

Today is the last day in which veterans may purchase in Orangewood Manor on "no cash needed financing," stated a spokesman for the McCarthy Co., sales agents for the Garden Grove development.

"Orangewood Manor," the spokesman continued, "is unusual in that a veteran earning as little as $295 a month may qualify for a $12,750 home which features built-in range and oven, fireplaces inside and out. Orangewood Manor homes are 3 and 4 bedrooms and 2 baths and all are on estate sized lots designed to give plenty of "elbow room to the growing American family."

Other features are: baths with Zolatone walls and asphalt tile flooring, Thermador electric bath heaters, stall showers and Standard colored plumbing fixtures; forced air heating, Pioneer 50-gallon water heaters, resilient cork tile flooring, walls of genuine lath and plaster, rockwool insulation, weatherstripping on exterior doors, heavy rock roofs in five decorator colors, and exteriors of California redwood siding.

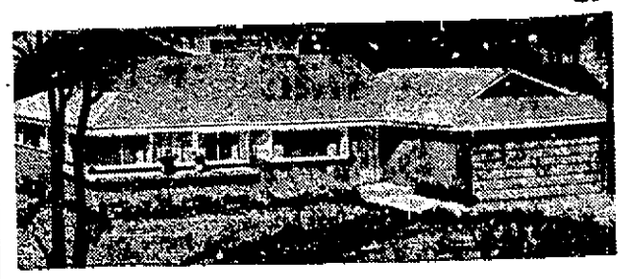

Orangewood Manor is at Magnolia and Orangewood in Garden Grove. Visitors from Los Angeles are directed to take the Santa Ana Freeway and turn south on Magnolia. From Long Beach drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn north on Magnolia. Furnished models are open daily until 9 p. m.

Huge Apple Pie Weighs 300 Pounds

BOSTON (U.P.) — The world's biggest apple pie was unveiled here.

The six New England governors sampled the prodigious pastry at the annual meeting of the New England Council.

Ten feet wide and weighing 300 pounds, the pie contained 265 pounds of New England apples.

IN BUENA PLAZA

Increased demand for luxury-built three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes is met by Aldon with "Triumph Series" typified above in new unit of Buena Plaza on La Palma Ave., east of Hiller St., in close-in Buena Park.

Aldon's Custom-Designed Homes Offer Low Terms

Home buyers are becoming much more proficient in color selection for both interiors and exteriors, displaying an improved appreciation of harmonies and tone matching, according to specialists of the Aldon Construction Co. at the new $50,000,000 planned residential community of Buena Plaza.

"Our color selection department," a spokesman said, "reports interest keen in choosing colors which bring added harmony and beauty to the design of the home.

"Preferred color for living rooms are currently grays and beiges; for bedrooms, light pinks and blues, and for kitchens, pinks and yellows, while the most popular exterior hues are yellows, greens and pinks, in that order."

Color-matching by buyers extends in the kitchen to the Western Holly gas range and oven with copperized hood, which is built into every Aldon home in the new "Triumph Series" of three and four-bedroom, two-bath dwellings rising on La Palma Ave., east of Miller St., just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

• • • •

"WE ARE STILL able to offer these custom-designed homes to veterans at terms of nothing down but costs and impounds, and from $86.67 a month for principal and interest. It is also possible for non-vets to buy in Buena Plaza for as low as $990 down, plus costs and impounds. in this $50,000,000 completed planned community."

Buena Plaza's "Greatest Home Show on Earth" has attracted thousands of visitors to the eight distinctively styled model homes, all furnished in varying motifs by Aaron Schultz of Long Beach and Anaheim, it was reported.

A second successful feature of the show is the impressive exhibit of luxury building materials, construction innovations and Aldon-pioneered techniques. Both the furnished home display and the building exhibit have played an important role in increased sales, according to E. "Billy" Hamburg, general sales agent.

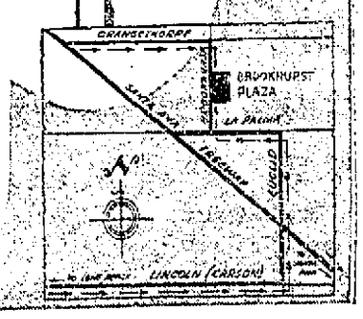

As developers of many planned communities and more than 25,000 custom-styled, moderately-priced homes in recent years, the Alden Construction Co. introduces still newer innovations in exterior treatments in the California ranch, modern, colonial, provincial and farmhouse stylings of the "Triumph Series."

In the 4-bedroom models there are 4 different treatments of floor-to-ceiling fireplaces.

Every "Triumph home has a built-in Western Holly gas range and oven, with copperized hood.

Pembrook Village Sales Are Soaring

The holiday season has quickened the sales tempo at Pembrook Village where buyers are planning to move in these distinctive Early American homes before Christmas, states Mel Mack, sales agent for this unusual Garden Grove development.

"Because of the sales record in Pembrook Village, we have accelerated construction schedules so that buyers may move in in some cases as quickly as three days after purchase," Mack continued.

Pembrook Village homes are available to veterans with no down payment except costs and impounds. Non-veterans may purchase for as little as $995.00 down.

One of the most attractive features of Pembrook Village is the secluded location which is away from traffic congestion yet close to all worthwhile conveniences, Mack pointed out.

The picturesque qualities associated with rustic Early American design have been translated to the California style of indoor-outdoor living, the spokesman said, by the use of shake roofs, distinctive diamond pane windows and interesting window trim.

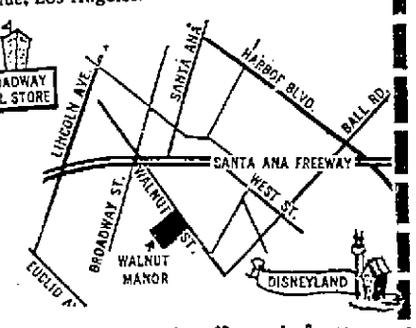

Pembrook Village homes have 3 and 4 bedrooms and feature living rooms with real brick fireplaces and walls of glass, efficiently designed circular hall floor plans, big kitchens and adjoining service porches.

To reach Pembrook Village from Los Angeles, take the Santa Ana Freeway and turn south on Harbor to Chapman; turn in at the Ojai gate. From Long Beach, take 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn north on Harbor.

Shamrock Park Reports Good Increase of Sales

"The increased sales tempo enjoyed by Shamrock Park indicates that many people are giving themselves a new home for Christmas," states Frank Hart, sales manager for Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents for the popular Garden Grove development. "Last week-end was one of the busiest yet at Shamrock Park," Hart continued. "Santa Claus made his appearance in person Sunday afternoon and lent his presence to the holiday spirit. He has promised to make a return appearance this week end."

Veterans may buy in Shamrock Park by paying only $145 down.

One of the things that has made Shamrock Park so attractive to veterans establishing their first home, is the fact that they may have their needed appliances, such as refrigerators, ranges, washers, etc., added to their loan, but requiring no additional outlay of cash.

Three and 4 bedrooms, 1 and 2 bath homes at Shamrock Park are priced at only $11,575, with veteran's monthly payments at $58.66 including principal and interest. Hart also pointed out that non-veterans can purchase at Shamrock Park for as little as $750 down.

To reach Shamrock Park model homes from Los Angeles, visitors are directed to take the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor and turn south. From Long Beach take 7th to Garden Grove Blvd., and turn south on Harbor. From Santa Ana go out Memory Lane and turn south on Harbor.

Tree Problem

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—City Forester Bert Roubos believes nearly one-third of Grand Rapids' 200,000 trees should come down. Roubos said many of the trees are too old, others are too big and break up sidewalks and damage utility wires and others are just "the wrong kind."

Wants Longer School Term

TOPEKA (AP) — Students in Kansas public schools may have a longer school term ahead of them next year if a proposal by the state superintendent of public instruction is endorsed.

Adel F. Throckmorton, writing in the department of education's publication, Kansas Schools, advocated a term of 9 full calendar months.

Throckmorton said under the present arrangement, with the customary vacations and teachers' professional meetings, there are not enough days between the first Tuesday in September and the third Friday in May to provide for 180 days of school.

Hot Branding Iron Source of Name

TULSA (AP)—It took a lot of convincing when a new recruit tried to get into the U. S. Army reserve unit here.

"My name's Poe "5" Lee II," he said.

After some fast explaining, Joe "5" was signed up.

He explained his father was Joe "5" the first and he got his name while a cattle rancher in northeastern Oklahoma. The senior Lee's brand number was "5" and one day he fell on a hot branding iron and emerged with a neat "5" on his stomach. Cowpokes immediately dubbed him Joe "5."

To make home-buying easier for those who can shop only at night, exteriors, patios and back yards of the model homes are floodlighted for after-dark viewing. Cadillac

Already Has His Mind Made Up!

This handsome young lad has just received his first Cadillac!

And as you watch him here, you can see that he is giving it the care and affection that only a boy can confer upon his most prized possession.

In fact, we'd be willing to wager that he has already made up his mind what car he'd like to own when he grows up!

And what a grand and glorious thrill that next Cadillac will be!

We know because we've seen it happen so many times . . . and we've never found a man in a happier frame of mind than when he comes in, for the first time, to take delivery of a new Cadillac.

There's no mistaking the pride in his face or the happiness in his heart as he takes the keys . . . and slides behind the wheel . . . and heads for that happiest of homecomings.

No question about it—that will be his "day of days"!

* * * *

And this, by the way, is an especially wonderful year to make your own boyhood dream of a Cadillac come true.

Never before has the car offered so much by way of beauty or luxury or performance as it does today.

And on the business side of the ledger, the facts are equally impressive. There is Cadillac's surprisingly low original cost . . . its remarkable operating economy . . . and its great resale value.

So this year, why not follow your heart . . . and stop in at our showroom?

We'll be waiting for you with a warm welcome and a wonderful car.

Live Pink Trees Produced for Christmas Market

CHICAGO (UP)—Pink elephants, pink champagne, pink mink—and now live pink Christmas trees.

The world's largest processed Christmas tree firm, Halvorson Trees of Duluth, Minn., this year is producing pink trees in a big way for the first time.

"We've processed pink trees before," said Roy Halvorson, president, "but this is the first year we're mass producing them. Which means pink trees at popular prices for the first time."

Halvorson started his business during the depression. He decided that the tops of the scraggly spruce trees north of Duluth would make fine small Christmas trees for dinner tables and small apartments.

For months, Halvorson cut trees on week ends and brought them home. He and his wife, Edo, tried out hundreds of ways to color and preserve them. At last they hit on a solution of water and plant foods which, when sealed in a metallic tree base, acts as an artificial sap and keeps the trees fresh for weeks, even in a warm room.

* * * *

THE TREE TOPS are cut and hauled to the Halvorson factory in trucks. Then they're treated, colored and "frosted" with a special colored powder in a wind tunnel. Some 20 carloads a day are shipped out on railroad tracks directly from the factory during the Christmas rush season.

Only the tops of the trees leave the forest. The rest of the tree is left to decay. Halvorson says that rather than being wasteful, the cutting actually is a conservation measure.

* * * *

THE MINIATURE TREES come in dark green, white, silver and the new pink. There's also a gift box including a tree and miniature ornaments and miniature electric light strings with bulbs about twice the size of kitchen match heads.

Mrs. Halvorson oversees the office work at the plant and "checks on every order."

Her favorite is the green tree which closely resembles the natural shade. And one of her favorite decorations is the old-fashioned Scandinavian "spritz" cookie which can be made into ornaments of "S" and "O" shapes. Here's her recipe for these decorations:

Cream ½ pound of butter and ⅔ cup of sugar, then mix in 3 egg yolks, 2½ cups of flour and ½ teaspoon of almond extract. Put in a spritz cookie maker (or a star-shaped cookie press with a small tip) and form into "S" or "O" shapes. Decorate with colored sugar or silver balls. Bake on a cookie sheet at 400 degrees for 8 minutes and remove from sheet while warm. When cool tie onto tree with thread.

Death of Mate of Queen's Aide Ruled Suicide

CASTLEBLANEY, Ireland (AP) — A coroner's jury decided Saturday that 35-year-old John Michael Blair, husband of a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, committed suicide.

Blair, second husband of Lady Nancy Blair, was found shot dead in bed Friday while a guest at Lough Bawn House. Mrs. Ruth Julia Margret Tennison, owner of the house and its 300-acre estate, told the coroner she believed Blair "had a lot of family worry."

Lady Nancy Blair, 37, is a daughter of Queen Mother Elizabeth's eldest brother, the Earl of Strathmore.

Coeds' Week at State -- Work, Play, Service

AFFAIRS AT STATE

On State's Executive Council as elsewhere, when the women speak, the men listen. Stateswomen Gayle Barr, Commissioner of Organizations; Maureen Hutchinson, Junior Class president; Connie Markel, Commissioner of Social Activities; Dorothy Hutchinson, Secretary of Associated Students, and Marilyn Crelly, Associated Women Students president, decide what the rest of the council will listen to at the next meeting on Long Beach State College campus.

Independent Press Telegram
Women
LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, DEC. 18, 1955 SECTION W

WELCOMING RITUAL

START OF A TRADITION

DIRECTS ACTIVITIES

Dr. Lois J. Swanson, associate dean of students at State College, heads the activities office on campus which includes more than 50 service, professional and special interest organizations and sororities.

—All photos by Staff Photographer H. S. Melvin.

REHEARSE FOR HOLIDAY PARTY

Singing, playing and acting come naturally to these members of Phi Beta, professional music and speech fraternity, pianist Sue Croxton and sorority sisters, Alice Felkner and Joan Lee (standing). They are rehearsing for the group's alumnae Christmas party. This is one of the many activities of some 50 organizations at Long Beach State College, making it a popular campus.

STATE'S SERVICE AND SUPPORT

It isn't all work and no play for coeds at State as evidenced by members of Califias, the honorary women's service organization on campus. Preparing a tasty casserole dish for a dinner at the Armed Forces YMCA are, from left, Ursula Delworth, president; Carol Diffley and Connie Markel, vice president. In spite of all their other activities and heavy schedules they still find time to be of service to others.

TIME FOR PLAY AT STATE

Would-be thespians find time to play at the Hi Jinks for all women students. One of the skits by Alpha Phi Sorority featured Sonya Swayer, left; Virginia Cook and Te Rudd, who played the villain, heroine and prop man, respectively. This was a portion of the Associated Women Students dinner this month on campus, one of many student activities at Long Beach State College, to brighten school life.

Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

It seems like just last night we reminded ourselves there were only six shopping days left until Christmas. Come to think of it, it was last night. At this point we offer a tired and harried "Merry Christmas" to you all. Next Sunday we'll be more in a mood to mean it. Good luck this week. Don't stampede. Six, five, four, three, two, one—Bombs away!

There are those who plan their days, managing time for gracious entertaining as well as shopping and home decorating. Such are Katie and Bob Bailey, who spread the welcome mat on their doorstep last Sunday with one of the holiday's most hospitable dinner parties. Katie and Bob bid 60 guests to their new home at 1042 Tehachapi Dr. and from near and far they came to admire Katie's scrumptious decor and taste of her always delectable food. Nancy and Kenny Walker assisted mein host and hostess greet the crowd of current friends as well as old college chums. Irregardless of the festive decorations and the dinner (Katie is the kind of hostess who smokes her own hams—and did for this affair) the thing that was most impressive about the dinner was the salad bowl.

This requires a paragraph of it's own. The Bailey salad bowl is a gunner's bubble retrieved from a fightin' plane, cut down some, of course, but still a gunner's bubble of clear and heavy plastic. It's the biggest and most terrific "gadget" of its kind in town.

Grandest thing to happen to the Christmas season was the arrival in town yesterday of Lt. Col. Bill and Mary Green from Kansas City, Mo., with their three young 'uns to spend the holidays with Mary's folks, Dr. Fred and Myrle Clarke in their 1927 E. Ocean Blvd. home. It's their first trip "home" since they left here four years ago en route to Germany for Army duty. The family will gather as many of the Green's local friends together as possible for a cocktail party Tuesday. Marjory and John Clarke and Ann and Daulton Lee will co-host at Marjory and John's home on Los Altos. There'll be other parties for the popular pair including a cocktail gathering Dec. 27 at Dolores and Herman Weisskers and a luncheon to be given by Mary's mother.

Do believe the word merry was invented for two things—first for Christmas and secondly for Mickey and John McWhinney's parties. They had one of their famous Yule cocktail buffet suppers last evening in their home in Midway City for about 30 close friends. Conversation piece of the evening, as it is each Christmas, was their doll tree—a tree completely decorated with dolls from daughter Sherril's growing-better-ever-year doll collection.

It's "off with the old and on with the new" early for Dorothy and Phil Brady and 9-month-old daughter, Linda Dell, who moved into their new home at 289 Park Ave. Wednesday. They've been calling 296 Covina Ave. home before this.

From the white snows of Wisconsin to the green of the tropics the Shank family will scatter this Christmas. Mildred and Carl leave Tuesday for New York where they will board the Mauritania for a Caribbean cruise while their daughter and son-in-law, Margaret and Allan Scherer, fly away from here Wednesday for Milwaukee to spend the holidays with Allan's parents, the A. I. Scherers.

If you want to send Christmas greetings to Nancy and Bill Brooks you'll have to send them immediately and by air to Redcap, Ocho Rios, Jamaica. That's where they are, ensconced in regal laziness. They left here Monday, by plane, natch, arriving by devious ways through Dallas, New Orleans, Miami and Kingston to this tropical Shangri-La. Sun-tanned and rested they'll be back about Jan. 11.

Bachelorette Club sisters of Ruth Miller are wondering if Ruth isn't trifling with club loyalty. She left yesterday by auto to spend the Christmas holidays with her best beau and his parents, Lt. (j.g.) J. S. Verret Jr. and the Verret Srs. in Texas. That's the sort of thing that can lead to sudden cancellation of a membership, y'know. Ruth will also visit the Bruce Barkis family, formerly of Long Beach, in Houston as well as Joe and his folks in Port Arthur. Joe, incidentally, is Navy stationed in Long Beach.

Kept our fingers crossed for Helen Brightman Wednesday. She was hostess to her sewing club for it's annual Christmas party. She was supposed to be last year, too, but on the appointed date was staring at the ceilings of St. Mary's Hospital! So this year, to make up for lost time, she entertained the gang at a luncheon at Virginia Country Club and gave all the members smart sequinned eye shades. Those invited to join the fun of the day were Dorothy Munholland, Floy Williams, Thelma Evans, Virginia Stephens, Betty Winkler, Elizabeth Sullivan, Georglenne Hunter, Thelma Pearsal and Gerry Harcus.

You can "gamble" on this: Las Madrinas members and their husbands had a good time at their annual Christmas party at Betty and Larry Hunts Park Estates home week ago Friday. The shindig was a Las Vegas themed party but (LBPD: take note) it was all in fun and only phoney money was exchanged. Cocktails and games then a midnight supper rounded out the evening nicely. Among the host of good friends at the party were Ginny and Rex Welch, Luella and Steve Pace, Jane and Phil Brewer, Jean and Jim Burdge and Mary and Reg Barden.

Santa Claus brought his gift to Mamie Krythe early. Santa was a friend in Chicago who sent Mamie a full page ad for Marshall Fields from the Daily News advertising their recommended book selections for Christmas gifts. Smack in the middle of the page, surrounded by the year's best sellers, was Mamie's own book—"All About Christmas"—which the big store sees fit to "push."

"Jingle Bells" will make way for songs like "Fight On," "Come Join the Band" and "Our Sturdy Golden Bear" around Lawrence Creasey's home at 73 Rivo Alto Canal today when Larry holds open house for friends of his in the college crowd whose loyalties are all bound up with such campuses as SC, Stanford, Cal, Occidental, UCLA, Princeton and Redlands to name a few which will be represented at the party by local boys.

All the good things of Christmas will be rolled up into one neat package for members of Community Players tonight when they join together for their annual party at the playhouse. There'll be the usual gay comaraderie of good friends, sparkling decorations, a home-cooked turkey dinner prepared under direction of Martha Knowles, a program and "white elephant" gift exchange. Florence Cole is in charge of the program which will have carolers, a one-act play and other specialties. A few of those participating will be Ruth Cozart, Keith Houdyshell, Marvin Cloyd, Mary Elder Denton and Charlotte Durham. The program is open to guests—but dinner is for members only.

It will be Christmas on the desert for Jim and Marie Sill and their young son, Jimmy. Jim has been booked for a two week's appearance with Milton Berle at the Las Vegas Riviera! They plan to leave tomorrow and home, while there, will be a dude ranch.

We Welcome . . . . .

America's Best, Says Family

By JEAN B. MOORE

The story of Angelo and Rita Spampinato's life reads like an adventure book with all its complexities of plot, thrills, brushes with death and a happy ending. Tangled as a ball of string is their route to California. It begins in Scotland, runs into a snarl in Sicily and knots in Canada. In September, unraveled at last, the route smoothed out before them, and selling all their belongings except the contents of three trunks, they came from Montreal to Long Beach with their two children.

When Rita was working in Scotland as a civilian tent repairer for the Royal Army Ordnance Corps, she met her future husband. Taken a Sicilian prisoner of war in South Africa, he was transferred eventually to Scotland. There, for a small amount of pay, he was allowed to work for the British government along with other prisoners. That was the only time his wife was his actual boss!

After his release they were married in Sicily. Then followed years of red tape. Attempting to get her husband a visa to the United States was a long, agonizing and trying experience for Rita Spampinato. But she is not one to be daunted. Through all the long separations they wrote each other constantly.

Finally Angelo and his son, Tony, gained admittance into Rita's native Canada. Though he spoke halting English, Angelo became a house painter. In Sicily he was a manager of a sulphur mine, so when it looked as though visas would be a long time in coming, he took his family to Noranda in the province of Quebec, where he worked in the gold mines. But Noranda's temperatures averaged 52 degrees below zero (that's right—below!) and after three years they returned to Montreal. In all they waited five years before they finally crossed the Canadian border into the United States.

With his patient wife's aid and by reading newspapers Angelo is learning more English each day. Current strikes have prevented his finding contracting, or sand blasting work, but he knows his new country has a job for him, even though it may take time.

Transportation being what it is in the Southland, he has learned to drive since coming here, quite an accomplishment in itself.

Angelo is not alone in Southern California. He has relatives in Santa Ana, Burbank and Glendale. Rita works with his Santa Ana cousin in demonstrating Mama Rosa's garlic spread made from an Italian recipe which she thinks is superb.

In Montreal the Spampinatos' television set picked up but two stations, French and English. The variety here delights them.

Rita likes to sew for herself and her daughter by a previous marriage, and to cook Italian food, a talent she developed to satisfy her husband's appetite. In fact, Angelo taught her to cook his native dishes. He can still whip up an out-of-this-world pizza, and his rice pie, a main dish with meat and secret things in it, is a gourmet's delight.

Afternoons, after attending John Dewey Continuation School, Tony works at the Ramona Bakery. When he and his father came to Canada, he spoke no English either, but through his school associations he has mastered most of its complications. Tony likes to do woodwork and has made a footstool and a jewelry box for younger Rita, among other things.

Vicaious younger Rita, born Rita Taylor, in Glasgow, has attended school in England, Scotland and Canada. She speaks Italian and French, and although this may be of no particular value in her job as stock transfer clerk with Coso Uranium Corp in Long Beach, a person never can tell when she might be dealing with someone who speaks only those tongues. When the time arrives, Rita's ready to converse.

Quick to learn, she worked for a while at the Canadian Naval Supply Depot before the family's migration to the States.

Mrs. Spampinato echoes the sentiments of the family when she says, "We all have traveled a lot and have lived many places. Of all these places we have been, you can't beat the United States.

Merry Season Brings 'Forty-Niners' Together

Traditional gathering of the "Forty-Niners," a group which comprised the Presidents Club of Long Beach during 1948-49, took place Wednesday in the home of Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell, 3845 Lime Ave.

Fitting finale was "Amos 'n Andy Explain a Prayer," given by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Farrell.

Gleaming holiday decorations by Mmes H. E. Dixon, Myrl Cypher and Verne Morrill, adorned the luncheon tables. Assisting were Mrs. Thomas Stocker, Gladys Freeman and W. C. Hess.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Katherine N. Sharpe, new officers were elected. They include Mmes. Sharpe, re-elected president; B. Fred Pennington, vice president, and W. C. Hess, secretary.

Link Nash-Rudolph Names in Nuptials

When newlyweds Lt. (j.g.) and Mrs. Kingsley W. Nash (Dorothy T. Rudolph) departed from St. Lucy's Catholic Church following their wedding Dec. 3, their guard of honor was the uniformed Taylor Post American Legion Band of which the bride was once drum majorette.

More than 300 persons witnessed the ceremony joining the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil W. Rudolph of Long Beach and the son of Mrs. Alvah W. Nash of Bad Axe, Mich., and the late Mr. Nash.

The bridal pair is now honeymooning in Las Vegas and San Francisco. This week they plan to be at home in Honolulu, Hawaii, where the bridegroom is stationed with the Explosive Ordnance Disposal Unit One, Pearl Harbor.

Imported tulle over satin formed the bridal gown. A ruffle of tulle at the bottom of the skirt extended to a chapel sweep train. A cascade arrangement of lilies of the valley and white carnations surrounding a white orchid was carried by the bride.

In a waltz length gown of emerald green was Buela Doolin, maid of honor. Colleen King, Lou Kravitz, Eleanor Miriani and Nola Sheldon, bridesmaids, wore sea foam green gowns of chromespun taffeta. All carried bouquets of red carnations.

Terry Lynn Trumbore, the bride's niece, was the flower girl in sea foam green net and Michael Cannon was ring bearer.

The bridegroom was served by Lt. (j. g.) Conrad Pearson, best man, and Lt. (j. g.) John M. Byers, Lt. (j. g.) LeRoy Hughes, Lt. Pat Hickey and Lt. Frank Maynard, ushers.

A reception followed in the church hall.

The new Mrs. Nash was graduated from Polytechnic High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Michigan State College and was president of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, professional honorary fraternity.

Student Exhibit Ends Today

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

Today is the last day to see the pre-Christmas exhibition of paintings by students of Ben Messick at the Custom Paint Center, 4800 E. 2nd St. Pictures largely are still lifes and landscapes.

Exhibited are paintings by Ben and Velma Messick, Margaret Royer, Elsie Holt, Doris Lewis, Willa Case, Clarion Drew, Helen Wilson, Harlan V. Boyer, Kay Pearson, Catherine Hartman, Juanita Godwin, Ila Goetting, Leatrice Kreiger, Virginia Mead and Esme Ratzlaff.

Members of the Spectrum Club today will sketch at the old barn and corrals, 19th St. and Temple Ave., Signal Hill. Says President Bob Peck "For those who haven't been there, you have a surprise in store—it's hard to believe such suitable material can be just one block off busy Hwy. 101. If you don't like barns, paint each other. And here's a suggestion: this may be a good time to paint that Christmas present."

Next meeting of the South Gate Art Club will be Jan. 9 in the South Gate Auditorium. Roger Cloutier will demonstrate and talk on art, Mrs. Judy Sterens will demonstrate making copper enameled jewelry.

Following a custom of many years, Paul Conner will have an exhibit of paintings until after New Year's in Pacific Coast Club Gallery. His desert paintings are especially highly prized. Conner has asked several friends to exhibit with him.

Exhibitions in the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park, Los Angeles, through Jan. 1 include 25 lithographs by Ralston Crawford, contemporary American artist, the first Western showing of prints in color and black and white made by the artist in Paris while working with the famous French printer, Tutin. There also is a special showing of imperial robes and textiles of the Chinese court, drawn largely from the Museum's Mabury collection.

Marking the opening of his new exhibition, a reception in honor of Albert Londraville, artist, is slated for Friday evening in the Contemporary Galleries of the Pasadena Art Museum, 46 N. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena. The Pasadena Art Museum also is showing "The New Decade: 36 American Painters and Sculptors." The exhibition, selected by the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York for the opening of its new museum last spring, is devoted to the work of American painters and sculptors who have come to the forefront of American art in the post-war decade, 1945-55.

Leo Hills Host Holiday Party

Christmas candles — the "king size" variety — lighted the path leading to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Hill, 5530 Rolanda St., Saturday evening when the Hills entertained at their annual holiday party.

The traditional gaily lighted Christmas tree was center of interest, framed against a backdrop of mobile gold baubles in varying sizes. Buffet refreshments were served by the hostess, and a gift exchange followed. Sharing in the old fashion good time were members of their office staffs, their husbands and wives.

Entertain at Dinner Before Dance

Parties glitter this week like shiny baubles on a Yule tree as Christmas brings forth a myriad of holiday festivities. One of the prettiest parties of the season was arranged Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Roberts. They entertained friends at cocktails and dinner preceding Balboa Bay Club's gala Christmas Tree Ball.

Mrs. Roberts selected for her clever table decor six tall modern reindeer pulling a sleigh. Favors, gold pencils for the women, and playing cards for the men, were tied to the packs of individual Santas. After dinner couples danced to the music of two orchestras.

Bidden were Messrs. and Mmes. Don Berry, Cartwright Hunter, Harold Maggart, Russell Pray, Stanley D. Weiss, P. I. Wilsey Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Houston C. Fairley, Mrs. Frieda Owens and Dr. V. DeMott Sedgwick, all of Long Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Gould of Newport Beach.

Miss Nancy A. Telegdi

Bachelorettes Learn of Nancy Telegdi's Betrothal

More than usual excitement sparked a recent meeting of the Bachelorettes Club of Long Beach, for Miss Nancy A. Telegdi's name was found coupled with Roger W. Bloxham in the box of chocolates traditionally signifying engagements.

A past president of Bachelorettes, Miss Telegdi is the daughter of Mrs. John Telegdi, 4318 Shaw St. She was graduated from Wilson High School and City College where she was affiliated with Mahabharata.

The prospective bridegroom, now a resident of Long Beach, formerly lived in Mason City, Ia. He is the son of Merlin Bloxham of that city and Mrs. Orville Harris of Lewis, Wis.

Deep Reverence Touches Vows

Soft blue light casting a halo-like glow over a huge white cross at the altar gave a deep feeling of reverence and spirituality to the exchange of marriage vows by Patricia Ann Dial and Earl A. Newkirk on Tuesday evening at Atlantic Avenue Church of Christ.

Donald Hardage, minister, led the double ring ceremony as the bridegroom placed upon his bride's finger the circlet of diamonds belonging to her paternal grandmother, Mrs. D. R. Dial of Atlanta, Ga.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dial of 4219 Olive Ave., was escorted down the bridal aisle by her father, between clustered pine bows tied with white satin ribbons which marked the pews.

Complementing the bride's brunette radiance, was a gown of ivory satin, lace and tulle. Lace detailing marked the neckline, and again was repeated as edging on the peplum-effect of satin extending down onto the floor length skirt of bouffant tulle. Her tiered wedding veil was caught to a pillbox of white satin edged in pearls, and in keeping with the holiday season, she carried a shower of white poinsettias.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Turner, as matron of honor, and Janet Nowling, Gay White, Diane Owens and Ardith Vail, bridesmaids. Bridal attendants all were gowned in princess style dresses of red velveteen with matching slippers and tiny red velvet hats with rhinestone studded veils. They carried sprays of holly with red carnations and green satin ribbon.

Flower girls were Kathy and Linda Turner, nieces of the bride. They wore ballerina length dresses of pink nylon and tulle, with pale pink rosebud headpieces. They scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newkirk of Anaheim, asked his brother, Lyle Newkirk, to serve him as best man, and ushering duties were performed by Walter Williams, Len Wettstein, Bill Goodman, Jim McGee and John Scoggins.

Added to the ethereal qualities given by the special lighting at the altar was shimmering candlelight cast by tapers in 7-foot candelabra at either side of the large cross. Lighting for the ceremony was arranged by Frank Nightingale, close friend of the Dials, who is widely noted for his lighting effects. Harp music further enhanced the lovely service, as did readings by Gladys Davis of the Pepperdine College Drama staff who offered "How Do I Love Thee" and "Tribute to My Beloved."

A reception in the church social room for the 400 wedding guests followed. The four tiered wedding cake rested in a setting of gardenias and fern as centerpiece on the cutwork and fillet lace draped table. Scattered tinsel led to Christmas trees bearing silver baubles at either end of the long table.

Mrs. Lyle Newkirk was in charge of the guestbook, and reception hostesses were Mrs. Walter Williams and Mrs. Len Wettstein, sisters of the bridegroom, and Mmes. W. S. Rucker, Hansel Nowling, William Abrams, Bulach Turner, Leroy Gilpin, Donald Roswurm, Clara Marble, and Misses Sara Bingham and Betty Brougher, sorority sisters of the bride.

Prior to their departure on a flying trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds were showered with miniature heart, wedding bell and horseshoe symbols of romance and good luck, along with the traditional rice. They will return to Long Beach on Dec. 25 to make their home.

The new Mrs. Newkirk attended Progress School and was graduated in February from Pepperdine College where she was an affiliate of Zeta Kappa and Phi Beta. Her bridegroom received his schooling in Anaheim, and is newly returned from four years service with the Air Force in Hawaii.

The bride is the former Miss Lee Fraga of Honolulu.

Guests will find their way to the gracious entrance of the Bole's home along a brightly lighted candy cane lined pathway during the hours from 5 to 9 p. m. Receiving at the door will be several young friends of the bridegroom including Misses Karen Brown, Paula Chace, Erleen Gill of Los Angeles, Rosemary Pilcher of Riverside and Mrs. Allen Stockstill of Sierra Madre as well as Jim's brother, Frank Bole, Richard Huddleson, Ernest Ewing of Burbank and Robert Pilcher of Riverside.

Mrs. Bole Sr. will greet her guests in a suavely simple white and silver sheath dress while her lovely daughter-in-law will be gowned in a gold and white striped ballerina gown fashioned of gold tissue with gold cummerbund. Decor of the living room, with its beautiful heirloom furniture, which belonged to the hostess' grandmother and great grandmother before her, will be created from pungent evergreen, white carnations, white roses and gold and silver Christmas trimmings.

Refreshments will be served in the dining room where an epergne filled with white carnations, gladioli, and white roses will complement the all pink decor of the room. Antique candelabra will flank the floral arrangement topped with tall, white tapers.

More informally, punch will be served in the family room where a big Christmas tree will spread its warm glow.

Mrs. Charles D. Wailes of Sierra Madre will assist the hostess with the festive duties of the afternoon. Also assisting during reception hours will be Mmes. Leonard Albrecht, George Cerveny, Sydney Elliott, Louis Gunn, Robert Huddleson, John Kelly, Wilbur McColm and Rupert McCook all of Long Beach; Mrs. Clinton Bockemohle of Artesia; Mrs. Carl Ewing of Burbank; and Mrs. Rufus Pilcher of Riverside.

Kamins Felicitated at Bridal Reception

One of the most attractive receptions of the holiday season was given last Sunday by Mrs. Emilie Krick Gump honoring her daughter, Diane, and her new son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kamins in the spacious East Ocean Blvd. home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crawford.

The surprise marriage took place Thanksgiving Day in Los Angeles. A picture of bridal loveliness, the beautiful brunette Mrs. Kamins wore a white afternoon dress, styled with an off-the-shoulder blouse of imported French lace and a sunburst pleated chiffon extended skirt. A cluster of white orchids were a charming accent note.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Gump, received guests in a Dior blue peau de soie sheath and wore an orchid corsage.

Jeweled soft pink desert holly, white stock and delicate pink carnations repeated the bridal theme in the exquisite appointments of the tea table. Assistants at the silver tea set and punch bowl wore corsages of delicate pink and white to match the table color scheme. Mrs. John Henderson presided at the guest book.

Assisting Mrs. Gump were Mmes. Crawford, R. G. Akers, Harry Witz, A. A. Carrey, Harold Beckley and William Wallace.

The popular justweds greeted a hundred and a quarter close friends who called to offer felicitations. Mr. and Mrs. Kamins will make their home in Hollywood.

Sister Kenny Auxiliary to Give Party

The Sister Elizabeth Kenny Auxiliary will have its Christmas luncheon and gift exchange Dec. 20 at 12 noon in the home of Mrs. William H. Loomis, 419 E. 16th St. Canasta and other card games will be the afternoon's diversion. Members will be guests of the executive board.

Work of the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital and Rehabilitation Center in El Monte has been expanded this year in a far-reaching program of service which includes, in addition to polio, treatment and hospitalization for victims of other neuromuscular diseases.

It was the late Sister Kenny's dream that someday facilities and personnel of the Sister Kenny Foundation could give service to victims of other afflictions as well as to those of polio—particulary those diseases which affect the lives of children. She restricted her efforts to polio because it presented the greatest need at the time.

Now with every indication that polio cases will be greatly reduced in 1956, the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital will begin to admit victims of celebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis and other allied diseases.

A free examination is available to any victim of a neuromuscular disease by calling the Admissions Clinic of the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital for an appointment. If the medical examining committee believes a victim will benefit from intensive treatment and hospitalization, the patient will be admitted regardless of race, religion, color, age, residence or ability to pay.

At the Christmas party of the Long Beach Auxiliary, new members to be welcomed will include Mmes. John J. Cotugno, William D'Andrea, T. J. Davis, Louis J. Gillespie, Harold C. Heidenreich Emil P. Kirk, Harry Lund, C. F. Richter, Ethel Salisbury, Hazel Thompson Lucy Whiting and Zara Larsen.

Outshine Your Christmas Tree!

By MARY LOU ZEHMS
Independent, Press-Telegram women's Editor

There is only one who can outsparkle the Christmas tree this year—and that's you! If you feel that's a bit presumptuous of you, your mind will be changed when you try the glowing make-up created by Layne Marlin, a Long Beach beauty expert who has been named "King of Beauty" by the Make-up Guilds of America in New York.

One day last week he asked to "re-do" my face . . . and that he did in the space of 90 minutes . . . with a make-up so glowing, clean and fresh that I not only looked like a new person, I was. For, a face rejuvenation is to me what buying a hat is to other women!

"I concentrate on all pastel tints," said Marlin as I relaxed beneath a mud pack for 20 minutes in Leon's House of Beauty. "I have gotten away from the heavy make-up, for too many women look like they apply it with a putty knife. Your face is what you make it. Keep cream out of eyes and eyebrows, to prevent pencil and mascara from smearing and then remove." For best results Marlin recommends a soft flannel cloth for removing cream and advises always the upward and outward motions to avoid skin sagging.

"The moist climate in Long Beach presents a special problem for local women," Marlin said. He advises a thin layer of avocado oil beneath make-up for smoothness and wearing sunglasses to avoid squint wrinkles.

At this point, I removed the mud pack with a hot, moist towel, and with my skin tingling and pink, Marlin started his simple, yet most effective, process of applying make-up. First my face was massaged in cucumber cream, which not only cleanses but acts as an astringent. "Buttermilk is another good natural cleanser," Marlin related. "And grated raw potatoes applied over the eyes will help eliminate bags and black circles. Leave on for 20 minutes . . . the starch in the potato works wonders."

Then followed an oil lubricant which forms a protective film over the skin. Its base is cocoa butter, a skin food. The first powder base Marlin used was dark; this covers blemishes, and he applies all liquids with a silk sponge. Then comes a lighter powder base, also a liquid, which brings it up to your skin tone. "By all means wear a lighter make-up in the evening, covered with a small amount of powder, in a shade to blend with the foundation," advises Marlin.

This gives your skin a soft luminous look—the effect of holiday candlelight. Now the eyes — the point of emphasis and the center of attention; with an eye pencil in black, line the upper lid close to the lashes from the inner corner slightly past the center, and then draw the line on the lid gradually away from the roots of the lashes and extended slightly beyond the outer corner. On the lashes use mascara from the inner to the corner of the upper lashes.

Eyebrows should be drawn with soft, feathery strokes to make the brow into a full, high arch with a slight flare upward at the ends.

And now the mouth: Outline it first with a dark shade of lipstick, then go over it with a lighter shade. This is particularly effective if you use an extension to the mouth line; be sure to outline it with a darker lipstick first. Use of the two shades gives your mouth almost a three-dimensional look!

Here are a few tips from the King of Beauty:

Never leave cream on the face for more than 20 minutes, after that time it loses its action;

Use a cucumber pack at least once a week to tighten the skin, to cleanse it and to remove blackheads; this is exceptionally good for treatment of blemished skin;

Use a damp silk sponge to remove excess foundation then let dry for 20 minutes before dressing, this will help keep the necklines of dresses clean;

If your nose is oily, but rest of face dry, use a natural bristle complexion brush and rub from the nose to the checkbones, it will help distribute the oil evenly; and

Remember that ice water is the best possible astringent (not ice cubes)!

"Worry, tension and negative thinking can cloud a woman's face like static ruins a television picture," Marlin explained. "These days it isn't how old you are but how young you look that matters. Beauty is as beauty eats and sleeps," he philosophized, and added that it is the theme of a lecture he gives for many women's clubs and organizations throughout the Southland.

Now to you ladies, don't blame the Christmas tree if its radiance dims when you enter the room, just enjoy your reign as the star of the show—and glow and glow and glow!

FOR BEAUTY THAT GLOWS

Virginia Bottorff Is Bride of Dr. Ignacio Alcantara

Mexico City is the new home of Dr. and Mrs. Ignacio Garcia Alcantara. The couple repeated their nuptial lines recently in an afternoon ceremony at Lakewood Village Church with Rev. W. R. Hall officiating. The bride, the former Virginia Deane Bottorff, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deane Bottorff of 5607 Naples Canal.

For her wedding, the bride chose a pale lilac sheer wool princess style dress complemented by a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and violets.

Her attendants, Mrs. William A. Stenzel, matron of honor, and Michele McMillan, junior bridesmaid, wore periwinkle blue sheer wool and cyclamen and white polished cotton respectively. Mrs. Stenzel carried red roses and ti leaves and Miss McMillan's bouquet was of lilies and white button chrysanthemums.

The bride, a graduate of Wilson High School and UC at Berkeley, is a member of the California Club and Prytha-pean. Her husband, son of Senor Atenogenes Garcia L. and Senora of Mexico City, is a graduate of the University of Mexico.

Hostesses at the reception which followed the wedding were Mmes. R. S. Prest, Virginia McMillan, Lowell Weeks and Carl Brown and Miss Ruth H. Kirkland.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

—by PLACER MINER—

The enterprising International Relations Club at LBSC has cashed in on the Christmas season for a worthy cause. Nine hundred children will have enough milk to drink for a week; 10,600 children need not fear tuberculosis; and an entire village can be protected from malaria for a week thanks to the hard working group.

The group has sold over 100 boxes of Christmas cards designed by famous artists to sell at $1.00 a box. The money will go directly to the United Nations Emergency where the money will be distributed to needy children all over the world. A worthy service for a worthy cause carried on by a worthy organization.

One of the Southland's most distinguished educators, lecturers and TV personalities will speak at Long Beach State College next Tuesday.

Dr. Frank C. Baxter is well known in the Long Beach area. He has spoken for different groups and organizations and last year presented a Christmas program at LBSC similar to the USC program which has become a tradition.

Dr. Baxter's Christmas program is a series of readings taken from world literature, the past to the present, and is presented in the manner that has made him famous on his television programs.

"Shakespeare on TV," and his recent show "Now and Then" both have won awards for the scholar. Some of the honors awarded to Dr. Baxter are "The Speaker of the Year Award, for 1954," 14 national and local awards for his Shakespeare series on TV, and two TV "Emmys" from the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Baxter has been overwhelmed by requests for him to present his program of Christmas readings, and the Evenings on Campus Committee at Long Beach State College feel that they have been very fortunate in securing him. If you've heard him before, you'll want to hear him again, and if not it's really an experience; in any case for seats, telephone LBSC and ask for the activities office. Admission is free.

The January Graduates, and it is getting that time for some students to become alumni, will be honored at the annual semi-formal Blue Book Ball which is sponsored by the senior class. The dance is named after the books in which students write their exams. The go-away dance will be held at the Irvine Coast Country Club at Newport Beach, and plans for the dance call for a Blue Book Belle, who must be (a) a senior, and (b) sponsored by some campus organization. Miss Blue Book Belle, or the Queen of the Blue Book Ball, which ever she prefers, will be crowned the night of the dance which has been tentatively set for January 26.

The Harlequins of the speech and drama department are getting ready to get their feet wet, production wise, with a bill of three one-act plays.

The plays are "Trifles," "Another Way Out" and "The Drama of Job." The shorties are scheduled for Jan. 13 and 14. Admission for the general public is 50 cents.

Members of the LBSC Newman Club will don their dancing slippers tonight in the Catholic Center at St. Anthony's High School at the annual Christmas dance, sponsored jointly with LBCC club.

Placer Miner is also taking a vacation as is everybody else, but only away from school. School is out and won't be in session again until next year, but for most students no school means merely changing one kind of a job for another. The placement office at LBSC had a record number of inquiries for jobs and a record number of jobs given to them for placement.

Some students are working for the Post Office, others in markets, service stations, clothing stores, selling Christmas trees, yard work, just any kind of a job to make some money for Christmas and put a little away for next year. Taking a full-time college job isn't conducive to getting good grades or even passing. The school figures that it takes a minimum of two hours of study out of class for every hour of study in class. Taking a full-time course of 16 units means about 32 hours of study a week out of class, or a full-time job.

The vacation part comes into the picture because it's a change to what everybody has been used to. But like everybody else, Placer Miner is putting away the books for a couple of weeks, and welcomes the opportunity to say "It's a Great Life, and Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!"

Dental Assistants Join Throng of Clubdom's Party Makers

By ANNE GILCHRIST

As eagerly an anticipated party as any of the year will be the annual Christmas cocktail and buffet dinner dance which Dental Assistants will give tomorrow evening in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette Hotel for members, their dentist "bosses," wives, and special guests.

Table decorations will carry out the Christmas theme in individual tables placed cabaret style around the dance floor. A huge Christmas tree will dominate the room and beneath its branches will rest the gay gifts to be distributed in the traditional exchange. A surprise Santa Claus will give the gifts which each person attending will contribute. Also, members will bring cans of food for the Christmas Clearing House to aid a needy family.

Executives' Secretaries

It was a tremendous party and it was a party "with a heart." That's the sum and substance of the cocktail buffet which James H. Nicholson, owner of Kitt Trailer Manufacturing Co. gave for members and guests of Executives' Secretaries in his beautiful home, 269 Argonne Ave. last weekend. "Ticket of admission" to the lavish affair was one or more toys per person. There were at least 450 people who accepted the Nicholson hospitality and, in turn, contributed handsomely so that toys collected were in truckload number.

These toys will provide foster children of Long Beach with a joyful Christmas. Nicholson will play host to 100 of the foster children at a turkey dinner and Christmas party in his home on the afternoon of Dec. 24. The others on the secretaries, "Santa Claus list" will receive their gifts by special delivery the E/S.

Secretaries who took an active part in assisting host Nicholson with the project were Dorothy Kane Oleson, president of the Long Beach chapter; Ruth Dye, vice president and philanthropy chairman; and Alice McCullough, Flo Courte, Meredith Griffiths, Agnes Herbst, Dorothy Jacke, Peggy Maloughney, Clariece Baber, Charlene Bennett. Miss Bennett is Mr. Nicholson's executive secretary. All other members of the club contributed splendidly in making this event a success and will again contribute their time in assisting with the children's party.

Quota Club

Lights glittered on the Christmas tree, champagne sparkled in the punch bowl and they weren't all that glittered anod sparkled Quota Club's annual Chistmas party for members, an affair of Monday given in the gracious home of Rita Stanfield, 3940 Linden Ave.

The champagne punch was served in the large rumpus house which occupies the Stanfield lot behind the main house. Here members were asked to relate the most memorable Christmas experience they could recall. This merrily accomplished, everyone retired to the main house where a huge Christmas tree held their attention and gifts from beneath its boughs were distributed. A lively game of charades, followed by the traditional reading of the Christmas story by Fanny MacEnroe and the reading of a quaint and humorous Irish Christmas story by Helen Cameron, completed the informal participation program. Refreshments and visiting concluded the evening.

Soroptimist Club

Members of Soroptimist International of Long Beach turned their luncheon meeting of Dec. 9 into a "welcome home" for Mrs. Lydia Jones, member and past president of the club who repaid them for their interest with a gracious talk of her impressions of England, gained during two years residence there.

She told of visiting the Soroptimist International of Elsemere Port, sister club of Long Beach Soroptimists. She found the spirit and friendliness of it's members very little different from here. Ellesmere Port grew up during the war when Liverpool was so badly bombed. On a clear day, she said, one can see the big cathedral in Liverpool.

Mrs. Jones spent most of her time at Oxford where her son, Vincent, was a Rhodes scholar and where she continued her music study. She quoted some amazing figures about England, one of the most startling being that. per square mile, England has ten times more people than the United States; twice as many as India; and four times as many as China. Food in private homes was quite excellent but in restaurants rather poor. Where a Frenchman will spend two thirds of his income on food and an American two thirds on gadgets (television, electrical appliances, etc.), an Englishman will spend two thirds of his income on his garden! Still on rations while she lived there, she commented on the extreme courtesy of the English when in queue lines.

The speaker augmented her talk with some beautiful colored slides. Gladdes Neff president, conducted the meeting and welcomed Mrs. Jones home on behalf of the club.

Legal Secretaries

There will be smiles on every face and joyous shouts of Merry Christmas" this afternoon throughout the Towne Club when Legal Secretaries gather there from 1:30 to 5 p.m. for their annual Christmas party. A program, community singing and refreshments will be features of the afternoon. In lieu of the usual gift exchange between members it was decided each would bring a gift, or gifts, for a girl between the ages of eight and 18 to be donated to the 75 girls of Girls Town in Arlington.

High School Ball Tuesday

Gay Yuletide decorations will glamorize Lakewood Country Club when Phi Gamma Chi sorority of Polytechnic and Wilson High Schools give their 33rd annual White Christmas Ball Tuesday night from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Gleaming blue ornaments will adorn the branches of a serene silver Christmas tree as dancers enter the club. White boughs and blue balls will add seasonal flavor to the table decorations, while an artificial snowbank will be massed around the bandstand.

Chairman of the decorations committee is Molly Moffatt, and she is being assisted by Mary Kay Barker, Melinda Lelliott, Irene Angle, Carol Howison and Sharon Stimson.

Music for the formal ball will be provided by Monte Le Bonte's orchestra.

Bids for the affair are gold and white, enriched with the sorority's crest.

Ebell Slates Masquers Foursome.

At Christmas time, when so much accent is upon music, Ebell Club is no exception. For its program Monday afternoon in Ebell auditorium it will present the Masquers Quartet, composed of Olive Rice, soprano; Lucille Dellano, mezzo-soprano; Tony Stambaugh, tenor, and Francis Barnes, baritone.

Their repertoire ranges from ballads and musical comedy to light opera and opera, offering a satisfying balance of solos, duets, and trios as well as a blend of all four voices.

The group was founded by Curtis Stearns, director and accompanist.

Honored guests for the day will be members of the Presidents Club of Long Beach.

The traditional Christmas tea will be served after the program by Mrs. Robin L. Hadley, hospitality chairman, and her committee.

Pythian Sisters

Long Beach Temple 63, Pythian Sisters will gather Dec. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Machinists Hall for a Christmas party and gift exchange.

SHOPPING SENSE

BY Lisa Towne

One thing is for sure this week . . . if you're looking for something that isn't a Christmas present, more likely than not you'll get it gift wrapped, 'cause that's the spirit that's in the air. This week's Shopping Sense notations . . . and it's fun discovering every one of them . . . cover a broad horizon. The jaunt went not so far in distance as in mood, for there are Christmas ideas and gifts to suffice the needs of children and adults, men and women. In Lakewood Triangle, you'll sigh over the beautiful costume jewelry and furs at Estelle Thompson's, while down in Belmont Shore at Egyptian Drug you'll find so many delightful fragrances it's impossible to choose a favorite, and at George Lake's Recreation Park Golf Shop it's fun to putter around, even for a non-golfer! Downtown, Penney's is in the Christmas spirit with sleepy suggestions for the Lollipop Brigade, and for the man on your list Belcher & Schacht and the Safari Hut are full of unusual gifts. And, who doesn't like to sit down with a fascinating new book? You'll find a wonderful selection at Mayfair Church Supplies, for any age group. When all your looking and buying is done, it's time for you to spend a stimulating evening in Ernie Glaser's newest showplace, Heidi's Village . . . but for now, take this shopping tour with Shopping Sense in your easy chair, and remember that if you have any shopping inquiries about places to go, things to buy and customer services, phone Lisa Towne at HEmlock 5-1161, extension 249, and let us help you be dollar-wise with Shopping Sense.

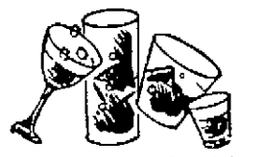

Those who are acquainted with Ernie Glaser's flair for originality in creating a showplace with atmosphere will be pleased to discover his newly opened HEIDI'S VILLAGE, 245 East Ocean Blvd. The Swiss-Bavarian motif is carried out with miniature Alpine mountains, a running waterfall and tiny chalets with an old-world charm. Over this vest-pocket country called "Swissany," Heidi Glaser will preside during fun-filled evenings of community singing and entertainment. So put HEIDI'S VILLAGE at the top of your list during the holidays.

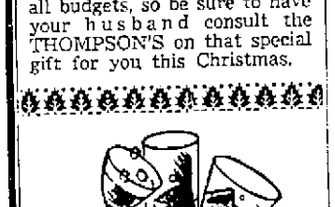

For the Littlest Angel on your Christmas list, something cuddly, soft, warm and pretty in sleepwear for boys or girls is in order, and in the Girls' & Infants' Dept. on the Balcony at PENNEY'S, 6th & Pine, the perennial flannel sleeper is now available in two-piece pajama sets with non-skid plastic soles that make tiny feet secure on slippery floors. Size 1-3 have gripper snappers down the back, size 4-6 the pullover style with boxer waist. Both styles have elasticized ankles, are cut extra large and come in machine washable party pastels . . . at the very little price of $1.49 a pair. You'll also find many other smart styles of pajamas and nightgowns for the younger set on PENNEY'S Balcony.

Good costume jewelry is always correct, and when it's from the glittering collection of stunning pieces by Hobe, Her Majesty or Paulette of New York it's the perfect gift . . . to give or to receive. At ESTELLE THOMPSON'S, 4146 Viking Way in the Lakewood Triangle, you'll find these choice necklaces, earrings, bracelets and pins, from just $5, and Tommy Thompson has designed some furs and glamorous fur accessories to suit all budgets, so be sure to have your husband consult the THOMPSON'S on that special gift for you this Christmas.

For the man who's mixing your holiday potables, THE SAFARI HUT, 214 East 4th St., has the standard and novelty bar equipment to help him do it in style . . . there's the smart, handy and compact brass trimmed wooden Keg Bar, a Karoff Original, complete with mixer and gold rimmed glasses. $39.50 . . . or for travel, the easy to tote Pony Bar with thermos and plastic accessories, case in Palomino or Sorrel, $24.50 . . . and as a present for your home there's a boxed set of 8 thumb print Mexican crackle glass tumblers, $4.95.

Perfume is a universally desired Christmas gift, and you'll select from the world's finest lines at EGYPTIAN DRUG CO., 5128 East Second St., in Belmont Shore. The complete line of Caron has been imported from France, including the exciting new "Le Muguet du Bonheur" and the perfume extrait "Poivre". There's a delightful purse size sculptured flacon of "Les Miniatures de Caron" at $12.50, and an unusual and extremely refined cologne disclosing a real perfume in "Ecusson" by Jean d'Albert. Nina Ricci has created arresting bottle designs to complement her exquisite fragrances—"L'Air du Temps" in a beautiful bird flacon, "Coeur Joie" which is heart-shaped, and "Fille d'Eve" for the apple.

The man or woman golfer on your Christmas list will appreciate a gift from GEORGE LAKE'S RECREATION PARK GOLF SHOP, where you'll find a smart selection of Catalina nylon sweaters, White Stag water-repellent jackets, fleece-lined White Stag orlon jackets, golf shoes, stretch socks and warm-up mitts as well as golf umbrellas, Bag Boy seats, golf carts and clubs . . . or for something novel, how about the Putt Pin game or the electric practice putter? For all the golfer's needs, see . . . GEORGE LAKE at the RECREATION PARK GOLF SHOP.

Finding the appropriate Christmas gift for the Boss is easy for the working gal when she shops at BELCHER & SCHACHT, 251 American Ave., because there you can choose from a distinctive collection of desk accessories, including handsome items for the smoker, stationery and good looking Sheaffer pen and pencil sets. Whether your boss is in an office or the man who's nice to have around the house, BELCHER & SCHACHT has just the right present for his desk.

Three inspiring new books that are ideal for Christmas giving are "The Sure Victory" by Madame Chiang Kai-shek, "The Answer Is God," the story of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, by Elsie Miller Davis, and "Billy Graham: A Mission Accomplished," by George Burnham. You'll find them now at MAYFAIR CHURCH SUPPLIES, 219 East 4th St., your headquarters for religious books, an unparalleled selection of Christian pictures and Scripture stationery and greeting cards for Christmas and everyday.

Don't Expect Children to Take Adult Responsibility

By ANGELO PATRI

Sincerity is the essential element in any human action, and education is no exception. There are a few new ways of teaching being introduced that lack that essential quality and should be quietly dropped. This because they are likely to give the children a wrong impression of their ability and therefore of their place in the adult world.

Why, for example, have a second-year grade in elementary school to read a story and then write a "Book Report," a critique as it were? The children assume an attitude of wisdom and authority when they are given a task with this high-sounding name. It is known as "the buildup," "strengthening of the personality, of dignity."

An important civic group sitting in deliberation of juvenile delinquency invites two high-school students, 15 years of age, to sit in with them and give their ideas on the subject. That is a sort of nonsense that we should not approve. What those children say will not modify what those responsible adults think and do to the extent of a single comma. Why the show and the sham. What effect will it have on the children?

Children, and please understand that boys and girls in their early teens are children, should not be allowed to believe that they have ability, comprehension or skill in fields that are beyond their experiences. They should not be made to feel a load of responsibility that they have no way to carry out. That sort of thing does not strengthen, does not add power nor dignity to the children.

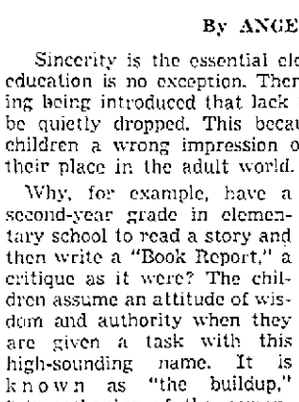

Our young people need guidance, fine leadership and a job to do. To share in the civic project, to do a good piece of work in school routine, this guidance and leadership must be evident and it must be authoritative. If children did not need these, the schools, the teachers and the leaders of youth would be unnecessary. The children could be on their own.

To be sure, social problems can be discussed in the schools with profit to the students—provided always that the discussions are guided and led by understanding people who are sincere in their dealings with their classes. There can be trips to the various departments of government. There can be studies made and reports written to the great gain of the students. But that is not to be made a matter of public notice, given apparently grave consideration by the city fathers. It must be a sincere study by students who are not to be placed in the light of an advisory body to the responsible authorities. That is unfair to the children.

Does your child cry at bedtime or refuse to take his bath? You can change his habits by changing the way of doing things. Dr. Patri explains how to give children a new start in leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Chef of the Week

Irishman Brews Tasty Casserole of Spaghetti

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

A comedian and a mimic — he's even funnier than the original production. A ready wit is very much a part of Chef of the Week Edward T. Jordan, for shure 'n' ya can bet he's Irish, his 'maather 'n' faather' having come from the County Cork in 1906.

Jordan was born in New York City — educated in its public schools and at Fordham University. His first position was that of analyst and accountant for a Wall Street brokerage firm; but in 1939 he switched his vocation to the field of selling.

It was World War II, however, which placed him in the proper environment for his present position, that of manager of the General Telephone Directory Co., directing that company's operations in California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona. He not only oversees the printing of the telephone directories, but those of Santa Monica, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Pomona and many others, as well.

He became a private in the U. S. Army in 1941, and received his commission in the artillery in 1942. Additional education followed in military government at University of Virginia, before he was discharged with the rank of major in 1945. I was the California army service in 1943 which brought about, not only his return to our city, but that of his parents, his sister and brother. They have a family community all their own in Lakewood.

A member of the Long Beach Rotary Club, he was among the chartered few at the Lakewood BPOE, Lodge 1865. He belongs to St. Cyprian's Church, and is active in Community Chest and other civic projects.

Though football and bowling are among his chosen interests, his real hobby is prognosticating. He studies the financial reports of different corporations and then predicts their price in the stock market. He budgets his lunch hour between "grub staking" and a trip to the local brokerage office to watch the tape, either refute or bear out his predictions.

Whenever he's really lost, however, he's usually to be found at the "Y" getting the "works." He feels that procedure necessary to his method of addition and subtraction.

Contrary to your expectations, his recipe today isn't for Irish stew, it's for spaghetti.

SPAGHETTI

1 lb. spaghetti, cooked
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
3 tblsp. parsley, chopped
1 tsp. sugar
2 tblsp. oil
1 lb. ground meat
1 4-oz. can mushrooms
1 large can tomatoes
1 can tomato sauce
2 or 3 pinches Italian spices
—or a dash thyme, oregano and majoram
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute onion, garlic and parsley in oil. Add meat and cook until lightly browned. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, spices and pepper. Cook very slowly, without a lid, for 2 or more hours, until thick. Alternate in layers with cooked spaghetti in casserole. Top with cheese and bake for 20 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Kiddies' Party

Alicia Club will be hostess at a Christmas party for children of members Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Hervie Malloy, 3537 Ladoga Ave. Refreshments, planned to appeal to youngsters, will be served and there will be a Santa Claus present to distribute gifts for all.

Look Who's Dancing . . . . .

(These articles will appear regularly in Sunday's Independent, Press-Telegram to announce meetings of invitational dance groups at Fine Arts Center.)

In the midst of frantically checking name lists and filling his increasingly bulging pack Santa Claus will take time out to preside over young dancers gathering at Fine Arts Center this week.

Surrounded by glittering Christmas baubles, merry old elf holds a prominent place on the ballroom wall, but he may find himself tempted into taking a quick turn around the floor with a daintily gowned young miss, or suavely gliding along in a romantic tango as the students go through their paces.

Committees in charge have planned special holiday favors and refreshments for the entertainment of attending members.

Also aiding will be Mmes. Velma Jones, Anna B. Kronman, Stephanie Gardner, Juanita Hahn, Ella Hagadorn, Clara Myers, Winifred Allan, Louise Berry, Warren Windham, Marie Myers, Marie Smith, Alice Pierce, Grace Sellers and Mamie Krythe. The committee will serve refreshments instead of the usual luncheon.

Mrs. Lucian F. Remley, president, will conduct a board meeting at 10:30 a.m. and will assist the hostesses for the holiday festivities to which the public is invited.

Why Grow Old?

It Isn't Too Late to Plan Your Christmas Shopping

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I feel like a race horse at the beginning of the last stretch. I will be off tomorrow when the alarm clock rings and try to win by the 25th. What about you? Perhaps you are one of those I always plan to be, but never am, one who has finished her Christmas shopping early. From the crowds in stores I judge I have plenty of company in my sad state.

Although the inclination is to dash madly about, or just start running, actually that is the worst possible thing to do in such an emergency. The thing to do now is to sit down quietly and think.

Get a pencil and paper and give some thought to what the ones you still have to buy for would enjoy. After that jot down the names of the stores in which you are apt to find these articles. Then call the stores to see if they have them.

Next, you can make a list of what you are going to look at in each store and chart your course so that you will not backtrack. I am an old master at this art, and believe me, it will save you much wear and tear. You also will finish with more acceptable gifts for your friends and relatives. Otherwise you will come up with the weirdest assortment!

There is such lovely variety in cosmetics and perfumes which every woman would enjoy. And there are little luxury items in this category which many women feel that they cannot afford as a daily habit.

I think, too, that many people make Christmas shopping difficult by forgetting books and flowers as gifts. If your victim loves to read and you know his taste in books you have a cinch. However, this is dangerous business if you do not know what kind of book he enjoys.

There is nothing more heartwarming than having a lovely bouquet or plant arrive at your door on Christmas Eve.

Music Can Be Employed as Personality Yardstick

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case Q-324: Marcia B., aged 28, is a very popular music teacher.

"Dr. Crane, don't you think music is an essential course in the school system?" she asked. "I find, however, that many parents have the idea that music is a 'frill' or non-essential in the curriculum. Don't phychologists recommend music for mental patients?"

Shakespeare employed music as a yardstick for evaluating personality when he said:

"The man that hath no music in himself,
"Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
"Is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils."

In my college textbook "Psychology Applied," I have devoted an entire chapter to the "Psychology of Music and Morale," and I opened that chapter with Shakespeare's discerning quotation.

"Music is the only language," said John Erskine, "in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing." Music is also an international language, understood by Russians and French, Germans and English, even though we may not converse in the same tongue.

Last Easter when our daughter Judy was in Italy, she reported that she couldn't understand the Italian church service, but she felt at home because the hymns were familiar.

Music is also the melodic Pegasus on which our spirits may soar above this mundane earth as we become exhilarated with lofty emotions of love and unselfishness.

But music can also inflame and produce warlike moods, so the Marseillaise has actually been forbidden to the French soldiery at times to prevent untoward incidents in time of crisis.

King Saul depended on David's playing at the harp to soothe his tortured spirit and prevent an attack of madness.

And in modern times we have found a similar great value in music. A few months ago, Drs. Raymond B. Cattell and Jean C. Anderson thus reported their use of music with the patients at Manteno State Hospital in Illinois.

This excellent research by these University of Illinois psychologists, holds tremendous promise. In general, it was found that the mentally ill preferred slow, simple and sad music. The maniacs, however, preferred brightly colored music of the fast, exhilarating type.

In childhood, youngsters seem to have no inherited tastes for music and can't even keep step for marching purposes. Kindergarten teachers thus are forced to accept the stressed beat and drill youngsters for months to get them to appreciate such a simple characteristic of music as its accented beat.

And the emotions that attach to music are learned reactions. If you feel tears come to your eyes and a lump in your throat, it is not the rhythm or tempo, but the "halo" of emotions which you have subconsciously attached to that specific melody because of some childhood situation.

Music is actually one of the most profitable inclusions in the curriculum. It excells many supposedly more essential courses, of which we often recall but isolated fragments in later years.

Child Care

Motherhood a Drain in Middle Age

By JEAN H. SELIGMANN and MILTON I. LEVINE, M.D.

(Q) "I have a son almost three years old who sure tires me out. He is an active child and keeps me on the go. I was 40 years old when he was born. I also have two other children, one 26 years old and the other 24, both of whom are married. I don't remember having so much trouble bringing them up.

"This child has a mind of his own and does everything we tell him not to do. We've spanked him, punished him, and tried talking to him—but nothing does any good. There aren't any children to play with in our apartment house, so he's mostly by himself. But if children come to visit he pushes them and doesn't let them play with his toys.

"He's very bright and often very lovable. But at times he gets me so nervous I just sit and cry. Please can you help me."—Mrs. I. L.

(A) It is quite understandable that you should tire more easily now than you did when your older children were small. But there is no reason to feel that your age—which is really not very unusual for motherhood—should make you less adequate as a mother than you were before.

The problem with your little boy may be due in part to the fact that he is really an only child. Your older children could not have had the concentrated attention which this boy probably gets.

Punishments, spankings and scolding usually don't help too much in this kind of situation. Like every child, he needs reasonable discipline and definite authority, but understanding guidance as well. Also, he should have other children to play with.

We would suggest that he go to a good nursery school if this is possible, so he can learn about sharing and discover that all the attention cannot be focussed on him.

There are a number of good pamphlets on children of 2 to 6, the titles of which we will be glad to mail you if you send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

All questions possible will be answered through this column. Send them to CHILD CARE in care of the Press-Telegram.

Double Bid May Tip Bridge Foe

In certain bidding situations you get the opportunity to use a penalty double as a way of suggesting a lead to your partner. If you're not careful with these doubles, however, you may give the opponents more information than your partner. Today's hand illustrates the point.

North's response of three clubs was part of the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a biddable major suit if he had one. Everybody at the table knew the meaning of this bid, and knew likewise that it would be purely coincidental if North really had a club suit.

| | | |

| | SOUTH (D)♠ A K 9 5♥ A 2♦ A 10 7 6♣ A Q 4 | |

|---|---|---|---|
| 2 N.T. | Pass | 3 ♣ | Double |
| 3 ♠ | Pass | 6 ♠ | Pass |
| 7 ♠ | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Opening lead—♣ 10

East doubled partly to suggest a club opening lead to his partner and partly with the naive hope that the opponents would be frightened into bidding less than the true value of the hand. As it turned out, the double merely encouraged South to bid boldly.

South ignored the double to begin with, showing his biddable spade suit as requested. When North promptly jumped to six spades, South considered the fact that he had all four aces and that East's double had located the king of clubs in finessable position. Encouraged by this last fact, South went on to the grand slam.

West opened a club, as expected, thus solving one of South's problems at the grand slam contract. The only remaining problem was to draw trumps without the loss of a trump trick.

After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs, South led the ace of spades. West followed with the eight of spades, hoping to persuade South to take the second trump trick with dummy's queen.

South had made up his mind, however, that East was long in clubs and was therefore likely to be short in spades. Declarer therefore took the second trump trick in his own hand with the king, discovering the distribution of the trumps. It was then easy to finesse the ten of spades in dummy, draw the last trump and run the rest of the tricks.

Molly Mayfield

Don't Write, Keep Him Guessing

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Here it is. I am 16 and supposed to be going steady with a boy who is 17. We live in different states and write to each other. I guess boys don't like to write very often, although he does pretty well.

What I want to know, Molly, is should I write him as often as I want to? Or should I wait and answer each letter as he writes them?

Another thing. He is coming to visit me. Do you think it would be all right for him to sleep at my house? My parents will be home.—PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED:

I think you have a problem that a lot of girls are faced with. And I know it's a problem. If I were you, I don't believe I would write him much more than he writes you, even if you are supposed to be going steady. And, by the way, isn't that a little hard to do when you live in different states?

I definitely wouldn't write him every day, or even every three or four days if he only writes to you about every two weeks. After all, you want to remind him that you're still alive, but, remember, things we get too easily generally don't mean too much to us.

He probably either knows or is meeting a lot of people that you don't know, and these people include other girls. (I know you don't like to think about this, but you know it must be so.)

I think it would be a little smarter to let him worry a bit about whom you might be seeing or meeting, rather than deluging him under a downpour of mail. Especially as he doesn't show much sign of wanting to deluge back.

My guess is that his not writing you so often is his way of showing that he doesn't want to feel tied down when he's making new friends—and that goes for being postage-stamped down, too.

Of course, it's all right for him to stay at your home while he is visiting you. I imagine that your parents have been expecting him to do so. But let up a little on that pen pushing, won't you?—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

There is a disagreement between me and a group of buddies I work with. I would be very grateful if you would clear it up.

You see, there is this girl that I used to go steady with. We broke up about seven months ago and I hadn't seen her until recently when I started dating her again. On our second date we had one of the best times we have ever had together.

Naturally I felt all full of beans and at the end of the evening I tried to kiss her and she refused. Some of my buddies think this was right, and I think it was wrong. We want to know what you think.—JACK.

DEAR JACK:

To begin with, I'm surprised you told your buddies about your attempted goodnight kiss. Seems to me matters of this kind ought to be kept strictly between the gal and her young swain.

But since apparently it's become a subject of general debate, I'll join in. And I think you're right. Since you had been going steady up to seven months ago and since you've started dating her again, I see no reason why you shouldn't have a little goodnight smooch. Especially at the end of an evening during which you had so much fun.

I'd try again on the next goodnight. Good luck, and don't tell the boys.—M.M.

Christmas Whirl for Service Set Is Brilliant Kaleidoscope of Parties

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Like a gay Christmas window the procession of parties is exciting and colorful — some have happened; others still are circled on the busy, busy service set holiday calender.

Coming events include the annual semi-formal dinner dance to be given by the Officers Wives Club of the Long Beach Air Force Base honoring their husbands. This gala occasion will take place tonight at the cocktail hour at the Officers Club on the Air Base.

An attractive holiday party that has just happened was the Christmas dinner party given by wives of officers attached to the USS Los Angeles at the Officers Club, NAS, Los Alamitos. Santa Claus was there with gifts for all. Hostesses were Mmes. C. O. Akers, H. E. Austin, C. H. Black, R. R. Middag.

Another cheery yuletide party was the cocktail hour given by Comdr. and Mrs. E. Westbrook Jr. last Thursday honoring officers attached to the USS Belle Grove and their ladies.

Among the coming holiday gatherings will be a coffee hour on Dec. 21 given by Mrs. Leo May and Mrs. George Foott.

And next Wednesday Mrs. Menard Steltenkamp will entertain a group of friends at a Christmas party followed by cards in her Belmont Shore home.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Harry A. Guthrie had as their recent house guests from Santa Paula Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCulley and sons. The Guthries plan to enjoy Christmas in Santa Cruz with Mrs. Guthrie's mother, Mrs. Olive Berg.

Last Tuesday the chaplains' wives in this area enjoyed a lovely holiday luncheon party at the home of Mrs. K. Cassady of 3744 Brayton Ave.

Comdr. Kenneth B. Hysong, attached to the staff of Amphibious Squadron Seven, and Mrs. Hysong are proudly telling the world of the arrival of their baby daughter last week.

Comdr. and Mrs. E. W. Hermanson are welcoming their many friends during the holiday season at their new home at 3810 Elm Ave. Mrs. Hermanson recently entertained a group of friends at Welch's, when they dropped by with gifts and to wish her a "Happy Birthday."

Capt. and Mrs. Jack Murphy are expecting Mrs. Murphy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Baldner, from Iowa for Christmas.

Pretty Lael June McCabe, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Ward McCabe will enjoy Christmas vacation in North Hollywood with her grandmother, Mrs. R. M. Rosales.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Palmer have as their house guests the colonel's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Studley, from San Diego.

Lt. (jg) and Mrs. William Garrison and Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Robert Crane were co-hosts Friday night at a cocktail hour yuletide party. Attending were officers attached to the USS Plumas County and their ladies.

Lt. Comdr. Ted Clark, who was recently relieved as Commander of LST Division 75 by Lt. Comdr. L. G. Edgerton, has left with his family for new residence and duty in the 8th Naval District, New Orleans.

Before their departure, the Clarks were entertained at a dinner party by Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Edgerton and among the guests were: Lt. and Mrs. Keith Brown and children, and Lt. and Mrs. Dale Cress.

It's a happy holiday for Mrs. Fair as Capt. Gene Fair has recently returned from the hospital and is doing nicely.

Lt. and Mrs. Jerryl Hascom are heading for Old Town, Maine, to spend a white Christmas with relatives there.

Comdr. and Mrs. Donald Grader are back from a pleasant vacation in San Francisco.

Holiday wedding bells rang out last Friday night for Lt. (jg) Glen Wiprud of the USS Mathews and pretty Virginia Miller, assistant society editor of the Los Angeles Times.

Capt. and Mrs. Frank M. Parker have as their Christmas house guests Mr. and Mrs. Warren Schroeckenphaler and son Warren Jr. from Wisconsin.

Capt. A. W. Anthony, USMC, and Mrs. Anthony recently welcomed a new arrival and now are at home in El Monte.

Tuesday Dec. 20 is the big day out at the Long Beach Air Force Base when ole' Saint Nick, USAF, will arrive by jet for the wonderful annual Christmas party for the children of service personnel attached to the Air Base. This party with gifts, games and refreshments is sponsored jointly by the Officers Wives Club of the Air Base and the NCO Auxiliary there.

Lt. and Mrs. Edward Main entertained at a dinner party recently honoring Capt. and Mrs. R. Ellsworth from San Diego.

Seen in Hollywood together, watching the Bob Hope show and dining out, were Capt. and Mrs. Robert Olbinsky and Capt. and Mrs. Nick DeGilio.

And also in the movie town were Capt. and Mrs. Floyd hosting a group of friends at "Okla- ho..."

Madonna Collection of Interest to Friday Club

When Friday Morning Discussion Club members were bidden to a buffet luncheon in the home of Mrs. Arthur Bonzer, 3715 Gardenia Ave., they were enchanted with the hostess' collection of artfully placed Madonnas. Of particular interest was a life-size figure painted on one of Mrs. Bonzer's windows.

Furthering the theme, the hostess related the history of her Madonna collection and entertained with a selection on her antique melodeon.

On the buffet table a white Madonna stood serenely amid calla lilies and cedar sprigs on a silver stand. White tapers formed an effective background.

Mrs. L. J. Oberson, president, poured.

At a recent meeting of the club in Municipal Art Center, speakers were Mmes. H. E. Lewis, Mattie Stuthman, Robert Greeley, Ada Lyon, G. E. Trout and Misses Steela Olcott and Elsie Schulz. Mrs. Alden C. Carlson gave the English lesson.

Prior to the business session a tour of the Art Center and its current showing was made under guidance of Miss Judith Cieslak, education curator.

Resort Sportswear Follows Narrow Line With Emphasis on Tunics, Overblouses

Resort sportswear fashions fall right in line with the narrow silhouette, without narrowing any of the wearability of clothes essentially casual. Slim dresses use pleats, panels and slashes to add width without seeming to. Slim separate skirts often take an easy overblouse or middy top. Maillot swimsuits couldn't be more pared down, but this restricted silhouette calls for an overskirt. New-looking, but still comfortable fashions are the results.

The same kind of tempered acceptance goes for the Oriental slant. This strong theme continues (very much in conjunction with the slim trend), but again designers have taken a moderate approach. The tunic and kimono are the best adapted in play, beach or at-home clothes. For more formal daytime wear, traces of the Orient are seen mostly in fabrics like silk, or are simply echoed by details like mandarin collars.

So long in coming, the two-piece look has arrived for resort. It asserts itself in tunics, overblouses and middies, the fashions that often top pants and shorts, another aspect of the slim look.

Great quantities of silk fabrics for casual dresses, shirts and separates reaffirm that sportswear is both casual and elegant. The silks favored include textured types, with either raw or linen-like surfaces; woven plaid patterns, and soft allover florals or Oriental motifs on both shantung and surah.

The lace-lightness of 1956 woolens adds another significant fabric for resort wear, making it an all-year fabric, like cotton. Designers recognize that resort spots are not necessarily tropical and that evenings are cool, and that wool fashions are good travelers.

Wool jersey is coordinated in tone-on-tone colors to blend with silk, linen, even cotton separates. Pastel wool flannel and tweed coordinates are strong in the classic field.

Separates and dresses in cotton rely heavily on novelty appeal. Cotton looks like anything but cotton. Some versions resemble silk, either in print types or in lustrous surfaces. Many resemble tweedy wools, as do a good number of the linens in resort dresses, skirts and shorts. Oriental printed cotton provincial type patterns, and finally rustic textured cottons are well represented.

The prevalence of Empire cuts in resort collections contributes to the interest at the top, frequently accented with short boleros, back buttoning brief jackets and curved shrugs that stop just below the bustline and give the high Empire look.

Loose but shaped jackets are one of the newest components that make a dress a costume. It can be cropped below the bustline, go to the waistline or end just above the hipbone, but it generally has side slits and a mandarin neckline and tops a sheath.

One of the dominant impressions for resort fashions is the one-piece dress with attached or simulated boleros over panel-back skirts. The full-skirted dress with soft inverted box pleats that give a panel effect, has a youthful look with the pseudo bolero. Many of the slim sheaths have attached panels that add a floating fullness with these back closing bolero effects.

This year one of the favorite ways of adding glamor to stark sheaths is with romantic shaped sleeves.

The day Bettyann came home

REUNION: Bettyann Culver and her father, Basil O'Connor, smile over her gradual recovery.

by BASIL O'CONNOR
President, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis

Five years ago tomorrow seems a long time, measured on your fingers. It seems like yesterday to me — the day my daughter, Bettyann, came home for Christmas.

We all know the old sayings: "It can't happen here." . . . "Truth is stranger than fiction." . . . "It's a small world after all." Something has happened to all of us to which they apply — always unexpectedly.

I had been president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis since its start in 1938; I knew polio all too well. I had seen it cripple Franklin D. Roosevelt, my former law partner. In the early days after the creation of the Warm Springs Foundation and the March of Dimes, I watched the lines of wheel chairs grow row on row. But I never thought a wheel chair could mean anything personal to me.

Then in July 1950, while I was having lunch in New York with Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation, I had a phone call. Bettyann was calling from her home in White Post, Va. "Daddy," she said, "I think I have some of 'your' disease . . ."

Polio! At that moment I was not president of the National Foundation; I was a father whose daughter had been stricken. Bettyann was 30 then. She, her husband and their five young children lived on a Blue Ridge mountain farm that seemed about the healthiest place in the world. There had been an epidemic in the southwest part of the state, but far from White Post.

Dr. Van Riper and I hurried down from New York and moved Bettyann in an ambulance to a Richmond hospital where some of the epidemic victims were being cared for. Then I settled down to wait and worry. None of the children was stricken, but Bettyann told me her left leg, shoulder and arm — plus her back and abdomen — were hit. And then she said:

"Now look here. I know who's taking care of me, but who's taking care of you?"

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"I mean you had better pull yourself together."

That broke the tension. In two weeks my daughter was moved to Warm Springs, the place I knew so well. Thereafter, as our various schedules permitted, we visited her there — her husband, my wife and I. We watched her fight her way back to health, asking every day about the children back on the farm. She never lost her confidence. Despite her condition, she even looked forward to sharing Christmas with her family.

And she made it. On December 19 I waited for the Culvers at Union Station in Washington, D.C. Down the platform came Bettyann, not on a stretcher but in a wheel chair, beaming, loaded down with Christmas presents.

"Pull yourself together," she called cheerfully. ■

THE ANIMALS TAKE OVER

Offbeat holiday movie short offers a warning

Mankind's extinction through warfare is the somber theme of an unusual animated cartoon to be released by MGM next Friday. Entitled Good Will to Men, the eight-minute, Technicolor fable opens in a ruined church, where a choir of mice is caroling, "Peace on earth, good will to men." One asks, "What are men?" — and the leader explains. With the help of background battle scenes, he describes how humans destroyed themselves by failing to practice what they preached. The result is odd Christmas movie fare — but it does provoke sober thought. Example: Breaking a 30-year precedent, the Southern California Motion Picture Council has given the film its highest citation, never before awarded to an animated cartoon.

BEWARE THE NEW MEDICAL QUACKS

Today they offer streamlined 'clinics' and uranium 'cures.' But they still are peddling death

by GEORGE P. LARRICK COMMISSIONER, FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON.

LATE IN 1954, reputable doctors notified an aging postal clerk that his cancer-stricken wife would die. In his grief he heard about a "cancer clinic" which, he was told, had effected remarkable cures.

This man was no ordinary sucker for fake medicine vendors. As a postal clerk he had seen the mail of such operators stamped "Fraudulent." He knew of the Government's efforts to stop such rackets.

But the accounts he now received dealt with no snake-oils, no mysterious rays, no miracles, no panaceas. They concerned a "clinic." To the mailman, as to most people, "clinics" meant solemn men in white working to save lives — in short, expert treatment. He fell for the racket, and a pathetic story began to unwind.

He called the "clinic." For $500, plus the airplane fare (paid in advance), a "specialist" would come and examine the patient. Family cash was long gone, but that made no difference to the postal worker. He borrowed the money and begged the "doctor" to hurry.

On a Sunday morning, the out-of-state practitioner solemnly examined his patient, then conferred with the husband. He said he could not promise a cure but claimed he had cured more advanced cases of cancer in the past. Medicine, in this instance, would cost $400. The grief-racked postman borrowed an additional $100, promised to send the rest when he could get it. The visitor left.

A week later — after several doses of the wholly ineffective medication sent by the "clinic" — the patient died.

An extraordinary case? Not at all. Simply a peculiarly heartless example — one of pitiful thousands — illustrating the slick techniques used today by medicine's con men.

Our records disclose that the same "cancer clinic," whose imposing fake specialist flimflammed the old postman out of better than $800, treated more than 6,000 misguided patients during a recent two-year period. The medicine these victims received was an herb concoction which a Federal court has found to be utterly worthless against cancer.

No, medical quackery isn't dead. We still have the magnetic-ray belts, the secret salves and tonics. Today, however, you can hardly find such articles in any store. Medical quackery has simply changed its ground. The big operators have modernized it to become more dangerous than ever. The death dealers of medical fakery now wear the trappings of science and professionalism. They may even be located in imposing quarters, with white uniforms and gleaming equipment to impress the prospective customers.

Today these charlatans lead their victims to believe that they can cure cancer, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, arthritis — anything and everything. Many legitimate medical and scientific centers struggle along in surroundings much less sumptuous than quack clinics. No wonder the public is taken in.

Medical fakers use today's headlines to their advantage. For example, the public interest in uranium, the source of atomic energy, has resulted in a whole series of phony cures. Some promoters in Western states who had been unsuccessful in mining uranium started charging admission to their abandoned mines. They sold tickets to people with arthritis, rheumatism, sinus trouble and other ailments, who paid as much as $2 an hour to sit inside the mines for "treatments."

Other operators actually have put uranium rock in packages and sold it. One of them used ordinary mattress ticking to make a "therapeutic" pillow. Three sizes were manufactured. The small size ($7.50)-was for sinus trouble. The large size for arthritis cost $30.

Still other operators set up uranium "tunnels." Usually these were located in vacant stores and resembled large closets lined with packages of uranium rock, with cushions of the rock on benches along the sides.

Rocks Without Value

State and Federal authorities promptly cracked down on these operations. Radioactivity from low-grade uranium ore is without medical value. In fact, FDA tests showed there is more radioactivity in the dial of a wrist-watch than in those rock-stuffed pillows.

However, exposing swindlers does not always permit legal action against them. The Food and Drug Administration cannot regulate the practice of medicine. We touch only the interstate shipment of drugs and medical devices. Much money is available to contest every effort we make to enforce the law.

Bad as it is, medical fakery would be relatively minor if its practitioners cheated only hopeless cases. In such instances Quack Medicine's offense would in reality be simple fraud. But no such limitations are possible. The medical gyps often kill people who would not otherwise die. Thus their guilt, in many cases, is really that of murder.

In one case a young mother had a good chance of recovery before a quack saw her and made a successful pitch. She had noticed a small lump in one breast. Her family physician advised and even arranged an immediate operation. Then backyard gossipers told the woman about a "wonderful man," Otto Soles, whose treatment, they said, would prevent surgery.

The patient called on Soles. She found a man 69 years old living alone in the back room of what had once been a grocery. Across the front window was a sign, "Keystone Laboratories." Soles' products consisted of numerous "secret salves," a hair restorer, liquid solder, motor tune-up fluid, a battery additive and automobile polish. Incredibly, this formidable array of nonmedical products failed to daunt the young mother, and she agreed to try Soles' cancer salve.

After a few applications and several visits Soles advised his patient that her cancer was "dead." Of course, he was just talking. A little later the cancer became inflamed and ulcerated. Even then she accepted Soles' diagnosis: a "cold" in the "dead" cancer. The unfortunate woman continued under Soles' treatment for two and a half years before returning to her family doctor. Then she learned that it was too late for an operation to save her. Shortly afterward she hanged herself with a cord dangling from the call bell over her hospital bed.

Otto Soles was brought to court charged with practicing medicine without a license. The jury found him guilty. The judge imposed the maximum sentence under state law: $500 fine and six months in jail.

An even more flagrant case of killing by quackery involved a 17-year-old boy with diabetes. This once-fatal illness, like many others, has lost its former terror but does require careful treatment — frequent insulin injections and a strict diet. Naturally, diabetics dislike their "shots," which often are the only insurance against death.

For 11 years, the young man lived a normal life under the insulin-and-diet treatment. He became an architect and earned a good living. One day his father and mother overheard a conversation between two strangers about a new "treatment" for diabetes involving a product, made from cactus, called Sugretus. Later, they got some literature which stated that Sugretus would eliminate diabetic diet and hypodermic injections and cure diabetes.

The most casual inquiry at this stage would have elicited damning facts against the producer of Sugretus, a man living in San Diego. With no medical education, he had been in the roofing business when he decided to set up shop as a "laboratory." Moreover, he already was under Federal court probation for marketing his product as a treatment for diabetes.

Despite all these facts, the son bought some Sugretus; at the same time he was given the name of a practitioner in his home town. Under this practitioner's care, his insulin intake was first cut in half, then discontinued. About 10 days after his last insulin shot, the young man came home from work because he felt sick. The next day he went into a coma, and insulin was injected. It was too late. Two days later he died.

Like Otto Soles, the maker of Sugretus was hauled into court. His sentence was a $750 fine and a warning.

Both Sugretus and Otto Soles' "secret salve" are typical of the products promoted by medical fakers, who usually work with two major tools: the secret formula and written testimonials. Sometimes these are so transparent that they appear ridiculous, but sick and frightened people keep on falling for them.

Unquestionably, the defrauder's most effective tool is the testimonial. These documents — framed, published, shown privately to patients — serve the medical faker two ways. They substitute (remarkably well) for the medical degree which he doesn't have. And they tell the ailing sufferer exactly what he wants to hear: that a similar sufferer has been cured.

When legal action threatens, the quack usually seeks refuge in testimony of "satisfied" customers. Since the passage of the first food and drug law in 1906, the Food and Drug Administration has had to investigate thousands of testimonials. Investigation always reveals flaws. These may range from the simple case in which the "satisfied customer" did not exist, or at least did not know his name was being used, to the complicated situation resulting from mistaken diagnosis by a reputable physician.

Fortunately, there are not many instances of mistaken diagnosis available for the quack's use; but every big operator acquires a few of these gilt-edged "cures." However, the courts have long recognized that even sworn testimonials are unreliable and will not admit them in evidence.

Quack salesmanship often includes attacks designed to undermine confidence in accepted treatment and in the medical profession itself. In the language of the quacks, surgery is "butchery," and X-ray or radium treatments are "cooking" or "burning."

Ironically, the most cursory check will usually unmask quackery — but many sick patients don't want to unmask the fraud. They much prefer to believe even if their belief is ill-founded. Here, the ethical physician can do much to protect his patient from quacks. Dr. Charles S. Cameron of the American Cancer Society points out, "When the legitimate physician gives up the fight, patients naturally seek out the cancer quacks . . . There is no doubt that the responsible doctor's place is beside his patient through good times and bad. There is never any need to say to anyone that all hope is gone — for it never is."

"RADIOACTIVE" PAD is shown in use. Sold as a sinus cure, it proved to contain "no detectable radioactivity."

Medical quackery is one of America's most desperate health problems, and it is growing daily. The Food and Drug Administration can deal with only one phase of this problem: interstate traffic in fake medicines and phony medical devices. Our manpower for this work alone is inadequate. True, the Federal Trade Commission and Post Office are also working to stamp out medical fakery, to prevent false advertising and mail-order swindles. But more is needed.

America needs to wake up to the fact that a cult of medical swindlers is at large peddling death and fraud.

We must realize that these evil practitioners are criminals and should be dealt with like other criminals.

Much good work is already underway. This work must be expanded. More interest is needed on the part of the health professions; so are better state medical practice laws and more effective enforcement of these laws.

Finally you, the reader of this article, have a public duty to be interested in this critical problem. Inform yourself about the qualifications and standing of those to whom you entrust your life. You wouldn't call in a plumber to fix your television set, but that would make good sense compared to calling a quack to tinker with your health.

If I could impress upon you only one thing, based on my 32 years of law-enforcement experience in this field, it would be this: Don't be a sucker about your health. ■

HOW TO TELL A QUACK

1 Is he licensed to administer the kind of treatment he offers?

2 Is there something "secret," special or exclusive about his formula or device?

3 Does he use advertising or testimonials to attract patients?

4 Does he promise to cure?

5 Does he say that medical science is against him or fears his discovery?

6 Does he attack recognized methods of treatment and seek to undermine your confidence in the medical profession?

If you or your family have had recent experiences such as those described in this article, write to:

we're SKATING!

owe their medals and Olympic hopes to Mom — who doesn't skate

will do a double axel — two turns in mid-air — a stunt done only by her and Tenley Albright.

OZONE PARK, N.Y.

There is talent in every child, believes Mrs. Marie Heiss. "It is up to the parents to find that talent and help it grow," she says. "The best way to find it, I think, is to play with your children as often as you can."

While playing with her older daughter, Carol, Mrs. Heiss found the tot — then 2½ — roller-skating with the zip of a teenager. Two years later she took Carol ice-skating, was astonished to see her tiny daughter skim breezily around the rink. That convinced Mrs. Heiss; she got Carol a professional instructor.

Now 15, Carol (at right on cover) will waft onto the ice at Cortina, Italy, next month to compete in the 1956 Winter Olympics. A member of the U.S. figure-skating team, Carol is rated second best in the world — topped only by teammate Tenley Albright, 20.

Mrs. Heiss didn't stop her talent hunt with Carol. When her daughter Nancy and son Bruce successively reached 5, they too went out on the ice with Mother. Today — at 14 and 12 — they're hopefuls for the '60 Olympics.

Ahead, though, are more hard work and staggering bills. Each morning Mrs. Heiss routs her brood of skaters out of bed here at 5:30, bundles them off to the New York Skating Club in Manhattan. Under the eye of instructor Pierre Brunet they practice from 7:30 to 10 or later, then trot off to the Professional Children's School. After three or four hours of intensive study, they're either back on the ice till 5 in the afternoon, or at ballet class (a must for figure skaters).

This schedule is expensive. Brunet's lessons are $6 a half hour for each child; ballet costs $10 an hour. There are tutors' fees when they miss school ($5 an hour), skating costumes ($60 to $80 each), traveling expenses (Carol's Olympic trip will be her third skating jaunt to Europe, but the first paid one; her mother, as always, will pay her own way).

The bills — over $15,000 for Carol alone so far — are borne cheerfully by Mrs. Heiss and her husband, Edward, a baker. (Neither, oddly, was ever much of a skater.) They get tempting cash offers for Carol to turn pro, but Mrs. Heiss wants Carol to go to college. "If she wants to turn pro after that," she says, "it will be up to her. We've done our part by helping her find what she can do." ■

A Catholic Girl Takes Her Vows

At her Confirmation, a 9-year-old is anointed a 'soldier of the Lord'

READY in white Confirmation gown, Sharon gets final check from mother.

by JACK ANDERSON and FRED BLUMENTHAL
PARADE WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS

WASHINGTON, D.C.

This year Sharon Ann Stoffel, 9 years old and a leggy 53 inches tall, found classwork harder at St. Francis Xavier parochial school here. She entered Grade 4A, which meant starting to study history and geography — and a new look at the outside world. More important, she began preparing for Confirmation as a Roman Catholic — a new look inside herself.

The religious lessons and practice ceremonies left Sharon a bit awed. A thoughtfulness touched her piquant, lightly freckled face. There was a shade less abandon in the shake of long dark curls around her shoulders. As a devout young Christian she anticipated — correctly — a momentous event.

To a Catholic, Confirmation represents one of the supremely sacred rituals of a Christian life (though not absolutely requisite to salvation). Confirmation is a spiritual coming of age, the rite in which the Holy Ghost or Spirit is invoked by the Bishop and descends to abide in the Christian soul. With Confirmation, a Catholic becomes a soldier of the Lord, a defender of his faith. He shoulders the responsibility to proclaim his religion, to be faithful in its practices and to give his life — if need be — for his beliefs.

Occurring usually about two years after the first Con-

"I decorate my home with warm Christmas wishes"

IT'S EASY—WITH TAPE! Let colorful Christmas greeting cards from friends reflect the holiday spirit. Tape them in a gay border around your mirror, mantel or archway, or hang them as ornaments to trim a "Friendship Tree". Tight-sticking "SCOTCH" Cellophane Tape holds cards securely. Tape them to glass or woodwork (not wallpaper or painted walls).

Another bright decorating idea: use colored "SCOTCH" Gift Wrap Tape to make attractive designs . . . trees, stars, flowers . . . right on a window or mirror! It's so easy to be clever with tape—no wonder these new Christmas customs grow more popular every year!

WRAP GIFTS THAT GLOW with the spirit of Christmas. Use the easy 1-2 method: (1) seal package neatly with transparent "SCOTCH" Cellophane Tape (2) decorate with smart stripes or designs of colored "SCOTCH" Gift Wrap Tape or "SASHEEN", the Magic Bow Ribbon.

SETTLED in their pews, young confirmands listen as Archbishop O'Boyle steps down

Rich pageantry of Confirmation brings children into church fellowship

from altar to tell them of the importance of the Sacrament they are about to receive.

fession and Communion, the Confirmation ritual represents a religious evolution from the original laying-on-of-hands practiced by Christ's Apostles. Attendant ceremonies are among the most solemn of the seven Sacraments on which rest the Catholic faith. Preparations for Confirmation are meticulous.

Every day for three weeks in school Sharon and her classmates were lined up according to size and put through the entire ceremony in practice. Altar boys substituted for the Bishop and priests who would officiate at the real services. Afterward, Sister Superior Margaret Elizabeth conducted classes on the meaning of Confirmation.

Upon Confirmation, she explained to her young charges, the Holy Ghost would come to each of them in a special way. This Spirit, she promised, would bring divine light for the intellect and strength for the Christian will.

Almost every day in school, the young Confirmation candidates were told edifying stories about steadfast Catholic youths. One they particularly liked was about a Catholic boy who found a White House pouch and promptly returned it. As a reward, he was invited to the White House to lunch with the President himself. The meal seemed fit for a hungry boy — turkey with all the fixings — but the youngster, newly confirmed, spoke up politely that it was Friday and, as a Catholic, he couldn't eat meat. Impressed, the President cheerfully changed the menu to fish.

At Sharon's home, 43-year-old Ted Stoffel and his auburn-haired wife, Catherine Ann, shared their small daughter's preparations. They coached her on her Catechism and rehearsed questions the Bishop might ask before the ceremony.

A high point for Sharon was selecting a new name of a Saint whose virtues she would strive to emulate. Her choice: the Blessed Virgin Mary. Two of her aunts bore the Confirmation name Mary, and Sharon herself had been cast as the Blessed Virgin twice in school plays. After Confirmation, she would not only try to attain her Patron Saint's qualities of purity and holiness but would be entitled to sign her name as Sharon Ann Mary Stoffel.

Two near-catastrophes almost wrecked the family's plans for Confirmation. Mr. Stoffel went to the hospital for an emergency appendix-gall bladder operation and returned only two days before the "deadline." Then, barely 48 hours before the services, Sharon awakened with a slightly woozy feeling. She was almost panic stricken. If she missed the 1955 Confirmation at St. Francis Xavier parish, she would have to wait a full year for another.

Then . . . the Big Event

Mrs. Stoffel hustled her daughter to the doctor, who diagnosed the trouble as a slight virus infection. Back home she went and into bed, where she was dosed with antibiotics. Up again Saturday, she took no chances and stayed indoors. She played with her next-door girl friend, Gloria Fiordaliso, and romped a bit with Vicky, her bulldog.

Early Sunday morning, Sharon and her mother rode to church with Gloria and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fiordaliso. The girls received Holy Communion at a special children's Mass, then hurried home for final preparations.

Fully an hour before Confirmation, Sharon and 161 other young worshipers assembled at the school adjoining St. Francis Xavier Church, excited and ready for the big event. They quieted solemnly as the Sister Superior formed girls and boys into separate columns.

HOME after service, Sharon (center, holding gift statue) relaxes at her party. Mother (left) serves guests; Dad smiles from sofa. Sharon's other Confirmation gifts included silver place setting from parents, religious medal, money from friends and neighbors.

Gifts, a party and congratulations bring Sharon's great day to a close

then gave the word to march into the church.

Right on schedule, the children moved into the soft light of the church, their red and white robes gleaming against the dull maroon backdrop of the high brick interior walls. Hands folded in supplication, they marched slowly up the long aisle toward the candle-lit, flower-decked altar. Soft harmonies of a mixed choir singing in Latin echoed from the choir loft.

Attired in the scarlet robes of his office, Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle waited before the altar while the children filed into the front 15 pews, boys on one side, girls on the other. Then he stepped down to chat informally with the children and ask questions about Confirmation. Sharon, eager to answer, raised her hand at each question, but the Archbishop gave each child his or her turn. After the informal quiz, he spoke gravely about the ceremony ahead.

"After you receive the Holy Spirit in Confirmation this afternoon," the Archbishop told the children, "you are made strong in the faith and you have a new Grace . . . By receiving the Holy Spirit, you will love your God and love your neighbor. It will be a terrible calamity if you receive the Holy Spirit and love God less than you do now. It would also be a tragedy if you loved your neighbor less . . . Ask God immediately after you receive Confirmation to make you strong in the faith."

Concluding his brief talk, the Archbishop mounted the altar and turned to face the congregation. He was an impressive figure in crimson against the flame of six altar candles behind him. He extended his hands and prayed that God might send the Holy Ghost, with His seven gifts, to the children confirmed. Making the sign of the Cross, he took his seat in the Faldstool, an armless straight chair backed against the altar between two standing priest-assistants in cassock and surplice.

The Master of Ceremonies for the ritual, Father Walter Schmitz, stepped forward and carefully placed the gold miter of his office atop the Archbishop's red skull cap, called a zuchetto. He placed the golden crozier, shaped like the shepherd's crook it represents, in the Archbishop's left hand. The formal ceremony began as the sound of Catholic hymns in Latin again swelled from the choir loft.

The children came to the altar from their seats by twos, first the boys and then the girls. Each child handed to one of the standing priests a card bearing both family and Confirmation names. The youngster knelt devoutly before the seated Archbishop. Two sponsors took places at their sides, with a hand on the right shoulder of each candidate for the Sacrament.

The priest standing on the Archbishop's left lifted a small golden vessel containing the Holy Chrism, a mixture of olive oil and the juice of balsam trees, symbolizing Grace. The Archbishop dipped his right thumb and anointed each kneeling child on the forehead with the form of the Cross as he spoke a prayer and a blessing. He then gave the child a light blow on the cheek with his open hand, a symbol to remind the child that he must be ready to suffer everything — even death — for the Lord.

"I sign thee with the sign of the Cross," the Archbishop intoned in Latin

READY FOR BED after a full and exciting day, Sharon kneels to say evening prayers — which now have a new meaning for her.

as he anointed, "and I confirm thee with the Chrism of salvation, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

As the last two children were confirmed, two altar boys approached the Archbishop, one bearing a vessel containing sliced lemon and bread crumbs, the other a pitcher of clear water. The Archbishop cleansed his hands of the sacred Chrism oils with lemon juice and bread crumbs, rinsed them with water, then rose and gave the Confirmation benediction: "May the Lord bless you from Sion, that you may see the blessings of Jerusalem all the days of your life and that you may have eternal life." The ceremony was finished.

Children in the front pews remained reverently silent throughout the ceremony, although inevitably there was some fidgeting. They all were scrubbed within an inch of their lives, and it was quite obvious that each boy had been to the barber for a fresh haircut. From the adults in the rear pews came whisperings and rustlings as fond parents craned their necks to keep sight of their offspring. Afterward, in the bright sunshine outside, children met their parents, then headed home for post-Confirmation celebrations.

A gay party awaited Sharon at home. She found the dining-room table laden with cakes, cookies, candies and fruits. While her mother prepared coffee for the grown-ups and soft drinks for the youngsters, Sharon excitedly opened her Confirmation presents.

The house quickly jammed with guests, including Protestants and Jews who stopped in to congratulate Sharon. Friends continued to show up intermittently until after dark. At last, at 8:30, Sharon, happy but exhausted, was glad to be tucked into bed — but not until she knelt to say her evening prayers. ■

TEEN-AGE TOPICS

Many parents find it difficult to answer their children when they ask about sex — either because their own knowledge is faulty or because their own questions to their parents were sloughed off with embarrassed evasions. The best advisers say that children should be told the answers to the specific questions they ask, but should not be given long scientific explanations before they are ready for them. Many of you are writing to me because you have had difficulty discussing this matter with your parents. Here are some of your letters.

Q. I am a 12-year-old girl. I have asked Mother about sex, but she says she will tell me when I am older. I have talked about it with a girl friend, but what she told me just puzzles me. I think if I'm old enough to know the stork didn't bring me I should have an explanation, don't you? — S.H., La Junta, Colo.

A. Girls and boys ask these questions at different ages; perhaps your mother does not remember being interested in the subject so early. Educators know, however, that some children begin to ask such questions as early as the third or fourth year and feel that they should be told what they are able to understand.

Some time ago I mentioned a booklet put out by the Child Study Association of America. As a result, the Association received many requests for it from readers of this column. It is called When Children Ask About Sex. (Write to the Child Study Association of America, 132 East 74th St., New York 21, N.Y., enclosing 30 cents in stamps or coins.) Call your mother's attention to the booklet; it may help her discuss the subject with you comfortably.

Q. I am a girl almost 14. My parents have reason (they think) to believe that I am turning bad. I like boys, but what girl doesn't? At what age is it proper for girls to go in cars with good boys? At what age is it permissible to smoke? — R.C., Fairfield, Conn.

A. A child that does not have his parents' complete confidence is often unhappy and defiant. I know that some parents are excessively anxious over their daughters' reputations; however, it is a very difficult age for parents because it is hard indeed to protect children against the very real evils in every community. If the relationship between child and parent is such that discussion of problems seems very difficult or embarrassing, the child should have an opportunity to talk to the family doctor, a teacher or other adviser about the things that puzzle him.

Parents are usually the best judges of just who is bad company for a child. Let them meet the boys with whom you wish to go in cars, and abide by their rules concerning your returning home.

I do not like to see teenagers smoke at all. You must work this out with your parents.

Q. I am a girl 12 years of age and many people take me for 15 or 16. I don't look a bit my age, except that I don't wear make-up. My parents take me for a baby; I can't wear even a dash of lipstick. — S.C., Valley Stream, N.Y.

A. I think your parents are very sensible. Most girls of 12 like to pretend that they look at least 16. Although in some communities girls of your age wear a little light lipstick, at least to parties, I don't like to see it even then. You have plenty of time in which to grow up.

Q. You are insulting juveniles' dignity and self-respect by persisting in your column that we let our parents have the final word as to whom we should date, when we should be back home and other matters of etiquette. I know that state laws give our parents the right to control our lives, and no one should be encouraged to try to violate the law, but you could use your influence to correct those laws. Or are you one of those Victorians who believe we are too stupid to run our lives and so should stand helplessly by while our parents ruin them for us? — B.L., Salem, Va.

A. I believe in the protection of minors. The parentless "wild children" of wartime and postwar Europe are pathetic examples of what happens when children must fend for themselves.

Hollywood's least-known star . . .

HOLLYWOOD.

When Spencer Tracy first came here 25 years ago, he played the part of a dapper young convict in a prison film, Up the River, with another newcomer, Humphrey Bogart.

The picture finished, executives of the old Fox company advised Tracy that he lacked the indefinable magic it takes for stardom. Subsequent screen tests by other studios confirmed this opinion. Wrote one MGM observer, "If this fellow can act, he sure does an admirable job of hiding it." Cracked another, "Spencer Tracy has as much sex appeal as a watermelon."

Today, as he approaches the peak of his career — The Mountain (recently finished) and The Old Man and the Sea (upcoming) probably are his last pictures — Tracy is good-naturedly tolerant of these judgments.

"The plain truth," he says, "is that I never thought I'd last in pictures. Matter of fact, I don't know how I have. Guess it's luck."

This statement is no affectation on Tracy's part. At 55, white-haired and venerable, he seems genuinely incapable of analyzing a success that over two and half decades has brought him wealth, prominence, two Academy Awards, boundless popularity, an asking price of $250,000 per picture and the rare high regard of both critics and colleagues.

"I'd like to say," he admits, "that I have a theory about acting. But I don't. It's just that I was born a sentimental Irishman, and I play the parts the way they react on me."

Clark Gable, one of Tracy's buddies — they co-starred in three memorable films, San Francisco, Test Pilot and Boom Town — feels that Tracy's success can be attributed in part to the catholicity of his appeal. "He's got the kind of personality," Gable says, "that seems to belong to the common man. He has a tremendous range. A woman sees him in a movie, and she goes home and says to her husband, 'Why don't you behave like Spencer Tracy?' Everything Spence does on the screen seems plausible."

"He is one of those few actors," adds Elmer Rhoden, chief of Fox West Coast Theaters, one of the largest chains in the country, "who is liked equally well by men, women and children of all ages. For years his name on a marquee has meant money in the box office."

In Hollywood, where he is known as "the actors' actor," Tracy is credited with the introduction of the subdued "underplay" technique, the restrained throw-it-away type of acting currently in vogue. Whenever he's making a picture the sound stage is crowded with young players come to learn.

What they see is a painstaking, finicky actor. No matter how well he does a scene, he rarely is satisfied with it. "What I try to do mostly," he says, "is play a part honestly."

"What Tracy really does," says director Eddie Dmytryk, "is to watch himself in every scene. He rarely goes in for broad emotion, and he usually directs himself."

Carroll Tracy, the star's older brother and business manager, points out: "Spence is a damn' good actor because he spent years learning his trade. He was 30 before he came to Hollywood, and for years he'd been earning a living touring the country as a stage actor. Unlike many of the kids who get a break in films today, Spence came up the hard way."

Spencer Tracy was born on Prospect Avenue in East Milwaukee, Wis., on April 5, 1900. "My father," he says, "was John Edward Tracy, an upstanding God-fearing Irishman who was general sales manager of the Sterling Motor Truck Company. My mother, Carrie Brown Tracy, was descended from American colonial stock. Under the circumstances neither of them wanted me to become an actor."

Priest, Trucker or — ?

John Tracy hoped that his red-headed, freckle-faced son would succeed him in the trucking business, while Carrie Tracy suggested the priesthood as a likely career. (One of Tracy's aunts was a nun.) But the boy had no fondness for schooling.

When World War I broke out, he quit school for the Navy. He put in six months at Norfolk, Va., then was honorably discharged with a monthly education allowance of $30. Returning to Milwaukee, he changed his mind again, finished high school and enrolled in Ripon College (Ripon, Wis.) with the notion of becoming a doctor. One day his English instructor stopped him in the hall. "Tracy," he said, "you're always arguing so much, I want you to join the debating team."

From debating Tracy progressed to dramatics. Suddenly bitten by the acting bug, he decided to go to New York and join the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. (Years later Ripon College awarded him an honorary degree in dramatics.) One evening he phoned his father and broke the news.

"It sounds like a silly idea to me," the elder Tracy replied. "But if you really want to become an actor, I'll pay your tuition if you can live in New York on the Government's $30 a month."

Spencer agreed and moved into a West 56th Street boardinghouse with a boyhood friend named Pat O'Brien, who also had come to New York with dreams of becoming a big actor.

"That $30 a month didn't go very far," Tracy remembers. "I was broke several days before the end of each month. So I studied dramatics as I'd never studied anything before in my life. Always in the back of my mind was the idea that I'd never have enough money to finish the course, and that I'd better learn all I could as fast as possible.

"Pat and I used to read lines to each other, rearrange the furniture and pace back and forth doing bits of business as if we were in front of the footlights. The other roomers used to yell at us to shut up. When I look back on it now, it seems like a lot of fun. But at the time it was rough.

"One week I missed eight meals in a row. I was still attending class, but I knew I simply had to get a job or starve. I hit every Broadway agent in town. Finally I went down to the Theater Guild and asked for any kind of work. I must've looked as if I needed it. They put me on as a $10-a-week robot in the play R.U.R."

In Tracy's second play, The Man Who Came Back, he was advanced to a speaking part. He was given one line to shout at the end of the first act. The line was, "To hell with him!"

"It wasn't very much," according to Mrs. Tracy, "but Spence yelled it so loudly he always got a round of applause."

A Backstage Romance

The actor met his future wife, Louise Treadwell, when both were members of the same stock company; they were married between a matinee and an evening performance. Louise soon retired from the stage, and to supplement his earnings Tracy took her back to New York and temporarily became a piano salesman. For a while he also worked as an auctioneer. Then he learned that there was a role open in Ethel Barrymore's Royal Fandango company. He got it, but the play itself fared none too well. More stock company work followed.

In 1925 the Tracys' son John was born — deaf. This was a turning point in Spencer's life. To give his boy the best medical care available, he threw himself into his work with unrestricted energy.

All told, he appeared in more than 200 plays before landing the role of Killer Mears in The Last Mile on Broadway in 1930. The play was gradually dying when a prison break in Auburn, N.Y., made the front pages. Overnight The Last Mile began to play to standing room only.

In a matter of months, Tracy was in Hollywood for a convict's part in Up the River. At that moment another unknown actor was playing Killer Mears on the Los Angeles stage. His name: Clark Gable.

For the next two years Tracy played "nothing" parts in "nothing" pictures: Quick Millions, Goldie, Six Cylinder Love, Society Girl, Bottoms Up. Hardly anyone remembers them. Many Hollywood veterans, however, remember this as "Tracy's drinking period." Says one friend:

"He got involved in an emotional problem, his son came down with polio and he was getting absolutely no satisfaction from his work. He began hitting the bottle."

Tracy himself is refreshingly candid about it. "There was a period," he says, "when I was drinking pretty heavily between pictures. I guess it was a question of frustration. I was hoping month after month to get something in which I could make a name for myself. But they gave me nothing but junk. My brother Carroll used to come around and say, 'What are you dissatisfied about? Stick with it. What more can you ask?' Well, eventually they fired me at Fox. But I was lucky. Metro took me on and finally I got a couple of good parts.

ROMANTIC PARTS came Tracy's way during the World War II shortage of leading men. He was 45 when he starred opposite Katherine Hepburn (above) in film, Without Love.

SINCE THE WAR Tracy has returned to character roles, as in 1950's Father of the Bride, with Elizabeth Taylor (above), and his Western hit of last year, Bad Day at Black Rock.

The Big Change

"I did Riffraff with Jean Harlow, Whipsaw with Myrna Loy, Fury with Sylvia Sidney — we put in a lot of 21-hour days on that picture. Then I did San Francisco with Gable. And after that people would come up and say, 'You sure have changed. What's made the difference?'

"The difference was that I felt I was going somewhere, accomplishing something. I wasn't just standing still."

By 1938 Spencer Tracy was the No. 1 U.S. box-office attraction. A year later he won a second Oscar (his first was for Captains Courageous) with his sensitive portrayal of Father Edward J. Flanagan in Boys Town. Simultaneously he began to worry whether he'd last.

"I wonder," he used to say, "whether the public will accept me as a priest . . . I wonder if I can get away with playing Thomas Edison . . . I wonder if I can ever play a romantic part."

"For years," claims Eddie Mannix, MGM general manager, "Tracy has spent most of his spare time worrying. He is without a doubt the world's champion worrier."

In 1945, for example, when Tracy decided to return to New York to star in the late Robert Sherwood's play, The Rugged Path, he drove almost everyone concerned to the brink of a nervous breakdown.

"Suppose," he would ask the author, "I forget my lines?" Or he would approach director Garson Kanin: "Suppose we find ourselves playing to an empty house? Suppose I louse up the second-act curtain? Suppose I can't hold the audience?"

Eventually, Tracy got so worried that he decided to abandon the play before it even opened. At this point his friend Katharine Hepburn told him to come to his senses, and Tracy snapped out of it. However, he has not appeared in a play since.

For many years Tracy lived in a Spanish-type ranch house in the San Fernando Valley where he helped raise two children, John (now 31) and Susie (now 23), plus chickens, horses and dogs. Recently the house was condemned to make way for a highway, and Tracy moved to Beverly Hills. But he still refuses to permit photographers or reporters to invade his home.

When I suggested to him that after 220 plays, 59 films and 25 years of stardom he was entitled to see his life story in print, he cocked his white-maned head to one side and grinned.

"I'm not kidding myself," he said. "In this racket I'm just a passing fancy. Who cares about Spencer Tracy? In our family it's my wife who counts." ■

The Sky's the Limit!

Sky-borne and deadly, the Stratojet is the "office" aloft of a native Santa Anan, Maj. Jose L. Holguin, USAF, a career man of the Air Force and the "three-headed monster" of the crew—navigator-bombardier-observer.

IF HERNANDO CORTEZ had had any idea of the military capabilities of a descendant of one of his young naval captains, he might have developed an inferiority complex.

If not that, the 16th century conquistador of Mexico no doubt would have gladly traded his entire military force for the services of this descendant and his B-47 Stratojet and crew.

The descendant is Maj. Jose L. Holguin, observer on the three-man crew of a B-47, the medium all-jet bomber of the Strategic Air Command, the nation's long-range nuclear striking arm of the U. S. Air Force.

The officer recently topped 14 years of Air Force duty by putting his crew in the winner's circle during the recent SAC Bombing and Navigation Competition at March Air Force Base. Holguin and his teammates represented the 93rd Bomb Wing, which is stationed at Castle Air Force Base, Calif. They outperformed all others during the week-long event.

It was a gruelling contest, calling for three 3,000-mile missions to be flown over a route which covered the west coast like a blanket. Bomb runs were made on targets in Los Angeles, Sacramento and Spokane. In addition, Holguin had to solve a series of intricate navigation problems from his darkened "office" in the nose of the speeding Stratojet. He helped prove in a large measure the aircraft's bombing capabilities.

HOLGUIN HAS STRONG ancestral ties to Spain on both his mother's and father's side. His father, Jose S. Holguin, traces his family back to a naval captain who came with Cortez from Spain in 1521, and settled in the area of Guadalupe, Mexico. His mother's ancestors came from Oviedo, a little coastal fishing town in Spain, and settled in the same general area of Mexico in the 1600s.

The major was born in Santa Ana on Feb. 1, 1921, shortly after his parents came there from Guadalupe. His mother's grandparents migrated to California around 1880; she met his father during a family trip back to Guadalupe in 1919.

Holguin has two sisters, born during visits to his grandparents' ranch near Guadalupe, and a brother born in Arizona. Both sisters, Hope (Mrs. Don Pruett) and Angelina (Mrs. Manuel Villalobos), now live in Los Angeles. His brother, Ruben, is a professor of art, Spanish and history at a Los Angeles High School.

Before entering the military service Dec. 17, 1941, Holguin attended Belmont High School in Los Angeles, where he was a member of the Eulexian Society, a scholastic honor society. His principal sporting activity during high school was track.

JUST 10 DAYS after Pearl Harbor, Maj. Holguin checked into the Army Air Corps flying school at Mather Field. By August 1942, he had won his navigator's wings. In November of that year, he wound up combat phase training in B-17 Flying Fortresses at Tucson.

When Christmas of 1942 rolled around, Holguin found himself a member of the 43rd Bomb Group, based at Port Moresby, New Guinea. He flew 40 combat missions with the 43rd before he came a cropper.

In June, 1942, while on a raid against the Japanese naval base at Rabaul, New Britain Island, his B-17 was shot down. Holguin was wounded, but managed to evade capture almost a month. He spent the remainder of the war as a Japanese prisoner. Once, during the confusion of an allied air raid, he was creased on the scalp by a bullet from the rifle of a trigger-happy Japanese guard.

After the war, he served a brief tour with the recruiting branch of Headquarters Fourth Air Force in San Francisco. In June of 1946, he was reassigned to Randolph Field, Texas, as an instructor and liaison officer for South American students training at Randolph. While there, he received a letter of commendation from the Guatemalan government for his work. He also served a tour of duty at Williams Field, Arizona, in the same type of job.

In 1948, Maj. Holguin began to get back into the bombing business when he attended the Air Force Bombardment School at Mather Air Force Base, Calif. At graduation in 1949, he placed second in his class in both bombing and academic phases.

THEN CAME HIS longest tour of military duty at one station. He was assigned to Castle Air Force Base, Calif., where he served six and one-half years continously as a combat crew member, actively participating in the development of the Strategic Air Command medium bomber force from the propeller-driven B-29 of World War II fame to the modern all-jet B-47 Stratojet. The major served as radar operator on both the B-29 and its modernized version, the B-50.

After conversion of the Castle wings to B-47s early in the medium jet transition program, Major Holguin became the observer —the "three-headed monster"— of a three-man Stratojet crew, performing the functions of radar operator, navigator and bombardier.

The major has made strong contributions to the world-wide reputation of SAC crews for bombing accuracy. In 1949, he was instrumental in the development of an automatic, slant-

Santa himself is big attraction in Santa's Village at Skyforest, above San Bernardino. Here he feeds burro.

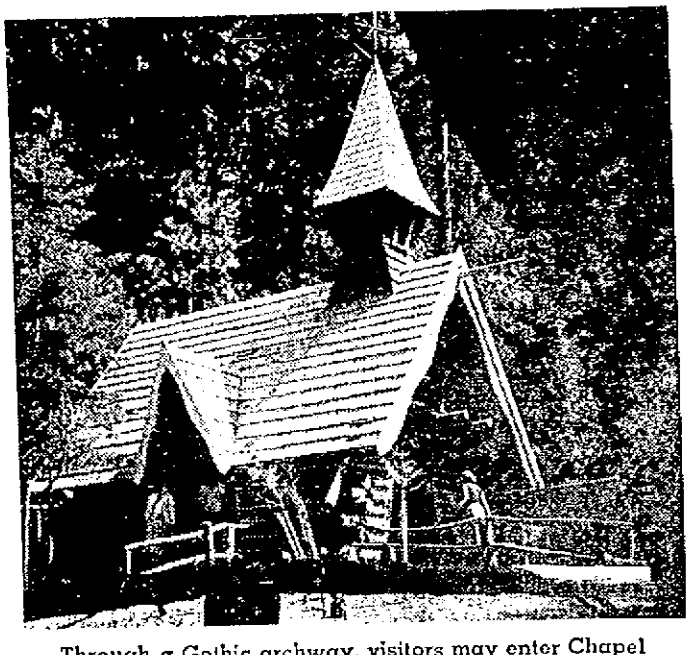

Opportunity to ride a sleigh drawn by real reindeer is feature of Santa's Village. Here's one of the reindeer, surrounded by group of happy gnomes.

The North Pole Is Nearer Than You Think

Giant Jack-in-the-Box smiles down on gnomes, visiting children as they pamper the tame, playful livestock.

Through a Gothic archway, visitors may enter Chapel of the Little Shepherd to view a scene of Nativity.

By Harry Karns

SOME FOLK still think the North Pole is at the northern end of the earth's axis.

Humbug.

It's about 80 miles from my house by car, and much nearer by flying sled.

It's at a place called Skyforest near the Rim O' the World Highway in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The North Pole is there, and it is made of real ice. Also there: A Santa Claus whose whiskers won't pull off, a sleigh pulled by real reindeer, multicolored toadstools, gnomes, and a toy soldier and a jack-in-the-box who stand three times as high as the average 35-year-old boy. Also: A giant candy cane that would give Paul Bunyan a tummyache, a clock that tells time in months, a chapel with a nativity scene, and a lollipop tree—all tucked away in an evergreen forest.

MAYBE SANTA comes to your house only once a year. But if you live in Southern California, you can go to Santa's just about any time of year. (They'll be closed Christmas Day, however.)

For instance, four smaller children and I visited there late in August and found the sleigh bells ringing merrily along with the cash registers. Santa's Village is not only a very pleasant and attractive place, but also a most successful one. In its first six months of business, it has drawn 400,000 visitors, counting grownups.

What fascinates most visitors about Santa's Village is the animal life. Nonchalant, self-confident reindeer, burros and goats wander around the premises poking their noses into coat pockets in search of apples.

The reindeer, by the way, were imported from Alaska. They number more than 30.

According to the management, Santa's Village has the world's first and only sleigh ride drawn by reindeer.

THAT IS, THE FIRST and only such ride that ever existed outside a story book or the imagination of small folk.

You might expect such a distinction to go to a reindeer's head, but actually there isn't an arrogant reindeer on the premises.

AVAILABLE at Santa's milk bar are baby bottles—not for human babies, but for the goats and burros. I saw no reindeer drinking from baby bottles. Reindeer are too dignified for that sort of thing. A burro, however, will drink from your bottle, search you for peppermint, and follow you to an outdoor table and sit down to share your lunch.

If you have never eaten lunch with a burro, you are not a cosmopolitan. It is not exactly like eating with Emily Post, but you would be charmed I'm sure.

For this kind of entertainment you spend very little. However, if you feel determined to spend money at Santa Claus Village—well, I cannot tell a lie, it is possible. The management has thoughtfuly made gift shops and rides available at strategic spots.

WHILE CASH REGISTERS jangle in the Village, they are discreetly located at the exits. During your stay, you carry a little card on which your hosts keep a record of purchases. On the way out your bill is tallied.

Explains H. Glenn Holland, president of the enterprise: "Santa's purchase order system was instituted so that his visitors would not be exchanging money in every one of his workshops. Our feeling is that this helps preserve the tradition of Santa in the eyes of his sharp-eyed little visitors."

There's some good psychology in that. Though I heard one little sharp-eyed visitor arguing with his daddy:

"Why can't I ride the sleigh again? It doesn't cost you nothin'."

GRAMMATICALLY SPEAKING, that's correct. But to be fair, the prices are in line with other Southern California amusements.

And how can you put a price on this kind of dialog:

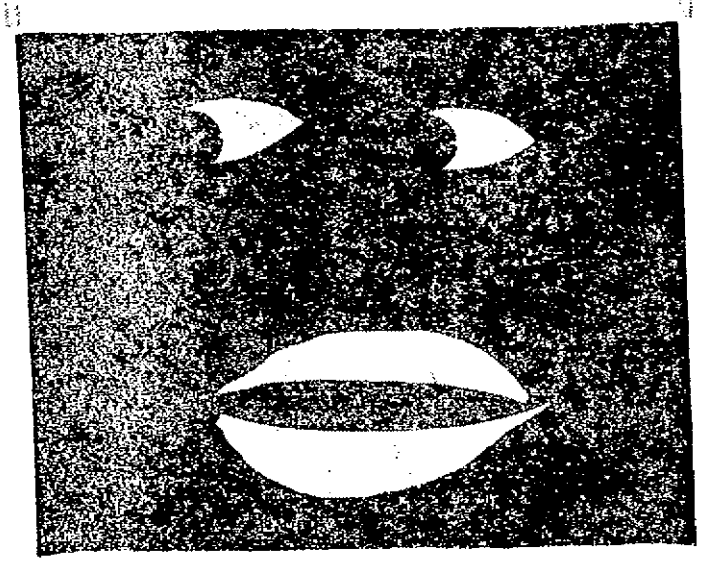

"Daddy, I'll be right back. Watch my malted milk, will you—don't let the burro get it."

From Long Beach follow Highway 18 until you come to a livestock crossing where a burro is sitting under an evergreen drinking malted milk.

Toy soldier towers tall, straight and dignified.

Look Ma! No Camera!

Here's a native of Darkest Africa in a coal mine at midnight, lights out. Made of leaves, paper cutouts.

Even "Fido" joins the photogram family album. His sweet eyes are sugar-coated almonds, sticky nose is a paper label, the rest of him is twine.

By Michael Kosinski

ARE YOU dissatisfied with your snapshots?

Are your pictures out of focus?

Are there too many gadgets on your camera to understand it?

Are you a—er—lousy photographer?

If your answers to the above questions are yes, you can produce portraits "the photogram way." You'll be proud to hang the results in any saloon (or is it salon?).

Anyone can produce photograms. They are pictures made without a camera by direct exposure of opaque and transparent objects upon photographic paper.

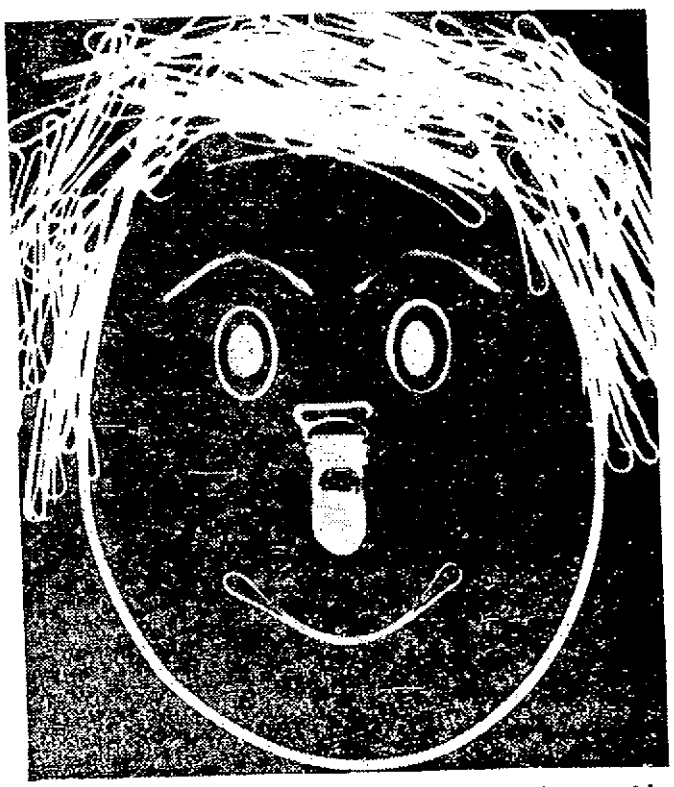

For a cash outlay of about $2 your local photo dealer will supply you with easy-to-mix chemicals, instructions and photographic paper with which you can make 25 8x10 photograms.

No previous photographic experience is necessary—only a minimum of materials and a resourceful imagination. If you experiment with such objects as thread, clips, coins and paper, soon you'll discover that your photogram will mold into any composition, texture or design.

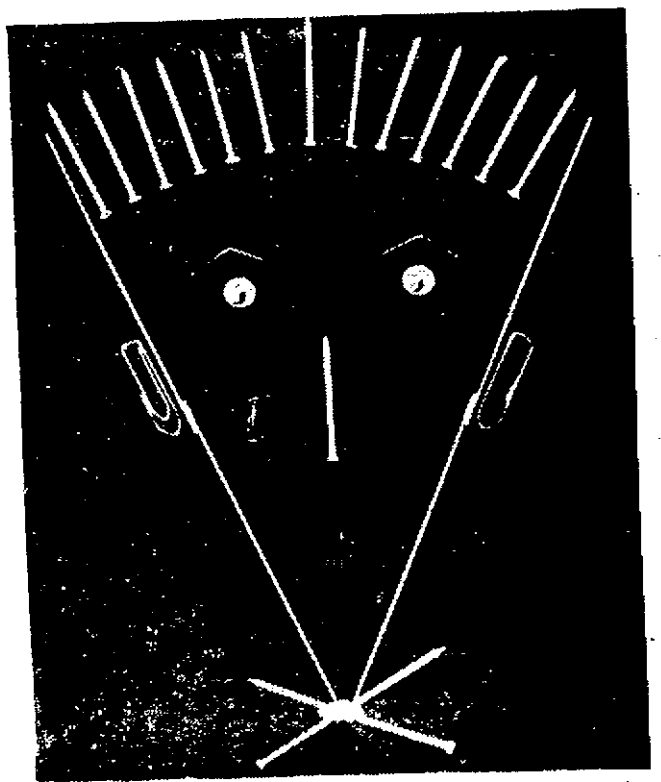

Your production of photograms does not require any complicated equipment or costly materials. In a dark room with a red or amber safe light, the photogram is made by simply placing objects —such as keys, feathers, your own hand—directly upon the photographic paper and turning on the room light for a few seconds. The opaque objects, not permitting light to pass, leave that area on the paper white, while the uncovered portions of the paper turn black when placed in the developer for a minute or two.

In an illuminated room you can compose more complicated designs on a sheet of clean glass which is later placed upon the photographic paper for exposure to light.

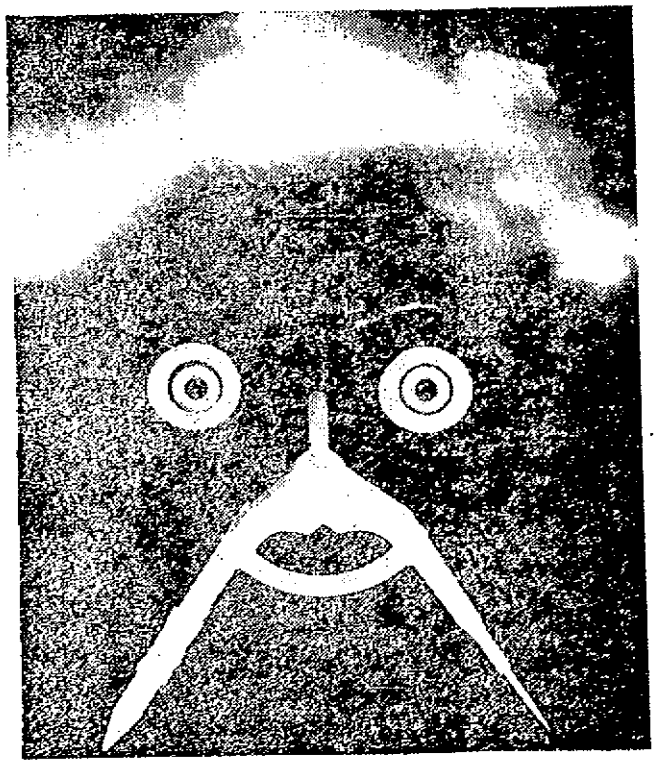

The photograms which you see here are a new dimension in photography and humor. It doesn't take much time to imagine appropriate objects for humorous photograms. The opportunities you'll find are unlimited.

"Woman Just Out of Bed." Chin of camera release cable, nose of girdle garter clasp and hair of rubber bands.

This is a self portrait of the author, with eyes of thumb tacks, a spring mouth—you can recognize rest.

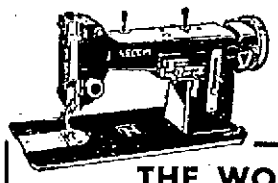

"Uncle Zeke Sees a Bikini." Rubber, paper washers are eyes; cotton, cord and a compass complete the rest.

Grandma's nose is very sharp, lips are dried leaves. Earrings, washers, matchsticks, beads finish portrait.

Santa Claus Professor

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

DR. Roy Alexander Thornton, business administration professor and corporation consultant who now makes his home in Huntington Park, has won many distinctions in the pursuit of his educational specialties but around the campus—and even in the directors' board rooms of the country's leading business institutions—he's most frequently referred to as the "Santa Claus professor," a title that delights him more than a whole string of doctor's degrees. Dr. Thornton is a foremost authority on the subject of Saint Nick and conducts extra-curricular courses on the history of the jolly, white-haired gent and other Christmas lore.

It all began as a hobby about 15 years ago and later developed into a major research project when Dr. Thornton's own three small youngsters kept pestering him the year around for more of his enthralling Christmas stories. As he delved deeper into Yuletide history, Dr. Thornton became a veritable walking encyclopedia of everything pertaining to Christmas down through the ages.

Today his lectures on the subject fill auditoriums in a dozen California towns whenever his regular work schedule permits him to accept engagements to speak before civic groups, conventions and Sunday school classes.

"PSYCHOLOGISTS MIGHT find something significant in the fact that my Santa Claus lectures often are better attended than my business administration classes," Dr. Thornton says. "It would seem that people are more interested in folklore than in the hard realities of economic life."

Santa Claus—as we know him—has existed only since 1823 when Clement Clark Moore wrote the poem, "The Night Before Christmas," says Dr. Thornton This inspired Thomas Nast, famed cartoonist, to make the first sketch of the beloved character shortly before the Civil War.

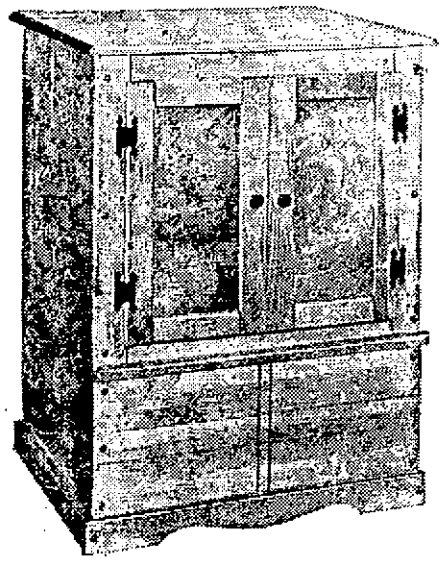

"Gift giving at the Christmas season began in the Fourth Century," Dr. Thornton recalls, "when Bishop Nicholas of Myra in Asia Minor—now Turkey—started giving food and clothing to the needy on his own birthday, Dec. 6. After his death, the custom continued as a memorial and Dec. 6 was called St. Nicholas Day.

THE CUSTOM SPREAD to Europe and in Holland the words "Santa Claus" appeared for the first time, according to Dr. Thornton's research. Spelled Klaase, the word is a German derivative of the Christ Child and the Dutch Santa was an elfin-like representative of the Child who appeared on St. Nicholas Day, and took orders for delivery on Christmas Eve. He wore a flat black hat and long-tailed Flemish coat, and when he returned on Christmas Eve, he was supposed to ride a white horse.

"The word "yuletide" stems from a midwinter celebration of pagan northern Europe, called "Hweoltid," later changed to "yuletide." This festival, Dr. Thornton's study revealed, came about because, as the days grew shorter in winter, the pagans feared that the world was going into permanent darkness. So, when Dec. 21 had passed and they could see the days beginning to lengthen again, there was fasting and jubilation, and masters gave gifts to their servants. The church accepted the returning light to Hweoltid as a gift from the Christ Child, who brought light to the world.

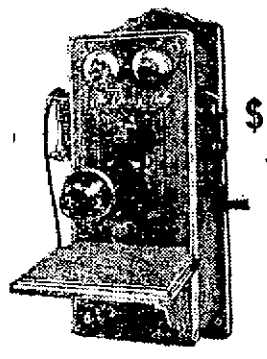

"But Christmas in America will always be exemplified by the kindly and bewhiskered old gentleman with his sleigh and prancing reindeer," Dr. Thornton acknowledges, "a priceless gift of poet Moore's fertile imagination."

New Queen of Musical Comedy

HAVE YOU MET Shirley MacLaine, blue-eyed, long-legged, curvaceous and freckle-nosed 21-year-old who skyrocketed from obscurity to top stardom on stage, screen and TV, all in one little old year?

You may have that opportunity during the Christmas holidays when "Artists and Models," Paramount's VistaVision-Technicolor film musical comedy is scheduled for release.

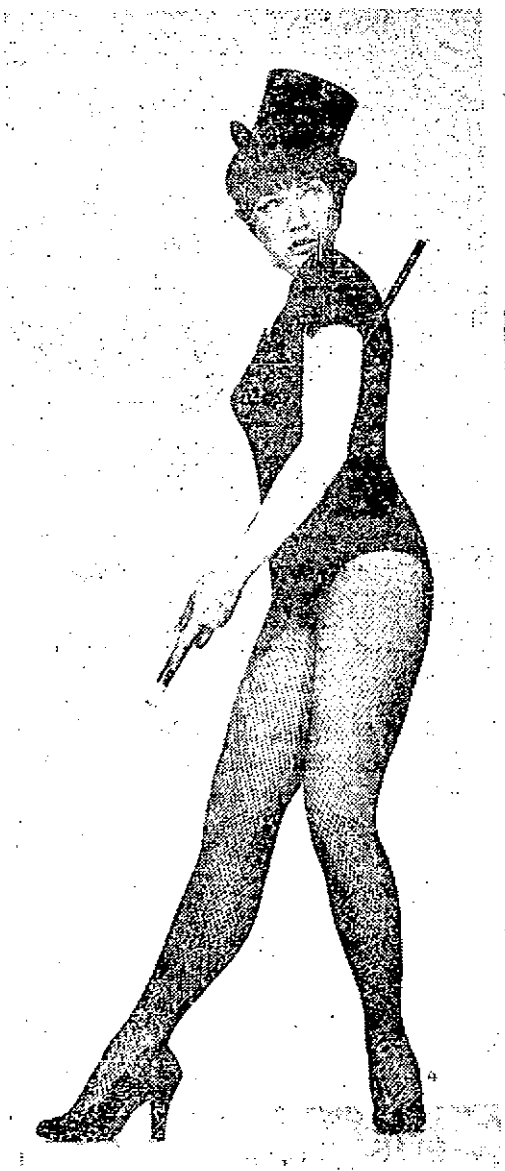

Shirley wowed movie scouts in her very first appearance in "The Pajama Game," hit Broadway stage show. And why not? She's 5 feet 6 inches tall, measures 34-24-34. Besides, says Hal Wallis, producer of "Artists and Models," she's a "near-genius," that she "combines continental charm with American wholesomeness."

In her newest screen role she models, romances with Jerry Lewis, plays receptionist, and dances, dances, dances!,

Paramount, which claims to know a good thing when it sees one, regards her with the degree of affection that might be accorded a newly-found uranium mine.

Queen of "Artists and Models," new musical comedy film, is blue-eyed, freckle-nosed Shirley MacLaine.

Shirley is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, measures 34-24-34. And she dances, dances!

Her producer says she combines continental charm with U. S. wholesomeness.

It's Strictly for the Birds

By Helen Smith

Washed up on the beach by a comber, this iron kettle now hangs in an apple tree as a feeder for the birds.

FREQUENTLY the items that make the most desirable and interesting features around the household are not the things purchased in the stores.

Because of an unusual find, one of the favorite spots of our home centers around our apple tree. It is not the crisp fruit the tree bears each fall, nor is it the pink and white blossoms clothing the branches in the spring that is the chief attraction.

Rather it is the "different" bird feeder hanging within the shade of the spreading boughs that causes this place to attract the entire family.

The bird feeder, a little iron kettle just five inches in diameter and obviously many years old, came rolling up on the beach via a huge comber one summer day, possibly from the bottom of the ocean, where it may have been confined in the galley of an old sailing vessel for decades.

ALTHOUGH IT MUST have bubbled with many a concoction in bygone days, the kettle now holds offerings for the birds as it swings in the breeze. In the spring and summer there is an assortment of seeds. Now that winter is at hand, pieces of suet and bird "cookies" made from ground fat and peanut butter lure the migrating songsters.

While the birds nibble at the food we like to imagine the dishes the little kettle once produced. Pungent, rich sauces perhaps. Or delicious delicacies redolent with spices from the Far East to tempt the captain's palate as a schooner followed the four winds over the blue-green sea.

Now the little kettle, rocking gently in its quiet haven, is content to hold only sustenance for the feathered visitors to our garden.

Cockroach in the Compass

By Clarence Bernard Propes

IT IS PRETTY WELL established that the Scandinavians were in America before Columbus.

First of all they settled Iceland and they tell of finding Irish books and other objects when they landed. There is even a pamphlet called "The Irish In America Before Columbus."

The Welsh would probably sneer at such Irish claim for they are said to have had settlements on the Florida coast before Columbus appeared. They could also tell of a Welshman captured by the Tuscarora Indians of Virginia in 1685. He got along fine for Welsh seems to have made up a great part of the tribal language.

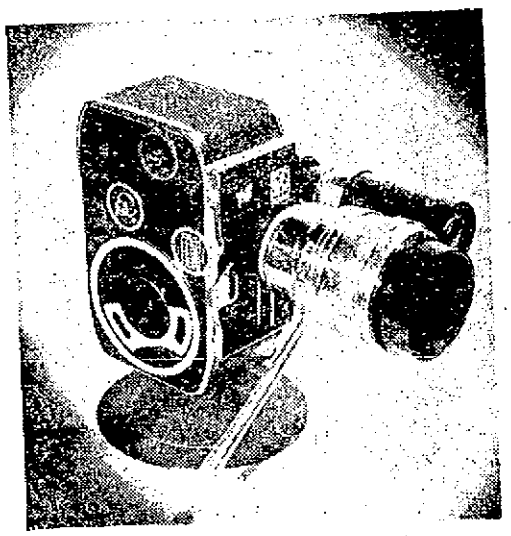

IF PHOENICIANS were still around they would sneer at the claims of everyone for they would call attention to certain Phoenician inscriptions high on some rocks near Rio de Janeiro. According to some scholars, these were engraved 800 or 900 years before Christ. Other scholars say the writing is strictly phony but no one has yet been able to prove anything. The Chinese enter the picture, too. If they are anything like their Russian brethren they will start making claims of various "firsts." Chinese history is long and glorious and their literature is vast but they will turn to an American newspaper to prove they discovered America. The paper will be the New York Tribune of Sept. 10, 1890.

It isn't unlikely that Chinese, as well as other peoples of the Pacific Ocean, landed in North America. A current flows from the far reaches of the Pacific to these shores. A drifting boat, caught in this current, would almost inevitably land on this coast. For instance, glass floats from the nets of Japanese fishermen can be found in many curio shops. Many of these floats were found on California beaches. However, there is a great deal of difference between flotsam and discovery.

ACCORDING TO the Tribune, proof was found that the Chinese discovered America 200 years before Christ. An American missionary, the Reverend Dr. Shaw, discovered a manuscript in an obscure Chinese town which revealed the discovery.

According to this document a Captain Hee-Li, the owner and commander of a trading vessel, was caught in a great storm and driven far out to sea. When the storm abated the captain set a compass course for the east and home. It seems that a "yang-si" bug which closely resembles our cockroach had died under the compass needle, wedging it so that it pointed south instead of north.

It should be mentioned that (Continued on Page 28.)

FASHION

Dig That Young Man-About-Town

"Dress-alikes and "Just-like-Dad's" ride the crest of the tide of new, colorful ideas in California designers' fashions for spring. For instance: new continental-collared casual jackets for boys that imitate Dad's. They have waist-length styling with insets of elasticized all-wool knit for a trim and bulk-free look. The Bee "easy-open" neckline is a feature of shirts for the whole family and is a gimmick of the dress-alikes that's popular. Sportswear gains new designs and color combinations. Men's suits and accessories acquire new treatment in a trend to bring back individuality, elegance of age when men wore more frills.

Two young men about town, each reflecting in dress the California trend toward casual jackets for little boys that look exactly like the clothes for Dad.

"Crazy Stripes" puts the whole family in dress-alikes . . . comfort assured, and ultra-stylish, too. Broad front panels offer contrast with the stripes.

These Girls Are Mostly French

Trans World Airlines' high flying hostess corps — over 900 strong and handsome — is 20 years old this month.

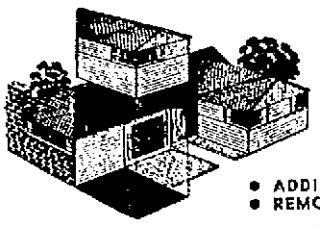

These smartly attired, personable young women symbolize TWA service over the airline's 33,000 miles of world air routes, according to Meriam Filkins, TWA's flight service manager, who heads the corps.

She recalls the first class of 23 hostesses, of which she was a member, who went aboard TWA's latest and fastest transport—1935 version—the Douglas DC-2. All of them were Registered Nurses, between 21 and 26 years of age, between 5 feet and 5 feet 4 inches tall, and somewhere between 100 and 118 pounds—minus their heavy gray serge, man-tailored, long-coated uniforms trimmed with epaulets and patch pockets.

As the air transports increased in size and configuration over the years, so did the hostess group. Today's fashionable TWA skygirl is between 21 and 28 years old, between 5 feet 2 and 5 feet 8 inches tall, and between 105 and 135 pounds and has some college or three years of business experience behind her. If she serves on TWA's international routes, she generally knows another language beside English.

About 80 of the more than 900 hostesses flying TWA routes are based in Paris and fly within Europe, Africa, the Middle East and India. In the majority, the girls are French.

Hostess training classes—in both Kansas City and Paris—are always in session because of high marital "attrition" among the group. The girls are trained for a period of four to five weeks, then are given a period of in-flight training.

COOKING

Festive Christmas Breakfast

By Mildred K. Flanary

Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

IT'S HOLIDAY TIME! Holiday time brings throughts of gay decorations, mysterious bundles, great quantities of wonderful foods and, of course, lots of at-home entertaining. The mood and the hour of these festive occasions are usually governed by family tradition.

In the Palos Verdes home of Dr. and Mrs. Grant Beckstrand, 1400 Via Monte Mar, a holiday breakfast is being planned. With the unique and luscious menu underway, Mrs. Beckstrand is giving equal attention to the decor. Tinsel, Christmas baubles, mistletoe and sprigs of holly berries will all weave themselves in to a warm and festive setting, thoroughly in keeping with the piece de resistance of the day.

Her menu reads like this:

Fruit Juices—Orange, Grapefruit, Tomato
Oeufs a la Suisse
(Eggs Swiss Style)
Little Pork Sausages
Mimi's Muffins
Coffee

Now for you who are all agog with anticipation of partaking in Oeufs a la Suisse, here is Mrs. Beckstrand's recipe:

Oeufs a la Suisse

In an earthenware casserole place 2 cups grated Swiss cheese, 3 tablespoons butter, dotted over the cheese; 1½ cups champagne or dry white wine, 1 teaspoon each finely chopped chervil, parsley, chives, and shallots; salt, coarsely ground pepper and a small grating of nutmeg. Cook the mixture over a gentle flame, stirring constantly until the cheese melts and bubbles. Lower the flame to the finest point and beat into the mixture, 6 egg yolks, beating briskly after each addition. Then add, mixing well, the 6 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Continue cooking the mixture, stirring constantly from the bottom and sides of the dish until it is well scrambled. Serve immediately on fresh made toast. To heighten the flavor, each piece of toast may first be spread with 3 tablespoons butter, mixed with ½ teaspoon each anchovy paste and onion juice.

Mimi's Muffins

2 cups cake flour
2 rounded teaspoons double action baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
5 eggs
½ pint thick cream

Beat egg yolks, add sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add cream and beaten egg whites. Stir. Bake 20 to 25 minutes at 375 degrees.

For those of you who find the holiday hustle and bustle has left you short on time, we suggest a Breezy Broiler Breakfast:

The Menu:

Broiled Grapefruit
Honey Muffets
Pineapple 'n Meat Broil
Toast Butter Jelly
Milk Coffee

HONEY MUFFETS

Mix together 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons honey and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Place a tablespoon of mixture on each of 4 Muffets (the round shredded wheat biscuit).

GRAPEFRUIT

Cut each grapefruit in half; section each half and sprinkle 1 tablespoon brown sugar on top.

PINEAPPLE 'N MEAT

Arrange all foods on broiler rack; broil about 4 inches from heat until sugar is bubbly on Muffets and grapefruit. Serve grapefruit on small plates, the Muffets in cereal dishes with milk and the meat on an attractive platter. Easy? Yes!

Baked Eggs

Chop very fine 1 medium-size onion. Cook until golden brown in tablespoon butter. Add 3 tablespoons minced canned mushrooms, 1 teaspoon chopped chives, 1 tablespoon Sherry wine, 3 tablespoons tomato sauce, 3 tablespoons bouillon and let cook until reduced to one-half. Divide evenly in 6 baking dishes. Break two eggs in each dish and pour 1 teaspoon cream over each dish. Sprinkle with salt. Set in hot oven for 5 minutes or until eggs are just set.

Potato Pancakes

¾ cup mashed potatoes
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup flour
4 eggs, separated
1½ cups equal parts potato water and evaporated milk
½ cup chopped onions (if desired)
Pepper

Mix potatoes with flour and salt. Combine beaten egg yolks and liquid and add to dry mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on hot griddle. Makes about 14 cakes.

Festive with gay baubles is the scene for Christmas breakfast being prepared by Mrs. Grant Beckstrand.

Only the Best in Recipes

Aiming at making "just average" cooks great ones and good cooks "masters," Marvin Small has compiled a volume to delight the heart of any gourmet in his "World's Best Recipes" (Hawthorn Books, $5). Small admits a measure of literary license in his title but does claim to have a prize collection of cooking achievements on a world-wide scale.

Small has made his selection from among the recipes of the top chefs, best restaurants and leading authors of books on cooking, to whom an egg is far more than just something the hen laid and a stew is a work of art, not just a mess of boiled up meat and vegetables. Among his sources, too, are many of the world's leading restaurants and their most successful recipes. Scores of his recipes are preceded by chatty comments well calculated to tickle the funnybone as well as stimulate the appetite. His field ranges from the everyday to those culinary specialties not for the gouty.

Provincial Charm in Cape Cod Manner

Brick barbecue, pass-through and spacious floor area combine to make the Don Stages' family room a splendid place for entertaining, family activity.

Photos by H. S. Melvin

Cape Cod tradition was followed in styling the exterior of this house. Dormer windows offer interest.

By Eileen Ball

MANY PERSONS devoted to the early American trend in furniture and architecture haplessly acquire the belief that such allegiance must necessarily include much detail, use of the so-called "warm" colors and an endless array of such bric-a-brac as salt boxes, old butter churns and wash boilers (all converted to planters).

Actually, much of what was best about the typical American house of the 18th century (and this still stands for good taste today) was the prim simplicity that lent many Cape Cod houses an atmosphere of near-severity.

This purity, descriptive of the typical wooden, dormer-windowed house of that era, made the Cape Cod structure capable of accepting almost any style of furniture providing it was modest.

Apparently well versed in the background of the Cape Cod cottage are Mr. and Mrs. Don Stage whose two-story 3200-square-foot, early American house at 5250 Los Flores attests to this young couple's cognizance of just what was best in the residence of the 1700s.

The gray shingle siding used for the exterior is modestly trimmed in snowy white, for the muntins of the multi-paned windows, the shutters, dormer window boxes, paneled recessed porch and for the prim coach lantern post that stands beside the winding brick pathway leading to the door.

RUFFLED UNBLEACHED muslin tie-back curtains at the three dormer windows echo the handsome, fully-pleated and tied-back muslin curtains that hang in rich, opaque folds across the living room bay.

The entry hall is unusually interesting with its paneled walls painted soft buttercup yellow. The wallpaper is pale yellow, gold and snowy white in a traditional colonial medallion. And the focal spot of this area, the one that meets the eye from the doorway, is a recessed wall niche "framed" with a scalloped molding painted yellow. Within the niche is a small baroque-framed gilt mirror below which is a container (hidden by the molding) that holds seasonal flower arrangements. Thus, the atmosphere of the house — one of warmth, hospitality and traditional dignity — is established right here where apple blossoms, ruddy chrysanthemums, holly berries or daffodils "bloom" in season.

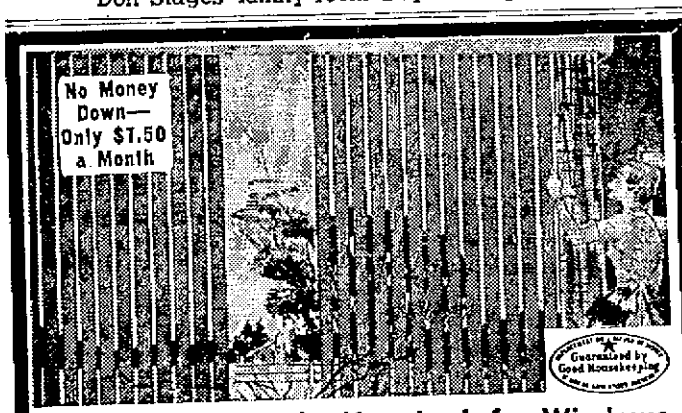

THE LIVING ROOM, in combination with the dining room, is imposing for its size and for the dignity of its appointments. It is paneled in Wedgewood blue and the paneled fireplace is painted to match. The firebox is faced around with pale blue tiles overglazed with white provincial figures and motifs. Brass sconces, an antique clock for the mantel, a polished tile hearth, on which the fire is merrily reflected, and a gaily painted, black tile wood bin accessorize the fireplace.

Spanning the width of huge bay windows in both the living and dining areas are padded cornice boxes covered in the same soft colored, floral-patterned chintz that was used for the upholstery of a pair of high-backed wing chairs that stand "pretty as a picture" in the living room bay.

THE DINING AREA, somewhat narrower than the extraordinarily wide living room which it adjoins, may be completely and attractively closed off with folding, louvered doors painted the same soft blue as the walls. Folded back, the doors are an attractive feature that effectively set off the dining set of provincial fruitwood.

The kitchen has all the modest charm associated with those of the old Cape Cod cottages. Its sunny yellow linoleum floor is banded in strips of chocolate brown. Richly waxed knotty pine cabinets hinged with black iron are integrated with yellow tile work counters. The service area, which is divided from the the preparation area by a low partition, is papered in a tiny-print "calico" floral employing tones of yellow, brown and china blue. The same paper was brought into the kitchen area above the plate line. A built-in pine desk and fully ruffled yellow organdy tie-back curtains complete this charming provincial picture.

The family room is handily located next to the kitchen which it joins by means of a divided Dutch door. Flanking the door is a wide pass-through that greatly facilitates the serving of food to large companies of guests. And well able to accommodate such groups is this roomy 17x22 foot area with its copper-lined brick barbecue capable of cooking to perfection a dozen steaks at a time.

THE ENTIRE ROOM is panelled with channeled knotty pine. Further adding to the atmosphere of provincialism are exposed rafters, a wide expanse of windows completely installed with adjustable pine shutters, wall-to-wall carpet of colorful random tweed, and a ceiling fixture consisting of an old wagon wheel hung with oldfashioned lanterns.

Near the Dutch door stands the round maple table with its lazy susan server and charming tavern chairs. Deeply comfortable chairs stand near the fireplace and in still another area of the room is a handsome pumpkin colored tweed wing sofa and round maple coffee table.

A short hallway from the family room leads to the master bedroom and its adjoining bath.

The bath, carried out in wedgewood blue and pale yellow, is extremely large and features an entired mirrored wall "framed" with a scalloped molding behind which fluorescent lights have been installed.

The master bedroom is furnished in antiques, the most outstanding of which is a high four-poster bed spread with a handmade ecru crocheted coverlet. The wallpaper is ivory with random clusters of oldfashioned field flowers. The trim is pale yellow, in coordination with the bathroom.

THE GUEST ROOM, located to the left of the entry, is carpeted in Confederate grey and, like the master bedroom, is outfitted with antique furniture. The coral bedspread has echoed

5 Million Acres Sprayed

The "spruce budworm" destroys tree life by eating the leaves.

This summer 2 million acres of trees, in Idaho, Oregon and Montana, were sprayed with insecticide, from airplanes.

In the years 1949 to 1954 six similar annual "budworm" control projects were carried out on three million acres in Oregon and Washington. The mortality average was 98 per cent.

The cost runs a little over $1 per acre. This is borne proportionately by the land owners; Federal, State and private.

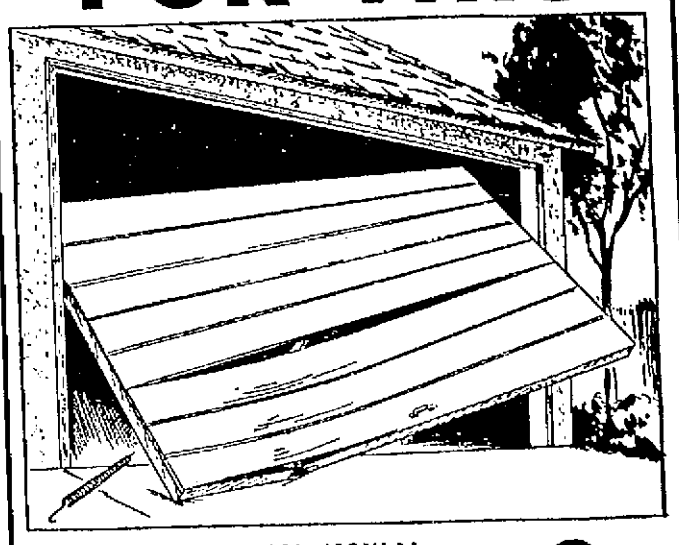

The threatened timber in Idaho alone is estimated to be capable of producing 800 million dollars worth of semi-manufactured products.

She Rehabilitates Women Alcoholics

By Herbert Ford

Miss Lorraine Otis, above, reading Scriptures, leads L. A. program for rehabilitation of women alcoholics.

IN A SPRAWLING, 19-room home at 348 S. Occidental Blvd., Los Angeles, just off Lafayette Park, a quiet purposeful woman is pioneering in one of the most difficult areas known to sociologists — rehabilitation of women alcoholics.

Miss Lorraine Otis knows the scope of her task well, for she was once a hopeless alcoholic herself.

For the past year Miss Otis has been reclaiming alcoholic women from Los Angeles' Lincoln Heights jail, bringing them to her home, personally helping them guard the dangerous "fringe" areas that might lead back to uncontrolled drinking, fortifying them with strong practical and spiritual principles, and finding useful jobs near the home where a quick phone call can be made if "trouble" starts again.

"The job is slow and needs an almost uncanny understanding of the particular problems these women face," Miss Otis says. "Practically every area of these lives has to be completely reconstructed by patient, slow, and expertly guided work."

WHAT IS THE PROGRAM Miss Otis uses?

"First of all we are careful in our selection of girls at the jail," she says. "If a girl does not want to conquer her problems then there isn't much we can do for her. But if there is a spark of hope in her life she is a good prospect."

Miss Otis presents a weekly religious program at the jail and in this way brings "an awareness of eternal values and obligations" to otherwise hopeless lives.

"At the home we continue to cultivate this spiritual concept. But the purely physical and mental aspects of rehabilitation receive just as much attention. For example, normal social contacts, good reading material, group solving of everyday problems as well as individual self-reliance are stressed."

MANY GIRLS have "graduated" from the home to useful and successful jobs. Miss Otis is especially proud of one young lady, for 10 years a narcotics addict, who is today completely cured of her former habits and is one of the home's biggest boosters.

The road hasn't been easy for the slightly-built, courageous woman who has dedicated her efforts to this unusual work. Operated on a self-supporting basis, the home is always "just this side of the rent bill."

No religious or civic organization supports the home, for Miss Otis wants the program "unhindered by religious dogma or organizational complication. It operates best when it is simple," she says.

"OUR GREATEST SUPPORT comes from individuals who feel that reclaiming otherwise lost lives is one of the most important works in the world. Though this type of contribution is usually smaller than might come from an organization, still it means more for it is given 'without strings attached' and can be put to immediate work."

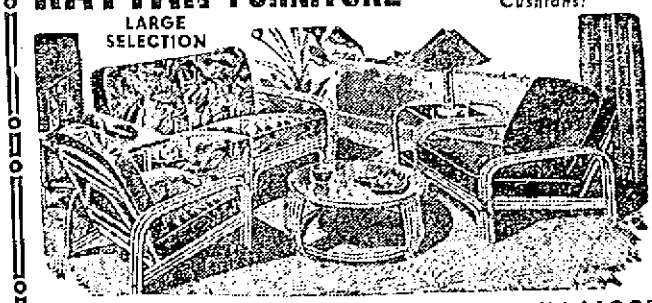

A devout member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church who was converted at one of the church's annual camp meetings in 1951, Miss Otis looks forward to a bright future for her alcoholic rehabilitation home. "Whenever people visit our home and learn of the program, they immediately want to help. And when more people hear of it there will be more help. Then we can care for more girls and the problem of rehabilitation of alcoholic women, in the entire Los Angeles area, will be lessened."

Man With a Lot of Drag

Editor of "Drag News," Dean Brown can no longer participate in racing but has never lost his interest.

—Drag News Photo

Sizzling action marks every session of the hot rods on the courses especially built for them. Here, a test of car and motorcycle is settled.

By Vera Williams

"There's a little bit of the Barney Oldfield in everybody."

So says Dean Brown, 26, and because he believes it and because he has been a hot rod enthusiast all of his life, he publishes what he believes is the only drag strip newspaper in the United States.

He does it from a wheelchair because, in August 1952, he broke his neck in a highway traffic — not drag strip — accident near Blythe, and doctors say he will not walk again.

Brown's publication is Drag News, which comes out every other week, a 12-page newspaper covering the news of Southern California drag strips, their drivers and their cars. Newspaper offices are at 1736 E. Broadway. Drag News is published by the Independent, Press-Telegram job printing department.

THE PAPER has national circulation, although of course circulation is concentrated in this area. It may be obtained by subscription, or it may be bought at drag strips or speed shops.

Eventually Brown hopes to expand it to cover news of the upwards of 500 drag strips in the United States.

There are, he says, something like 10,000 hot rodders in California, something like 50,000 in the nation. In the main, they are boys and young men with a flair for speed and talent for building, rebuilding and handling cars. But there are some girl and young women hot rodders, and some of both sexes who are adults. Readers of Drag News largely are in their 20s.

"'HOT RODDER' isn't a term of criticism," says Brown, eyes flashing. "Your true hot rodder doesn't jeopardize life or limb — his own or anybody else's — on the highway. He goes to a drag strip, where he can race his car under approved conditions.

"He either has a car built for racing or a stock car that he has modified — at the expenditure of $100 to $200 and quite a bit of time. Generally speaking, he uses his car for regular transportation, to get to school or the job and home again, to take his girl out on dates.

"But — " Brown warms to the subject. "Drag strips also are open to Mr. and Mrs. Citizen who have no real interest in racing but would like to know their car's capabilities. Speedometers aren't always accurate; Mr. and Mrs. Citizen know better than to run their car at its top speed on the highways.

"They can go to a drag strip and for $1.25 or so get a complete safety checkup of their car, race it to find its top speed in the quarter mile and if successful in class eliminations, take home a trophy.

"TIMING IS FULLY electronic and is accurate to one-hundred thousandth of a second."

Timing distance of drag strips, says Brown, always is a quarter of a mile, 1,320 feet, with ample stopping room. Two cars race at a time. They start from a dead stop. They are timed two ways: the elapsed time, in seconds, required to cover the quarter-mile, and top speed, expressed as miles per hour, attained as the vehicle crosses the finish line.

Southern California drag strip records thus far are 152.007 miles per hour, and 9.68 seconds elapsed time, according to Brown. The 152.007 speed, chalked up by Lloyd Scott of Long Beach at the San Fernando strip last October, is considered a world drag strip record.

Local hot rodders usually go to the Lions Associated Drag Strip, opened by far-sighted Lions Clubs of this area last October at 223rd St. and Alameda Blvd.

OTHER DRAG STRIPS in this area are at the Orange County airport near Santa Ana, Los Angeles County Fair Grounds at Pomona, Morrow airfield at Colton, San Fernando airport and Saugus airport.

The all-out drag vehicle is stripped of nonessentials, and especially of nonessential weight. Its engine is toward the rear, resulting in more weight on the driving wheels; it utilizes a specially built body, and often as not a fuel injection system rather than conventional carburetors.

Instead of gasoline, a dragster is likely to burn such high oxygen-bearing fuels as methanol or nitromethane. Such fuel blends can cost as high as $20 a gallon, but the phenomenal engine outputs obtained apparently justify the expense.

BROWN, who was born in Salina, Kan., came to Long Beach in 1940 and was graduated from Wilson High School in 1947. He worked for North American Aviation Co., then served four years in the Air Force as a jet engine instructor at Sheppard Field, Tex.

The Blythe accident was followed by two years in the Veterans Administration Hospital. He and his wife, Billie, 25, a former Community Hospital nurse whom he met when he came home on furlough one time, were married last Feb. 13.

Billie is stenographer-secretary-cashier-telephone operator for Drag News; Dick McMullen, 25, who was a jet pupil of Brown's in Texas, is general manager; Carl Johnson, 36, whom Brown met when they both were VA Hospital patients, is business manager. Johnson, injured in World War II, also is in a wheelchair.

BROWN, McMULLEN and the Drag News photographers, Ed Teets and Bob Knight, spend Sundays at the drag strips covering events. Billie compiles the race results.

Crop in Close to Your Subject

IF YOU EVER find among your snapshots one in which your primary subject doesn't stand out as much as you'd like . . . if you are wishing you'd have moved in a little closer with your camera, stop the wishful thinking because the situation can still be remedied.

This remedy has a name. It's called cropping and enlarging. That's because you "crop away" all of the picture that you don't want, and enlarge the part that's left.

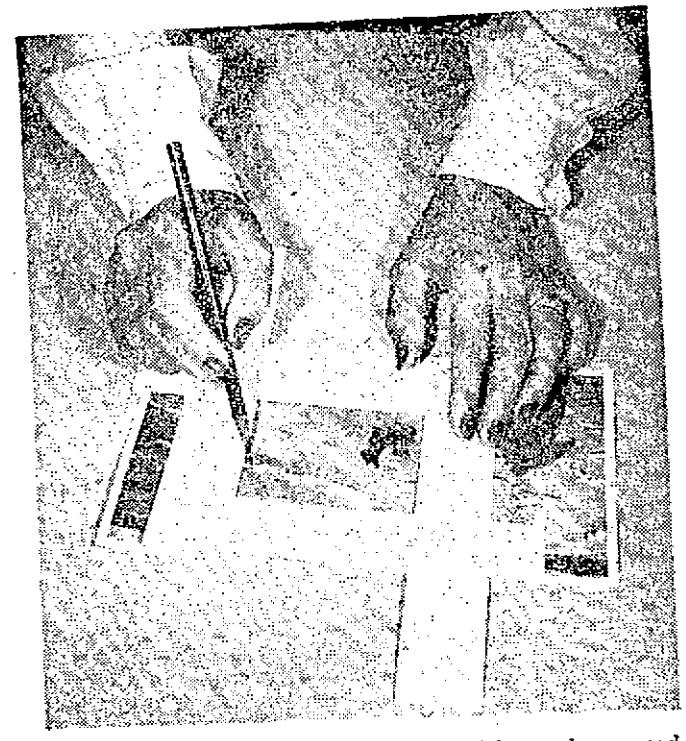

It's a regular practice among professional photographers and amateurs who do their own darkroom work. We know people who just never seem to make a print of a whole negative. Thus, they have a chance to improve their composition after the picture is taken.

But so does everyone—whether you do your own printing or not. Your photofinisher can do it for you.

All you need do is select the square or rectangular area of the snapshot that you'd like enlarged. Mark it on the print (use grease pencil and take it, with your snapshot if you want to save the negative, to your photofinisher.

It's a good idea to consult him about the size of your enlarge-range computer for the Q-13 Bombing Computer, which greatly increased the bombing accuracy of B-29s operating from the Far East during the Korean War.

In 1951, he developed an attachment for a later radar bombing computer, which has since been incorporated in most of SAC's bombers and is now installed as standard equipment at the factory on the new eight-jet B-52, now being phased into the command at SAC's long-range, heavy bomber.

HOLGUIN HAS participated in five of SAC's seven annual bombing and navigation competitions. In 1952, he was a member of a crew that helped win the Fairchild Trophy for the 93rd Bomb Wing of Castle, the outstanding unit of the competition.

In 1954, his crew was the second highest scoring B-47 crew. This year, he and his fellow crew members out-navigated and outbombed all comers to top all crews entered in the competition, and to demonstrate to the world the extreme accuracy of the all-jet medium bomber.

In 1951 and 1953 he served as an operations staff member with the bombing and navigation competition organization.

Under SAC's spot promotion program, whereby flying crews are rewarded for outstanding performance with advancement in rank ahead of normal schedules, the major has held the rank of lieutenant colonel on two different occasions . . . once for two years for high crew proficiency. Upon winning the recent bombing and navigation competition, Holguin and the two other crew members were promoted again on the spot to lieutenant colonel.

IN JUNE of this year, Maj. Holguin's bombing proficiency made him the recipient of the first 15th Air Force Commander's Trophy, presented by Major General Walter C. Sweeney for outstanding performance.

Maj. Holguin was assigned to Strategic Air Command Headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., in September of this year as an operational staff officer. He was assigned as aircraft systems officer in the Tactical Requirements Division of the Directorate of Operations.

A future issue of "Combat Crew," SAC's monthly magazine devoted primarily to flying safety, has scheduled an article authored by Maj. Holguin on the observer in the jet age.

The major has more than 4,000 flying hours, including 500 hours in jet aircraft. His service decorations include the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross with one cluster, the Air Medal, the Purple Heart with one cluster, the Presidential Unit Citation with three clusters, the Asiatic Pacific Ribbon with three campaign stars, and appropriate service ribbons.

Today, Maj. Holguin is a solid family man. His wife, the former Celia Rebecca Martinez, of Garden Grove, has presented him with four children: Rebecca, 6; Curtis, 5; Claudia, 3, and Carlos, one month old.

The Holguins own their own home at 1028 North Olive St., Santa Ana, although they are currently residing at 910 S. 87th St., in Omaha.

LONG BEACH Camera Guild will have a color slide competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Winners in the December black and white competition were Virginia Callender, first; Murray Shaner, second; R. Selvester, third; Murray Shaner and Clare Grounds, honorable mention. K. C. Grill, graduate of Los Angeles Art Center, judged the contest and answered questions about camera repairs.

Gene Nye, Guild exhibits chairman, has arranged a showing of black and white prints in the Jergins Arcade. Most of these 25 prints have won prizes in contests of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs, with which the Long Beach Guild is affiliated.

Murray Shaner won an award in the color slide contest, Triple A class, of the Photographic Society of America, held recently in Poly High School.

Cockroach

the Chinese did not use the marine compass until the Sixth Century A. D. and theirs pointed south instead of north.

THE CAPTAIN thought it mighty peculiar that he wasn't getting home, but he had faith in the compass so he sailed on and on.

One of the brainier seamen noticed something odd: "On the 25th day Hi-Thinc, one of the crew, suggested they must be sailing east since the sun constantly rose before them and set behind them, but Hee-Li promptly threw him overboard saying his fathers had trusted the compass since the Chow-Chop-Suey dynasty" and no uppity sea-lawyer was going to tell him how to navigate. He continued to sail on and on and on.

On June 10 he landed at what is now Monterey. Two days later one of his crew was polishing the compass and found the dead yang-li bug. At that point certain puzzling matters became clear to the indomitable Captain Hee-Li.

HE EXPLORED the coast 50 miles south and 100 miles north including San Francisco Bay. He traded with the natives and was deeply impressed by the glorious California climate. On his return to China he recounted his adventures and trade was set up with the California natives. Dr. Shaw could give no reasons why the trade died out.

This report seems to be the only written evidence that the Chinese discovered America. Orientalists have speculated on the matter and searched Chinese records but they can only find mentions of America well after 1492.

There is a liar there somewhere. Dr. Shaw may have been the liar. The reporter could have been a liar. Someone was. It's a cinch that Hee-Li wasn't.

PROVINCIAL CHARM IN THE CAPE COD MANNER

The Stages' family room achieves a feeling of provincial charm with its use of pine paneling and shutters.

the color predominant in the floral-swagged wallpaper featuring blossoms of pale coral and light blue against a ground of cream. An old cane-seat rocker and lavishly ruffled muslin tiebacks add notes of charm.

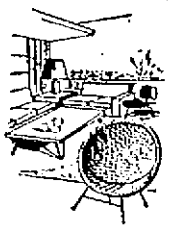

Located between the master bedroom and guest room is a tiny and completely captivating sewing room papered in oldfashioned cranberry-and-white print paper. White organdy curtains hang in prim flounces in the bay window. A sewing machine, vast cupboard and closet storage and a studio sofa combine to make this a wonderfully welcoming and handy place, not only for sewing but for "getting off to one's self" with a good book.

The second story is partially completed, featuring a large bath and a spacious bedroom for the Stages' two sons.

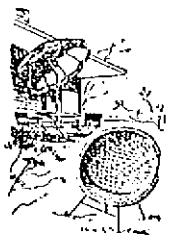

The vast uncompleted room occupying all that area above the living room, family room and kitchen is currently being used as a play area for the boys. Future plans entail its being divided into an overnight guest room for friends of the boys and a rumpus room complete with fireplace, refreshment bar, pool table, dumb waiter and dance floor.

PET PARADE

If Santa Claus Brings a Pet

By Eleanor A. Price

Puppies rate high on Yule gift lists. This basketful of mischief belongs to Peggy Pucci and Irene Coverley.

IT'S NOT EASY for parents to resist their youngsters' pleas for pets for Christmas, as children have persuasive ways. Their persistence brings to mind the cartoon by Galbraith in which one little boy says to his pal, "I can't tease Mom too much about the bike -- I've got to keep her calm for my big job of pestering her for a dog!"

Therefore, next Sunday, many parents will find that their children have discovered a live animal under the Christmas tree.

It is an old, old theme, but it cannot be stressed too thoroughly or too frequently that a new pet that comes into the home must be treated gently and lovingly, and parents who consent to accepting a pet should realize that they are dealing with a life that is dependent on them for shelter, food, medical attention, perhaps exercise, training, grooming, and proper handling by the small children.

It is hoped, of course, that most parents do understand that teaching children the care and training of pets helps build character. Such groups as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys' Clubs and others actively encourage pet care, and it is never too early for the pre-organization youngster to learn to respect and protect his pet under all circumstances.

IF PARENTS cannot or will not take the time to assume the responsibility of teaching their children how to treat pets, then they should not permit Santa Claus to put one under the Christmas tree.

Right here it should be stated that it would be far better to arrange to have the pet delivered either a day or two before Christmas or after the day's confusion is over. A puppy or kitten plopped down in the middle of a bedlam of shouting children and mountains of ribbon and tissue paper might be frightened beyond bearing and get off to a bad start. And if he is handled and mauled to excess, even from adoration, and dragged around for the neighbors to see, the family may end up with a very sick animal, or a dead one.

So let the little fellow adjust himself to his new surroundings in a serene and relaxed way.

BEFORE TAKING the new puppy or kitten into the home, be sure to select a spot in the house he will be able to call his own. Have the proper bed ready to place there and one or two suitable toys. Certain other pets, too, may need corners of their own.

If the pet is to be a puppy, get in a stack of old newspapers in case the weather is damp and you have to paper-break him. If the pet is to be a kitten, he will need a box or low crate lined with oilcloth and filled with clean sand or prepared material available at pet stores. For other pets, have the proper facilities or cages ready.

Getting the Christmas pet started on the right foot is very important when it comes to food, for real kindness to an animal includes giving him a balanced diet in suitable quantity.

IF WHAT YOU serve is eaten and the pet thrives, then that food is probably right for him. The former owner of the pet may have valuable information to give you. Consult a veterinarian if in doubt.

THANKS to E. H. Speckman for this reminder: Fireproof Christmas decorations are poisonous to parakeets. The Speckmans know, for they lost a parakeet last year after it had sampled artificial snow under the Christmas tree.

CHRISTMAS-MINDED readers (and aren't we all?) should not miss the inspiring Christmas carols of the King's Canary Chorus in the Kings' Melody Patio at 1165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Daily from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., and intermittently throughout every day during this season (and after), these beautiful songsters perform free of charge, accompanied on the Hammond organ by Mrs. Bessie King. A tape recording was made when this unusual chorus thrilled an audience on Dr. Peter Slack's program, and it will be heard recurrently on radio across the country during the holidays.

'Aloha!' With a Lei

Colorful, sweet-scented "lei village," near Honolulu Airport, is popular with Hawaiians who select leis for traditional greeting to friends arriving by air.

UNIQUE among airport facilities the world over are the colorful lei booths which grace the approaches to Honolulu International Airport. Here youthful Hawaiian maidens and portly matrons prepare and sell the many-hued floral garlands which have become the trademark of Hawaiian hospitality.

Leis are among the most unique and colorful of Hawaiian traditions. Originally made of the green, sweetly-scented maile leaf, leis were worn only by Hawaiian alii, or leaders, on important occasions.

TODAY, with nearly 80 per cent of Hawaii's visitors arriving by scheduled airlines, lei-making activities have shifted to the airport, where nearly 100 Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians prepare an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 leis daily the year around, making use of as many as 140,000 individual blossoms each 24 hours.

Leis are presented to arriving passengers, with the traditional "Aloha!" greeting, from a variety of sources. United Air Lines, which links 79 mainland cities with Hawaii, presents leis to each passenger on its first-class DC-7 Mainliners.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"Is it true that Swiss watches and such are a better buy in Tijuana than elsewhere in Mexico? How about Guatemala?"

I NEVER HEARD that either Tijuana or Guatemala or anywhere in Mexico was good for Swiss watches. But I can't honestly say they are not. I just don't know. I buy Swiss watches in Switzerland or, better, in Hong Kong. The way to figure on inexpensive foreign imports is whether the country is a free port. Or for some reason has very low import duties. As I remember, Swiss watches in Mexico City were not an exceptional buy. And I would be afraid to buy anything expensive in Tijuana. These border towns are pretty well geared to hit-run tourist buying.

"I am 16 years of age and will be 17 when I go to Paris next summer to study French. I will stay one to two years. Where can I stay?"

MOST AMERICAN students stay at one of the thousand cheap hotels in the Latin Quarter. Some of them are pretty basic. Three that won't be too much of a shock are Hotel des Etats Unis near Montparnasse; Hotel de Siene near St. Germain des Pres; Hotel de Tournon near Luxembourg Gardens. After that, take a look at the school bulletin board. You ought to find families wanting to take in students. That's the way to learn French.

"Perhaps you can give me advice as to driving in Europe as far as a driving license is concerned."

The easiest way is to get an International Driving Permit. You get these from the AAA offices right here in the States. Cost about $1, I think. This is a good overall permit though, under new rules, your State license is good in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy.

The international permit takes care of everything though except England where you have to get a local license. Phone the Royal Automobile Club. They'll tell you.

"Is it worth while to spend Christmas in Mexico?"

WELL, I THINK SO. It's a good season of the year and Mexico is fun at almost any time. Personally, I'd spend it right in Mexico City, rather than out in the country. Probably more holiday feeling.

If you are going to the Capri or the Versalles Room that night, you'd better start on the reservations now.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to: Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

What Makes the Big Wheels Roll

CAMERON HAWLEY, who wrote the best-seller, "Executive Suite" and established himself as an outstanding chronicler of our times, now offers "Cash McCall" (Houghton Mifflin, $3.95).

The hero is a modern American businessman who has a talent for buying heavy industries, revitalizing them and reselling them at a substantial profit. But he's not a "company man," does not operate the plants.

Like "Executive Suite," this novel tells about human beings who people the big business world — how they think, feel, react, love . . . and like his first novel, this is an exceptional production. The story was first told, we recall, in Life Magazine, a too-generous free sample of a story the reader should follow as it develops.

It was, we recall, this same magazine that whined recently about the lack of authors who could write about the contemporary American scene.

The thin Minnesotan, Sinclair Lewis, achieved great fame with cynicism. Cameron Hawley has more sympathy. Hawley needs no caricatures, he is warm and sure. This is easily the best novel to fall into this corner this year.

Cash McCall (if you need to know the plot) buys Grant Austen's plant through some legal, but misunderstood, chicanery. Cash meanwhile rekindles an old love for Austen's daughter, Lory. The crisis is a sort of indefinite, yet positive thing: McCall needs no man's approval to justify his project, Austen needs everybody's . . . so, naturally, Lory and love win.

Tain't the plot, it's the telling of it.—G. C. F.

IN AN ERA of "do-it-yourself," complete with kits, the author of "The Word Beyond Words," Gardner Hunting (Dodd, Mead, $3), presents his own design for living. Prayer is the application of faith; not so much faith in a generous Being as faith in one's self. Mr. Hunting argues that prayer will not influence God, or persuade Him to act; the purpose of prayer is to build up faith. With full faith there seems to be little which will not come to the believer. Certainly the author has his own faith, which has earned the respect of past readers, and to know Gardner Hunting is to have a new faith in what man can be.

The author was a resident of Long Beach for many years, and now lives in Glendale. His own life has been a broad application of the spirit with which he writes. If one reads with an open mind, he will certainly benefit beyond measure from this fine book of common sense.—G. L.

IF THE SQUIRE of your household likes to cook, or thinks he can cook, the most unique gift you could give him is "Esquire Cook Book" (McGraw-Hill, $5.95). Not only is it a volume handsomely done to a man's taste, but assuming that the reader knows absolutely nothing about cookery, it takes him by the hand and shows him, step by step, how to work with recipes and then cook anything that suits his fancy, from eggs au gratin to the most complicated dinner entree or the gaudiest, champagne-flavored dessert. It makes barbecuing sound as simple as brewing a pot of coffee, garnishing a Canadian goose as easy as preparing a three-minute cereal. And there's a glossary of cooking terms, not to count a complete calorie counter for the plump wife's protection.—F.T.K.

JAMES T. FARRELL

"French Girls Are Vicious" is the title of a highly entertaining book of nine short stories by James T. Farrell (Vanguard, $3.50). Obviously based largely on his extensive travels and experiences, and with their emphatic quality, these light tales have a reality not often found in fiction.

DR. WILFRED FUNK, for 30 years with Funk & Wagnalls Co., the dictionary and encyclopedia publishers, is author of "The Way to Vocabulary Power and Culture" (Grosset & Dunlap, $1.98), which is a bargain if ever there was one. Dr. Funk lists 5,654 words which he calls "key words" to masterful writing and speaking, first defining and pronouncing each word, and then illustrating it in a sentence to give its precise meaning. There are chapters on "Verbs of Power," "Adjectives of Power," and so on, and included, too, are vocabulary tests.—F. T. K.

WHEN LEO DUROCHER was a boy, he was a nervous specimen who loved baseball and did not give a hoot about dodging trouble. When he became a man, he was the same way, until he met Laraine Day. Leo's life (up to the time just before the Giants fired him) is told in "The Leo Durocher Story," by Gene Schoor (Messner, $2.95).

THE COMMON grizzly bear didn't become the emblem of California for nothing. Common since the days of the Indians, it has been very much in the California picture for two centuries. Awkward and big (he has been reported weighing up to a ton), this sanguinary beast was held in awe by the Indians, feared as a depredator of livestock on mission and rancho in the days of the Spaniards and Mexicans, hunted for bear-and-bull fights in the gold rush and a source of meat and robes to early settlers. Not completely extinct until the 1920s, he has been the source of many exciting experiences of Californians and more than a few of these episodes are set down for the first time by Tracy I. Storer and Lloyd P. Tavis Jr. in "California Grizzly" (University of California Press, $7.50).

IN A SMALL Missouri town, three people seek their place in the world. One chooses it within the rigid framework of her church (Latter-day Saints), another by giving generously and asking (and getting) little, and a third to take from the community only that which she needs. A warm story, told leisurely by Agnes Adams Fisher in "Daylight and Dark" (Funk and Wagnalls, $3.75).

AUTHOR of numerous magazine articles, some of which have appeared in Southland, Caroline Louise Clough of Long Beach has written a book, "His Name Was David," which deals with the life of Dr. David Paulson (Review and Herald Pub. Co.). She tells how Dr. Paulson, her brother-in-law, founded the now famous Hinsdale Sanitarium in a Chicago suburb and conquered life's exigencies through prayer. A solid book, and good reading.

"THE MERMAID'S WISH" (Story Book Press) is a book of charming verse, poetry and song by Mabel Dobb Hester, 716 Olive Ave., which has gone into its second printing. An infinite variety of subjects is covered, each with grace and heartfelt understanding.

THE CARD PLAYER never lived who wouldn't want "The Bridge Player's Bedside Companion" (Prentice-Hall, $4.95), a sparkling collection of stories, anecdotes and articles by half a hundred well-known writers. The editor is Albert A. Ostrow and there is a generous sprinkling of cartoons by H. T. Webster.

MOST COMPLETE profile yet about the Nevada gambling metropolis is a not-too-long book, "Las Vegas: Playtown U. S. A.," by Katharine Best and Katharine Hillyer, magazine article writers of Virginia City (David McGay, $2.95). The foreword is by a widely known fellow townsman, Lucius Beebe.

PAPERBACK BONANZA — Here are some new paperbacks to suit every taste: "Frontier — 150 Years of the West," the story of the West and the men who opened and conquered it, edited by Luke Short (Bantam, 35c); "The Sayings of Confucius," a translation by James R. Ware (Mentor, 35c); "Queen's Own," a novel of violence set in India, by George C. Appell (Dell First Edition, 25c); "Marx and the Marxists: The Ambiguous Legacy," by Sidney Hook (Anvil Original, $1.25); "Best Loved Books of the Twentieth Century," essays about 52 best-read books, by Vincent Starrett (Bantam, 35c); "The Long Playing Record Guide," an evaluation of more than 7,000 recordings, by Warren De Motte (Dell First Edition, 50c); "Modern Japan: A Brief History," by Arthur Tiedemann (Anvil Original, $1.25).

This Band Puts Oomph in Its Toot

Invited to be New Orleans' guests at the Mardi Gras, Long Beach Youth Band plans a show and dance to get rail fare. Rita Lynch is band's head drum majorette.

By Caroline Coleman

LONG BEACH Youth Band, made up of 60 musicians, majorettes and banner girls, Monday will celebrate its sixth birthday.

In the six years the band and majorettes have made 450 uniformed public appearances, have won more than 400 awards and have traveled 15,000 miles.

Now the band has received its finest honor — an invitation to attend the Mardi Gras in New Orleans in February. The official invitation from the Rex organization (official host of the Mardi Gras) came through a Mardi Gras representative who saw the band at this year's Las Vegas "Helldorado" celebration, where for the second consecutive year it took the sweepstakes award for the outstanding out-of-state unit.

In addition to appearing in the parade of His Majesty Rex, King of Misrule, the band has been invited to attend the grand ball. New Orleans has offered housing for the group during the five-day stay. Radio and television programs are slated.

TO RAISE FUNDS for the New Orleans trip, the Youth Band will give a show and dance Jan. 13 in the Convention Hall of the Municipal Auditorium. The show is scheduled for 8 to 9 p.m., followed by dancing until midnight.

Ninety-five per cent of the band's awards have been first place and sweepstakes, according to Gordon Carmen, organizer-director.

Twenty persons were present for the first rehearsal when the band was organized Dec. 19, 1949, according to Carmen. Within a month enrollment had jumped to 155 band members and 35 majorettes.

At the third rehearsal, the name "Long Beach Youth Band" was chosen, as was the band's motto "Character Building Through Music."

Within two months after its organization, the City Council gave permission for the band to place the city seal on its drums, stationery, and other equipment and officially represent the city in its appearances. The band also represents the state.

THE GROUP made its first appearance at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino in March 1950.

In July 1950 the city took over partial sponsorship by accounting for about 30 per cent of the band's transporation expenses.

In July 1952, the City Council allocated funds to furnish the band with 50 snappy blue and grey uniforms.

All services given the band by its members, parents, adult advisory board and band director are voluntary. None of these people is paid.

Helping celebrate the band's sixth anniversary are Monzell Seckington and Clarence Nies, assistant directors; Betty Nies, senior secretary; Priscilla Marshall, head line majorette; Gail Marshall, recording secretary; Cheryl Martin, head librarian; Ronald Bannister, band president; Curtis Chenowith, transportation chairman.

GORDON CARMEN organized the band when he was 19 years old. He has been associated with the Los Angeles Rams band, Loyola University band, Long Beach Veterans Community Band and American Legion Band. A champion military and twirling drum major, he won more than 300 awards. He has made a number of radio and television appearances, and has emceed a number of shows.

Rita Lynch, the 12-year-old "baton whiz," head drum majorette, a band member for more than five years, has won 43 trophies, 50 medals and many ribbons.

The band points with pride to the fact that thus far it is the only California musical group invited to the Mardi Gras.

The band has a limited number of openings for boys and girls aged 13-17. Youths interested in joining and their parents are invited to attend rehearsals at the Edison school, 7th St. and Maine Ave., between 6:30 and 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Let Fire Dance in Your Garden

Leading the flower parade for 1956 is Fire Dance, a large, hybrid, scarlet-red, yellow-throated petunia.

By Walter Finch

FIRE DANCE, big hybrid scarlet red petunia with flashy yellow throat leads the flower parade for 1956.

Paleface, the white hybrid multiflora, is a 1955 introduction because a few seeds were distributed last spring, but it is widely available this season. It won the All-America Selections bronze medal award but there were insufficient seeds for general notice or offering by seed stores last year.

Paleface petunia is the white counterpart and with most striking color contrast to the outstanding red hybrid multiflora Comanche. Both belong to the already famous "Redskin" series of large, plain-petaled bedding beauties.

Fire Dance belongs to the grandiflora class, with much larger, fringed or ruffled flowers. And, they are freely borne on dwarf, compact spreading plants for bedding use.

PREVIOUS WINNERS in this class are the beautiful bright rose Prima Donna of 1955 and salmon Ballerina of 1952 introduction, also vigorous growing first generation hybrids. All provide exquisite cut-flowers and bloom continuously from spring until fall frosts.

Why are there more petunia winners than any other flower? The obvious answer is that more breeding work is done on petunias, but why? Well, they are in colorful bloom throughout the growing season, even through the winter in warmer areas. They are used for growing in pots and urns, porch and window boxes, edging along fences, walks and drives, for solid or ribbon beds, for dashes of color in perennial borders and foundation plantings. Petunias grow and bloom profusely in sandy to clay soils, from salty seashore air to mountain heights and from extreme north to tropical climates.

They are practically free from disease and insects. They are pleasantly fragrant and provide graceful cutting and arrangement material in foliage and flower. Varieties are available in most all color shades from white to deep blue and violet, including bicolors, except for yellow. Cream or buff is the closest to yellow so far in petunias although a couple with definite yellowish tones were recent trial entries.

FIRE DANCE is the newest and most striking colored hybrid grandiflora petunia. If you know Tango; Fire Dance is of similar rich scarlet-salmon, with the addition of a large and contrasting yellow throat for spectacular distinction.

Flowers measure four inches in size, beautifully ruffled to appear fringed and are freely produced from spring to fall. While plants reach only 12 inches high, with space available they will spread as much as 30 inches. Thus, a few plants can make a colorful display. Gardeners suggest setting plants at least 18 inches apart.

Where to get them? Order seeds early, right away, from any reliable seedsman. Start them in a pot or flat in the house or garage, preferably on a window sill, from now into February for this area.

How to Force Bulbs

By Henry Pree

THE HOME gardener with thoughts of forcing tulip and narcissus bulbs for indoor decoration should get busy at once and place them in pots.

Forcing bulbs is not always successful because most gardeners will not follow the rule that bulbs insist upon darkness and a cold temperature for a couple or more months so that they can develop roots to support the plants.

Bulbs potted now and put in the ground at once will have made sufficient root growth by the end of January to be ready for transfer to the warmth of the house.

The potting soil should consist of two parts of good garden soil, one part of old manure, leafmold or peatmoss, and one part sand. The mixture must be porous, and if the garden soil is heavy, then more sand must be added.

A TEASPOONFUL of a 4-12-4 fertilizer should be used for each pot of soil. Good draingage in the pots is essential.

The bulbs, three to seven depending on their size, are placed close together, but not touching, in the pots with their tips just level with the top, and covered with soil. Then soak the pot well from below and bury in an 18-inch-deep trench outdoors, or in an empty cold frame.

The old gardener recommends placing the pot on a two or three-inch layer of cinders or sand to insure proper bottom drainage.

Pack damp leaves, straw or other litter about and over the pots, one inch deep, and then mulch above with more leaves, straw and soil to a depth of a foot. Root formation occurs during this period. The pots are then brought indoors as desired to provide the succession of bloom.

WHEN FIRST brought indoors, they should be watered lightly and kept in a cool place and in half light for a few days. Then gradually bring them into sunlight, warmth and plentiful watering.

Blooms will appear in five to eight weeks, depending upon earliness of the variety and temperature of the home. However, it is well to remember that when the blooms appear the plants should be removed from full sunlight.

To force potted bulbs, place pot in ditch 18 inches deep and cover foot deep with mulch.

Man Who's Chin Deep in Mums

Author's Photo

When Juan Hernandez of Paramount moves about in his chrysanthemum garden, he is chin-deep in the blooms.

By Walter E. Hempstead Jr.

BURIED ALIVE in his own flower patch is the way Juan Hernandez looks when he cultivates his brilliant garden of chrysanthemums at 14000 Orizaba St., Paramount.

"Do you still grow onions and carrots?" asked his amigo barber some six years ago.

"No," replied Hernandez. "Such truck did not even pay for my gasoline to haul it to the Los Angeles markets."

"Now I grow flowers," he said. "Customers have to buy them — when babies are born, lovers are married and friends die off," Hernandez observed shrewdly.

Home growers, who would like to be banked by flowers when they must bid "adios" to this earth but who like nothing better than scratching around their own shrubbery while still kicking, may not have the right bouquets for the crisis events of etiquette. So they quickly order from florists or beat a path to the Hernandez door.

"CHRYSANTHEMUMS are basic necessities in the floral kingdom," said Hernandez. "I like all flowers, but mums are big and bright, and really carry a friendly message on the inevitable occasions of life or death."

Thus in crowded urban districts there remain few "farms." Nevertheless, the traffic is quite large scale in the nation's floral industry. A neighbor and patron of Hernandez, Mrs. Nellie Kious Jones of 8141 E. Rosecrans Ave., recalls the still-operating "White Cloud Mum Farm" near her old home town of Joplin, Mo. "Beginning with two acres around that ranch house, of white, cloud-like mums," said Mrs. Jones, "the entire 100 acres are now given over to chrysanthemums exclusively. That is significant commerce," she added.

Hernandez, with his wife, Guadalupe, arrived in this part of California in 1910. He obtained a poll tax receipt, issued to him for $2 by the Los Angeles County auditor in 1914. In those early days, he used the strange certificate as a customary alien clearance equivalent to a visa or a passport for those who worked in the fields. (California today has no poll tax law.)

JUAN'S FLORAL experience is life-long. He and his wife are natives of the state of Guatapato in the central western interior of Mexico. Their families were farmers there.

"Best country in the world," declares Juan Hernandez, "is the United States; and the best place for flowers, especially chrysanthemums.

"Soon as my wife's recently broken leg is mended," he declared, "we both plan to apply for U. S. citizenship. We have met all the requirements and are eligible through the Department of Justice."

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to prune back too heavy shrubs that have been allowed to grow wild. If they have a tropical nature, it might be advisable to stake them, rather than pruning. Cutting the stems encourages soft, new growth which is susceptible to frost damage.

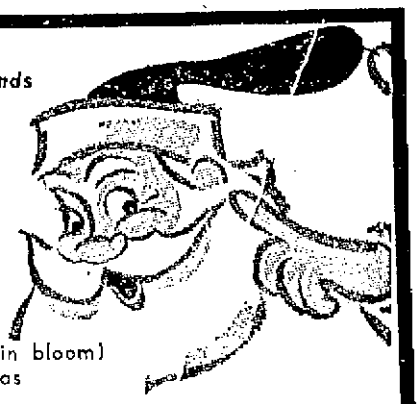

Deciduous trees may now be pruned to remove all superfluous growth. This should be taken care of in windy districts to allow the wind to penetrate through the center of the trees. This treatment should reduce wind damage.

Plants that grow in the shade of trees require extra portions of food and drink. Also if the shade becomes too dense then thin out the tree. Additional light will encourage improved growth of these smaller specimens.

This is a good time to work plenty of humus into the soil. Getting ready for the spring planting season. Also give the soil a thorough working over at this time.

HOW TO Make a Small Room Look Large Through Smart Decorating Ideas

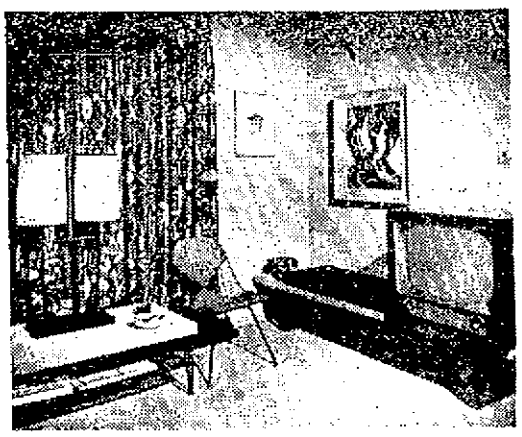

WHY IS IT SOME SMALL ROOMS look big? If you study them carefully, you'll see the answer is smart decorating.

This room is a case in point. It is only 11x13 feet, but appears much larger and serves as well as many rooms twice the size. The space-making ideas are pin-pointed here to help you use them in your own home.

In a small room, it's even more important to preplan the use of the space you have available. Try experimenting with arrangements on paper first. It's easier than lifting heavy furniture pieces.

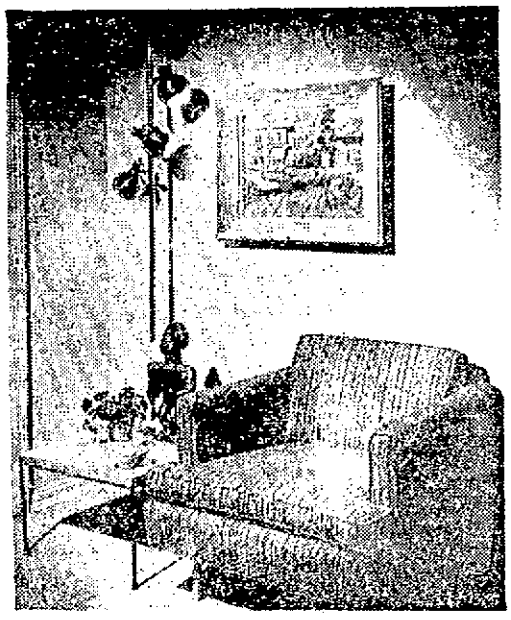

1. MIRROR FOOLS the eye. Looks like a big room, doesn't it? The large mirror behind the sofa doubles, visually, the size of this small guest-study. Storage wall, open at top for books and accessories, has closed storage below to keep necessary clutter out of sight and store guest-room bedding. The large sofa can double as extra guest sleeping space.

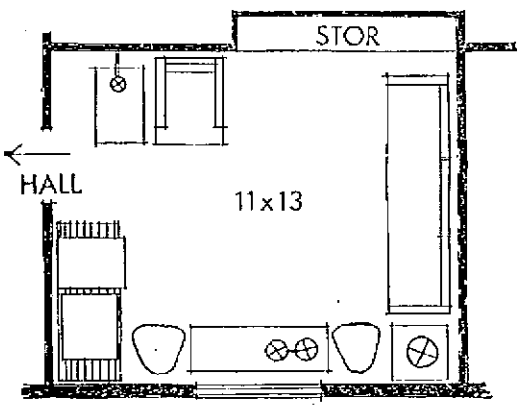

2. SIMPLIFY backgrounds. Walls are a light, neutral color. Only one pattern is used on the draperies. This simplified look is important in a small room where too many colors and too many patterns would give a feeling of clutter and confusion.

3. GOOD LIGHTING is important. Well-planned lighting turns dark corners into light, usable areas. Light appears to push walls back for a larger look. Wall-bracket spotlights leave the table top free.

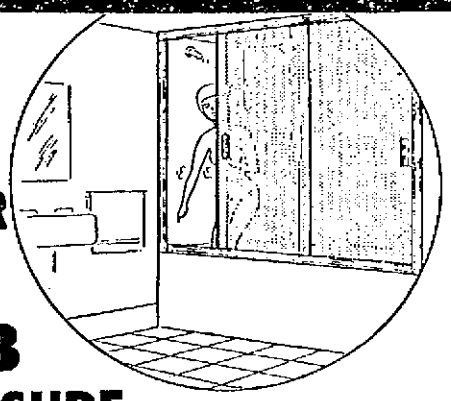

4. FURNITURE HUGS the walls, making it possible to get maximum seating space in this 11x13-foot room.

TONY GUILLEN
Special Fare for Tots

WHEN TONY GUILLEN opened his El Patio No. 2 cafe last February in a brand new building at 3503 Atlantic Ave., he thought its seating capacity of 200 would be more than sufficient.

Tony, a modest, friendly fellow, definitely underestimated his own popularity.

People just love his chicken enchiladas, tamales, tacos, burritos and guacamole salads — all of which are very reasonably priced. They arrive at El Patio No. 2 in such droves that there are times when Tony must seat the overflow in his banquet room, which accommodates 40 persons.

One of Tony's most popular items is his Combination Special. For only $1.25, it includes all of the following: A dandy tostada (salad on a crisp tortilla); an enchilada with cheese, taco with beef, plump tamale, frijoles and fluffy Spanish rice. The food is served piping hot on pre-heated plates that keep everything warm until the last morsel is eaten.

THE COMBINATION is served at both of Tony's restaurants. El Patio No. 1, Tony's original cafe at 337 Pacific Ave., is devoted almost exclusively to Mexican dishes. But El Patio No. 2 also caters to persons who desire other bill of fare, such as steaks or hamburgers. One of El Patio No. 2's specialties is a $2 T-bone steak dinner, which includes a big, 16-ounce steak, soup, tossed salad, French fries or frijoles and Spanish rice; choice of beverage and choice of ice cream or pie.

Since Tony has several children of his own, he has a good idea of what youngsters like. At El Patio No. 2 he serves special children's plates for 50 cents, including soup, taco, beans and rice or soup, hamburger steak, beans and rice. El Patio No. 1 also offers special fare for children.

El Patio No. 2 is open daily from 11:30 a. m. to midnight and closed Tuesdays. El Patio No. 1 is open daily from 11:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. and closed Sundays.—TEDD THOMEY.

LANCE

WARREN TUFTS

Lance, Blaze, and Fitzpatrick continue their march to the mountains. With them now is a child, orphaned as the result of a barbaric plains attack by "bad mens with feathers".

Now the plains are behind them. The country grows torturous. Again driving winds and rain halt the march . . .

And again the daily ritual: a warm fire, supper, bedtime stories, sleep . . .

For the first time since they found the girl, Lance talks about it. "I'm going to find who did it, Fitz."

"Injuns ain't easy to—"

"You SURE it's Indians?" Lance snaps. "Why didn't they take the girl? Why didn't they steal the clothes off their victims? They took everything else!"

Before Fitz can answer a voice hails from below. "Hallo by th' fahr! Be yew whites up thar?"

"Whites!" Blaze calls.

The visitors are free trappers. "Barley Joe hyar, Little Ernie thar, cuzzins. Man, we're stove—ditchin' Pawnee three day! Lost our pack string, drowned a mount, ben ridin' double-up! Hongry!"

"Squat an' dig in," Fitz offers.

The down-and-outters gorge themselves, then sprawl contentedly and talk of their troubles until the rain lets up.

"Five o'clock," Barley Joe notes.

"That's a fine-looking watch," Lance says.

"Shore is, sojer—traded me a squaw fer it at th' Spring rondayvoo . . ."

A small voice booms from the shadows. "That's my DADDY SIR'S watch! Give it back!"

TRIUMPH OVER TOOTH DECAY

Crest Toothpaste with Fluoristan actually strengthens tooth enamel to lock out decay

FLUORISTAN IS FLUORIDE IN ITS MOST EFFECTIVE FORM—PREVENTS CAVITIES FOR ADULTS AS WELL AS CHILDREN

Miracle of the Towns Without Toothaches. For years, children growing up in several Western towns were virtually without tooth decay. Then science learned why: nature's decay-preventive, fluoride, was present in their drinking water!

Science Long Tried To Put Fluoride—only medically approved preventive of decay—in a toothpaste. But merely adding fluoride does not work. At last, university scientists and Procter & Gamble found the answer: Fluoristan, exclusive fluoride compound.

Fluoristan Makes Possible Crest Toothpaste—world's greatest weapon against tooth decay. Unless you get Fluoristan, you cannot get the full benefits of fluoride in a toothpaste. Protects all permanent teeth, for adults and for children, six and over.

Actually Strengthens Enamel. Crest combines with and strengthens tooth enamel as you brush. Microphoto at left shows how enamel strengthened by Crest ingredient defies decay acids, while unprotected enamel (right) is eaten away by decay acids.

Prevents Most Cavities Where Toothbrush Can't Reach! Even between teeth, where food particles lodge (arrows), Crest gives the greatest protection ever known. Crest penetrates between teeth, strengthens enamel of entire tooth against decay.

Never Before Such Decay Prevention! Crest has been proven in the most extensive and best-documented research ever conducted on a toothpaste. The record of decay prevention established by Crest has never been equalled by any other product.

Tastes Wonderful—Refreshes Your Breath! Crest locks out bad breath caused by decay as no other toothpaste can. Gives you cleaner, whiter teeth. Best tasting, by actual tests. Remember: Every Crest brushing strengthens tooth enamel against decay! Get Crest today!

Fluoristan is Procter & Gamble's trademark for Crest's exclusive fluoride tooth decay fighter.

It's really a Holiday when you roast Turkey in REYNOLDS WRAP

Here's the tested* REYNOLDS WRAP higher-heat method... quicker way to more flavor and more meat!

*In a famous University test kitchen

Lay trussed turkey, rubbed with fat and seasoned, on long sheet of Reynolds Wrap—either the 18" wide Heavy-Duty or the regular 12", splicing two widths by double-folding edges tightly together. Bring foil up, folding edges together and molding to shape of bird.

Place wrapped turkey on rack in pan, breast side up—in a hot (450°F.) oven, pre-heated. Allow the following approximate roasting times. (Meat thermometer should read about 190° inserted in thigh).

6-9 lbs....16 min. per lb. • 10-14 lbs...13½ min. per lb.
15-18 lbs...10 min. per lb. • 19-24 lbs... 8½ min. per lb.
(Ready-to-cook weight before stuffing)

Now open foil and see how golden brown your turkey is. If you want it browner, roast 15 minutes more—with the foil open. Make gravy your usual way—and bow to your family's praise!

Ham, too, is better baked in Reynolds Wrap...try it!

Heavy-Duty Reynolds Wrap, half a yard wide, is easiest to use for a big bird—don't put off buying it. And be sure you have plenty of the regular 12-inch wide Reynolds Wrap—perfect for wrapping Holiday leftovers. In Standard (25') Rolls and 75' Economy Rolls.

Sky-borne and deadly, the Stratojet is the "office" aloft of a native Santa Anan, Maj. Jose L. Holguin, USAF, a career man of the Air Force and the "three-headed monster" of the crew—navigator-bombardier-observer.

IF HERNANDO CORTEZ had had any idea of the military capabilities of a descendant of one of his young naval captains, he might have developed an inferiority complex.

If not that, the 16th century conquistador of Mexico no doubt would have gladly traded his entire military force for the services of this descendant and his B-47 Stratojet and crew.

The descendant is Maj. Jose L. Holguin, observer on the three-man crew of a B-47, the medium all-jet bomber of the Strategic Air Command, the nation's long-range nuclear striking arm of the U. S. Air Force.

The officer recently topped 14 years of Air Force duty by putting his crew in the winner's circle during the recent SAC Bombing and Navigation Competition at March Air Force Base. Holguin and his teammates represented the 93rd Bomb Wing, which is stationed at Castle Air Force Base, Calif. They outperformed all others during the week-long event.

It was a gruelling contest, calling for three 3,000-mile missions to be flown over a route which covered the west coast like a blanket. Bomb runs were made on targets in Los Angeles, Sacramento and Spokane. In addition, Holguin had to solve a series of intricate navigation problems from his darkened "office" in the nose of the speeding Stratojet. He helped prove in a large measure the aircraft's bombing capabilities.

HOLGUIN HAS STRONG ancestral ties to Spain on both his mother's and father's side. His father, Jose S. Holguin, traces his family back to a naval captain who came with Cortez from Spain in 1521, and settled in the area of Guadalupe, Mexico. His mother's ancestors came from Oviedo, a little coastal fishing town in Spain, and settled in the same general area of Mexico in the 1600s.

The major was born in Santa Ana on Feb. 1, 1921, shortly after his parents came there from Guadalupe. His mother's grandparents migrated to California around 1880; she met his father during a family trip back to Guadalupe in 1919.

Holguin has two sisters, born during visits to his grandparents' ranch near Guadalupe, and a brother born in Arizona. Both sisters, Hope (Mrs. Don Pruett) and Angelina (Mrs. Manuel Villalobos), now live in Los Angeles. His brother, Ruben, is a professor of art, Spanish and history at a Los Angeles High School.

Before entering the military service Dec. 17, 1941, Holguin attended Belmont High School in Los Angeles, where he was a member of the Eulexian Society, a scholastic honor society. His principal sporting activity during high school was track.

JUST 10 DAYS after Pearl Harbor, Maj. Holguin checked into the Army Air Corps flying school at Mather Field. By August 1942, he had won his navigator's wings. In November of that year, he wound up combat phase training in B-17 Flying Fortresses at Tucson.

When Christmas of 1942 rolled around, Holguin found himself a member of the 43rd Bomb Group, based at Port Moresby, New Guinea. He flew 40 combat missions with the 43rd before he came a cropper.

In June, 1942, while on a raid against the Japanese naval base at Rabaul, New Britain Island, his B-17 was shot down. Holguin was wounded, but managed to evade capture almost a month. He spent the remainder of the war as a Japanese prisoner. Once, during the confusion of an allied air raid, he was creased on the scalp by a bullet from the rifle of a trigger-happy Japanese guard.

After the war, he served a brief tour with the recruiting branch of Headquarters Fourth Air Force in San Francisco. In June of 1946, he was reassigned to Randolph Field, Texas, as an instructor and liaison officer for South American students training at Randolph. While there, he received a letter of commendation from the Guatemalan government for his work. He also served a tour of duty at Williams Field, Arizona, in the same type of job.

In 1948, Maj. Holguin began to get back into the bombing business when he attended the Air Force Bombardment School at Mather Air Force Base, Calif. At graduation in 1949, he placed second in his class in both bombing and academic phases.

THEN CAME HIS longest tour of military duty at one station. He was assigned to Castle Air Force Base, Calif., where he served six and one-half years continously as a combat crew member, actively participating in the development of the Strategic Air Command medium bomber force from the propeller-driven B-29 of World War II fame to the modern all-jet B-47 Stratojet. The major served as radar operator on both the B-29 and its modernized version, the B-50.

After conversion of the Castle wings to B-47s early in the medium jet transition program, Major Holguin became the observer —the "three-headed monster"— of a three-man Stratojet crew, performing the functions of radar operator, navigator and bombardier.

The major has made strong contributions to the world-wide reputation of SAC crews for bombing accuracy. In 1949, he was instrumental in the development of an automatic, slant-

Santa himself is big attraction in Santa's Village at Skyforest, above San Bernardino. Here he feeds burro.

Opportunity to ride a sleigh drawn by real reindeer is feature of Santa's Village. Here's one of the reindeer, surrounded by group of happy gnomes.

The North Pole Is Nearer Than You Think

Giant Jack-in-the-Box smiles down on gnomes, visiting children as they pamper the tame, playful livestock.

Through a Gothic archway, visitors may enter Chapel of the Little Shepherd to view a scene of Nativity.

By Harry Karns

SOME FOLK still think the North Pole is at the northern end of the earth's axis.

Humbug.

It's about 80 miles from my house by car, and much nearer by flying sled.

It's at a place called Skyforest near the Rim O' the World Highway in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The North Pole is there, and it is made of real ice. Also there: A Santa Claus whose whiskers won't pull off, a sleigh pulled by real reindeer, multicolored toadstools, gnomes, and a toy soldier and a jack-in-the-box who stand three times as high as the average 35-year-old boy. Also: A giant candy cane that would give Paul Bunyan a tummyache, a clock that tells time in months, a chapel with a nativity scene, and a lollipop tree—all tucked away in an evergreen forest.

MAYBE SANTA comes to your house only once a year. But if you live in Southern California, you can go to Santa's just about any time of year. (They'll be closed Christmas Day, however.)

For instance, four smaller children and I visited there late in August and found the sleigh bells ringing merrily along with the cash registers. Santa's Village is not only a very pleasant and attractive place, but also a most successful one. In its first six months of business, it has drawn 400,000 visitors, counting grownups.

What fascinates most visitors about Santa's Village is the animal life. Nonchalant, self-confident reindeer, burros and goats wander around the premises poking their noses into coat pockets in search of apples.

The reindeer, by the way, were imported from Alaska. They number more than 30.

According to the management, Santa's Village has the world's first and only sleigh ride drawn by reindeer.

THAT IS, THE FIRST and only such ride that ever existed outside a story book or the imagination of small folk.

You might expect such a distinction to go to a reindeer's head, but actually there isn't an arrogant reindeer on the premises.

AVAILABLE at Santa's milk bar are baby bottles—not for human babies, but for the goats and burros. I saw no reindeer drinking from baby bottles. Reindeer are too dignified for that sort of thing. A burro, however, will drink from your bottle, search you for peppermint, and follow you to an outdoor table and sit down to share your lunch.

If you have never eaten lunch with a burro, you are not a cosmopolitan. It is not exactly like eating with Emily Post, but you would be charmed I'm sure.

For this kind of entertainment you spend very little. However, if you feel determined to spend money at Santa Claus Village—well, I cannot tell a lie, it is possible. The management has thoughtfuly made gift shops and rides available at strategic spots.

WHILE CASH REGISTERS jangle in the Village, they are discreetly located at the exits. During your stay, you carry a little card on which your hosts keep a record of purchases. On the way out your bill is tallied.

Explains H. Glenn Holland, president of the enterprise: "Santa's purchase order system was instituted so that his visitors would not be exchanging money in every one of his workshops. Our feeling is that this helps preserve the tradition of Santa in the eyes of his sharp-eyed little visitors."

There's some good psychology in that. Though I heard one little sharp-eyed visitor arguing with his daddy:

"Why can't I ride the sleigh again? It doesn't cost you nothin'."

GRAMMATICALLY SPEAKING, that's correct. But to be fair, the prices are in line with other Southern California amusements.

And how can you put a price on this kind of dialog:

"Daddy, I'll be right back. Watch my malted milk, will you —don't let the burro get it."

From Long Beach follow Highway 18 until you come to a livestock crossing where a burro is sitting under an evergreen drinking malted milk.

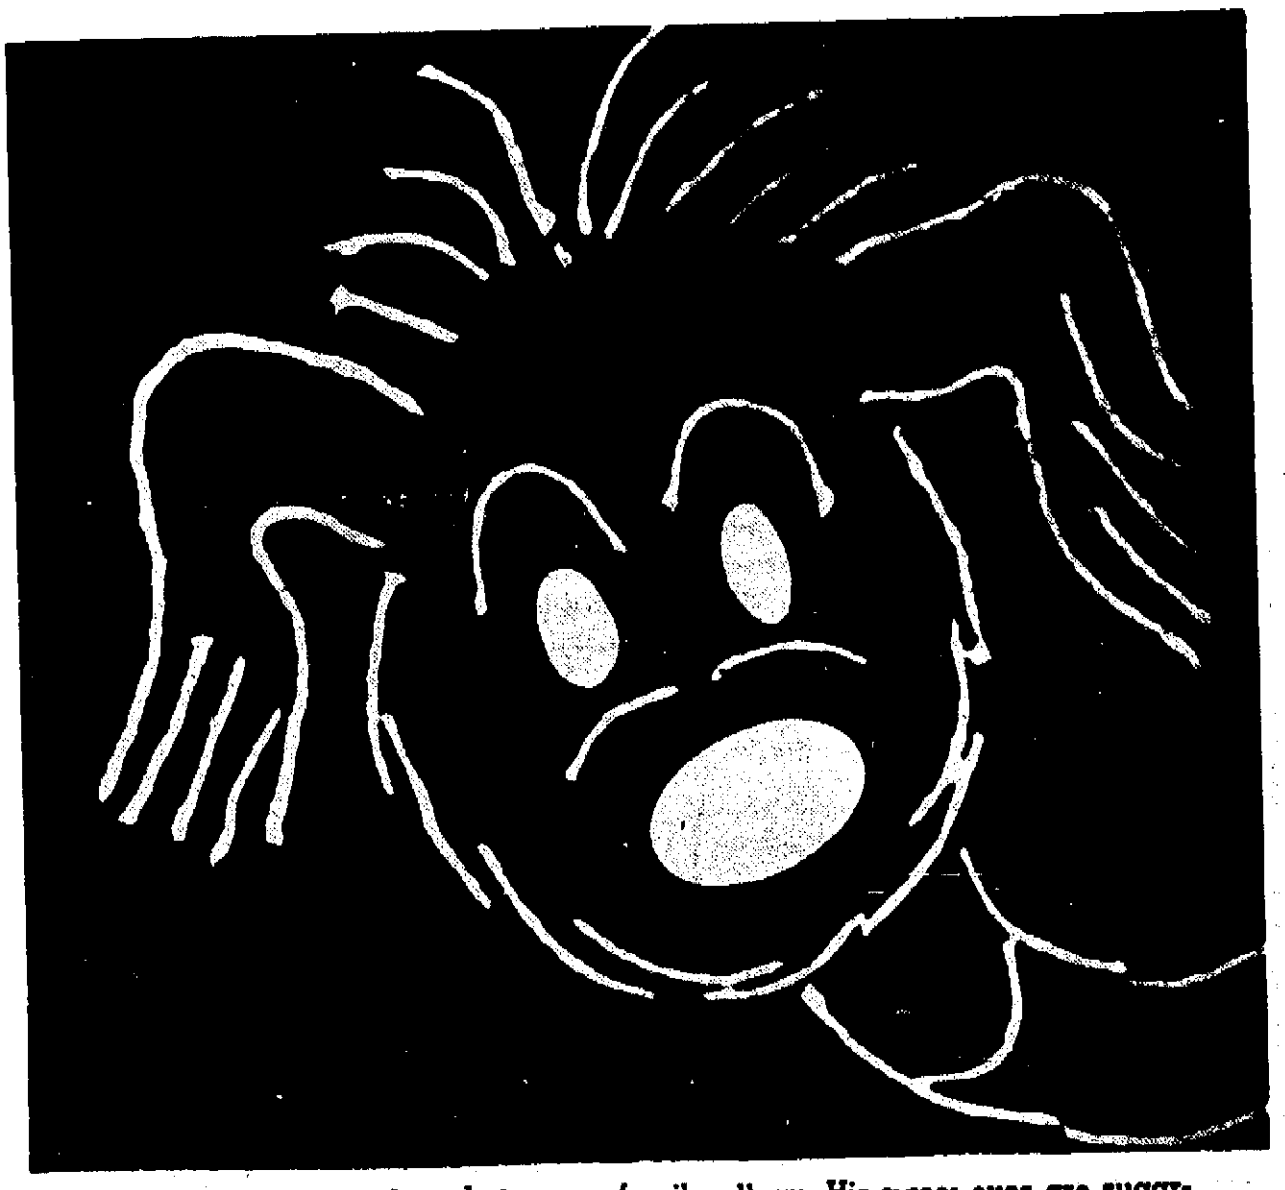

Toy soldier towers tall, straight and dignified.

Look Ma! No Camera!

Here's a native of Darkest Africa in a coal mine at midnight, lights out. Made of leaves, paper cutouts.

Even "Fido" joins the photogram family album. His swee: eyes are sugar-coated almonds, sticky nose is a paper label, the rest of him is twine.

By Michael Kosinski

ARE YOU dissatisfied with your snapshots?

Are your pictures out of focus?

Are there too many gadgets on your camera to understand it?

Are you a—er—lousy photographer?

If your answers to the above questions are yes, you can produce portraits "the photogram way." You'll be proud to hang the results in any saloon (or is it salon?).

Anyone can produce photograms. They are pictures made without a camera by direct exposure of opaque and transparent objects upon photographic paper.

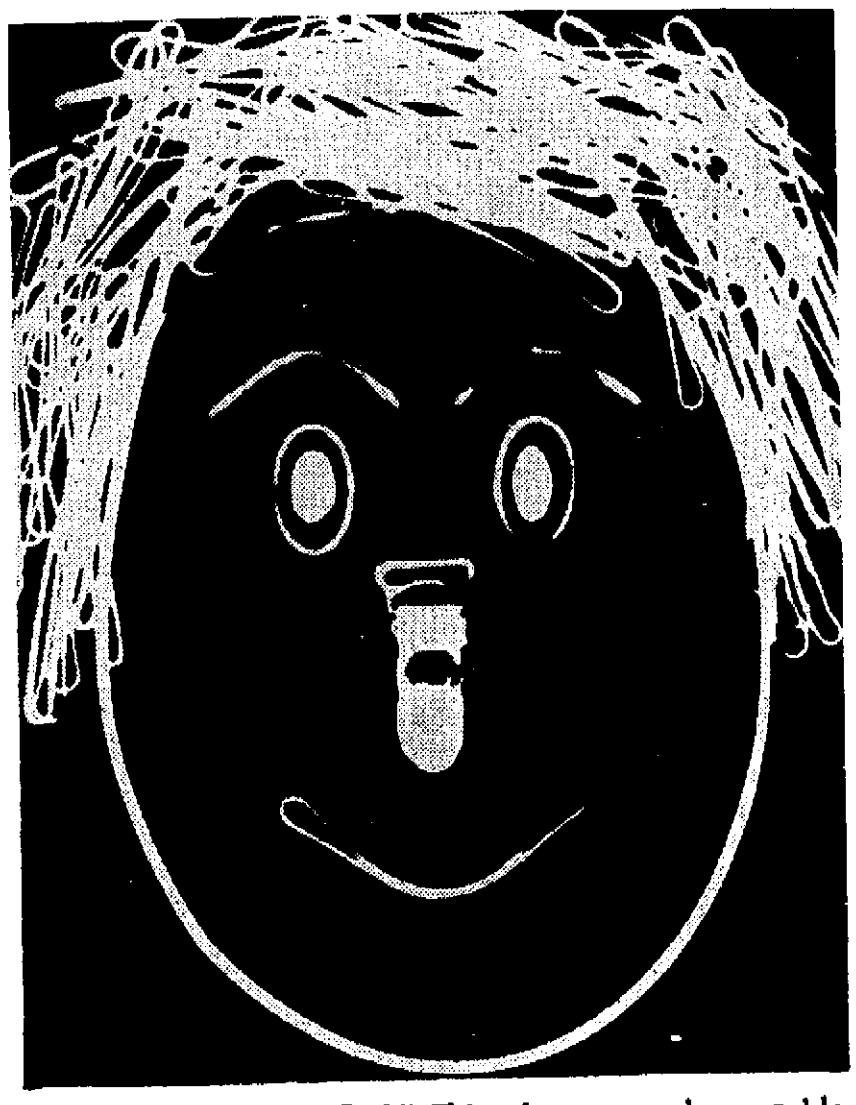

For a cash outlay of about $2 your local photo dealer will supply you with easy-to-mix chemicals, instructions and photographic paper with which you can make 25 8x10 photograms.

No previous photographic experience is necessary—only a minimum of materials and a resourceful imagination. If you experiment with such objects as thread, clips, coins and paper, soon you'll discover that your photogram will mold into any composition, texture or design

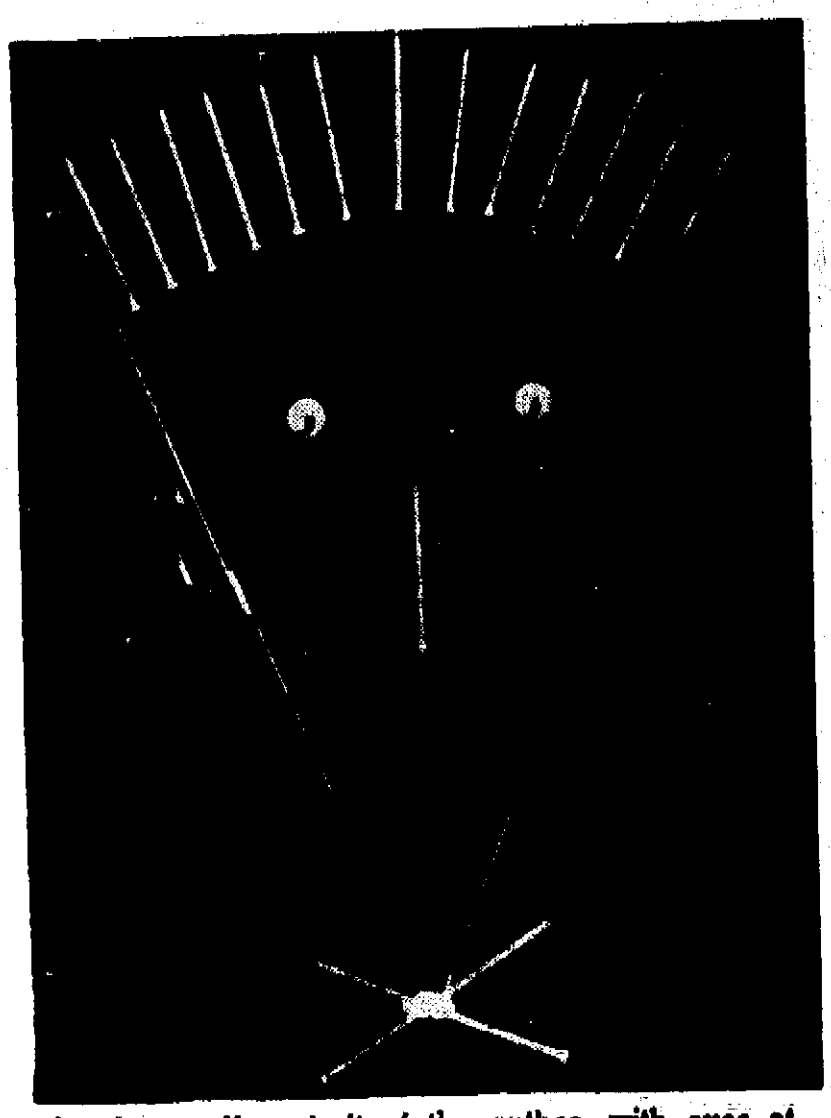

Your production of photograms does not require any complicated equipment or costly materials. In a dark room with a red or amber safe light, the photogram is made by simply placing objects —such as keys, feathers, your own hand—directly upon the photographic paper and turning on the room light for a few seconds. The opaque objects, not permitting light to pass, leave that area on the paper white, while the uncovered portions of the paper turn black when placed in the developer for a minute or two.

In an illuminated room you can compose more complicated designs on a sheet of clean glass which is later placed upon the photographic paper for exposure to light.

The photograms which you see here are a new dimension in photography and humor. It doesn't take much time to imagine appropriate objects for humorous photograms. The opportunities you'll find are unlimited.

"Woman Just Out of Bed." Chin of camera release cable, nose of girdle garter clasp and hair of rubber bands.

This is a self portrait of the author, with eyes of thumb tacks, a spring mouth—you can recognize rest.

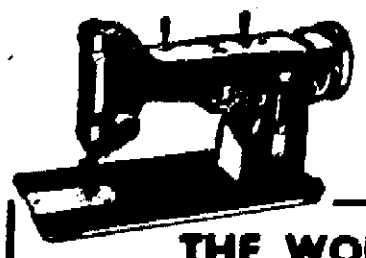

"Uncle Zeke Sees a Bikini." Rubber, paper washers are eyes; cotton, cord and a compass complete the rest.

Grandma's nose is very sharp, lips are dried leaves. Earrings, washers, matchsticks, beads finish portrait.

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

DR. Roy Alexander Thornton, business administration professor and corporation consultant who now makes his home in Huntington Park, has won many distinctions in the pursuit of his educational specialties but around the campus—and even in the directors' board rooms of the country's leading business institutions—he's most frequently referred to as the "Santa Claus professor," a title that delights him more than a whole string of doctor's degrees. Dr. Thornton is a foremost authority on the subject of Saint Nick and conducts extra-curricular courses on the history of the jolly, white-haired gent and other Christmas lore.

It all began as a hobby about 15 years ago and later developed into a major research project when Dr. Thornton's own three small youngsters kept pestering him the year around for more of his enthralling Christmas stories. As he delved deeper into Yuletide history, Dr. Thornton became a veritable walking encyclopedia of everything pertaining to Christmas down through the ages.

Today his lectures on the subject fill auditoriums in a dozen California towns whenever his regular work schedule permits him to accept engagements to speak before civic groups, conventions and Sunday school classes.

"PSYCHOLOGISTS MIGHT find something significant in the fact that my Santa Claus lectures often are better attended than my business administration classes," Dr. Thornton says. "It would seem that people are more interested in folklore than in the hard realities of economic life."

Santa Claus—as we know him—has existed only since 1823 when Clement Clark Moore wrote the poem, "The Night Before Christmas," says Dr. Thornton. This inspired Thomas Nast, famed cartoonist, to make the first sketch of the beloved character shortly before the Civil War.

"Gift giving at the Christmas season began in the Fourth Century," Dr. Thornton recalls, "when Bishop Nicholas of Myra in Asia Minor—now Turkey—started giving food and clothing to the needy on his own birthday, Dec. 6. After his death, the custom continued as a memorial and Dec. 6 was called St. Nicholas Day.

THE CUSTOM SPREAD to Europe and in Holland the words "Santa Claus" appeared for the first time, according to Dr. Thornton's research. Spelled Klaase, the word is a German derivative of the Christ Child and the Dutch Santa was an elfin-like representative of the Child who appeared on St. Nicholas Day, and took orders for delivery on Christmas Eve. He wore a flat black hat and long-tailed Flemish coat, and when he returned on Christmas Eve, he was supposed to ride a white horse.

"The word "yuletide" stems from a midwinter celebration of pagan northern Europe, called "Hweoltid," later changed to "yuletide." This festival, Dr. Thornton's study revealed, came about because, as the days grew shorter in winter, the pagans feared that the world was going into permanent darkness. So, when Dec. 21 had passed and they could see the days beginning to lengthen again, there was fasting and jubilation, and masters gave gifts to their servants. The church accepted the returning light to Hweoltid as a gift from the Christ Child, who brought light to the world.

"But Christmas in America will always be exemplified by the kindly and bewhiskered old gentleman with his sleigh and prancing reindeer," Dr. Thornton acknowledges, "a priceless gift of poet Moore's fertile imagination."

New Queen of Musical Comedy

HAVE YOU MET Shirley MacLaine, blue-eyed, long-legged, curvaceous and freckle-nosed 21-year-old who skyrocketed from obscurity to top stardom on stage, screen and TV, all in one little old year?

You may have that opportunity during the Christmas holidays when "Artists and Models," Paramount's VistaVision-Technicolor film musical comedy is scheduled for release.

Shirley wowed movie scouts in her very first appearance in "The Pajama Game," hit Broadway stage show. And why not? She's 5 feet 6 inches tall, measures 34-24-34. Besides, says Hal Wallis, producer of "Artists and Models," she's a "near-genius," that she "combines continental charm with American wholesomeness."

In her newest screen role she models, romances with Jerry Lewis, plays receptionist, and dances, dances, dances!

Paramount, which claims to know a good thing when it sees one, regards her with the degree of affection that might be accorded a newly-found uranium mine.

Queen of "Artists and Models," new musical comedy film, is blue-eyed, freckle-nosed Shirley MacLaine.

Shirley is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, measures 34-24-34. And she dances, dances!

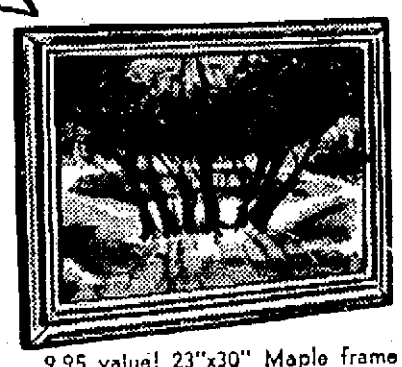

Her producer says she combines continenial charm with U. S. wholesomeness.

It's Strictly for the Birds

By Helen Smith

Washed up on the beach by a comber, this iron kettle now hangs in an apple tree as a feeder for the birds.

FREQUENTLY the items that make the most desirable and interesting features around the household are not the things purchased in the stores.

Because of an unusual find, one of the favorite spots of our home centers around our apple tree. It is not the crisp fruit the tree bears each fall, nor is it the pink and white blossoms clothing the branches in the spring that is the chief attraction.

Rather it is the "different" bird feeder hanging within the shade of the spreading boughs that causes this place to attract the entire family.

The bird feeder, a little iron kettle just five inches in diameter and obviously many years old, came rolling up on the beach via a huge comber one summer day, possibly from the bottom of the ocean, where it may have been confined in the galley of an old sailing vessel for decades.

ALTHOUGH IT MUST have bubbled with many a concoction in bygone days, the kettle now holds offerings for the birds as it swings in the breeze. In the spring and summer there is an assortment of seeds. Now that winter is at hand, pieces of suet and bird "cookies" made from ground fat and peanut butter lure the migrating songsters.

While the birds nibble at the food we like to imagine the dishes the little kettle once produced. Pungent, rich sauces perhaps. Or delicious delicacies redolent with spices from the Far East to tempt the captain's palate as a schooner followed the four winds over the blue-green sea.

Now the little kettle, rocking gently in its quiet haven, is content to hold only sustenance for the feathered visitors to our garden.

Cockroach in the Compass

By Clarence Bernard Propes

IT IS PRETTY WELL established that the Scandinavians were in America before Columbus.

First of all they settled Iceland and they tell of finding Irish books and other objects when they landed. There is even a pamphlet called "The Irish In America Before Columbus."

The Welsh would probably sneer at such Irish claim for they are said to have had settlements on the Florida coast before Columbus appeared. They could also tell of a Welshman captured by the Tuscarora Indians of Virginia in 1685. He got along fine for Welsh seems to have made up a great part of the tribal language.

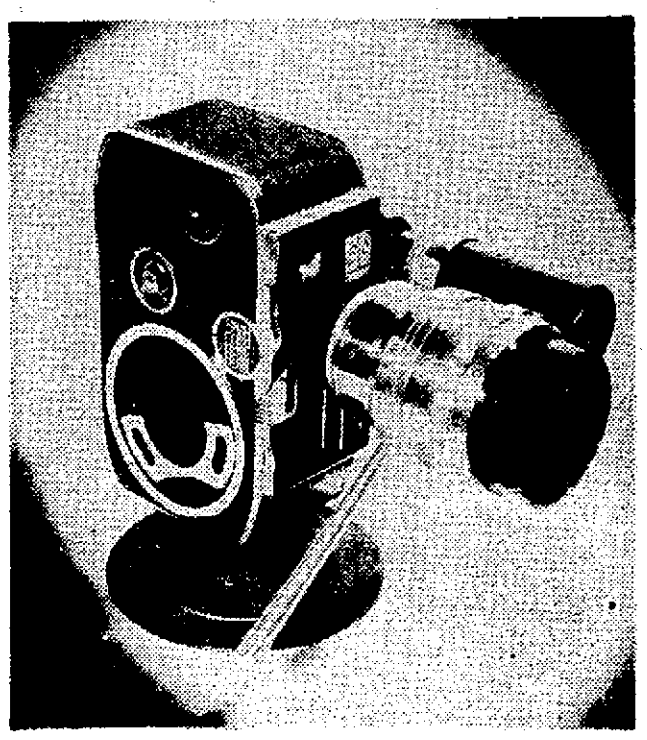

IF PHOENICIANS were still around they would sneer at the claims of everyone for they would call attention to certain Phoenician inscriptions high on some rocks near Rio de Janeiro. According to some scholars, these were engraved 800 or 900 years before Christ. Other scholars say the writing is strictly phony but no one has yet been able to prove anything. The Chinese enter the picture, too. If they are anything like their Russian brethren they will start making claims of various "firsts." Chinese history is long and glorious and their literature is vast but they will turn to an American newspaper to prove they discovered America. The paper will be the New York Tribune of Sept. 10, 1890.

It isn't unlikely that Chinese, as well as other peoples of the Pacific Ocean, landed in North America. A current flows from the far reaches of the Pacific to these shores. A drifting boat, caught in this current, would almost inevitably land on this coast. For instance, glass floats from the nets of Japanese fishermen can be found in many curio shops. Many of these floats were found on California beaches. However, there is a great deal of difference between flotsam and discovery.

Because of a bug in a compass, 'tis said, a Chinaman discovered California.

ACCORDING TO the Tribune, proof was found that the Chinese discovered America 200 years before Christ. An American missionary, the Reverend Dr. Shaw, discovered a manuscript in an obscure Chinese town which revealed the discovery.

According to this document a Captain Hee-Li, the owner and commander of a trading vessel, was caught in a great storm and driven far out to sea. When the storm abated the captain set a compass course for the east and home. It seems that a "yang-si" bug which closely resembles our cockroach had died under the compass needle, wedging it so that it pointed south instead of north.

It should be mentioned that

Dig That Young Man-About-Town

"Dress-alikes and "Just-like-Dad's" ride the crest of the tide of new, colorful ideas in California designers' fashions for spring. For instance: new continental-collared casual jackets for boys that imitate Dad's. They have waist-length styling with insets of elasticized all-wool knit for a trim and bulk-free look. The Bee "easy-open" neckline is a feature of shirts for the whole family and is a gimmick of the dress-alikes that's popular. Sportswear gains new designs and color combinations. Men's suits and accessories acquire new treatment in a trend to bring back individuality, elegance of age when men wore more frills.

Two young men about town, each reflecting in dress the California trend toward casual jackets for little boys that look exactly like the clothes for Dad.

"Crazy Stripes" puts the whole family in dress-alikes . . . comfort assured, and ultra-stylish, too. Broad front panels offer contrast with the stripes.

These Girls Are Mostly French

Trans World Airlines' high flying hostess corps — over 900 strong and handsome — is 20 years old this month.

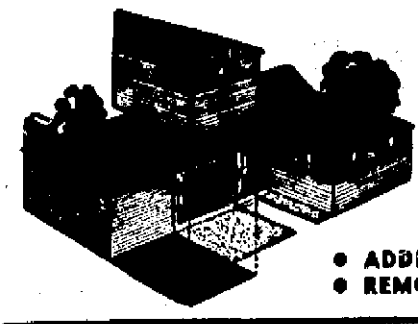

These smartly attired, personable young women symbolize TWA service over the airline's 33,000 miles of world air routes, according to Meriam Filkins, TWA's flight service manager, who heads the corps.

She recalls the first class of 23 hostesses, of which she was a member, who went aboard TWA's latest and fastest transport—1935 version—the Douglas DC-2. All of them were Registered Nurses, between 21 and 26 years of age, between 5 feet and 5 feet 4 inches tall, and somewhere between 100 and 118 pounds—minus their heavy gray serge, man-tailored, long-coated uniforms trimmed with epaulets and patch pockets.

As the air transports increased in size and configuration over the years, so did the hostess group. Today's fashionable TWA skygirl is between 21 and 28 years old, between 5 feet 2 and 5 feet 8 inches tall, and between 105 and 135 pounds and has some college or three years of business experience behind her. If she serves on TWA's international routes, she generally knows another language beside English.

About 80 of the more than 900 hostesses flying TWA routes are based in Paris and fly within Europe, Africa, the Middle East and India. In the majority, the girls are French.

Hostess training classes—in both Kansas City and Paris—are always in session because of high marital "attrition" among the group. The girls are trained for a period of four to five weeks, then are given a period of in-flight training.

COOKING

Festive Christmas Breakfast

By Mildred K. Flanary

Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

IT'S HOLIDAY TIME! Holiday time brings throughts of gay decorations, mysterious bundles, great quantities of wonderful foods and, of course, lots of at-home entertaining. The mood and the hour of these festive occasions are usually governed by family tradition.

In the Palos Verdes home of Dr. and Mrs. Grant Beckstrand, 1400 Via Monte Mar, a holiday breakfast is being planned. With the unique and luscious menu underway, Mrs. Beckstrand is giving equal attention to the decor. Tinsel, Christmas baubles, mistletoe and sprigs of holly berries will all weave themselves in to a warm and festive setting, thoroughly in keeping with the piece de resistance of the day.

Her menu reads like this:

Fruit Juices—Orange, Grapefruit, Tomato
Oeuf's a la Suisse
(Eggs Swiss Style)
Little Pork Sausages
Mimi's Muffins
Coffee

Now for you who are all agog with anticipation of partaking in Oeufs a la Suisse, here is Mrs. Beckstrand's recipe:

Oeufs a la Suisse

In an earthenware casserole place 2 cups grated Swiss cheese, 3 tablespoons butter, dotted over the cheese; 1½ cups champagne or dry white wine, 1 teaspoon each finely chopped chervil, parsley, chives, and shallots; salt, coarsely ground pepper and a small grating of nutmeg. Cook the mixture over a gentle flame, stirring constantly until the cheese melts and bubbles. Lower the flame to the finest point and beat into the mixture, 6 egg yolks, beating briskly after each addition. Then add, mixing well, the 6 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Continue cooking the mixture, stirring constantly from the bottom and sides of the dish until it is well scrambled. Serve immediately on fresh made toast. To heighten the flavor, each piece of toast may first be spread with 3 tablespoons butter, mixed with ½ teaspoon each anchovy paste and onion juice.

Mimi's Muffins

2 cups cake flour
2 rounded teaspoons double action baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
5 eggs
½ pint thick cream

Beat egg yolks, add sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add cream and beaten egg whites. Stir. Bake 20 to 25 minutes at 375 degrees.

For those of you who find the holiday hustle and bustle has left you short on time, we suggest a Breezy Broiler Breakfast:

The Menu:

Broiled Grapefruit
Honey Muffets
Pineapple 'n Meat Broil
Toast Butter Jelly
Milk Coffee

HONEY MUFFETS

Mix together 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons honey and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Place a tablespoon of mixture on each of 4 Muffets (the round shredded wheat biscuit).

GRAPEFRUIT

Cut each grapefruit in half; section each half and sprinkle 1 tablespoon brown sugar on top.

PINEAPPLE 'N MEAT

Arrange all foods on broiler rack; broil about 4 inches from heat until sugar is bubbly on Muffets and grapefruit. Serve grapefruit on small plates, the Muffets in cereal dishes with milk and the meat on an attractive platter. Easy? Yes!

Baked Eggs

Chop very fine 1 medium-size onion. Cook until golden brown in tablespoon butter. Add 3 tablespoons minced canned mushrooms, 1 teaspoon chopped chives, 1 tablespoon Sherry wine, 3 tablespoons tomato sauce, 3 tablespoons bouillon and let cook until reduced to one-half. Divide evenly in 6 baking dishes. Break two eggs in each dish and pour 1 teaspoon cream over each dish. Sprinkle with salt. Set in hot oven for 5 minutes or until eggs are just set.

Potato Pancakes

¾ cup mashed potatoes
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup flour
4 eggs, separated
1½ cups equal parts potato water and evaporated milk
½ cup chopped onions (if desired)
Pepper

Mix potatoes with flour and salt. Combine beaten egg yolks and liquid and add to dry mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on hot griddle. Makes about 14 cakes.

Festive with gay baubles is the scene for Christmas breakfast being prepared by Mrs. Grant Beckstrand.

Only the Best in Recipes

Aiming at making "just average" cooks great ones and good cooks "masters," Marvin Small has compiled a volume to delight the heart of any gourmet in his "World's Best Recipes" (Hawthorn Books, $5). Small admits a measure of literary license in his title but does claim to have a prize collection of cooking achievements on a world-wide scale.

Small has made his selection from among the recipes of the top chefs, best restaurants and leading authors of books on cooking, to whom an egg is far more than just something the hen laid and a stew is a work of art, not just a mess of boiled up meat and vegetables. Among his sources, too, are many of the world's leading restaurants and their most successful recipes. Scores of his recipes are preceded by chatty comments well calculated to tickle the funnybone as well as stimulate the appetite. His field ranges from the everyday to those culinary specialties not for the gouty.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Provincial Charm in Cape Cod Manner

Cape Cod tradition was followed in styling the exterior of this house. Dormer windows offer interest.

By Eileen Ball

MANY PERSONS devoted to the early American trend in furniture and architecture haplessly acquire the belief that such allegiance must necessarily include much detail, use of the so-called "warm" colors and an endless array of such bric-a-brac as salt boxes, old butter churns and wash boilers (all converted to planters).

Actually, much of what was best about the typical American house of the 18th century (and this still stands for good taste today) was the prim simplicity that lent many Cape Cod houses an atmosphere of near-severity.

This purity, descriptive of the typical wooden, dormer-windowed house of that era, made the Cape Cod structure capable of accepting almost any style of furniture providing it was modest.

Apparently well versed in the background of the Cape Cod cottage are Mr. and Mrs. Don Stage whose two-story 3200-square-foot, early American house at 5250 Los Flores attests to this young couple's cognizance of just what was best in the residence of the 1700s.

The gray shingle siding used for the exterior is modestly trimmed in snowy white, for the muntins of the multi-paned windows, the shutters, dormer window boxes, paneled recessed porch and for the prim coach lantern post that stands beside the winding brick pathway leading to the door.

RUFFLED UNBLEACHED muslin tie-back curtains at the three dormer windows echo the handsome, fully-pleated and tied-back muslin curtains that hang in rich, opaque folds across the living room bay.

The entry hall is unusually interesting with its paneled walls painted soft buttercup yellow. The wallpaper is pale yellow, gold and snowy white in a traditional colonial medallion. And the focal spot of this area, the one that meets the eye from the doorway, is a recessed wall niche "framed" with a scalloped molding painted yellow. Within the niche is a small baroque-framed gilt mirror below which is a container (hidden by the molding) that holds seasonal flower arrangements. Thus, the atmosphere of the house — one of warmth, hospitality and traditional dignity — is established right here where apple blossoms, ruddy chrysanthemums, holly berries or daffodils "bloom" in season.

THE LIVING ROOM, in combination with the dining room, is imposing for its size and for the dignity of its appointments. It is paneled in Wedgewood blue and the paneled fireplace is painted to match. The firebox is faced around with pale blue tiles overglazed with white provincial figures and motifs. Brass sconces, an antique clock for the mantel, a polished tile hearth on which the fire is merrily reflected, and a gaily painted, black tile wood bin accessorize the fireplace.

Spanning the width of huge bay windows in both the living and dining areas are padded cornice boxes covered in the same soft colored, floral-patterned chintz that was used for the upholstery of a pair of high-backed wing chairs that stand "pretty as a picture" in the living room bay.

THE DINING AREA, somewhat narrower than the extraordinarily wide living room which it adjoins, may be completely and attractively closed off with folding, louvered doors painted the same soft blue as the walls. Folded back, the doors are an attractive feature that effectively set off the dining set of provincial fruitwood.

The kitchen has all the modest charm associated with those of the old Cape Cod cottages. Its sunny yellow linoleum floor is banded in strips of chocolate brown. Richly waxed knotty pine cabinets hinged with black iron are integrated with yellow tile work counters. The service area, which is divided from the the preparation area by a low partition, is papered in a tiny-print "calico" floral employing tones of yellow, brown and china blue. The same paper was brought into the kitchen area above the plate line. A built-in pine desk and fully ruffled yellow organdy tie-back curtains complete this charming provincial picture.

The family room is handily located next to the kitchen which it joins by means of a divided Dutch door. Flanking the door is a wide pass-through that greatly facilitates the serving of food to large companies of guests. And well able to accommodate such groups is this roomy 17x22 foot area with its copper-lined brick barbecue capable of cooking to perfection a dozen steaks at a time.

THE ENTIRE ROOM is panelled with channeled knotty pine. Further adding to the atmosphere of provincialism are exposed rafters, a wide expanse of windows completely installed with adjustable pine shutters, wall-to-wall carpet of colorful random tweed, and a ceiling fixture consisting of an old wagon wheel hung with oldfashioned lanterns.

Near the Dutch door stands the round maple table with its lazy susan server and charming tavern chairs. Deeply comfortable chairs stand near the fireplace and in still another area of the room is a handsome pumpkin colored tweed wing sofa and round maple coffee table.

A short hallway from the family room leads to the master bedroom and its adjoining bath.

The bath, carried out in wedgewood blue and pale yellow, is extremely large and features an entired mirrored wall "framed" with a scalloped molding behind which fluorescent lights have been installed.

The master bedroom is furnished in antiques, the most outstanding of which is a high four-poster bed spread with a handmade ecru crocheted coverlet. The wallpaper is ivory with random clusters of oldfashioned field flowers. The trim is pale yellow, in coordination with the bathroom.

THE GUEST ROOM, located to the left of the entry, is carpeted in Confederate grey and, like the master bedroom, is outfitted with antique furniture. The coral bedspread has echoed

5 Million Acres Sprayed

The "spruce budworm" destroys tree life by eating the leaves.

This summer 2 million acres of trees, in Idaho, Oregon and Montana, were sprayed with insecticide, from airplanes.

In the years 1949 to 1954 six similar annual "budworm" control projects were carried out on three million acres in Oregon and Washington. The mortality average was 98 per cent.

The cost runs a little over $1 per acre. This is borne proportionately by the land owners; Federal, State and private.

The threatened timber in Idaho alone is estimated to be capable of producing 800 million dollars worth of semi-manufactured products.

She Rehabilitates Women Alcoholics

By Herbert Ford

Miss Lorraine Otis, above, reading Scriptures, leads L. A. program for rehabilitation of women alcoholics.

IN A SPRAWLING, 19-room home at 348 S. Occidental Blvd., Los Angeles, just off Lafayette Park, a quiet purposeful woman is pioneering in one of the most difficult areas known to sociologists — rehabilitation of women alcoholics.

Miss Lorraine Otis knows the scope of her task well, for she was once a hopeless alcoholic herself.

For the past year Miss Otis has been reclaiming alcoholic women from Los Angeles' Lincoln Heights jail, bringing them to her home, personally helping them guard the dangerous "fringe" areas that might lead back to uncontrolled drinking, fortifying them with strong practical and spiritual principles, and finding useful jobs near the home where a quck phone call can be made if "trouble" starts again.

"The job is slow and needs an almost uncanny understanding of the particular problems these women face," Miss Otis says. "Practically every area of these lives has to be completely reconstructed by patient, slow, and expertly guided work."

WHAT IS THE PROGRAM Miss Otis uses?

"First of all we are careful in our selection of girls at the jail," she says. "If a girl does not want to conquer her problems then there isn't much we can do for her. But if there is a spark of hope in her life she is a good prospect."

Miss Otis presents a weekly religious program at the jail and in this way brings "an awareness of eternal values and obligations" to otherwise hopeless lives.

"At the home we continue to cultivate this spiritual concept. But the purely physical and mental aspects of rehabilitation receive just as much attention. For example, normal social contacts, good reading material, group solving of everyday problems as well as individual self-reliance are stressed."

MANY GIRLS have "graduated" from the home to useful and successful jobs. Miss Otis is especially proud of one young lady, for 10 years a narcotics addict, who is today completely cured of her former habits and is one of the home's biggest boosters.

The road hasn't been easy for the slightly-built, courageous woman who has dedicated her efforts to this unusual work. Operated on a self-supporting basis, the home is always "just this side of the rent bill."

No religious or civic organization supports the home, for Miss Otis wants the program "unhindered by religious dogma or organizational complication. It operates best when it is simple," she says.

"OUR GREATEST SUPPORT comes from individuals who feel that reclaiming otherwise lost lives is one of the most important works in the world. Though this type of contribution is usually smaller than might come from an organization, still it means more for it is given 'without strings attached' and can be put to immediate work."

A devout member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church who was converted at one of the church's annual camp meetings in 1951, Miss Otis looks forward to a bright future for her alcoholic rehabilitation home. "Whenever people visit our home and learn of the program, they immediately want to help. And when more people hear of it there will be more help. Then we can care for more girls and the problem of rehabilitation of alcoholic women, in the entire Los Angeles area, will be lessened."

Man With a Lot of Drag

Editor of "Drag News," Dean Brown can no longer participate in racing but has never lost his interest.

—Drag News Photo

Sizzling action marks every session of the hot rods on the courses especially built for them. Here, a test of car and motorcycle is settled.

By Vera Williams

"THERE'S A LITTLE bit of the Barney Oldfield in everybody."

So says Dean Brown, 26, and because he believes it and because he has been a hot rod enthusiast all of his life, he publishes what he believes is the only drag strip newspaper in the United States.

He does it from a wheelchair because, in August 1952, he broke his neck in a highway traffic — not drag strip — accident near Blythe, and doctors say he will not walk again.

Brown's publication is Drag News, which comes out every other week, a 12-page newspaper covering the news of Southern California drag strips, their drivers and their cars. Newspaper offices are at 1736 E. Broadway. Drag News is published by the Independent, Press-Telegram job printing department.

THE PAPER has national circulation, although of course circulation is concentrated in this area. It may be obtained by subscription, or it may be bought at drag strips or speed shops.

Eventually Brown hopes to expand it to cover news of the upwards of 500 drag strips in the United States.

There are, he says, something like 10,000 hot rodders in California, something like 50,000 in the nation. In the main, they are boys and young men with a flair for speed and talent for building, rebuilding and handling cars. But there are some girl and young women hot rodders, and some of both sexes who are adults. Readers of Drag News largely are in their 20s.

"'HOT RODDER' isn't a term of criticism," says Brown, eyes flashing. "Your true hot rodder doesn't jeopardize life or limb — his own or anybody else's — on the highway. He goes to a drag strip, where he can race his car under approved conditions.

"He either has a car built for racing or a stock car that he has modified — at the expenditure of $100 to $200 and quite a bit of time. Generally speaking, he uses his car for regular transportation, to get to school or the job and home again, to take his girl out on dates.

"But — " Brown warms to the subject. "Drag strips also are open to Mr. and Mrs. Citizen who have no real interest in racing but would like to know their car's capabilities. Speedometers aren't always accurate; Mr. and Mrs. Citizen know better than to run their car at its top speed on the highways.

"They can go to a drag strip and for $1.25 or so get a complete safety checkup of their car, race it to find its top speed in the quarter mile and if successful in class eliminations, take home a trophy.

"TIMING IS FULLY electronic and is accurate to one-hundred thousandth of a second."

Timing distance of drag strips, says Brown, always is a quarter of a mile, 1,320 feet, with ample stopping room. Two cars race at a time. They start from a dead stop. They are timed two ways: the elapsed time, in seconds, required to cover the quarter-mile, and top speed, expressed as miles per hour, attained as the vehicle crosses the finish line.

Southern California drag strip records thus far are 152.007 miles per hour, and 9.68 seconds elapsed time, according to Brown. The 152.007 speed, chalked up by Lloyd Scott of Long Beach at the San Fernando strip last October, is considered a world drag strip record.

Local hot rodders usually go to the Lions Associated Drag Strip, opened by far-sighted Lions Clubs of this area last October at 223rd St. and Alameda Blvd.

OTHER DRAG STRIPS in this area are at the Orange County airport near Santa Ana, Los Angeles County Fair Grounds at Pomona, Morrow airfield at Colton, San Fernando airport and Saugus airport.

The all-out drag vehicle is stripped of nonessentials, and especially of nonessential weight. Its engine is toward the rear, resulting in more weight on the driving wheels; it utilizes a specially built body, and often as not a fuel injection system rather than conventional carburetors.

Instead of gasoline, a dragster is likely to burn such high oxygen-bearing fuels as methanol or nitromethane. Such fuel blends can cost as high as $20 a gallon, but the phenomenal engine outputs obtained apparently justify the expense.

BROWN, who was born in Salina, Kan., came to Long Beach in 1940 and was graduated from Wilson High School in 1947. He worked for North American Aviation Co., then served four years in the Air Force as a jet engine instructor at Sheppard Field, Tex.

The Blythe accident was followed by two years in the Veterans Administration Hospital. He and his wife, Billie, 25, a former Community Hospital nurse whom he met when he came home on furlough one time, were married last Feb. 13.

Billie is stenographer-secretary-cashier-telephone operator for Drag News; Dick McMullen, 25, who was a jet pupil of Brown's in Texas, is general manager; Carl Johnson, 36, whom Brown met when they both were VA Hospital patients, is business manager. Johnson, injured in World War II, also is in a wheelchair.

BROWN, McMULLEN and the Drag News photographers, Ed Teets and Bob Knight, spend Sundays at the drag strips covering events. Billie compiles the race results.

Crop in Close to Your Subject

IF YOU EVER find among your snapshots one in which your primary subject doesn't stand out as much as you'd like . . . if you are wishing you'd have moved in a little closer with your camera, stop the wishful thinking because the situation can still be remedied.

This remedy has a name. It's called cropping and enlarging. That's because you "crop away" all of the picture that you don't want, and enlarge the part that's left.

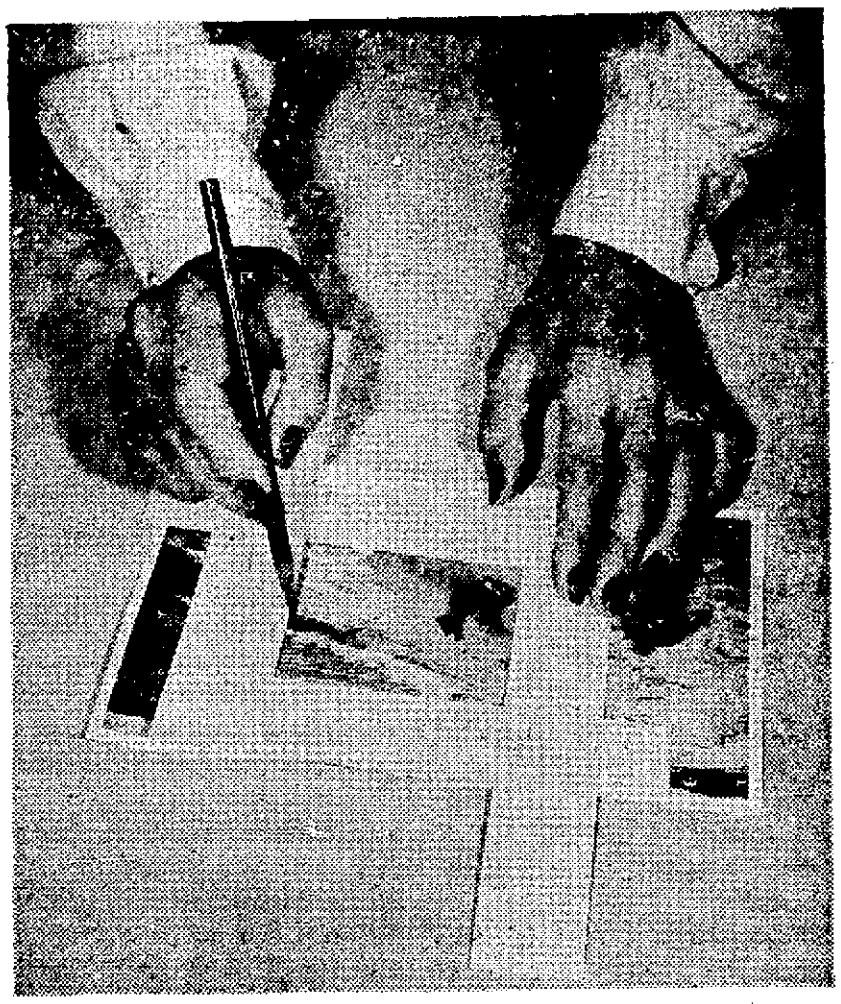

It's a regular practice among professional photographers and amateurs who do their own darkroom work. We know people who just never seem to make a print of a whole negative. Thus, they have a chance to improve their composition after the picture is taken.

But so does everyone—whether you do your own printing or not. Your photofinisher can do it for you.

All you need do is select the square or rectangular area of the snapshot that you'd like enlarged. Mark it on the print (use grease pencil and take it, with your snapshot if you want to save the negative, to your photofinisher.

It's a good idea to consult him about the size of your enlarge-

range computer for the Q-13 Bombing Computer, which greatly increased the bombing accuracy of B-29s operating from the Far East during the Korean War.

In 1951, he developed an attachment for a later radar bombing computer, which has since been incorporated in most of SAC's bombers and is now installed as standard equipment at the factory on the new eight-jet B-52, now being phased into the command at SAC's long-range, heavy bomber.

HOLGUIN HAS participated in five of SAC's seven annual bombing and navigation competitions. In 1952, he was a member of a crew that helped win the Fairchild Trophy for the 93rd Bomb Wing of Castle, the outstanding unit of the competition.

In 1954, his crew was the second highest scoring B-47 crew. This year, he and his fellow crew members out-navigated and outbombed all comers to top all crews entered in the competition, and to demonstrate to the world the extreme accuracy of the all-jet medium bomber.

In 1951 and 1953 he served as an operations staff member with the bombing and navigation competition organization.

Under SAC's spot promotion program, whereby flying crews are rewarded for outstanding performance with advancement in rank ahead of normal schedules, the major has held the rank of lieutenant colonel on two different occasions . . . once for two years for high crew proficiency. Upon winning the recent bombing and navigation competition, Holguin and the two other crew members were promoted again on the spot to lieutenant colonel.

IN JUNE of this year, Maj. Holguin's bombing proficiency made him the recipient of the first 15th Air Force Commander's Trophy, presented by Major General Walter C. Sweeney for outstanding performance.

Maj. Holguin was assigned to Strategic Air Command Headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., in September of this year as an operational staff officer. He was assigned as aircraft systems officer in the Tactical Requirements Division of the Directorate of Operations.

A future issue of "Combat Crew," SAC's monthly magazine devoted primarily to flying safety, has scheduled an article authored by Maj. Holguin on the observer in the jet age.

The major has more than 4,000 flying hours, including 500 hours in jet aircraft. His service decorations include the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross with one cluster, the Air Medal, the Purple Heart with one cluster, the Presidential Unit Citation with three clusters, the Asiatic Pacific Ribbon with three campaign stars, and appropriate service ribbons.

Today, Maj. Holguin is a solid family man. His wife, the former Celia Rebecca Martinez, of Garden Grove, has presented him with four children: Rebecca, 6; Curtis, 5; Claudia, 3, and Carlos, one month old.

The Holguins own their own home at 1028 North Olive St., Santa Ana, although they are currently residing at 910 S. 87th St., in Omaha.

LONG BEACH Camera Guild will have a color slide competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Grill, graduate of Los Angeles Art Center, judged the contest and answered questions about camera repairs.

Gene Nye, Guild exhibits chairman, has arranged a showing of black and white prints in the Jergins Arcade. Most of these 25 prints have won prizes in contests of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs, with which the Long Beach Guild is affiliated.

Murray Shaner won an award in the color slide contest, Triple A class, of the Photographic Society of America, held recently in Poly High School.

Cockroach

the Chinese did not use the marine compass until the Sixth Century A. D. and theirs pointed south instead of north.

THE CAPTAIN thought it mighty peculiar that he wasn't getting home, but he had faith in the compass so he sailed on and on.

One of the brainier seamen noticed something odd: "On the 25th day Hi-Thinc, one of the crew, suggested they must be sailing east since the sun constantly rose before them and set behind them, but Hee-Li promptly threw him overboard saying his fathers had trusted the compass since the Chow-Chop-Suey dynasty" and no uppity sea-lawyer was going to tell him how to navigate. He continued to sail on and on and on.

On June 10 he landed at what is now Monterey. Two days later one of his crew was polishing the compass and found the dead yang-li bug. At that point certain puzzling matters became clear to the indomitable Captain Hee-Li.

HE EXPLORED the coast 50 miles south and 100 miles north including San Francisco Bay. He traded with the natives and was deeply impressed by the glorious California climate. On his return to China he recounted his adventures and trade was set up with the California natives. Dr. Shaw could give no reasons why the trade died out.

This report seems to be the only written evidence that the Chinese discovered America. Orientalists have speculated on the matter and searched Chinese records but they can only find mentions of America well after 1492.

There is a liar there somewhere. Dr. Shaw may have been the liar. The reporter could have been a liar. Someone was. It's a cinch that Hee-Li wasn't.

PROVINCIAL CHARM IN THE CAPE COD MANNER

The Stages' family room achieves a feeling of provincial charm with its use of pine paneling and shutters.

the color predominant in the floral-swagged wallpaper featuring blossoms of pale coral and light blue against a ground of cream. An old cane-seat rocker and lavishly ruffled muslin tiebacks add notes of charm.

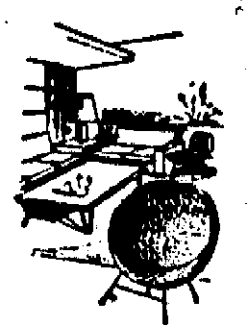

Located between the master bedroom and guest room is a tiny and completely captivating sewing room papered in oldfashioned cranberry-and-white print paper. White organdy curtains hang in prim flounces in the bay window. A sewing machine, vast cupboard and closet storage and a studio sofa combine to make this a wonderfully welcoming and handy place, not only for sewing but for "getting off to one's self" with a good book.

The second story is partially completed, featuring a large bath and a spacious bedroom for the Stages' two sons.

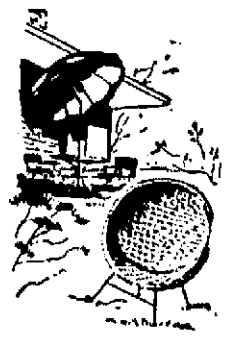

The vast uncompleted room occupying all that area above the living room, family room and kitchen is currently being used as a play area for the boys. Future plans entail its being divided into an overnight guest room for friends of the boys and a rumpus room complete with fireplace, refreshment bar, pool table, dumb waiter and dance floor.

PET PARADE

If Santa Claus Brings a Pet

By Eleanor A. Price

Puppies rate high on Yule gift lists. This basketful of mischief belongs to Peggy Pucci and Irene Coverley.

IT'S NOT EASY for parents to resist their youngsters' pleas for pets for Christmas, as children have persuasive ways. Their persistence brings to mind the cartoon by Galbraith in which one little boy says to his pal, "I can't tease Mom too much about the bike — I've got to keep her calm for my big job of pestering her for a dog!"

Therefore, next Sunday, many parents will find that their children have discovered a live animal under the Christmas tree.

It is an old, old theme, but it cannot be stressed too thoroughly or too frequently that a new pet that comes into the home must be treated gently and lovingly, and parents who consent to accepting a pet should realize that they are dealing with a life that is dependent on them for shelter, food, medical attention, perhaps exercise, training, grooming, and proper handling by the small children.

It is hoped, of course, that most parents do understand that teaching children the care and training of pets helps build character. Such groups as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys' Clubs and others actively encourage pet care, and it is never too early for the pre-organization youngster to learn to respect and protect his pet under all circumstances.

IF PARENTS cannot or will not take the time to assume the responsibility of teaching their children how to treat pets, then they should not permit Santa Claus to put one under the Christmas tree.

Right here it should be stated that it would be far better to arrange to have the pet delivered either a day or two before Christmas or after the day's confusion is over. A puppy or kitten plopped down in the middle of a bedlam of shouting children and mountains of ribbon and tissue paper might be frightened beyond bearing and get off to a bad start. And if he is handled and mauled to excess, even from adoration, and dragged around for the neighbors to see, the family may end up with a very sick animal, or a dead one.

So let the little fellow adjust himself to his new surroundings in a serene and relaxed way.

BEFORE TAKING the new puppy or kitten into the home, be sure to select a spot in the house he will be able to call his own. Have the proper bed ready to place there and one or two suitable toys. Certain other pets, too, may need corners of their own.

If the pet is to be a puppy, get in a stack of old newspapers in case the weather is damp and you have to paper-break him. If the pet is to be a kitten, he will need a box or low crate lined with oilcloth and filled with clean sand or prepared material available at pet stores. For other pets, have the proper facilities or cages ready.

Getting the Christmas pet started on the right foot is very important when it comes to food, for real kindness to an animal includes giving him a balanced diet in suitable quantity.

IF WHAT YOU serve is eaten and the pet thrives, then that food is probably right for him. The former owner of the pet may have valuable information to give you. Consult a veterinarian if in doubt.

THANKS to E. H. Speckman for this reminder: Fireproof Christmas decorations are poisonous to parakeets. The Speckmans know, for they lost a parakeet last year after it had sampled artificial snow under the Christmas tree.

CHRISTMAS-MINDED readers (and aren't we all?) should not miss the inspiring Christmas carols of the King's Canary Chorus in the Kings' Melody Patio at 1165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Daily from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., and intermittently throughout every day during this season (and after), these beautiful songsters perform free of charge, accompanied on the Hammond organ by Mrs. Bessie King. A tape recording was made when this unusual chorus thrilled an audience on Dr. Peter Slack's program, and it will be heard recurrently on radio across the country during the holidays.

'Aloha!' With a Lei

Colorful, sweet-scented "lei village," near Honolulu Airport, is popular with Hawaiians who select leis for traditional greeting to friends arriving by air.

UNIQUE among airport facilities the world over are the colorful lei booths which grace the approaches to Honolulu International Airport. Here youthful Hawaiian maidens and portly matrons prepare and sell the many-hued floral garlands which have become the trademark of Hawiian hospitality.

Leis are among the most unique and colorful of Hawaiian traditions. Originally made of the green, sweetly-scented maile leaf, leis were worn only by Hawaiian alii, or leaders, on important occasions.

TODAY, with nearly 80 per cent of Hawaii's visitors arriving by scheduled airlines, lei-making activities have shifted to the airport, where nearly 100 Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians prepare an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 leis daily the year around, making use of as many as 140,000 individual blossoms each 24 hours.

Leis are presented to arriving passengers, with the traditional "Aloha!" greeting, from a variety of sources. United Air Lines, which links 79 mainland cities with Hawaii, presents leis to each passenger on its first-class DC-7 Mainliners.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"Is it true that Swiss watches and such are a better buy in Tijuana than elsewhere in Mexico? How about Guatemala?"

I NEVER HEARD that either Tijuana or Guatemala or anywhere in Mexico was good for Swiss watches. But I can't honestly say they are not. I just don't know. I buy Swiss watches in Switzerland or, better, in Hong Kong. The way to figure on inexpensive foreign imports is whether the country is a free port. Or for some reason has very low import duties. As I remember, Swiss watches in Mexico City were not an exceptional buy. And I would be afraid to buy anything expensive in Tijuana. These border towns are pretty well geared to hit-run tourist buying.

"I am 16 years of age and will be 17 when I go to Paris next summer to study French. I will stay one to two years. Where can I stay?"

MOST AMERICAN students stay at one of the thousand cheap hotels in the Latin Quarter. Some of them are pretty basic. Three that won't be too much of a shock are Hotel des Etats Unis near Montparnasse; Hotel de Siene near St. Germain des Pres; Hotel de Tournon near Luxembourg Gardens. After that, take a look at the school bulletin board. You ought to find families wanting to take in students. That's the way to learn French.

"Perhaps you can give me advice as to driving in Europe as far as a driving license is concerned."

The easiest way is to get an International Driving Permit. You get these from the AAA offices right here in the States. Cost about $1, I think. This is a good overall permit though, under new rules, your State license is good in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy.

The international permit takes care of everything though except England where you have to get a local license. Phone the Royal Automobile Club. They'll tell you.

"Is it worth while to spend Christmas in Mexico?"

WELL, I THINK SO. It's a good season of the year and Mexico is fun at almost any time. Personally, I'd spend it right in Mexico City, rather than out in the country. Probably more holiday feeling.

If you are going to the Capri or the Versalles Room that night, you'd better start on the reservations now.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to: Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

BOOK REVIEWS

What Makes the Big Wheels Roll

CAMERON HAWLEY, who wrote the best-seller, "Executive Suite" and established himself as an outstanding chronicler of our times, now offers "Cash McCall" (Houghton Mifflin, $3.95).

The hero is a modern American businessman who has a talent for buying heavy industries, revitalizing them and reselling them at a substantial profit. But he's not a "company man," does not operate the plants.

Like "Executive Suite," this novel tells about human beings who people the big business world — how they think, feel, react, love . . . and like his first novel, this is an exceptional production. The story was first told, we recall, in Life Magazine, a too-generous free sample of a story the reader should follow as it develops.

It was, we recall, this same magazine that whined recently about the lack of authors who could write about the contemporary American scene.

The thin Minnesotan, Sinclair Lewis, achieved great fame with cynicism. Cameron Hawley has more sympathy. Hawley needs no caricatures, he is warm and sure. This is easily the best novel to fall into this corner this year.

Cash McCall (if you need to know the plot) buys Grant Austen's plant through some legal, but misunderstood, chicanery. Cash meanwhile rekindles an old love for Austen's daughter, Lory. The crisis is a sort of indefinite, yet positive thing: McCall needs no man's approval to justify his project, Austen needs everybody's . . . so, naturally, Lory and love win.

Tain't the plot, it's the telling of it.—G. C. F.

IN AN ERA of "do-it-yourself," complete with kits, the author of "The Word Beyond Words," Gardner Hunting (Dodd, Mead; $3), presents his own design for living. Prayer is the application of faith; not so much faith in a generous Being as faith in one's self. Mr. Hunting argues that prayer will not influence God, or persuade Him to act; the purpose of prayer is to build up faith. With full faith there seems to be little which will not come to the believer. Certainly the author has his own faith, which has earned the respect of past readers, and to know Gardner Hunting is to have a new faith in what man can be.

The author was a resident of Long Beach for many years, and now lives in Glendale. His own life has been a broad application of the spirit with which he writes. If one reads with an open mind, he will certainly benefit beyond measure from this fine book of common sense.—G. L.

IF THE SQUIRE of your household likes to cook, or thinks he can cook, the most unique gift you could give him is "Esquire Cook Book" (McGraw-Hill, $5.95). Not only is it a volume handsomely done to a man's taste, but assuming that the reader knows absolutely nothing about cookery, it takes him by the hand and shows him, step by step, how to work with recipes and then cook anything that suits his fancy, from eggs au gratin to the most complicated dinner entree or the gaudiest, champagne-flavored dessert. It makes barbecuing sound as simple as brewing a pot of coffee, garnishing a Canadian goose as easy as preparing a three-minute cereal. And there's a glossary of cooking terms, not to count a complete calorie counter for the plump wife's protection.—F.T.K.

JAMES T. FARRELL

"French Girls Are Vicious" is the title of a highly entertaining book of nine short stories by James T. Farrell (Vanguard, $3.50). Obviously based largely on his extensive travels and experiences, and with their emphatic quality, these light tales have a reality not often found in fiction.

DR. WILFRED FUNK, for 30 years with Funk & Wagnalls Co., the dictionary and encyclopedia publishers, is author of "The Way to Vocabulary Power and Culture" (Grosset & Dunlap, $1.98), which is a bargain if ever there was one. Dr. Funk lists 5,654 words which he calls "key words" to masterful writing and speaking, first defining and pronouncing each word, and then illustrating it in a sentence to give its precise meaning. There are chapters on "Verbs of Power," "Adjectives of Power," and so on, and included, too, are vocabulary tests.—F. T. K.

WHEN LEO DUROCHER was a boy, he was a nervous specimen who loved baseball and did not give a hoot about dodging trouble. When he became a man, he was the same way, until he met Laraine Day. Leo's life (up to the time just before the Giants fired him) is told in "The Leo Durocher Story," by Gene Schoor (Messner, $2.95).

THE COMMON grizzly bear didn't become the emblem of California for nothing. Common since the days of the Indians, it has been very much in the California picture for two centuries. Awkward and big (he has been reported weighing up to a ton), this sanguinary beast was held in awe by the Indians, feared as a depredator of livestock on mission and rancho in the days of the Spaniards and Mexicans, hunted for bear-and-bull fights in the gold rush and a source of meat and robes to early settlers. Not completely extinct until the 1920s, he has been the source of many exciting experiences of Californians and more than a few of these episodes are set down for the first time by Tracy I. Storer and Lloyd P. Tavis Jr. in "California Grizzly" (University of California Press, $7.50).

IN A SMALL Missouri town, three people seek their place in the world. One chooses it within the rigid framework of her church (Latter-day Saints), another by giving generously and asking (and getting) little, and a third to take from the community only that which she needs. A warm story, told leisurely by Agnes Adams Fisher in "Daylight and Dark" (Funk and Wagnalls, $3.75).

AUTHOR of numerous magazine articles, some of which have appeared in Southland, Caroline Louise Clough of Long Beach has written a book, "His Name Was David," which deals with the life of Dr. David Paulson (Review and Herald Pub. Co.). She tells how Dr. Paulson, her brother-in-law, founded the now famous Hinsdale Sanitarium in a Chicago suburb and conquered life's exigencies through prayer. A solid book, and good reading.

"THE MERMAID'S WISH" (Story Book Press) is a book of charming verse, poetry and song by Mabel Dobb Hester, 716 Olive Ave., which has gone into its second printing. An infinite variety of subjects is covered, each with grace and heartfelt understanding.

THE CARD PLAYER never lived who wouldn't want "The Bridge Player's Bedside Companion" (Prentice-Hall, $4.95), a sparkling collection of stories, anecdotes and articles by half a hundred well-known writers. The editor is Albert A. Ostrow and there is a generous sprinkling of cartoons by H. T. Webster.

MOST COMPLETE profile yet about the Nevada gambling metropolis is a not-too-long book, "Las Vegas: Playtown U. S. A.," by Katharine Best and Katharine Hillyer, magazine article writers of Virginia City (David McGay, $2.95). The foreword is by a widely known fellow townsman, Lucius Beebe.

PAPERBACK BONANZA — Here are some new paperbacks to suit every taste: "Frontier — 150 Years of the West," the story of the West and the men who opened and conquered it, edited by Luke Short (Bantam, 35c); "The Sayings of Confucius," a translation by James R. Ware (Mentor, 35c); "Queen's Own," a novel of violence set in India, by George C. Appell (Dell First Edition, 25c); "Marx and the Marxists: The Ambiguous Legacy," by Sidney Hook (Anvil Original, $1.25); "Best Loved Books of the Twentieth Century," essays about 52 best-read books, by Vincent Starrett (Bantam, 35c); "The Long Playing Record Guide," an evaluation of more than 7,000 recordings, by Warren De Motte (Dell First Edition, 50c); "Modern Japan: A Brief History," by Arthur Tiedemann (Anvil Original, $1.25).

This Band Puts Oomph in Its Toot

Invited to be New Orleans' guests at the Mardi Gras. Long Beach Youth Band plans a show and dance to get rail fare. Rita Lynch is band's head drum majorette.

By Caroline Coleman

LONG BEACH Youth Band, made up of 60 musicians, majorettes and banner girls, Monday will celebrate its sixth birthday.

In the six years the band and majorettes have made 450 uniformed public appearances, have won more than 400 awards and have traveled 15,000 miles.

Now the band has received its finest honor — an invitation to attend the Mardi Gras in New Orleans in February. The official invitation from the Rex organization (official host of the Mardi Gras) came through a Mardi Gras representative who saw the band at this year's Las Vegas "Heildorado" celebration, where for the second consecutive year it took the sweepstakes award for the outstanding out-of-state unit.

In addition to appearing in the parade of His Majesty Rex, King of Misrule, the band has been invited to attend the grand ball. New Orleans has offered housing for the group during the five-day stay. Radio and television programs are slated.

TO RAISE FUNDS for the New Orleans trip, the Youth Band will give a show and dance Jan. 13 in the Convention Hall of the Municipal Auditorium. The show is scheduled for 8 to 9 p.m., followed by dancing until midnight.

Ninety-five per cent of the band's awards have been first place and sweepstakes, ac ling to Gordon Carmen, organizer-director.

Twenty persons were present for the first rehearsal when the band was organized Dec. 19, 1949, according to Carmen. Within a month enrollment had jumped to 155 band members and 35 majorettes.

At the third rehearsal, the name "Long Beach Youth Band" was chosen, as was the band's motto "Character Building Through Music."

Within two months after its organization, the City Council gave permission for the band to place the city seal on its drums, stationery, and other equipment and officially represent the city in its appearances. The band also represents the state.

THE GROUP made its first appearance at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino in March 1950.

In July 1950 the city took over partial sponsorship by accounting for about 30 per cent of the band's transporation expenses.

In July 1952, the City Council allocated funds to furnish the band with 50 snappy blue and grey uniforms.

All services given the band by its members, parents, adult advisory board and band director are voluntary. None of these people is paid.

Helping celebrate the band's sixth anniversary are Monzell Seckington and Clarence Nies, assistant directors; Betty Nies, senior secretary; Priscilla Marshall, head line majorette; Gail Marshall, recording secretary; Cheryl Martin, head librarian; Ronald Bannister, band president; Curtis Chenowith, transportation chairman.

GORDON CARMEN organized the band when he was 19 years old. He has been associated with the Los Angeles Rams band, Loyola University band, Long Beach Veterans Community Band and American Legion Band. A champion military and twirling drum major, he won more than 300 awards. He has made a number of radio and television appearances, and has emceed a number of shows.

Rita Lynch, the 12-year-old "baton whiz," head drum majorette, a band member for more than five years, has won 43 trophies, 50 medals and many ribbons.

The band points with pride to the fact that thus far it is the only California musical group invited to the Mardi Gras.

The band has a limited number of openings for boys and girls aged 13-17. Youths interested in joining and their parents are invited to attend rehearsals at the Edison school, 7th St. and Maine Ave., between 6:30 and 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Let Fire Dance in Your Garden

Leading the flower parade for 1956 is Fire Dance, a large, hybrid, scarlet-red, yellow-throated petunia.

By Walter Finch

FIRE DANCE, big hybrid scarlet red petunia with flashy yellow throat leads the flower parade for 1956.

Paleface, the white hybrid multiflora, is a 1955 introduction because a few seeds were distributed last spring, but it is widely available this season. It won the All-America Selections bronze medal award but there were insufficient seeds for general notice or offering by seed stores last year.

Paleface petunia is the white counterpart and with most striking color contrast to the outstanding red hybrid multiflora Comanche. Both belong to the already famous "Redskin" series of large, plain-petaled bedding beauties.

Fire Dance belongs to the grandiflora class, with much larger, fringed or ruffled flowers. And, they are freely borne on dwarf, compact spreading plants for bedding use.

PREVIOUS WINNERS in this class are the beautiful bright rose Prima Donna of 1955 and salmon Ballerina of 1952 introduction, also vigorous growing first generation hybrids. All provide exquisite cut-flowers and bloom continuously from spring until fall frosts.

Why are there more petunia winners than any other flower? The obvious answer is that more breeding work is done on petunias, but why? Well, they are in colorful bloom throughout the growing season, even through the winter in warmer areas. They are used for growing in pots and urns, porch and window boxes, edging along fences, walks and drives, for solid or ribbon beds, for dashes of color in perennial borders and foundation plantings. Petunias grow and bloom profusely in sandy to clay soils, from salty seashore air to mountain heights and from extreme north to tropical climates.

They are practically free from disease and insects. They are pleasantly fragrant and provide graceful cutting and arrangement material in foliage and flower. Varieties are available in most all color shades from white to deep blue and violet, including bicolors, except for yellow. Cream or buff is the closest to yellow so far in petunias although a couple with definite yellowish tones were recent trial entries.

FIRE DANCE is the newest and most striking colored hybrid grandiflora petunia. If you know Tango, Fire Dance is of similar rich scarlet-salmon, with the addition of a large and contrasting yellow throat for spectacular distinction.

Flowers measure four inches in size, beautifully ruffled to appear fringed and are freely produced from spring to fall. While plants reach only 12 inches high, with space available they will spread as much as 30 inches. Thus, a few plants can make a colorful display. Gardeners suggest setting plants at least 18 inches apart.

Where to get them? Order seeds early, right away, from any reliable seedsman. Start them in a pot or flat in the house or garage, preferably on a window sill, from now into February for this area.

How to Force Bulbs

By Henry Pree

THE HOME gardener with thoughts of forcing tulip and narcissus bulbs for indoor decoration should get busy at once and place them in pots.

Forcing bulbs is not always successful because most gardeners will not follow the rule that bulbs insist upon darkness and a cold temperature for a couple or more months so that they can develop roots to support the plants.

Bulbs potted now and put in the ground at once will have made sufficient root growth by the end of January to be ready for transfer to the warmth of the house.

The potting soil should consist of two parts of good garden soil, one part of old manure, leafmold or peatmoss, and one part sand. The mixture must be porous, and if the garden soil is heavy, then more sand must be added.

A TEASPOONFUL of a 4-12-4 fertilizer should be used for each pot of soil. Good draingage in the pots is essential.

The bulbs, three to seven depending on their size, are placed close together, but not touching. in the pots with their tips just level with the top, and covered with soil. Then soak the pot well from below and bury in an 18-inch-deep trench outdoors, or in an empty cold frame.

The old gardener recommends placing the pot on a two or three-inch layer of cinders or sand to insure proper bottom drainage.

Pack damp leaves, straw or other litter about and over the pots, one inch deep, and then mulch above with more leaves, straw and soil to a depth of a foot. Root formation occurs during this period. The pots are then brought indoors as desired to provide the succession of bloom.

WHEN FIRST brought indoors, they should be watered lightly and kept in a cool place and in half light for a few days. Then gradually bring them into sunlight, warmth and plentiful watering.

Blooms will appear in five to eight weeks, depending upon earliness of the variety and temperature of the home. However, it is well to remember that when the blooms appear the plants should be removed from full sunlight.

To force potted bulbs, place pot in ditch 18 inches deep and cover foot deep with mulch.

Man Who's Chin Deep in Mums

Author's Photo

When Juan Hernandez of Paramount moves about in his chrysanthemum garden, he is chin-deep in the blooms.

By Walter E. Hempstead Jr.

BURIED ALIVE in his own flower patch is the way Juan Hernandez looks when he cultivates his brilliant garden of chrysanthemums at 14000 Orizaba St., Paramount.

"Do you still grow onions and carrots?" asked his amigo barber some six years ago.

"No," replied Hernandez. "Such truck did not even pay for my gasoline to haul it to the Los Angeles markets."

"Now I grow flowers," he said. "Customers have to buy them — when babies are born, lovers are married and friends die off," Hernandez observed shrewdly.

Home growers, who would like to be banked by flowers when they must bid "adios" to this earth but who like nothing better than scratching around their own shrubbery while still kicking, may not have the right bouquets for the crisis events of etiquette. So they quickly order from florists or beat a path to the Hernandez door.

"CHRYSANTHEMUMS are basic necessities in the floral kingdom," said Hernandez. "I like all flowers, but mums are big and bright, and really carry a friendly message on the inevitable occasions of life or death."

Thus in crowded urban districts there remain few "farms." Nevertheless, the traffic is quite large scale in the nation's floral industry. A neighbor and patron of Hernandez, Mrs. Nellie Kious Jones of 8141 E. Rosecrans Ave., recalls the still-operating "White Cloud Mum Farm" near her old home town of Joplin, Mo. "Beginning with two acres around that ranch house, of white, cloud-like mums," said Mrs. Jones, "the entire 100 acres are now given over to chrysanthemums exclusively. That is significant commerce," she added.

Hernandez, with his wife, Guadalupe, arrived in this part of California in 1910. He obtained a poll tax receipt, issued to him for $2 by the Los Angeles County auditor in 1914. In those early days, he used the strange certificate as a customary alien clearance equivalent to a visa or a passport for those who worked in the fields. (California today has no poll tax law.)

JUAN'S FLORAL experience is life-long. He and his wife are natives of the state of Guatapato in the central western interior of Mexico. Their families were farmers there.

"Best country in the world," declares Juan Hernandez, "is the United States; and the best place for flowers, especially chrysanthemums.

"Soon as my wife's recently broken leg is mended," he declared, "we both plan to apply for U. S. citizenship. We have met all the requirements and are eligible through the Department of Justice."

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to prune back too heavy shrubs that have been allowed to grow wild. If they have a tropical nature, it might be advisable to stake them, rather than pruning. Cutting the stems encourages soft, new growth which is susceptible to frost damage.

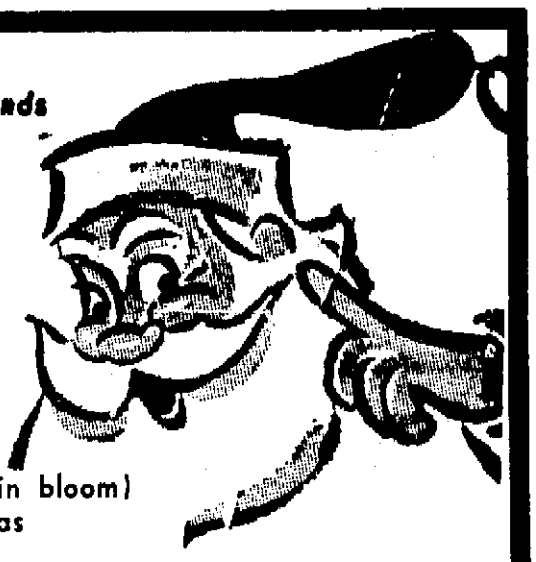

Deciduous trees may now be pruned to remove all superfluous growth. This should be taken care of in windy districts to allow the wind to penetrate through the center of the trees. This treatment should reduce wind damage.

Plants that grow in the shade of trees require extra portions of food and drink. Also if the shade becomes too dense then thin out the tree. Additional light will encourage improved growth of these smaller specimens.

This is a good time to work plenty of humus into the soil. Getting ready for the spring planting season. Also give the soil a thorough working over at this time.

HOW TO Make a Small Room Look Large Through Smart Decorating Ideas

WHY IS IT SOME SMALL ROOMS look big? If you study them carefully, you'll see the answer is smart decorating.

This room is a case in point. It is only 11x13 feet, but appears much larger and serves as well as many rooms twice the size. The space-making ideas are pin-pointed here to help you use them in your own home.

In a small room, it's even more important to preplan the use of the space you have available. Try experimenting with arrangements on paper first. It's easier than lifting heavy furniture pieces.

1. MIRROR FOOLS the eye. Looks like a big room, doesn't it? The large mirror behind the sofa doubles, visually, the size of this small guest-study. Storage wall, open at top for books and accessories, has closed storage below to keep necessary clutter out of sight and store guest-room bedding. The large sofa can double as extra guest sleeping space.

2. SIMPLIFY backgrounds. Walls are a light, neutral color. Only one pattern is used on the draperies. This simplified look is important in a small room where too many colors and too many patterns would give a feeling of clutter and confusion.

3. GOOD LIGHTING is important. Well-planned lighting turns dark corners into light, usable areas. Light appears to push walls back for a larger look. Wall-bracket spotlights leave the table top free.

4. FURNITURE HUGS the walls, making it possible to get maximum seating space in this 11x13-foot room.

TONY GUILLEN
Special Fare for Tots

WHEN TONY GUILLEN opened his El Patio No. 2 cafe last February in a brand new building at 3503 Atlantic Ave., he thought its seating capacity of 200 would be more than sufficient.

Tony, a modest, friendly fellow, definitely underestimated his own popularity.

People just love his chicken enchiladas, tamales, tacos, burritos and guacamole salads — all of which are very reasonably priced. They arrive at El Patio No. 2 in such droves that there are times when Tony must seat the overflow in his banquet room, which accommodates 40 persons.

One of Tony's most popular items is his Combination Special. For only $1.25, it includes all of the following: A dandy tostada (salad on a crisp tortilla); an enchilada with cheese, taco with beef, plump tamale, frijoles and fluffy Spanish rice. The food is served piping hot on pre-heated plates that keep everything warm until the last morsel is eaten.

THE COMBINATION is served at both of Tony's restaurants. El Patio No. 1, Tony's original cafe at 337 Pacific Ave., is devoted almost exclusively to Mexican dishes. But El Patio No. 2 also caters to persons who desire other bill of fare, such as steaks or hamburgers. One of El Patio No. 2's specialties is a $2 T-bone steak dinner, which includes a big, 16-ounce steak, soup, tossed salad, French fries or frijoles and Spanish rice; choice of beverage and choice of ice cream or pie.

Since Tony has several children of his own, he has a good idea of what youngsters like. At El Patio No. 2 he serves special children's plates for 50 cents, including soup, taco, beans and rice or soup, hamburger steak, beans and rice. El Patio No. 1 also offers special fare for children.

El Patio No. 2 is open daily from 11:30 a. m. to midnight and closed Tuesdays. El Patio No. 1 is open daily from 11:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. and closed Sundays.—TEDD THOMEY.

No Promises of Tax Cut by Either Party

Few Individuals Say Slash Likely; Most Leaders Cautious

By ROBERT E. LEE
(Of The Independent, Press-Telegram's Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON—At least for the record, the word from both political parties on a tax cut next year is, "Wait and see."

With only a few notable exceptions, Republicans and Democrats alike are making no promises to the voters about income-tax relief.

Usually both parties come back here to start an election-year session of Congress figuring angles on how to reduce taxes—and how to steal the credit from the other fellow.

But a fortnight before the 2nd session of the 84th Congress opens, prospects for personal income-tax reductions are not much better than fair.

• • • •

THE INFLUENTIAL Sen. George (D-Ga), senior member of the Senate Finance Committee, thinks the budget surplus will be enough to warrant a $3.5-billion cut. And he thinks there will be so much sentiment for it that the House Ways and Means Committee, where revenue bills must originate, will go right to work before the members' seats are warm.

But House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) wants to move cautiously, and so do many Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee.

The prevailing Democratic feeling in the House seems now to be that a decision should be delayed until the Spring, when the budget-balance picture is clearer. Republican strategists agree generally that this is the safest course—both economically and politically.

• • • •

ANY BETS PLACED now against a cut next year would fly in the face of not only the election-year tradition but also a political rule of thumb that when there's a budget surplus, you have to slice the melon.

Some Republicans, including Senate Minority Leader Knowland (R-Calif) and reportedly Rep. Reed (N.Y), ranking GOP Ways and Means Committee member, believe a surplus should be applied against the national debt.

AND THE ANGELS CAME!

Ravaged by time and want and chilled by lack of heat this Cincinnati couple discovered Saturday that the spirit of Christmas still reigns. Mrs. Thomas Osborne, 89, (right) reported her husband, 93, missing. Officers found him getting warm at a Salvation Army station. Patrolmen gave them funds for food, the utility firm turned on the electricity, and welfare workers sent coal.—(AP)

PCH Smashup Kills Girl, 17; Driver Jailed

Lakewood Man Arrested on Felony Drunk Charge

Peggy R. Brown, 17, of 2735 E. Hill St., was fatally injured in a two-car smashup here Saturday night and police jailed the driver of the other car on counts of felony drunk driving and felony manslaughter.

Patrick R. Bloomfield, 31, of 2722 Hardwick St., Lakewood, was arrested after he allegedly ran a red light.

The girl was thrown from a car driven by her father, Bee Augusta Brown, 51, in the collision at Pacific Coast Hwy. and Junipero Ave.

Miss Brown was dead on arrival at Community Hospital

Her father was treated at the hospital for extreme shock and other injuries.

His wife, Maggie E., another passenger, was uninjured.

• • • •

OFFICERS SAID Bloomfield was driving east on Pacific Coast Hwy. when the mishap occurred.

Bloomfield was treated at the hospital for head lacerations and abrasions and then taken to city jail.

Earlier Saturday, in another accident, a 3-year-old boy was injured when a milk delivery truck backed into him.

The boy, James R. Tebbetts, 3021 Livingston Dr., Apt. No. 1, was in serious condition in Community Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises of the left leg and possible internal injuries.

• • • •

THE ACCIDENT occurred in front of 3950 E. Ocean Blvd. The boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Tebbetts, 25, suffered bruises on both knees.

Police said a Mountain View Dairy truck, driven by Edward E. Miller, 29, of 1009 W. 133rd St., Gardena, backed into the child as he, his mother and a younger sister stepped off the curb to cross the street in the middle of the block.

Mrs. Tebbetts shoved the girl, Carol Sue, 2, out of the path of the truck.

• • • •

ROSEMOND MOORE, 23, of 1337 School St., Compton, was killed Saturday when his car smashed into a power pole along Alameda St. south of Henry Ford Ave., Wilmington. High-voltage wires, ripped by the impact, hampered removal of the victim's body for 30 minutes.

James Britton, 19, and his brother, Charles Britton, 21, both of 5242 McCallum St., South Gate, were injured when their car crashed at Terminal Way and Seaside Blvd., San Pedro.

The auto, driven by the older brother, struck a traffic island and sailed through the air for almost 100 feet, then skidded until it smashed a masonry wall. The victims were taken to Harbor General Hospital with fractured legs and possible internal injuries.

SMILES ARE GONE NOW

When Mrs. Wanda Jennings of St. Louis, Mo., won the title of Mrs. America in 1954, her husband, Madison, rewarded her with breakfast in bed as son Michael admired his mother's tiara. Saturday, Mrs. Jennings, now 29, filed suit for divorce, charging general indignities. She alleged her husband refused to accompany her in public unless she paid the bill. ## Would Curtail Yule Flights at L.B. Field

Strike Scheduled for Wednesday in 12 West States

Western Air Lines pilots Saturday broke off talks with company representatives for a new contract and set a strike for 6 a. m. Wednesday that would sharply curtail flight operations at Long Beach Municipal Airport.

The walkout, scheduled to take effect at the peak of the Christmas travel season, would halt the line's entire operation.

Western serves 45 cities in the 12 western states and Canada. A strike would ground 81 daily flights—6 of them daily from the Long Beach Municipal Airport.

• • • •

WESTERN OPERATES three daily flights to Seattle and three daily flights to San Diego from the Long Beach airport, according to George G. Caln, district sales manager.

Other service at the Municipal Airport here is provided by United Air Lines, which operates two flights daily to San Diego and two flights daily to Inter-

Crane Dings Auto Up, Down in Parking Fuss

CHICAGO (AP)—A crane picked up an automobile and dropped it to the street three times Saturday in the climax of an argument over whether a motorist could park near a construction project.

Policeman Nicolla Esposito said the principals gave this version of their tiff:

Edwin Williams, 41, a fire captain, pulled up to an intersection in his car, with trailer, and parked to load some bicycles he had bought at an auction.

Brooks Faulk, 49, foreman of a crew building the Congress St. Expressway, told Williams:

"Your car is in the way. You can't park there."

An argument followed.

Faulk told a bulldozer operator, "O.K., tear that auto to pieces."

The bulldozer operator refused, so Faulk ordered his crane operator, Guy R. Hamm, 44, to attack the car. He did.

Hamm's crane grabbed the trailer and lifted, standing the car on its front end, then turned loose. The car and trailer smashed to the pavement.

Williams ran to call police.

The crane took hold of the trailer again and lifted both vehicles a little way before the crane jaws slipped, dropping car and trailer again.

Then, the crane grabbed the car by the roof and swung it 20 feet above the ground before dropping it a third time.

Police arrived about this time and, Esposito said, both Faulk and Hamm apologized to Williams and offered to pay for the estimated $800 damage to the car.

Hamm was charged with malicious mischief and disorderly conduct; Faulk with disorderly conduct.

China Issue Raised for '56 by Knowland

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland challenged all prospective presidential candidates, Saturday, to declare whether, if elected, they would resist admission of Red China to the United Nations.

A probable candidate himself if President Eisenhower retires, Knowland said he wants the issue raised before, not after, the 1956 election.

He also made clear to reporters that he still is dissatisfied with the package plan by which 16 new members were voted into the U. N. last week.

• • • •

"THE DETERIORATION of the moral position of the United Nations as a result of the package deal raises the ominous issue of the admission of Communist China into that organization by a similar deal before or after the American presidential elections of 1956.

"Each candidate for President of the United States in both the Republican and Democratic parties should give a forthright answer to the question whether he would, if elected, instruct our representative at the United Nations to work and vote against the admission of Communist China, including, if necessary, the use of the veto," Knowland said.

• • • •

"THE AMERICAN people are entitled to a clear answer to this question before they nominate candidates in either party. It is bound to be an issue in the solemn referendum of 1956."

Can't Swim So He Holds On 13 Hours

GRIMSBY, England (UP) — A British seaman who can't swim told Saturday how he battled 13 hours to reach shore after he was washed overboard in the storm tossed North Sea and given up for dead.

Harold Cook, 25, was swept overboard from the trawler Denton two miles off this Lincolnshire port Friday, police reported.

His shipmates searched for him for three hours before turning to port and reporting him lost. They knew he couldn't swim.

But 10 hours after the search was abandoned, Cook staggered ashore on the beach at nearby Cleethorles, half-drowned and his mouth full of water.

A local resident, out duck-shooting, saw Cook stretched out at the water's edge and dragged him to safety.

Cook was taken to a hospital for treatment.

• • • •

HE SAID Saturday that for the first 10 minutes after he went overboard, he struggled half above and half below the waves.

"Then I saw a floating log and managed to grab hold of it," Cook said. "It seemed hours until daylight and my legs and one arm were practically numb with cold.

"Once or twice I lost consciousness. But I always managed to keep hold of the log. The next thing I knew I was bumping against a concrete pillar."

The pillar is part of a beacon at the end of a 400-foot long pipe carrying sewage out into the sea.

"Finally I managed to crawl onto the pipe," Cook continued. "But then the log drifted away.

"I hung on all day and then finally I saw a light and managed to crawl ashore towards it. It was the duck shooter."

Cook's widowed mother, Mrs. Annie Cook, said Saturday she felt sure her son was dead when crewmen of the Denton told her of his disappearance.

"Imagine him holding on all that time," she said. "He can't see a thing without his glasses."

Urge Rest in South for Ike

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower's heart specialist Saturday prescribed a brief after-Christmas vacation in the South to speed the chief executive's excellent and encouraging" recovery.

The specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, who examined Dr. Eisenhower at his farm home here, also fixed a target date of mid-Febuary for "a medical estimate as to the ability of his heart to stand" the strain of a second term.

White discounted the importance of the fatigue Mr. Eisenhower suffered from his recently increased activities, and said, "He has stood the strain of the past six weeks very well."

Reporters pressed White for a forthright opinion on whether the "trend" of Mr. Eisenhower's recovery indicates he will be "physically able to run again."

• • • •

"THE TREND is good," White replied. "But we've got to have another examination to see how he stands up under the full load." He said Mr. Eisenhower probably could resume a fairly normal work load when he returns to the White House about Jan. 9. He said the southern vacation is necessary because the President needs exercise he can't get in cold climes.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said plans for the trip had not been completed. But Mr. Eisenhower probably

Aliens Must Report Soon to Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON (UP) — Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing reminded the nation's aliens Saturday they must report their addresses to Washington next month.

January is registration month under a law passed in 1952. It requires every alien in the United States to report his address to the Immigration Office. Excepted are diplomats and United Nations representatives.

More than 2,300,000 reported this year. Swing said this may increase to 2,500,000 next year.

• • • •

ALIEN REPORT cards are available at post offices and immigration offices. Parents or legal guardians must fill out cards for children under 14 or persons in custodial care.

Five-Billion Aid Rumors Astounding

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislative leaders reacted with astonishment Saturday to reports that administration officials are considering asking Congress for nearly five billion dollars in new foreign aid money next year.

A strenuous struggle appeared certain in Congress if such a request actually is forthcoming.

Officials said the plan calls for stepped-up military and economic aid to other countries with a new appropriation $2,200,000,000 higher than the amount voted for the current year. The program was said to be aimed in part at countering Russia's new tougher policies.

• • • •

HIGH AUTHORITIES said the proposal has been cleared by all interested government agencies but President Eisenhower still could change it.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee evidenced complete surprise when reached by a reporter at his Vienna, Ga. home.

Need Schoolroom Every 10 Minutes, Knight Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Goodwin J. Knight told a nationwide radio audience Saturday California would have to build a new schoolroom every 10 minutes of every working day for the next five years to fill the state's anticipated educational needs.

Speaking in a recorded CBS program, "The Warning Bell," the governor said California will need 53,000 new classrooms by 1960 to replace facilities that are now sub-standard and to handle expected increases in enrollments.

Brings Gifts Home, Finds Tots Dead

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Edna Lopez took her long-saved Christmas spending money from a secret hiding place Saturday morning and slipped out to buy presents for her three young children.

Her husband was at work at a metal plant, so Alicea, 2, Carmen, 1, and Carlos, 5, were left alone.

Mrs. Lopez did not want to leave the children long, so she spent only 30 minutes shopping. She bought dresses for the girls for Christmas and a toy pistol for the boy. For herself, she bought a pocketbook.

When she returned home, proudly clutching her parcels, Mrs. Lopez saw a terrible sight. The family's Bronx basement apartment had been swept by a fire. Both of the little girls were dead. Carlos suffered second degree burns of the face and shoulders.

Still clinging to her packages, the hysterical mother was taken to a hospital.

Police Fail, Lost Boy Finds Self

WILMINGTON—A 13½-hour search for a missing 10-year-old Wilmington boy ended at 10:30 p.m. Saturday when the youth walked in the door of his home at 636 E. Denni St.

David Infante, the object of a house-to-house check by 20 law officers and numerous neighbors, explained he had been away all day playing with a friend named "Gilbert" on L St. On Saturday evening, he said, he watched television.

Officers said the boy went outside at 9 a.m. Saturday, presumably to feed his dog, and failed to return.

Dismal Weather Today, Monday

Clouds and low fogs are predicted for early today and Monday morning.

The fog is expected to give way to hazy sunshine in the afternoons, according to the weather bureau. Little change is expected in temperatures, the high expected to be about 56 degrees.

Snow virtually has vanished from local mountain areas. The only area reporting snow sports is Moonridge, near Big Bear, where an artificial snowmaker has powdered the slopes.

A Rundown House

A house or store building not kept in full repair, painted and landscaped quickly loses value. It becomes a liability to all property owners in the area. A factory or store that fails to keep modernized will soon lose its profit and eventually find its investment dissipated. That is the reason sensible people keep up their property value by maintaining its vital parts.

A city is a house lived in by all its citizens. If that city allows its vital parts to deteriorate it reduces the value of all the privately owned property in that city. It quickly becomes known as a backward city and therefore ceases to attract new industries and residents. A city can coast just so long without having to do the things necessary to maintain its vital services. The longer it waits the more it will cost to repair the losses it incurs.

Long Beach has long waited to do things that are vital to its growth and maintenance of property values.

MONEY? HO, HUM . . .

After All, It's Only $552,000

In some sections of Dallas and Rolling Hills, a half million dollars is nothing that one cares to shout about.

This became evident Saturday when reporters followed up the news that a Pittsburgh judge had handed down a decree awarding a total of $1,104,000 to two grandchildren of the late James M. Bailey, steamship operator, oilman, lumberman and Realtor.

Asked to comment about his award of $552,000, Bailey Balken, 51, Dallas oil operator, said:

"That's not much money around here, is it?"

Independent, Press-Telegram reporters required two phone calls to get a word or two from Balken's cousin, Mrs. Wilhelmina Bailey Pruyn, 49, of Rolling Hills, who was also awarded $552,000.

The maid who answered the first call to No. 7 Crest Rd. said that Mrs. Pruyn did not wish to be disturbed. She said she believed Mrs. Pruyn's bath water was running.

Then the efficient bridget had an afterthought: "No, I believe they are changing the water in the swimming pool."

Mrs. Pruyn answered the second phone call. She said she did not wish to discuss:

A. Her reaction to the award.

B. Grandfather Bailey's career.

C. The $552,000.

When the receiver clicked, life at No. 7 Crest Rd. returned to routine.

A Rundown House

It has waited for oil money to provide the things other cities provide from taxes. Now Long Beach faces a decision. It must either do the things as other cities do, or sink into a dangerous situation which will injure every piece of property in the city. It means voters must approve bond issues to provide the facilities which have long been delayed as we waited for oil money to do them for us.

Specifically the people are faced with expenditures of some $29 million for six projects. One project is the airport extension, which would assure continuance of the largest payroll in the area. It would also provide a safety factor of a longer runway which is vital regardless of the use by Douglas. Without that extension we are almost certain to lose the greater amount of the 22,000 jobs now provided by the Douglas plant. Those who oppose this project assume a grave responsibility, because they are gambling with the greatest economic factor in the community and the jobs of over 11,000 Long Beach families whose income comes directly from the Douglas plant.

There will be a bond issue for hospitals. Every family in this, or any other community, faces the probability that one or more of its members will need hospital care this year or next. It could be today. But anyone who has tried to get into one of our hospitals must realize the danger we face. Patients must be kept in halls or emergency receiving rooms waiting for a vacant bed. A large portion of our present hospital rooms are so dangerous they should be condemned. But if they were, several hundred patients today would have no place to go.

Our city parks are in deplorable condition. Most of the land is not even planted. We do not have sprinkling systems, so watering must be done by hand. We must modernize neighborhood parks so our young people will have places to play. But we have waited on this, hoping to use oil money. Now we either must do it by a bond issue or get along on park acreage far below what a city of this size requires.

Anyone who has visited our jail or juvenile department must be appalled by the crowded and depressing conditions. We still have about the same space for the police department as when we had half as many policemen and population. One of the expected bond issues will provide money to build a Public Safety Building to house these and other departments. At present the city is paying rental for space in privately owned buildings which would be eliminated by the new city building.

Another project involves $650,000 to provide and enlarge neighborhood libraries. A much-needed new building is asked for the main branch in Lincoln Park. But the Mayor's Committee held the proposal to the minimum amount needed for branches scattered throughout the city.

The sixth proposal is for a freeway extension down the east side of the flood control. It is the DeForest Ave. extension to take traffic off the Long Beach Freeway before it gets to the congested harbor area.

These are six bond proposals expected to be on the ballot Feb. 9. They are projects vital to the health and safety of the people. They are essential projects if we are to provide adequate facilities to match the growth already achieved and hoped for in the future. The voters should carefully refrain from taking an arbitrary NO attitude. They should view these propositions from the same standpoint they would view the house they live in. Unless you keep up your property it will depreciate far beyond the cost of maintaining it in good order. It is now up to Long Beach residents to do for themselves what they have so long waited for oil money to do for them. We have waited long enough.—L.A.C.

U.S. and Britain Offer Egypt $70-Million Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain countered Russia's Mideast political offensive Saturday with a 70-million-dollar offer to help Egypt begin bulding one of history's greatest dams at Aswan on the upper Nile River.

The two Western powers further assured the Egyptian government that they are prepared to put up more money—possibly another 130 million—to carry forward the project after the first phase of work is well started. This latter pledge is subject to approval by Congress.

Of the initial 70 million dollars, 56 million would be given by the United States and 14 million by the British.

The construction of a great dam at Aswan—it would be three miles long, 365 feet high and create the greatest man-made lake in the world—long has been an Egyptian dream. The Western powers have considered assisting in the work for several years but their studies were speeded up by Russia's wooing of the Arab world and particularly by Communist Czechoslovakia's agreement to sell arms to Egypt.

The Western powers decided against engaging in an arms race with the Reds in the Middle East but determined that by economic means they would seek to beat the Russian game. Officials regard the Aswan dam offer as spectacular evidence of Western willingness to work with a Middle Eastern country in building up its peaceful economy and raising the living standards of its people.

Five-Billion Aid Rumors Astounding

But he said he would withhold comment until he receives some official figures.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee reacted similarly at his home in Berryville, Va. Byrd said he wants to consult with Budget Bureau officials next week before making any statement.

George and Byrd were among those who attended a White House briefing on foreign and defense matters last Tuesday. At least three of the conferees said afterward that President Eisenhower and his aides had assured the congressional leaders then that only a slight increase over this year's $2,700,000,000 foreign aid appropriation would be asked.

* * * *

THERE SEEMED little doubt that George and Byrd would join forces against any such increase as is said to be under contemplation. This is understood now to include $1,900,000,000 in new money for economic and and about three billion dollars for military assistance.

Dr. White Says Decision on Ike Fitness Due in Feb.

will go to Augusta, Ga., one of his favorite spots, right after Christmas. He has a cottage there on the borders of famous Augusta National Golf Club.

White said the President could chip and putt but was not yet ready to play 18 holes of golf, his favorite sport.

Hagerty said tentative plans called for Mr. Eisenhower to return to Washington Jan. 3, to consult with Republican legislative leaders at the opening of Congress, and then go back to Augusta until Jan. 9.

This schedule means Mr. Eisenhower may be away from the capital when his state of the union message goes to Congress. Hagerty said it has already been definitely agreed with congressional leaders that Mr. Eisenhower will send the message to Congress in written form rather than delivering it in person.

Explaining why he suggested the southern vacation, White said Gettysburg's wintry weather has made it impossible for the President "to get as much exercise as we would have liked."

"Since the weather here probably will continue to be cold he could find a visit to the South helpful from that standpoint," said White. "It is not because he needs a rest for the heart, but because he needs exercise for his health—as a test."

White, who has been chief consulting physician since the President was stricken with coronary thrombosis Sept. 24, examined him for 90 minutes Saturday with Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, White House physician, and Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of cardiology at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington.

IT WAS THE FIRST time White had personally examined Mr. Eisenhower since Nov. 7, shortly before the President was released from Fitzsomons Army Hospital at Denver.

White said that despite increasing activities of the past six weeks, Mr. Eisenhower's heart showed "no symptoms" of deterioration.

"His general health is good," he added.

In addition to personally examining Mr. Eisenhower, White reviewed the results of the extensive tests which Mr. Eisenhower underwent at Walter Reed Hospital last Saturday.

After those tests, Snyder told reports the President was making a basically good recovery, but was showing signs of fatigue from such activities as long meetings with the cabinet and national security council.

Snyder ordered the President to take it easier, and Mr. Eisenhower has been following that advice with a comparatively restful week at his farm here.

* * * *

WHITE SAID the fatigue noted by Snyder had nothing to do with Mr. Eisenhower's heart condition, but was "a nervous symptom in all probability."

White said Saturday's examination showed the President's pulse and blood pressure normal. An electrocardiogram showed an improvement over the last few weeks, with the heart action "fairly well stabilized."

White, who met reporters in downtown Gettysburg after leaving the Eisenhower farm, tried to head off questions about Mr. Eisenhower's political future by saying, "The future rests in the laps of the gods as it more or less does with all of us. . ."

"With average luck and common sense care, it is possible for the President to live for years and be fully active," he said.

* * * *

HE ADDED THAT "many others among my patients" have done just that.

But he quickly qualified this by saying none of his other patients had been Presidents of the United States. "Therefore I can't speak with experience" on the effect that the presidential work load might have on a coronary patient.

Noting that Mr. Eisenhower "has not yet been subjected to his full load of work," White said it won't be until after his return to the White House about Jan. 9 that Mr. Eisenhower will be entirely back in harness.

"Four or five weeks of exposure to this full load of work should suffice for a medical estimate as to the ability of his heart to stand the work," he said.

White emphasize that even in mid-February, "we can only advise the President medically" about his chances of holding up under the demands of another term.

E. Germans Tighten Berlin Border Ring

BERLIN (UP)—East German Communists tightened the border-control noose around West Berlin Saturday by shutting down elevated railway exits to the isolated western sector.

Alfred Neumann, first secretary of the Berlin Communist Party, said the Western sector's anti-Red policy would "isolate West Berlin still more" and bring "serious disadvantages" for West Berliners.

He told West Berlin workers to band together with the Reds to overthrow the West Berlin city government.

Neumann described West Berlin as "an island, a lost position," and implied that four-power rule in Berlin is dead as far as East Germany is concerned.

The East German Communists ordered police reinforcements to the border to control highway and elevated railway traffic between West Berlin and surrounding Communist territory. West Berlin police described the new controls as "strong."

The Red police checked trains en route from the Soviet sector to West Berlin in an apparent effort to catch smugglers and to stem the flow of refugees to the West.

The Communists closed exits leading to West Berlin at the only two elevated railway stations on the East-West city border. Police barred the exits with large iron gates.

The only way passengers could reach Berlin was by a roundabout route from exits in the Soviet sector. This meant enduring stricter border controls.

The Communist drive against alleged smugglers resulted in at least 23 arrests, but this was believed to be only a small portion of the persons actually apprehended. The Communist press said Red customs police were working at "top pitch."

Monroney Plans to Probe Ouster of CAA Leader

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said Saturday he has unanimous backing of the Senate Aviation subcommittee for an investigation into the ouster of Frederick B. Lee as Civil Aeronautics Administrator.

Monroney, chairman of the aviation subcommittee, said in a statement that "the purpose of the investigation is to determine whether political considerations entered into the dismissal of a career civil servant, and whether or not there has been seizure of power by a ground-minded clique in the Department of Commerce, in a bid to control all civil aviation."

Mail Plane Crash, Fire Fatal to 2

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UP)—A C-46 mail plane operated by Riddle Airlines of West Palm Beach crashed about 17 miles west of here Saturday night. The state highway patrol said two bodies were recovered from the burning wreckage.

The plane cracked up a half mile east of the small town of Hollywood, near State Highway 165.

WHO IS HE?

Kindergarten Looks at Santa

As everybody from Virginia on down knows, there IS a Santa Claus.

But who and what is he?

A sampling of opinion in Miss Marie Turner's kindergarten class at Lafayette School shows there is a certain amount of confusion about the man with the whiskers.

Some of the answers may suggest to parents that it's time for a conference.

The question was: "Who is Santa Claus?"

The answers follow:

Rickey Eddenfield—A man that brings toys.

Glenn Goldman—He has a long beard. He brings toys to good boys and girls.

Denny Grandle—A man. He has stuff around his chin. It looks like cotton.

Karl Maxson—Santa Claus gives you a little bit of money to help you buy presents. He finds them for you, too. If you are not good he puts a black mark in his book. If you are good he puts a gold star in it.

Craig McCarthy—He is just make believe.

Ronald McEwen—He brings toys to all the boys and girls. He brings them to the neighbors' houses.

Dick Miller—Him bring toys. You go to sleep and every time him comes.

Chuckie Pardy—If little boys don't be good he don't bring them nothin'. If big men don't be good Santa Claus don't bring them nothin'.

Mark Pritchard — Man who brings toys and candy. He brings things to men and mothers.

Marion Reno — I don't know yet, but I'll know when Christmas comes.

Darrell Roessler—He has a beard with strings going 'round his ears.

Jimmy Silvers—Santa Claus makes toys. He comes down and gives you the toys at night. He lives in the sky.

Gary Trupp—He is a man that gives kids toys. Last year he was on the boat. He got seasick. I couldn't see him.

Bernard Yperman—He is a man. He has a lot of toys. He has a fire engine he is going to give to me.

Christina Dausel — I don't know. I don't know anything about him.

Candis Davis—A boy and he has long whiskers. He has a mustache right across his nose. He brings good things to good girls—had things to bad boys and girls.

Cindy Egley—Santa is a man. There is no Santa Claus girl.

Jan Haderlie—I don't know. Do you know who he is? Huh? Do you?

Sheri Lyn Johnson—He has a long beard, but he looks like a girl to me.

Jeanne Joyce—A man. He has a big paper. He writes down names of bad boys and girls. He won't give you presents if you don't be good.

Hazel Jones—He is a boy with whiskers. He has a bell on his cap.

Cathy King—I don't know. Who is he?

Cynthia MacFarland—He decorates the Christmas tree. Teacher! Don't you know?

Susan Start—I think he is a man.

Beverly Taylor—A man with a long beard. He makes toys. He wears red clothes. He will bring me a tiny tears doll, puzzles and bike, if he can find them.

Joey Clark—I think Santa Claus is my father 'cause my mother told me.

Douglas Scott—Just a plain old man.

Dale Sheffield—I think he is our baker. He talks a little like him.

Theresa Rathbun—Santa Claus comes from the North Pole.

Mike Lee—He might be my daddy, but I know he isn't.

Western Air Line's Pilots Call Walkout

national Airport for connection with other flights.

Pilots originally had set their walkout for last Thursday but postponed that strike to resume negotiations.

The negotiations in Los Angeles between the company and the Airline Pilots Assn. broke down over a pension plan.

The firm said it contacted the National Mediation Board in Washington, D. C., and was informed by the board that it "intends to use every means within its power to avert this strike in the interests of the traveling and shipping public."

• • • •

THE COMPANY said the pilots are demanding an additional pension plan to supplement Western's present system-wide retirement program.

It said the proposal called for Western to establish a "variable annuity pension plan" in which the company would make contributions to an investment trust.

The management said wages were not an issue. Western employs 257 pilots, whose salaries range from $1,200 to $1,500 a month.

Howard Jones, regional representative of the pilots' union, said setting of the strike date followed four days of unproductive conferences with company representatives.

• • • •

"THE COMPANY'S hasn't deviated from its basic position," Jones said.

In addition to the pension issue, Jones reported another issue is a union demand for incorporation of civil air regulations into the labor contract. Jones said this had been done in 20 other pilot agreements.

A temporary restraining order was issued earlier this week by a federal judge to prevent 850 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks from striking against Western.

The union, with jurisdiction over station and clerical personnel, had been scheduled to strike Dec. 16.

A hearing has been set for Dec. 26 for the clerks' union to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued.

Rock Strike Negotiations to Resume

Negotiators will huddle again Monday morning in an attempt to settle the 77-day-old rock industry strike.

Federal Conciliator Earl Ruddy said joint and separate sessions are planned.

No meetings were conducted over the weekend.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn's proposal for a 90-day truce did not come up for discussion in Friday's session, Ruddy said.

Hahn had suggested a truce to provide workers with pay during the Christmas season.

Bandit Takes $2,000 at Compton Market

COMPTON—A bandit robbed two women clerks of $2,000 early Saturday in Wiley's Market, 1739 N. Santa Fe Ave.

The victims, ordered into the washroom as the bandit departed, were Mrs. Patty Wiley and Mrs. Mary Wiley, wives of the store's co-owners, Earl and Raymond Wiley. The women called police as soon as they heard the gunman slam the door.

LOGIC COSTS COMMUTER $5

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—With the logic born of a commuter's exasperation, Mark J. Hroncich insisted Saturday that the Long Island Rail Road honor a weekly commutation ticket 57 minutes after it had expired.

After all, he argued, the railroad owed him 45 minutes—his train Friday had been that late getting into New York.

Hroncich's insistence created such a fuss that it landed him in First District Court. And his logic cost him a $5 fine.

Man With Five Wives Gets Five Years in Prison

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Third District Judge Ray Van Cott Jr. Saturday sentenced a 49-year-old Salt Lake City man to five years in the state prison for unlawful cohabitation with five women.

Louis Alma Kelsch pleaded guilty to the charge when brought before Judge Van Cott. The five women reportedly bore him 31 children.

Kelsch was one of four Utah men arrested in a polygamy crackdown during October. One of the others, Carl Jentzsch, previously was sentenced to five years. The other two are awaiting hearings.

Despondent Cop Misses Self, Hits, Kills Another

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Taipei policeman Sun Tsung Ping, despondent because of a long illness aimed his service pistol at his head and fired a shot.

The bullet missed and killed a fellow policeman who was passing by outside.

Sun was sentenced to one year in prison.

Guatemala Goes to Polls Today to Elect Congress

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemalans elect a new Congress today to support the anti-Communist government of President Carlos Castillo Armas.

Sixty-six deputies are to be named for the first time since Castillo Armas overthrew the Red-tinged regime of Jacobo Arbenz 18 months ago. The voters also are to choose mayors for 321 municipalities.

No defeat for the president's national democratic movement or comeback for Guatemala's Reds is possible under the provisional election law.

All the candidates for Congress and most of those for mayors are entered by the six parties which support the president.

Police early Saturday shot dead a man they suspected of running contraband arms to the Communist underground. They seized a bundle of four rifles which they said were stamped with Hammer and Sickle designs. This was the only violence in a listless campaign.

THIEVES TAKE LIGHTS OFF 2 YULE DISPLAYS

Thieves are on the prowl for Christmas lights, police reported Saturday. Forty-five blue and white candle-shaped lights were stolen from the stairway of the home of Phyllis M. Turman, at 58 64th Pl., early Saturday.

At the same time, police reported that 40 colored lights were stolen from trees at the home of James W. Dawson, 3618 Ocana Ave.

To discourage thieves, police suggested that all outdoor lights be turned off at midnight.

Pedestrians on Freeway Cause Crash

NORWALK—Three cars were involved Saturday night in a crash on the Santa Ana Freeway as drivers swerved to avoid hitting two Marine pedestrians. One driver was hurt, but both pedestrians escaped injury.

Claudia Ruth Thompson, 7144 Benares St., Downey, was taken to Carobil Hospital here with minor injuries.

Others drivers in the crash were Rae Marrita Morin, 14536 San Dieguita Dr., La Mirada, and Donald Allen Decrona of Los Angeles.

The two pedestrians involved were Jackie C. Payne and Benjamin Jackson Walker, both of the Camp Pendleton Marine Base. California Highway Patrol officers said they may issue a citation to at least one of the men.

Officers said the men were crossing the freeway at Rosecrans Blvd. and that the cars collided while trying to avoid hitting the pair.

SANTA COMES OUT SHORT

Too Few Yak Hairs for Beards

The plight of the poor yak behind the Iron Curtain in Siberia is having serious effects on Santa beards.

And on top of it all, St. Nick's red suits (no relation to the political shade of said curtain) are going to be harder to get in Long Beach come Christmas.

It seems that the yak, a Siberian version of the ox, is distinguished by long hair on its stomach.

When this hair is properly treated, it's as realistic a beard as though shaved from the Man from the North Pole.

Yak hair forms the beard and hair in many of the Santa costumes being rented at Hudson's Costume Shop, 1227 Atlantic Ave.

• • • •

"SEE HOW nice it looks?" asks Mrs. Forrest Hudson, co-owner of the shop with her husband. The snow-white yak hair only lacked a jolly red face to complete the Santa illusion.

"But the Siberian ox is becoming extinct," explains Mrs. Hudson. "And it's getting harder to get the yak hair from behind the Iron Curtain."

So when the yak hair is exhausted, she resorts to a nylon material aimed at creating an authentic-looking beard.

However, poor Iron Curtain yak or not, there's likely to be a shortage of costumes this year which will keep Santa away physically—if not in spirit—from Christmas parties for kids and grown-ups.

• • • •

VIRTUALLY all available Santa costumes have been reserved at Hudson's as well as at the Goodwill Industries, 457 Golden Ave.

Reservations for Santa suits began coming in shortly after Halloween.

"We started the season with 50 Santa suits and are making 10 more," says Mrs. Hudson, who began making costumes as a child in England. When she came to America 35 years ago, she brought Welsh costumes. She first lent them, then made more costumes and began renting them.

Mrs. Lila Hawkins, manager of the costume department for the Goodwill Industries, reported reservations have been made for most of her 50 St. Nick costumes. Only a few remain available for given days.

Charge for the costumes depends on the quality and quantity of the material, fur trim and type of boots.

Hudson's charges from $10 to $15 a day, while the Goodwill Industries charge is from $5 to $15 per day.

Jail-Camp Escapee Caught

PARAMOUNT — An escapee from a jail road camp was captured Saturday night after a block-long chase here when he ventured into a cocktail lounge.

Milburn R. Cloninger, 26, had been sought since Nov. 13 when he escaped from a county road camp near Malibu where he was serving a sentence for failure to provide.

Cloninger entered the bar near Orange Ave. and Compton Blvd. and spotted Sheriff's Detectives A. W. Dillbeck and L. F. Stuck, who were looking for him there.

He recognized the officers and ran from the door. The detectives ran faster.

52-YEAR EXPERIENCE

Winner Fashions L. B. Float

By SPENCER CRUMP

Fifty-two years ago a young Pasadena girl entered her first float in the Tournament of Roses.

It was her own horse-drawn buggy, attractively adorned with roses and ferns. Its beauty drew cheers along the route.

The young lady is now Mrs. Isabella Coleman. She is still building floats for the Rose Parade and they are still drawing "ohs" and "ahs" from onlookers.

For the past six weeks, in a big Quonset warehouse in northern Pasadena, she has been building the Long Beach float. This is the 30th consecutive year she has designed the local float and she hopes the 1956 version will be another Sweepstakes winner.

The Long Beach float won the much sought-after Sweepstakes prize, top award for cities, in both 1954 and 1955.

• • • •

"IT'LL BE HARD to win three years in a row," Mrs. Coleman admits, carefully checking the water-color painting of the float with the frame-work of the rising float. "But this is going to be a beautiful float and I'm hoping we can repeat."

Helping the flowered beauty assembled by Mrs. Coleman will be two of the most beautiful girls in the world.

They are Hillevi Rombin of Sweden, the current Miss Universe, and Carlene King Johnson, the reigning Miss U.S.A. The two beauties visited the warehouse Thursday to watch construction of the float. Both girls expressed considerable enthusiasm over riding the float on Jan. 2 (when New Year's Day falls on Sunday, the parade is held the following Monday).

"It's something I dreamed about but never thought would happen to me," Carlene said.

Hillevi nodded.

"Even in Sweden the Pasadena Tournament of Roses is famous," the Swedish beauty said, "and Long Beach is noted for its beautiful floats. Riding the float will be a great honor."

Judy Ware, Miss Welcome to Long Beach, also will grace the float.

• • • •

THE THEME of the float will be "Let Beauty Reign," carrying out the parade theme of "Pages from the Ages."

Mrs. Coleman's know-how accumulated during more than a half century of building floats is going into the project.

After proudly riding in her first float, she went on to design her first commercial float. Her first venture was for the Pasadena real estate board, a project obtained for her by her father, one of the city's leading real estate men.

The float won first prize in the category for horse-drawn floats.

Pleased, the real estate men gave her more money the second year and she designed an automobile powered float which won first prize in its division.

Her fame spread and in 1915 the city of Los Angeles, hoping for the coveted Sweepstakes prize, commissioned her to build a float. L. A. won and she continued to design the city's float up until three years ago.

"The spectacular parade lasts for only a few hours," Mrs. Coleman notes, "but it takes hundreds of hours to prepare a float."

• • • •

IN THE LONG BEACH case, after award of the contract the city council approves the preliminary sketches. The basic framework for the float, incorporating wheels and the engine, are owned by the city.

This frame is low on the ground, which pleases Mrs. Coleman's taste in floats.

"When a float is low, people can look down on the flowers and the people riding on it," she explains. "When it's too high, people must look up at it and most of the beauty of it is hidden."

This framework was taken to Pasadena shortly after Nov. 1 and work on the 1956 float has been moving ahead full speed ever since.

Craftsmen for construction details are carefully chosen for the work.

"Many of the same people return every year to help with the floats," she says, "and to them building a float is more than work. It is an art and each worker is hoping the float will win as he or she builds it."

• • • •

WELDERS . . . CARPENTERS . . . artists . . . painters . . . all lend their talents. Some take vacations or leaves of absences so they can help with the floats. Others work at night or in the early morning hours.

During the final days of construction, Mrs. Coleman also receives help from her two sons, who were initiated into the work while youngsters. One is a dentist now and the other a physician.

This year she also will be helped by her 10-year-old granddaughter, Kathleen Coleman.

Many Tournament of Roses Association rules govern the construction of the float. These include a maximum height of 17 feet, a width of 20 feet and a length of 40 feet.

ISABELLA COLEMAN
First Came the Buggy

A busy woman, Mrs. Coleman also is directing construction of floats for West Covina, All American Rose, Occidental Life Insurance Co., Franilla Ice Cream Co. and the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel.

• • • •

THREE FLORAL PEACOCKS will grace the front of the Long Beach float and a fountain will be in the center.

At this stage, the float has been shaped with wire which in turn has been covered with paper mache and spray-painted white.

Mrs. Coleman envisions using nearly 250,000 flowers, including 5,000 roses in addition to orchids, sweet peas and chrysanthemums. The flowers will be attached to the float with hot glue, which Mrs. Coleman finds helps preserve the blooms.

Miss Universe and Miss U.S.A. each will wear ice blue evening gows, while Miss Welcome will wear a pink evening gown.

"Evening gowns make the girls look dignified whether they are standing or seated," says Mrs. Coleman.

"Brief costumes are all right for majorettes," she adds, "but not for true beauty queens."

The gowns, incidentally, will have straps on the shoulders.

"We want to be sure there are no accidents," Mrs. Coleman explains.

Peacock Peeks at Beauties on L. B. Float

"WELCOME ABOARD," said Miss USA (Carlene King Johnson), as she helped Miss Universe (Hillevi Rombin) to clamber onto the frame of the Long Beach float at Pasadena. A happy peacock got a close-up of the Miss Universe Pageant beauties as they warmed themselves in the huge quonset where floats are decorated. The girls will ride the float in the Tournament of Ross, sharing the floral throne with Judy Ware, Miss Welcome to Long Beach.—(Staff photos by Chuck Sundquist.)

Watkins Sees Upper Colorado OK in '56

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) predicted Saturday that Congress will approve the Upper Colorado River Storage Project in 1956.

Legislation to authorize the billion-dollar series of power and irrigation dams along the upper Colorado and its tributaries was passed by the Senate but failed to make it through the House in the past session of Congress.

Stevenson backers have been invited to a meeting Monday in the Music Room of the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m., when Hy Raskin, Stevenson's deputy campaign manager, will be on hand. Purpose of the meeting is to provide for an exchange of information, and its sponsors emphasize the "open" nature of the affair, with any interested person welcome.

An interesting angle is that the meeting is called by Elizabeth Snyder, Democratic state chairman, and Paul Ziffren, the national committeeman. The announcement was put out under the heading of the Democratic National and Democratic State committees.

Sen. Kefauver has been complaining that California party leaders are trying to "freeze" him out and has pointed out that no one is the official party candidate. The "official" nature of the call for Monday's meeting is indicative of the sort of thing he has been talking about.

ENDORSED—A ticket of incumbents headed by President Eisenhower was endorsed at a meeting last week of the 70th District Republican Assembly. The group favored the national ticket of Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, Congressman Craig Hosmer, and 70th District Assemblyman W. S. Grant.

Warren Doherty, insurance man, was re-elected president of the Assembly. Other officers: Frank Lowry, first vice president; Mrs. True Anderson, second vice president; Mrs. Helen Mozingo, third vice president; I. G. Batdorff, treasurer; Margaret Apgar, recording secretary; Fred Goppert, corresponding secretary.

Hosmer Promises Startling New Angles on River-Water Battle

By The Lookout

"Sensational developments" in California's Congressional battle over Colorado River water were promised Saturday by Congressman Craig Hosmer as he left Long Beach for Washington preparatory to the reopening of Congress in January.

Back from a four-day helicopter expedition into the Colorado River country of Utah and Arizona, Hosmer refused to divulge at the moment the purpose of the trip or what he found. But he indicated he had picked up information that he expects to use in an aggressive campaign in Congress to prevent what he calls "the attempts of Upper Colorado River states to jump California's water claims."

Two geologists, Dr. Harold Hoots and Peter H. Gardett, were in the party with Hosmer, which went by car to Arizona and used the helicopter to get into otherwise inaccessible areas along the river.

Hosmer said he was going back to Washington early to prepare for the fight against the Upper Colorado River Storage Project. His family accompanied him Saturday.

The Long Beach Congressman recently was hailed by Southern California water leaders for proposing a compromise for federal-state operation of the San Joaquin Valley's San Luis Dam project. He said the plan will clear away one of the difficulties in the way of the $1¼-billion state Feather River plan which would double Southern California's water supply.

Hosmer remarked that Southern California must get all of its just share of Colorado River water and must add it to water from Northern California if it is to continue to grow in population.

• • • •

BATTLES LOOM—Ballot battles loomed large on the local horizon last week as plans shaped for a special city election on Feb. 9 and politics began to heat up in advance of the statewide primary on June 5.

Registration for the city election closed Saturday, and there were lineups at various registration stations around town. Indications are that the most warmly contested issue at the Feb. 9 election will be the bond issue to finance extension of the main airport runway.

Democratic political circles here were stirred by the prospect of a fight between Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver for California's Democratic presidential preference at the June primary. Both have declared they will file in this state, and both have some rabid supporters in Democratic ranks here.

SEEKS OK ON PROPOSITION 3

Prisk Leads Drive for Safety Building

William F. Prisk, retired Long Beach newspaper publisher has accepted the post of general chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Public Safety and will lead the drive to win approval for Proposition 3 at the Feb. 9 special municipal election here.

Proposition 3 authorizes construction of a Public Safety Building in Long Beach to house the Police Department, Juvenile Bureau and Central Fire Station.

More than 300 prominent local citizens form the nucleus of the Citizens' Committee for Public Safety.

"Construction of the Public Safety Building is vital to the welfare of every man, woman and child in Long Beach," Prisk declared.

• • • •

"WE ALL RECALL that construction of the Public Safety Building was voted on and approved by an overwhelming majority of 34,531 YES votes to only 13,204 NO votes at the special election held here on June 1, 1954," he said.

"Because the June 1, 1954 vote authorized use of tideland oil revenue to construct the Public Safety Building and because the courts subsequently ruled that tidelands funds cannot be used for such purposes, it is necessary to have a second vote on the project," Prisk explained.

City officials have pointed to the need for more space to accommodate the Police Department, Juvenile Bureau and Central Fire Station.

"The Public Safety Building will supply this critically needed space," Chairman Prisk stated.

• • • •

PROPOSITION 3 will be presented as a bond issue and will require a two-thirds majority for approval.

"However," Prisk said, "Proposition 3 will not, in all probability, require any direct taxes on property because it is expected that the bond interest and redemption will be paid out of oil revenues accruing from city-owned wells producing on upland sites.

"A charter amendment," Prisk continued, "making mandatory the use of upland oil revenues after July 1, 1957, to pay interest and principal on public improvement bond issues is included as a proposition on the Feb. 9 ballot here."

Proposition 3 provides for an expenditure up to, but not to exceed, $4,660,000 for the Public Safety Building project—including land acquisition, plans and engineering, construction, landscaping and equipment.

Site of the ultra modern Public Safety Building will be immediately south of Broadway, between Chestnut and Magnolia Aves.

34 Lose Lives in Series of Tex. Mishaps

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — A tragic series of fires, headon car wrecks and a gas explosion killed 34 people in Texas Friday and Saturday.

Four elderly people burned to death Saturday when fire leveled a rest home at the coastal city of Beaumont.

Five high school football fans en route to a big game died in a headon crash near Hallettsville in south Texas.

In another headon crash, near Belton in South Texas, five more were killed.

At McAllen in south Texas Friday, a gas explosion burned four small children to death.

* * * *

TO THAT TOLL of 18 dead in four instances of tragedy were added eight other fire deaths for a total of 15 fire deaths, five other traffic accidents for a traffic toll of 15, and one death from exposure to sub-freezing temperatures.

Fire which raced through a 10-room, frame nursing home at Beaumont killed Mrs. Emma L. Harper, 82; Mrs. Malathann Cox, 80; Mrs. O. E. Perry, 76, and Mrs. Annie Kratzer, about 90.

Beaumont Fire Chief Steve O'Conor called it the most tragic happening in his 37 years' service. Six other elderly residents of the home were rescued. One, Mrs. Etta Redman, 77, was severely burned. O'Conor blamed the fire on a defective heater.

* * * *

THE FIVE KILLED at Hallettsville were on their way to the Weslaco-Hillsboro schoolboy football game, winner of which plays in a state championship. They were James Allen Holmes, 48; his wife, Clementine, 46; Robert Edwin Martin, 48; his son, Thomas Fred Martin, 18, and a woman tentatively identified as Mrs. Thomas Fred Martin.

Four members of a Greenville, Tex., family were among the five killed in the headon two-car crash 10 miles south of Belton.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Love; their two sons, Rufus Jr., 15, and Sammie, 13; and Sgt. Joseph P. Lyvers, 24, Loretta, Ky., a soldier stationed at Fort Hood, Tex. Love, 50, was a Greenville manufacturer. Lyvers was in the other car.

Burned to death in fire which swept their Quonset hut home near McAllen were Maria Del Rosario Moncerrata, 9 months old; Maria De Moncerrata, 2; Amadeo Mercado, 7 months old, and Eva Mercado, 3. They were children of two families living in the quonset.

Flames Sweep Home, Kill Three Children

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Three small children perished Saturday when flames swept their second - floor apartment home.

They were identified as Barbara Ann Holton, 4, Equillia Jones, 3, and Mary Alice Byrd, 4 months, the daughters of Mrs. Lucy Byrd.

Workmen at a nearby tobacco warehouse noticed the flames and turned in the alarm. Flames had enveloped the upstairs portion of the building before firemen arrived, but they saved the first floor. The mother was visiting nearby.

2 Airmen Perish in Cape Cod Fire

MASHPEE, Mass. (UP)—Two airmen burned to death and three other persons were injured Saturday when a wind-whipped fire destroyed the 24-room Hotel Attaquin, one of Cape Cod's most widely known inns.

Fire Chief Ellsworth Peters said the two-story wooden structure, where President Grover Cleveland and Daniel Webster once stayed, "burned like a matchbox." Damage was officially estimated at $50,000.

The victims were identified as Master Sgt. Luke Concannon, 37, of Holyoke, and Staff Sgt. George A. Gray, 29, Bainbridge, Ga.

Schmidt, 709 W. Hill St., had been a Long Beach resident for 28 years. He was president of Long Beach Geological Society, past president of Los Angeles Dana Mineral Club, past vice president of Long Beach Museum Aquarium Assn. and was affiliated with Long Beach Mineral and Gem Society and Southern California Academy of Sciences.

Scout Saves Pal as Skate Severs Vein

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy's jugular vein was severed Saturday by a friend's ice skate, but his life was saved, doctors said, because the friend remembered his first-aid lessons.

Robert Alman, 15-year-old star Boy Scout, clamped his fingers on the severed vein of David Jones to stop the flow of blood. For 30 long minutes, which included an ambulance dash to a hospital, Alman applied pressure to keep the younger boy from bleeding to death.

Police said Jones slipped and fell while playing hockey on a pond in suburban Greece. Alman, they reported, skated into the fallen boy and the blade of his skate pierced Jones' throat.

Another boy hailed a passing motorist who, in turn, summoned an ambulance.

Life-Term Felon Asks for Parole

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harvey Bailey, one of the nation's most notorious criminals in the early '30's, is seeking a parole after 22 years in prison.

Joseph M. Miniage, Kansas City attorney, disclosed Saturday he had been retained by the 68-year-old kidnaper to seek a parole for him. He said he had visited Bailey in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth last Thursday.

Bailey is serving a life sentence for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oilman, in July, 1933.

He first gained notoriety as the leader in a $32,000 bank robbery at Fort Scott, Kan., in 1932. He escaped in 1933.

Between the prison break and his apprehension occurred the $200,000 Urschel kidnaping and the Kansas City Union Station massacre in which Frank Nash, a federal prisoner, was killed, and four officers lost their lives. Bailey was identified as one of the gunmen.

Report Gasoline, Oil Tax Near $6 Billion

WASHINGTON (UP)—The annual tax take of all governments—federal, state and local—on gasoline and other oil products is nearing the $6 billion mark, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Industry sources said Saturday it will break through that barrier easily if Congress decides to finance President Eisenhower's multi-billion dollar highway building program with more taxes on motorists and other petroleum users.

The ever-increasing total is causing industry alarm. President T. S. Petersen of Standard Oil of California warned recently that another federal tax on gasoline might push the price of the fuel "to the point of diminishing returns."

The API's Tax Economic Bulletin said that taxes absorbed 6.2 per cent of each gross income dollar in 1954, compared with 4.4 per cent paid to stockholders as dividends and 5.8 per cent reinvested in the industry.

* * * *

IT SAID the average tax on finished crude oil products last year was $2.02 a barrel, about 71 per cent of the average price of crude at the well and more than double the rate in 1946.

It will be even higher this year. Federal taxes alone on gasoline, diesel oil, lubricants and pipelines totalled $1,070,792,000 for the first six months of 1955—a $13 million jump over the comparable period of 1954.

Congress is scheduled to take up Mr. Eisenhower's highway plan soon after it reconvenes Jan. 3. It already has rejected his bond-financing proposal and is talking in terms of increased highway user taxes, including a one-cent hike in the federal gasoline tax.

Petersen stoutly opposes this. He said he favors a tax base which would tap all persons who benefit directly or indirectly from highway traffic such as stores, farms, homes, places of business, suppliers of automobile accessories, and paving materials.

Driver Dies, Tourist Saves Bus From Fall

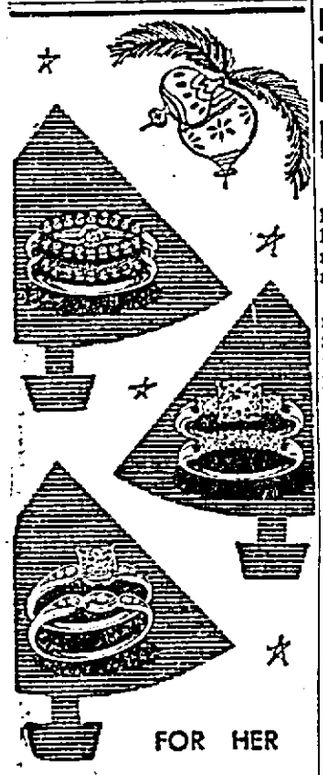

COPPERFIELD, Utah (UP)—A quick-thinking passenger Saturday saved a bus from plunging into the 1,960-foot-deep Kennecott copper pit after its driver had died at the wheel.

W. R. Corl of Detroit, Mich., one of six tourists on a Gray Line Motor Tours sightseeing bus, saw the driver slump over and he quickly leaped to the driver's seat and applied the brakes just as the bus scraped a parked car about 100 feet from the pit.

The driver, Ira Jack Nicholes, 60, of Salt Lake City, died of a heart attack after he drove the bus through a tunnel leading to the pit and turned it onto a downhill street that led to the mine.

Investigating officers said that had Corl not been alert the bus probably would have continued straight down the street and crashed through a small fence that rims the open pit mine, largest of its kind in the world.

Corl was the only passenger who saw Nicholes slump over. The others were looking out the bus windows.

5 Teenagers Die in Truck Hit by Truck

GILLETTE, Wyo. (UP)—A Burlington Railroad passenger train hit a pickup truck on an unmarked grade crossing Saturday night, killing five teenagers.

Authorities said the truck was registered to George Seifert of Scottsbluff, Neb., leading them to believe his son, Robert, about 18, was the driver.

The other victims were residents of Gillette.

They were identified as Daryl Johnson, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Johnson; Dale, 16, and Gary, 15, sons of Mrs. Velmer Russ, and Glenna Phillips, 15, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth McCold.

The accident happened on the western edge of Gillette. There is no signal at the crossing to warn of approaching trains.

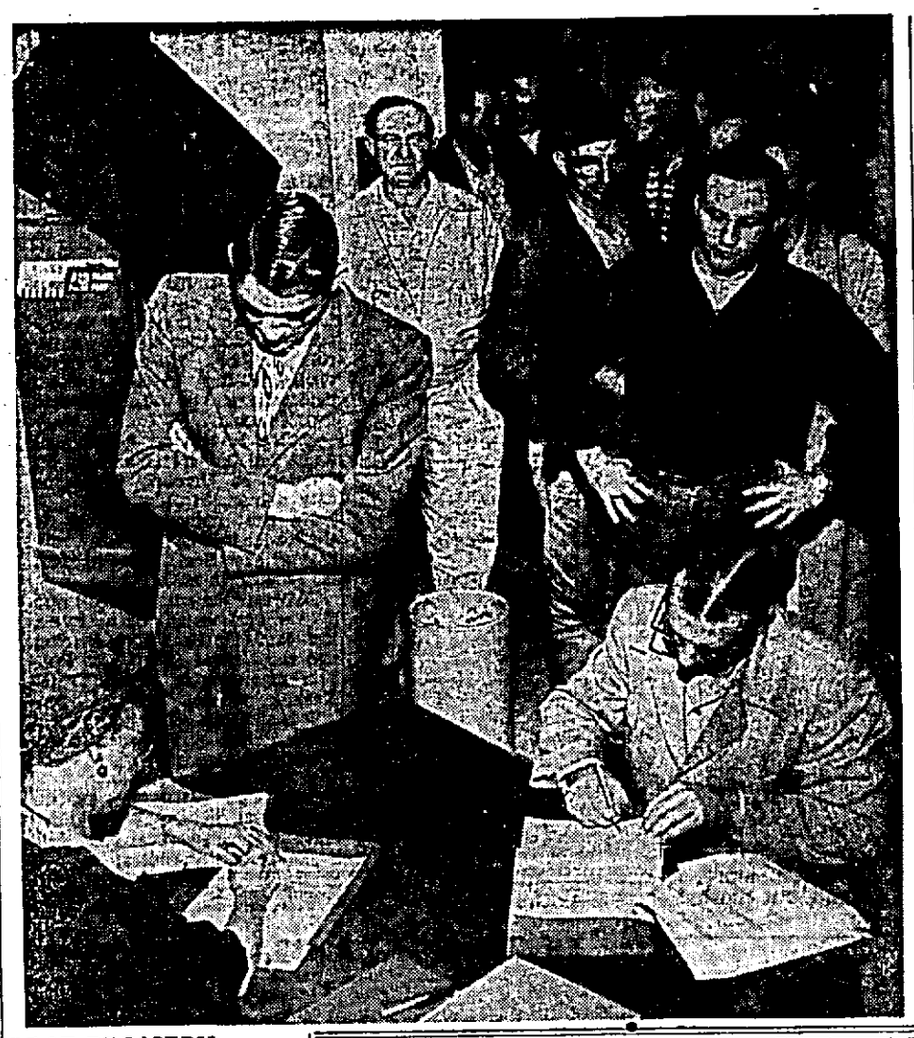

Officers said the passenger train, two hours late on a scheduled run from Billings, Mont., to Lincoln, Neb., hit the pickup squarely, throwing the wreckage up over the engine cab. It was impossible to determine which of the teenagers was driving.

The driver's vision might have been obscured by frost on the windshield.

That Giovanni Ruocco, What a Shy Guy!

PRAIANO, Sicily (AP)—For 20 years Giovanni Ruocco, 99, has been meeting 80-year-old Maria Merola every morning and escorting her, hand in hand, to mass. Too shy himself, Ruocco, thrice married and the father of 13 children, asked the priest to propose for him. Maria thus far has not given her answer.

W. Zone Will Order 3 Atomic Reactors

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany intends to order three atomic research reactors from the United States and Britain. In addition, the federal government and private industry are building a fourth. Atomic Research Minister Franz-Josef Strauss says West Germany is far behind in developing atomic power, but predicts it will catch up with France in six years and Britain in 10.

Bullet Meant for Son Hits Mom in Head

EARLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Louise Smith, 36, was critically wounded Saturday when she stepped in front of a pistol leveled at her son.

The father, Ezra Smith Sr., 43, was charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Constable James Todd said the son, Ezra Jr., 20, gave this story:

The father and mother became involved in an argument over ornaments on a Christmas Tree they were preparing.

When the son intervened, Smith warned him to "keep out of this" and threatened to kill him.

Young Smith said his mother jumped between them when Smith produced a .25 caliber automatic and fired.

Imperial Valley Has 7 Quakes Saturday

BRAWLEY (UP)—New earthquakes shook cities in the Imperial Valley, Saturday, raising the possibility of another sleepless night for edgy residents.

However, most of the shocks throughout the day were too light to be felt and residents believed they were tapering off. Imperial Valley Irrigation District headquarters counted seven, Saturday. An attendant on the canal said he had felt at least 78 tremors since 7:43 Friday night, when the series started.

This city received most of the damage, mainly broken store windows and cracked walls. The Chamber of Commerce estimated damage at more than $50,000. Damage included a dozen broken water mains.

Downtown Brawley, roped off because of possible looting when store windows were broken, Friday night, was open late for "business as usual" for Christmas shoppers Saturday night.

The tremors posed a threat to the All-American Canal, this farm region's vital water link.

Please, No Jibes About Old Maids!

LEICESTER, England (AP)—Dr. Leslie Weatherhead, president of Britain's Methodists, thinks it's disgraceful to joke about old maids. "Jokes about unmarried women between 40 and 60," he says, "are feeble and more cruel than funny." The reason many women are spinsters, he adds, is that so many men were killed in two world wars.

California Educators to Receive Awards

NEW YORK (UP)—The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, Inc., announces awards totaling $235,000 to 24 faculty members engaged in basic scientific research at 16 colleges and universities.

These are the first of a series of grants which will be made from the foundation's fund to support basic research in the physical sciences.

The fund was established this year by the trustees of the foundation as a result of a gift of $5,000,000 from Alfred P. Sloan Jr. and his wife.

Among faculty members who received awards are these Californians:

Dr. Richard Feynman and Dr. John R. Pellam, California Institute of Technology; Dr. Harold S. Johnston and Dr. Walter E. Meyerhoff, Stanford, and Dr. William D. Gwinn and Dr. Walter D. Knight, University of California.

McCarthy Urges Cleanup of Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis). demanded Saturday that the Senate investigating subcommittee "resume efforts to expose the Communists who are still in the government."

McCarthy, former chairman and now ranking Republican member of the subcommittee, made the demand in an open letter to the present subcommittee chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark).

McCarthy said he believes McClellan personally would like to expose Communists.

DATE LINE DILEMMA

1,500 to Sail Past Christmas

SEATTLE (UP)—Eighteen hundred soldiers bound for Japan are in grave danger of having Christmas Day snatched right off their calendar—just because the world is round.

They're aboard the Navy transport Mitchell, due to reach the international date line about Christmas Eve. This means they could sail from Dec. 24 right into Dec. 26 without even catching a glimpse of the day of days.

They may miss the date, but they won't miss the event.

"We'll have Christmas even if it comes on Saturday," said Chaplain D. R. Kruse as the Mitchell sailed Saturday. Gift packages were taken aboard and every soldier will get one. In addition, the crew of the Mitchell will distribute cigarets and candy to all.

Those 300 crewmen are on the gift-package list, too.

When the big gray transport reaches Japan the crew will observe Christmas again—with 80 youngsters from Yokohama's Our Lady of Lourdes Orphanage as their guests at a turkey dinner and holiday program.

Ike to Light White House Tree Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his country home at Gettysburg today, President Eisenhower will flip a switch at 5 p.m. (EST) to light the giant Christmas tree behind the White House in Washington.

The 65-foot spruce from the Black Hills of South Dakota stands in the ellipse, or President's Park, between the White House and the Washington Monument.

Vice President Nixon will be on the stage near the tree to make the introductory remarks. Then the voice of the President will be broadcast over the grounds and through national radio and television hookups.

• • • •

SATURDAY, the White House and the high command sent Christmas greetings and hope for continued peace to the nation's soldiers, sailors and airmen stationed around the world. The President told them that "the Christmas season is the time for renewal of hope for peace and justice and good will throughout the earth." He expressed the hope that the coming year would be "one of continued progress toward justice and brotherhood among peoples everywhere."

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said in his message that "the spirit of Christmas, peace and good will are especially needed in the world today."

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, urged that "each of us repledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor in an earnest resolve to preserve our faith and our freedom in the spirit of true peace and security."

DOBBIN WINNER IN MAIL RUSH

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (UP) — The horse - drawn parcel post delivery system tried out experimentally here during the Christmas rush last year went back into service Saturday.

Acting postmaster Ben A. Redfield said the dobbin-powered delivery, using a flat-bed wagon, turned out to cost less than borrowed National Guard trucks previously used, made handling easier and speeded deliveries.

TWO NEEDY FAMILIES TO BENEFIT

Sailors Tired, Happy After Shopping Spree

SAN PEDRO—Three foot-weary sailors Saturday trudged back to their ship tied up at Terminal Island, tired from a three-day shopping touf.

Two harbor area families, including 15 children and an 80-year-old grandmother, will have a happier Christmas because of the sailors' spending spree.

From a list of needy families provided by the Long Beach Welfare Council, crewmen aboard the USS Cavallaro, tied up at the Bethlehem Shipyard, picked the "two largest and neediest."

• • • •

USING $80 from the ship's recreation fund, and another $180 donated by crewmen when the hat was passed, the buying committee toured Long Beach stores to buy a pair of shoes for every member of both families; a 21-pound turkey for each family, at least two toys for every child, five cases of food and armloads of blankets, clothes and other gifts.

These were augmented by second-hand toys collected by crew members and repaired and repainted in the ship's shops.

Fear Benefits Cut

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said Saturday many veterans fear that the President's commission on veterans' pensions will recommend curtailing their benefits.

College Head Explains His Resignation

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Clark G. Kuebler, 47, issued a statement Saturday following the acceptance of his resignation as provost of Santa Barbara College, Friday, by the regents of the University of California.

A morals charge against Kuebler was dismissed last Nov. 10 in New York City by Magistrate Hyman Bushel on grounds of insufficient evidence.

In his statement Kuebler said:

"During the past six weeks I have tried to evaluate objectively the results of my tragic experience in New York. Clearly exonerated in a court of law, I am innocent of the charge and its ugly implications, and yet the publicity given to the false accusation has done me irreparable damage.

"There are always those who consider an accusation a conviction of guilt. Either they habitually believe the worst of others or they are jealous of the success the accused may have had or they dislike him for what he is or stands for and use the accusation as a weapon for character assassination . . ."

Kuebler said, "My first interest is in the university . . . I am determined that my personal tragedy will not stand in the way of Santa Barbara College's future. Accordingly, last Wednesday I formalized the resignation I submitted Nov. 17 by wire from New York, out of respect and affection for the university."

Kuebler formerly was president of Ripon (Wis.) College.

Dean John C. Snidecour of the school of applied arts at Santa Barbara has been acting as provost during Kuebler's absence.

Truck Industry Gross Revenue Makes Record

WASHINGTON (UP) — The trucking industry's gross revenues for 1955 are estimated at $5,400,000,000, an all-time high, American Trucking Association, Inc. reported. It anticipates a substantial increase next year.

Association president C. J. Williams said also that during 1956 the industry, which now has more than 10,000,000 trucks and trailers on the highways, will spend $3,000,000,000 for equipment, plus additional millions for terminals, expansion and modernization.

He said the industry spent $2,500,000,000 for trucks and trailers this year, divided about 65 per cent for replacements and 35 per cent for expansion. This is 12.5 per cent above 1954 when gross revenues were $4,700,000,000.

Adlai Member of 2 Churches, Pastor Says

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Adlai Stevenson is still a Unitarian although he joined a Presbyterian church near his home in October, a Unitarian minister friend said Saturday.

The Rev. Jack Mendelsohn, pastor of All Souls Unitarian Church here and a personal friend of Stevenson, said the presidential aspirant has retained membership in his family's Unitarian church in Bloomington, Ill.

Mendelsohn said he and three other ministers, representing both denominations, drafted a statement in Chicago Thursday for Stevenson's use in answering letters received at his Chicago campaign headquarters. Stevenson is again seeking the Democratic nomination for President in 1956.

The statement, signed by the four ministers, said in part: "We understand perfectly that you have found a local church home without forsaking a lifelong commitment."

• • • •

MENDELSOHN SAID letters arriving at Stevenson's headquarters have come both from Unitarians, accusing Stevenson of deserting, and from other Protestants, including Presbyterians. Some of these, he said, welcomed Stevenson as a new Presbyterian and others questioned his sincerity.

The minister, who met Stevenson while serving as a Unitarian pastor in Rockford, Ill., said there is no Unitarian church close to Stevenson's farm near Libertyville, Ill., so he joined the First Presbyterian Church in nearby Lake Forest, Ill.

Mendelsohn said the Lake Forest church's assembly agreed, when Stevenson joined, that he could also retain his Unitarian membership in Bloomington.

Stevenson's mother was a Unitarian, his father a Presbyterian.

The Unitarians, a liberal free-thinking denomination, often draw fire from orthodox churches for not requiring members to consider Christ divine. That is part of the Presbyterian creed.

Others joining in drafting the statement for Stevenson were the Rev. Robert Andrus of the Lake Forest church; the Rev. Kenneth Walker, of Stevenson's Bloomington church, and the Rev. Richard Graebel, Springfield, Ill., whose church Stevenson attended while he was governor of Illinois.

Detectives, Barman Hurt, Two Jailed

Two Long Beach detectives and a bartender were injured early Saturday in a brawl with two other persons in a cocktail bar at 2100 American Ave.

The detectives, Alexander M. Myers, 38, of 3324 Maine Ave., and James E. Lynch, 32, of 3041 Charlemagne Ave., were treated at Seaside Hospital for facial cuts and bruises. Myers' nose was fractured.

Bartender Orville B. Finch, 28, of 313 Dawn St., Anaheim, suffered cuts on the hands.

• • • •

POLICE SAID THE fight started when a waitress attempted to get James Ortega, 20, of 6838 Belice St., to give up his drink because it was closing time.

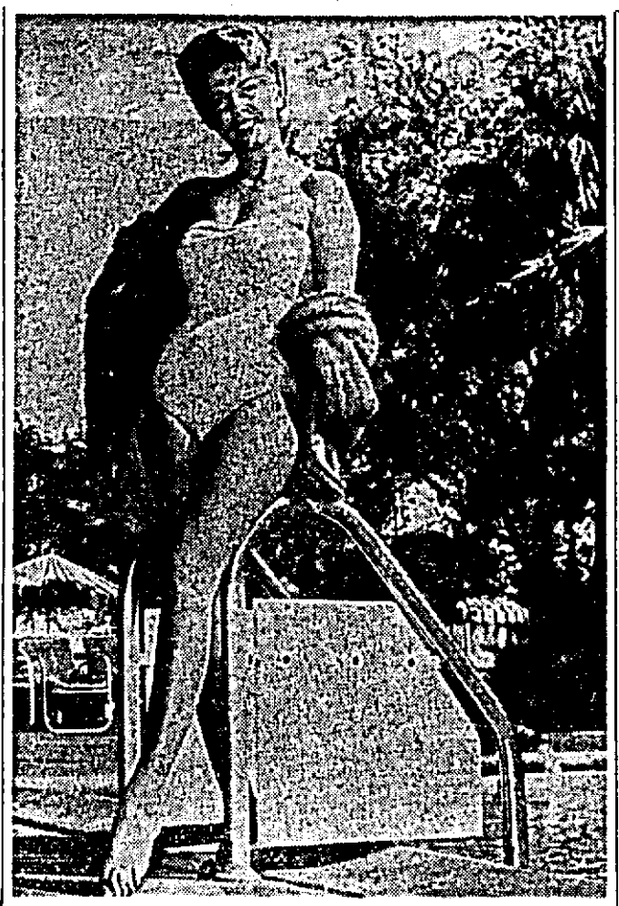

Booked in city jail for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon were Ortega and his companion, Ernest Larragoitly, 38, of 21733 Evanda Ave., Paramount.

DUTCH PUZZLE OVER 'EFFIGY,' A BAD PLACE

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UP)—The antics of American college boys who string up dummies to voice their displeasure at certain officials are beyond the understanding of some foreign observers, it developed Saturday.

Leon Van Weerdt, a graduate student at the University of Florida from the Netherlands, said this item appeared in the newspaper Het Huisgezin at Den Bosch, Holland, as freely translated:

"About 2,000 technical students in Atlanta, Georgia, have on early Saturday morning in the heart of Atlanta burned Governor Marvin Griffin on a lamp post in the suburb of Effigie."

Dock Union Sendoff Mystifies Senator

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Idahoans Saturday night were wondering why longshore union officials gave their Republican Sen. Herman Welker and his family an elaborate sendoff when they sailed from New York Friday.

A union official in New York said the union officers "were acting in accordance with a policy to give all government officials an opportunity to see the longshoremen and their leadership at first hand."

But the senator's press secretary said the delegation was attempting to embarrass Welker.

"The party, complete with champagne, was held in the two-room senatorial suite on the top deck of the Grace liner Santa Rosa. Union leaders brought gifts and flowers and wished the Welkers "bon voyage" on their Caribbean trip.

Jim Hayden, Welker's press secretary, said in a telephone interview with the Idaho Daily Statesman of Boise that the party "was obviously an attempt to get even with the senator for his outspoken criticism of Communism and his personal fight against the Commies."

Hayden said Welker aroused the wrath of unionists during internal security committee hearings which he conducted in New York on Communist infiltration in the waterfront.

"Welker and his family were completely surprised and amazed when the union bosses showed up," Hayden said.

The union delegation on the boat was headed by Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia, boss of of the Brooklyn waterfront. Others were Thomas Gleason, national organizing director of the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn.; Willie Lynch, union business agent; Harry Cashin, an ex-convict who is now secretary of the ILA's New York district council, and Stephen Foster Bell, a convicted extortionist who is chief of an ILA local.

The union has figured in strikes which have tied up the New York port for weeks at a time. It has fought city, state and federal efforts to have longshoremen represented by other unions.

Planning for New Brazil Capital

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Acting President Nereu Ramos has given a special commission the five-year job of planning a new modern city to which the federal capital will be moved. The constitution adopted in 1946 provides for moving the capital from this semi-tropical port city to a cooler, more central location. A site on the temperate plateau of southeastern Goias State has been picked.

Packages Stacked Up Like Alps by Clerks

By CLARENCE B. PROPES

Mountains are being built, torn down, and built again in a huge warehouse at 2401 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

The mountains are not of Everest size, but they would certainly make fine ski slopes. They are made of parcel post packages flowing in and out of Long Beach. The mountain makers are 160 post office employes, both regular and temporary.

Five thousand bags of parcel post pour into this warehouse every day where they are emptied and resorted into new bags destined for every corner of the globe (with the sole exception of the Iron Curtain countries).

Edward V. Rowe of 2475 Orange Ave. is in charge of outgoing mail—a gigantic job he regards as routine. "There's no particular problem here," said Rowe. "After 27 years in the post office it's simply a matter of carrying out procedures and putting in 12-hour days toward the last."

• • • •

CAESAR DIVIDED Gaul into three parts. Rowe has the world neatly divided into five. Sacks of mail flow into the five divisions—four domestic and one foreign—and are sorted into 625 new sacks bearing labels like Moosejaw, Rochester, Las Vegas, French Zone and Japan. One parcel received by the post office Dec. 13 was addressed to a lady in Tokyo and bore instructions not to be opened until Christmas. It will reach Tokyo about the middle of January.

Prentice Smith of 12131 Faye Ave., Garden Grove, is in charge of incoming parcels destined for Long Beach. His men separate them according to zone and they are delivered from the warehouse.

Smith's greatest headaches are caused by poorly wrapped parcels that have fallen apart in handling. Toilet waters, jams or honey are often in these packages. "If a parcel smells too good," said one employe, "someone is going to be disappointed.

"It's the poorly packed jars and cans of honey and jam that can cause the most interesting messes. When they spill, just about everything in the parcel is ruined and so are our dispositions, since we have to clean up the mess."

• • • •

"I WISH PEOPLE would learn to use more care in wrapping parcels," commented Smith. "Breakables need plenty of padding and good strong wrapping. All these broken packages mean disappointment this Christmas for some, and we don't like to see that."

According to Postmaster George McMillin, Christmas mail has increased from 10 to 15 per cent over last year.

"The public has been mailing earlier, this year," said McMillin. "The regular as well as the temporary employes are working hard to get all the mail out. As far as parcel post is concerned we have key men at the warehouse, and if it is possible to get the packages out before Christmas, they will do it."

You'll get your parcels on time, but not that lady in Tokyo.

Uncle Joe's Tie Is on Its Way

YOUR GIFT FOR AUNT SOPHIA MAY BE in this stack somewhere. The scene is the postal warehouse at 2401 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Wearing striped stocking cap, center foreground, is Harry W. Ferguson, regular PO employe, surrounded by temporary helpers. Crews handle 5,000 sacks of parcels daily.

Tell Record Find of Aquamarine

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Manoel Menezes, a gem hunter, reports he discovered an aquamarine stone weighing 134 pounds, probably the largest ever found. Other hunters, buyers and gem lovers are flocking to the area near Governador Valadares, in Minas Gerais State, where he says he found his prize.

At Pippa Passes, Ky., Pippinest Kind of Thing Comes to Pass for School

By CLYDE C. BALL

PIPPA PASSES, Ky. (UP) — The pippinest thing that ever came to pass in Pippa Passes passed through the post office this week.

An estimated 60 bags of mail containing money for Mrs. Alice Lloyd's Caney Creek Community Center, in rural southeastern Kentucky, flooded the tiny office and created some pleasant problems.

The financial floodtide — still being counted but rumored at $200,000 or more—was set into motion 10 days ago when Mrs. Lloyd, now about 80, left her educational and social fortress in the hills for the first time in a quarter century to appear on Ralph Edwards' "This Is Your Life" television show in Hollywood.

Near the end of the telecast, Edwards invited his nationwide audience to contribute to the center.

One letter received was postmarked only an hour after the telecast was over. Most contributions have been just a dollar; the largest has been a check for $150.

Mrs. Lloyd founded the center in 1916. Ill, she left her husband behind in Boston and came here with her mother to establish a school.

The center, which is privately supported, has received many outside contributions over the years, but never anything like the bonanza that came this pre-Christmas season.

Twenty bags of mail, all containing cash or checks, arrived in one day. That was the high point. By Saturday, the mail had dropped to two or three bags a day, said Mrs. Mannis Sloane, wife of the postmaster.

The Sloanes have the only telephone at Pippa Passes, a community of about 30 families, six miles northeast of Hindman. There is no phone at the center. Mrs. Sloane said she knew of no one who could say what the contributions totaled—"They're still counting and don't want to say what it is until they're through."

"I heard one rumor of $40,000," she said, "and another rumor of $200,000—that sounds more like it."

Jarvis Allen, Prestonsburg attorney and graduate of Caney Creek, was instrumental, in interesting Edwards in the center. He sent Edwards "Stay On Stranger," a book about Mrs. Lloyd. Others from this area wrote the TV producer about the woman who gave this mountain fastness its first school.

The institution, which has about 300 students in grades from first through junior college, has buildings constructed of rough lumber.

Some of the buildings, like the village, are named for poems. One is called simply "If," for Rudyard Kipling's poem.

"Pippa Passes" comes from Robert Browning's poem about a lighthearted Italian girl whose lowly estate belied her personal influence. The song in "Pippa Passes" ends:

"God's in his heaven.
"All's right with the world."

Indeed it is in Pippa Passes.

Army to Try Released GIs

BERLIN (UP)—Two American soldiers arrested in East Berlin 10 days ago and later released by the Soviets will be tried by a U.S. Army court martial on charges of being "disorderly," the Army announced Saturday.

The soldiers, Pvt. Willie J. Holden, 19, of Poplarville, Miss. and Pvt. Richard L. Calbert, 22, of Kansas City, Mo., were arrested Dec. 7 by East German police for allegedly attacking a Communist cabaret actor.

The East Germans tried to blow up the incident into a test of East German sovereignty by demanding an East German trial for the men. The Soviets, however, conformed to four-power agreements and returned them.

Merrill Led 'Lean, Mean' Men Blazing Jungle Trail in Burma

By STERLING BEMIS

Californians who served with Merrill's Marauders or in the China-Burma-India Theater will remember the late Maj. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, who died last week in Florida, as a soldier with one of the roughest assignments in World War II.

In the theater with the lowest priority for men and supplies, his mission was to protect the builders of the Ledo Road as they bulldozed through hostile, monsoon-swamped jungles toward a hookup with the historic Burma Road.

After the fall of Burma to the Japanese in 1942, Merrill had walked out in the terrible trek led by "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell. Handicapped by injuries from a warehouse explosion in the destruction of Rangoon, he narrowly escaped drowning in the flood of the Irrawaddy River.

He was fainting with exhaustion when a young Baptist missionary serving with the Seagraves Hospital Corps waded to the rescue and lifted Merrill aboard a raft.

* * * *

IN 1944, Merrill returned to Burma with the Marauders (he pronounced it "Mer-Raiders"), a patchwork force of three battalions and three Texas pack troops.

The welding of the three battalions into a battle team was a triumph over geography and the bitterness of a thousand men placed in double jeopardy when they were fated to serve in two fields of action overseas.

All were volunteers who had been given a promise in about these words:

"Just one more mission, men—and you'll have it made."

One battalion — each counted 950 men—was assembled from the Caribbean Command. The men landed by air at Miami and then traveled slowly by train across a land that many of them would see no more. Due to the top secrecy of their mission, they could not be given furlough.

A second battalion was raised from Stateside volunteers. These two battalions sailed from San Francisco aboard the Lurline on Sept. 21, 1943.

The third battalion was composed of battle-hardened jungle fighters rounded up on Guadalcanal and New Guinea—again, without furlough.

* * * *

THE THREE BATTALIONS went hungrily into training at a primitive little camp operated by the British with profiteering Indian contractors at Deolali, a hundred miles north of Bombay. The standard "reverse lend lease" rations consisted of tea, goat meat, unleavened Indian bread and corn syrup. The bearded Marauders grew lean and mean.

The march back into Burma, through the homelands of the Naga headhunters, started in January, 1944. The men were confronted not only by wily, hidden bands of Japanese in the soggy, black jungles, but also by a plague of disease.

During the critical siege of Myitkyina (pronounced "Mitchena") the force was so riddled with fever and dysentery that Uncle Joe Stilwell flew to Calcutta. There he combed the hospitals for combat veterans able to stand, and pushed Garands into the reluctant hands of rear echelon clerks, cooks and bakers.

But the Ledo Road went through. GI trucks loaded with supplies for Claire Chenault's Flying Tigers and the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, droned up the hairpin switchbacks to Kunming.

* * * *

FROM JUNE to December, 1944, as deputy India-Burma Theater commander, Gen. Merrill was in charge of rear echelon operations at New Delhi.

On the day he made his farewell rounds before following Vinegar Joe, to 10th Army on Okinawa, the men of the Historical Section were drawn up according to rank to greet him.

Suddenly the door banged open and there stood the general, hatless, tieless, smiling over the open collar of his bush jacket.

His eyes swept past the colonel, two lieutenant colonels, a captain, three lieutenants and the writer of this piece, a technical sergeant.

General Merrill marched straight to the foot of the line and shook hands first with Cpl. Paul Geren.

It was Cpl. Geren who had pulled the General aboard the raft on the yellow waters of the Irrawaddy in the trek out of Burma.

Capital Capers—

By Walter T. Ridder, Robert E. Lee and William W. Broom

WASHINGTON — The Young Republican National Federation has just ended a contest designed to pick a new name for the YRNF News, its monthly paper. Officials report that "an overwhelming majority" of those responding suggested the old name be kept.

Just like Old Republicans and Middle-aged Republicans, Young Republicans obviously want to get through the next year with as few changes as possible on the political front.

---

Nevada's GOP Senator George Malone has come out again for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, now that everybody else has stopped talking about it. Malone is distributing copies of a speech he made on July 27, 1949, when the Senate was debating an ill-fated set of amendments to the then-controversial act.

His theory then and now: Labor-management relations were a big problem when the Pyramids were being built; nothing has happened in the last couple of thousand years to improve the situation; therefore, scrap all labor legislation.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson came back to town last week with kind words for President Eisenhower, a boost for "moderation," and a 13-point program for legislative action.

Discussing the proposed legislation with reporters, Johnson was asked what he thought the Senate would start with as the first order of business. The astute Texan, never one to prematurely tip his hand, replied: "We'll probably start with a prayer."

This recalled to capitol observers the famous crack of Joe Martin when he was about to take over as speaker of a Republican House under a Democratic administration: "We'll begin every day with a prayer and end it with a probe."

Unified Atom Bureau Urged Upon Europe

PARIS (AP)—The United States moved on two fronts to promote European union as a pillar of Western defense and to prevent a separate German nuclear power development which might endanger Western cohesion.

In a series of talks with European leaders, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported to have pledged American support for a unified European atomic authority for peaceful industrial power and warned that this aid probably would be withheld from individual national programs.

The secretary, who left for Washington Saturday night aboard a special plane from Evreux military airfield, was said by diplomatic sources to have given this message to French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, and Jean Monnet, the latter a key man in a new project for a European nuclear energy pool.

• • • •

THE SECRETARY told Spaak and Monnet the Eisenhower administration is ready to ask Congress to amend the U.S. Atomic Energy Act to authorize the export of American secret know-how and fissionable matter to a European atomic authority. Spaak is head of a committee working on technical plans for such an authority.

Dulles cited the precedent of the so-called Richards amendment to show that Congress would be extremely reluctant, if not definitely opposed, to loosening the Atomic Energy Act for the benefit of any one country. The Richards amendment, now outdated, would have withheld American military aid from countries which refused to enter the European army.

• • • •

THIS POINT was stressed in the Secretary's talk with Von Brentano, according to reliable sources. Dulles said the United States would do all possible to assist a European organization which operated under a supranational central authority with power to take and enforce decisions.

The unspoken reason for the American opposition is that a nuclear industrial energy plant also produces some by-products of use as weapons. Plutonium, for example, could possibly be used for explosives. France would certainly oppose seeing this in German hands.

Von Brentano and the whole Adenauer administration are ardently pushing the atomic pool project.

Saar Return to Germany Leaders' Aim

SAARBRUECKEN (EP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Saturday urged voters in today's Saar legislative election to support parties favoring return of this disputed border area to Germany.

At the same time, Heinrich Schneider, principal pro-German leader in the Saar, predicted the new legislature will eliminate pro-French clauses from the territorial constitution.

Schneider's supporters are sure they can increase the two-thirds majority that defeated internationalization of the Saar two months ago to the three-quarters needed to amend the constitution in today's vote.

"No one, not even France, will be able to prevent the new legislature from altering the constitution," Schneider said in an election-eve statement. "It will be altered."

Adenauer urged the Christian People's Party (CVP) — pro-French in the past—to throw its votes to the local branch of his Christian Democratic Party (CDU), which favors reunion with Germany.

"I desire that the CDU should become the focal point of all the Christian (meaning Catholic) forces in the Saarland, including those who do not yet belong to it," the Chancellor said in a statement published by the local CDU organ, Neueste Nachrichten.

"This is necessary so that the Saar problem may be brought to a good solution from a German, European and Christian viewpoint."

Red Cruelty to Be Told in White Paper

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department is preparing a white paper on the "cruel and inhuman" treatment of American prisoners by the Chinese Communists, it was learned Saturday.

American officials made the disclosure after the two countries traded bitter statements on exchange of prisoner negotiations at Geneva. They said this country will continue the negotiations despite the dispute.

Red China started the controversy Thursday when it charged the United States with violating an agreement to exchange civilians and demanded the names of all Chinese in the United States.

The State Department charged Friday night that the Communists have broken their word to free all Americans held in Red China and noted that 14 U. S. citizens still are held there.

Russia Fears Comparison, Briton Says

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan said Saturday night Soviet leaders have slammed down the Iron Curtain again because movements toward freedom may be growing up in the Communist world.

In a Conservative party broadcast over the BBC, Macmillan said the Russians were afraid to compare their life with the West's.

"I don't mean that they are in the least afraid of our greater power of material wealth or productive capacity," he said.

"What they are really afraid of concerns the other side of life, the spiritual side. They are just not ready to subject their doctrines or their institutions to the same kind of critical examination, for and against, which we so much enjoy discussing."

Macmillan spoke after returning from the NATO talks in Paris.

Skull and Bones

LONDON (UP)—A "jolly Roger" flag, the symbol of piracy, fluttered briefly over London Saturday from the tower of Big Ben. Pranksters apparently fastened the banner with black skull and crossbones to scaffolding on the historic tower. The flag was hastily removed.

Flutes of Shepherds Whine at Bethlehem

By WILTON WYNN

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (AP) — On the Plain of Boaz to the east, little Bedouin girls follow the wheat harvesters to glean bits of grain.

The whine of reed flutes from distant slopes heralds the passing of lonely shepherds watching their flocks.

Identical scenes might have welcomed the holy family on the outskirts of the little town of Bethlehem the day Christ was born.

At the time of Christ's birth, Bethlehem was a market town for rural people, especially for Bedouins to the east and south. In this respect, the town has not changed.

As long ago as David's time, 900 years before Christ, David's son Chamaan built a caravanserai here which served as shelter for Bedouins and their flocks as they moved in and out of town. That same caravanserai was probably the inn where Joseph and Mary were unable to find lodgings. The caravanserai has disappeared but the same kind of Bedouins still come to Bethlehem.

• • • •

MARKED BY the typical Arab headdress falling down over the neck and shoulders, the wide-shouldered cloaks, and their loping gait, these Bedouins throng Bethlehem's streets almost any day. They come in to buy and sell on a meager scale and spend long hours in crude sidewalk cafes sipping thimble-sized cups of bitter Arab coffee.

The market place for these people is an open square, paved with flagstones. The grain, rice, vegetables or old clothes for sale are displayed on flat trays on the ground or stacked in crude temporary wooden stalls.

The settled inhabitants of Bethlehem's population, numbering normally around 10,000, live in a city which still bears the mark of the Crusaders. The overwhelming majority of the population is Christian; only one Moslem minaret competes with innumerable church spires and domes in Bethlehem's skyline.

These people live in stone houses, many of them with low domes as protection against summer heat and winter rain. Some of their houses date back to Crusader times. Many open into cobblestone streets barely wide enough to accommodate an automobile. The arched gateways and vaulted roofs stretching across the streets recall the medieval Europe of the Crusaders.

• • • •

COSTUMES OF THE WOMEN of Bethlehem bear the Crusader mark. Those who wear traditional dress have long full garments, usually black or dark red, decorated with square-stitched red or gold embroidery, usually in the form of a Crusader's cross.

These women wear a headdress found only in Bethlehem and unknown in the rest of Palestine. This is a conical shaped high hat, covered with a large white veil. The conical dress usually is worn by older women; younger ones wear the white scarf without the high hat. Since most of these women are Christian, their faces are rarely covered.

When Christ was born, the people of Bethlehem lived largely from sheep-raising and olive-growing. Many live from the same occupations today. Olive groves braced with stone terraces fall away from the edge of the town to the Plain of Boaz below. On the plain wheat is grown. Here Ruth of the Old Testiment story gleaned behind the harvesters, just as Bedouin girls do today.

A new element has been added to Bethlehem's population since 1948—Arab refugees from Israel. Driven from their homes by the Arab-Israeli war, these people live in the outskirts of the town in tents, hovels, and caves. Many a baby has been born in the past seven years in circumstances similar to those of Jesus—in a grotto shared by animals, placed in a crude wooden crib made by the father.

On Christmas Eve, these refugees sit sullenly beside the road watching well-dressed tourists arrive for Christmas ceremonies at the church of the Holy Sepulchre. Since there are no European-standard hotels in Bethlehem, most visitors stay in Jerusalem. They drive back and forth for the Christmas Eve services which recount the incidents of the day the holy family came into a crowded Bethlehem and found "there was no room for them in the inn."

• • • •

ALMOST FOR THE FIRST time in history, the shepherds of Bethlehem today have their freedom of movement restricted. Within sight of their town is the military frontier dividing Arab Jordan from the newly created state of Israel. With the war unsettled, shepherds are forbidden to approach the demarcation line for fear of touching off a frontier incident. Such clashes usually leave dead or wounded on both sides of the line.

Bethlehem's status as the birthplace of Christ has given the town a new modern industry—tourism. The otherwise sleepy little town ranks as the one of the foremost sites of religious pilgrimage in the world, and every year it is visited by thousands of tourists from all continents.

Radical Party Aide Ousted by Mendes-F.

PARIS (UP)—Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France fired ex-Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet from his Radical Party Saturday in a pre-election shakeup.

Mendes-France ousted Bonnet for running a Radical ticket of his own in the forthcoming national elections.

Two weeks ago Mendes-France swung the party ax on his one-time best friend, Premier Edgar Faure, after Faure dissolved the National Assembly and ordered elections Jan. 2.

Mendes-France Saturday angrily denied press allegations that he might make peace with Faure's outgoing right-center majority to combat the extreme right and left.

"There will be no compromise with those guilty and incapable ones," he snapped.

Mendes-France's newspaper L'Express explained that he was wooing the voters of the Faure camp and not its leaders when he called on "courageous men" among Faure's supporters.

Eden Gets Sharp Criticism From Two British Papers

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden, nursing a feverish cold, was subjected to sharp criticism Saturday for the way he has handled the job he took over from Winston Churchill.

The criticism came from the moderately conservative Times, which usually supports the government, and the Daily Herald, organ of the opposition Labor Party.

The Times said of Eden's administration:

"Here and there it has fumbled."

Less politely, the Daily Herald said:

"Eden dithers, and his notoriously bad temper takes on a sharper edge . . . He is far from robust. Now there is talk that he cannot last another two years, and the battle for the succession (to the prime ministry) is on."

The Times and the Daily Herald agreed that Harold Macmillan has not been successful as Eden's foreign minister.

Send Surplus Abroad Now, Ike Urged

WASHINGTON (UP) — Church leaders will appeal to President Eisenhower to break a bottleneck that is restricting the flow of America's surplus food to hungry families overseas, informed sources said Saturday.

The bottleneck is a shortage of funds to pay ocean freight on the surplus wheat, corn, rice, dried beans, dairy products and other farm commodities the Agriculture Department has offered to give to relief agencies for distribution abroad.

Informants said less than $5,000,000 is now available in the special fund Congress voted last year to pay ocean freight on relief shipments of surplus foods. Congress provided that President Eisenhower could enlarge the fund at his discretion by transferring to it any money that was appropriated, but not spent, for other foreign aid purposes.

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish relief agencies which took the lead in organizing the "share our surplus" program, are now planning a joint appeal to the President to exercise this power.

They will tell him that a relatively modest diversion of funds —say ten or fifteen million dollars out of the current overall foreign aid budget of more than two and a half billion dollars—would make it possible to double or triple the flow of surplus foods to needy people in all parts of the world.

Lonardi on Way to U.S. Hospital

NEW YORK (UP)—Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi, who ruled Argentina for 50 days after dictator Juan D. Peron was overthrown, arrived in the United States Saturday for a month-long hospital checkup.

Lonardi, 59, arrived in New York aboard the Argentine state liner Rio Tunuyan. He will spend a week in New York City before going to Georgetown Hospital, Washington, D. C.

An aide said Lonardi is suffering from high blood pressure.

PRISON EXPERT SAYS TOO MANY . . .

Too Long Behind Bars

By VERA WILLIAMS

"Too many men spend too much time behind bars. Ninety per cent of them shouldn't be there in the first place."

Speaking is Dr. Harry A. Shuder of Rolling Hills, "father" of California's prison educational system. In his 20 years in state service at San Quentin, Folsom and the Medical Facility at Terminal Island, many thousands of men have gained his guidance, learning all the way from how to read and write to mastering university and college graduate courses.

"Many of them," he says, "are fine men, good friends of mine. . . . My mail is full of letters from them. A former inmate friend telephoned me the other night from New Jersey, to wish me 'Merry Christmas.'

"He had been a bad boy — a very bad boy—but that is behind him now. He is married, has a new job, a new home. He is a success. A good many of these men look on me as their philosophical father. I tried to interest them in philosophy, something outside of themselves, something to give meaning to their lives."

• • • •

IN 1930 Dr. Shuder became California's first prison education superintendent, appointed by State Supt. of Instruction Vierling Kersey. He was at San Quentin 13 years, then he was in the Army four years, then he set up the education program at Folsom where he spent four years.

Then he set up the education program at Terminal Island, retiring last year.

Dr. Shuder believes that the answer to crime is early counselling.

"I would say it should start in the grades," he says. "Some psychiatrists go farther back, and say the pattern is set in the cradle. I don't go in much for that cradle stuff. Most people who get in trouble in their adult life begin getting in trouble in the grades.

DR. HARRY A. SHUDER
Too Many Behind Bars

"I would have counsellors — they needn't be teachers, but other intelligent adults who would be willing to listen and help — call in each child each semester and say to him, 'John (or Mary, or whoever), I have been looking at your grades. They are pretty good (or they could be better). What do you plan to do with your life? What are your hopes? Your ambitions? What are you doing about them?'

"I would continue this counselling through high school. There are many adults, retired folks who could give invaluable service to young people. They could talk to them about their problems, their ambitions. They could suggest chemistry or Latin or Greek or a Great Books course to augment their studies.

• • • •

"AND THERE ARE many adults who are afraid they are not on the right road, who would like some way of checking up on themselves. It would cost them a lot of money to go to a psychiatrist. If they went to an M.D., the M.D. would give them a sleeping pill. How about a board of adults who would listen to these people's problems and help them evaluate themselves?"

A good deal of adult discontent, Dr. Shuder believes, is caused when people find themselves in the wrong line of work.

"It isn't reasonable," he says, "to assume that at 20 a person can always pick out the work in which he will be happy and successful for 20, 30, 40 years. But somehow we have an idea that a person who changes his line of work is a failure. He isn't a failure if by changing he gives himself a fair chance for happiness."

But how about that idea of too many men spending too much time in prison?

"—and jails, too," he adds hastily. "There are many men in jail who shouldn't be there." He believes there should be much counselling in jails; as a matter of fact he thinks jails should be "not much more than schools; places where people can get hold of themselves."

He believes in probation; in early, supervised parole. He thinks many prisoners are ready for parole long before it is granted.

• • • •

ARE THERE no exceptions?

"There are," he says grimly. "There are people who are rattlesnakes, who were rattlesnakes from the day they were born. Nothing much can be done about them. They have to be shut up—maybe all their lives—to protect society. I'm not talking about them; I'm talking about the great majority of people who have decent instincts and will be decent if they have a chance."

Dr. Shuder says that the IQ of the state's prisoners is about the same as that of people on the outside—moron to brilliant with the great majority around normal. The average state prisoner has had an eighth grade education. Some can not read and write; some have college degrees.

A graduate of Harvard in 1914, Dr. Shuder has continued his education in "whatever college or university happened to be handy" and has five degrees from as many colleges.

Dr. Shuder spent 32 years in the Army and served in both World Wars. He is listed as "Col.," not "Dr." in the telephone directory.

He and his wife, Evelyn, live in a seven room house, with two acres of ground at 5 Williamsburg Lane, Rolling Hills. They spend some time in their cabin at Lake Tahoe.

ARE YOU HYPOKINETIC?

Flabby U.S. Kids Should Walk to School, Health Expert Says

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP) — America is paying twice for its autos, elevators, automatic furnaces, washing machines, tractors, vacuum cleaners and other aids to the more relaxed, luxurious life. Once in money, again in aching backs.

With every new work-saver or foot-saver, human muscles become more flabby, less fit to perform the functions for which they were intended. This is not ironic theory, but a physical fact which is causing the medical profession increasing worry.

It even has a name: Hypokinetic disease, indicating the role which inactivity plays in producing illness—ranging from malfunctioning organs and malformation of bones to emotional and mental disorders.

A ranking authority is Bonnie Prudden, a researcher for New York University-Bellevue Hospital's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. She tested almost 6,500 "normal, healthy" boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 19. About 4,500 were American children, the rest were youngsters living in comparable urban and suburban areas in southern Austria and northern Italy. The simple tests involved muscles of the back, abdomen and legs.

"More than 78 per cent of the American children failed one or more of the tests," Miss Prudden reported, "Only 8½ per cent of the European children failed. Just about the only difference between the two groups is that the European children live in a much less mechanized society."

• • • •

YOUNG ITALIANS and Austrians walk to school, frequently trudging long distances. They indulge in active rather than spectator sports, so most of their recreation is based on active use of their bodies.

Other studies of both active and sedentary adults indicate that men and women who use their bodies are able to stand stress better, build up less tension, tire less easily, age more gradually, have lower blood pressure, greater strength, larger breathing capacity, lower pulse rates.

A British survey found that among those who exercised little there was more appendicitis, lung cancer, prostate disease, varicose veins, osteoarthritis, myositis and fibrositis, inflammations, respectively, of the muscles and fibrous tissue. It showed also that coronary disease is twice as frequent among those who don't exercise much; that there is considerably more diabetes and duodenal ulcer among the inactive.

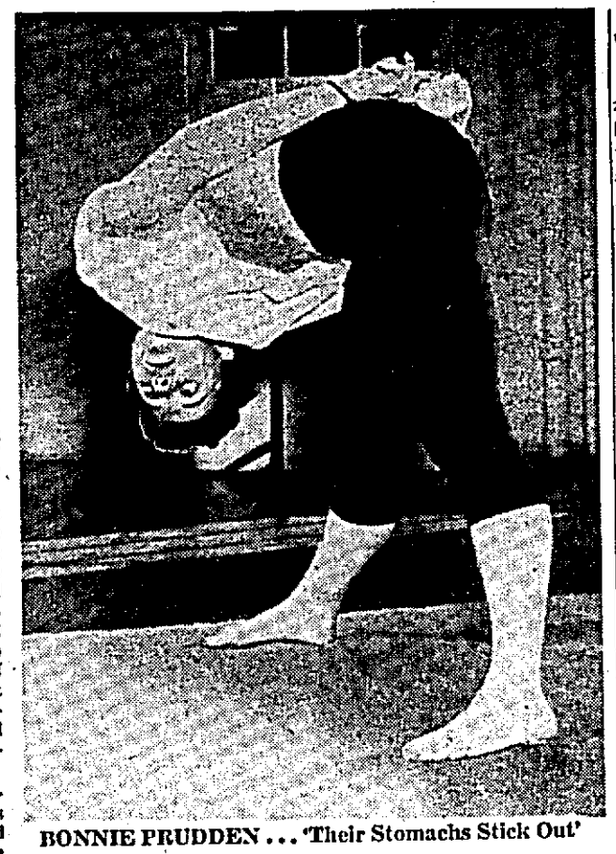

The crushing wartime statistics of nearly 1¾ million rejects out of 3¾ million men examined for the draft indicated to the medical world that the American body, in spite of orange juice, vitamins and high living standards, wasn't as great as it was touted.

• • • •

MISS PRUDDEN, a one-time professional dancer, believes in research, but she also believes in applying what she learns. So she applied the stack of statistics and medical terms she had accumulated to her own children, two teen-age girls. Both of them, "normal and healthy," were television addicts, spectator sports fans and, like their friends, were accustomed to being driven almost everywhere they went.

Their mother decided a program of physical fitness was indicated. She started two classes of five pupils each, each class including one daughter and four of her friends in the same age group.

Suddenly, Miss Prudden found hereself in business. The project grew out of hand. Classes in dancing, judo, tumbling and games grew to 20. Other children wanted in. Parents pleaded. Doctors and even psychiatrists began prescribing her classes for boys and girls with problems ranging from overweight to crooked spines to shyness. Then adults wanted classes of their own.

BONNIE PRUDDEN ... 'Their Stomachs Stick Out'

So Miss Prudden acquired an abandoned elementary school to care for the crowds.

But she continues to devote a lot of time to nonprofit crusading.

"Most Americans," she'll tell you, "don't even know how to walk. Backache isn't a killer, but too many people are hobbling around suffering from it. Forty-four per cent of our children can't even touch the floor with their fingertips without bending their knees. And, at any European beach, it's easy to pick out the American children. They're the ones with sway backs and big stomachs.

"Most of our youngsters today have been so carefully protected that they've never been hot—or cold. Or pushed, or wet, or hungry. Most of them have never even been really frightened—and I think it's very important for everybody to understand something about fear. Our kids have been chauffeured, they've been protected in playpens, walked in strollers. Not many of them really know anything about free play."

• • • •

SHE ALMOST SNORTS at the mention of physical education classes in schools:

"So they have an hour of physical education — about 30 children with one instructor. I figured my own children were getting about 6½ minutes of exercise in that hour, after you'd deducted time out for changing clothes, showering, and the teacher attending to other pupils."

Miss Prudden has several people over 70 in her classes and one woman over 80, and she finds them easier to put into condition than teen-agers.

"Men and women over 40 have had to use their muscles at some time," she says, "so it's just a retraining job. But the teen-agers have never used them. Their stomachs stick out, their backs are wobbly, their shoulders are round. They have no pride of body."

Jewish Groups to Hear Sen. Jackson

Members representing organizations of the Long Beach Jewish community will assemble in the Wilton Hotel tonight to hear a major address by U. S. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, in behalf of bonds of the Israel government.

Jackson is expected to discuss the crisis in middle eastern affairs which has been increasing tension steadily between Israel and surrounding Arab states.

• • • • •

IRVING SCHNEIDER, chairman of the Long Beach campaign for Israel bonds, announced that tonight's gathering "represents the climax of our 1955 campaign. Our dollars invested in Israel's economic security through bonds do not go for military purposes. But they provide the means which enables Israel to continue to progress in her development. Every American who invests in Israel is strengthening democracy. And to make democracy strong anywhere is to make it stronger at home."

Senator Jackson's address, Schneider pointed out, is of added importance, since it will give the Southland an insight into the thinking in some quarters of the upper house of Congress as regards the maintenance of peace in the Mid-East.

With MALCOLM EPLEY

SOMEBODY wanted a Cadillac engine—not a Cadillac—for Christmas, and just went out and stole one.

That's the logical assumption from what happened to a car belonging to the local Cad agency operated by Bud Ridings.

The 1956 Cad was stolen from the American Ave. establishment a week or so ago. A day or two later Ridings was informed by sheriff's deputies to come and pick up the car, which had been located off Redondo Beach Blvd.

A Ridings man went out there, got the car, twisted the starter switch. Nothing happened.

He looked under the hood. No engine. No transmission either.

Everything else was in perfect condition. A neat job had been done in removing the vital parts, and the hood was carefully replaced. The speedometer showed the car had been driven only a few miles—only far enough, apparently, to get it into a place where the motor could be removed.

Ridings figures that by this time, his motor is spinning the wheels of somebody's hot-rod. "And no doubt doing a good job of it," he added with pride.

AMONG the many unique ideas for Christmas greetings thought up by Long Beachers this year is a family newspaper produced by Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Perry, 105 Rivo Alto Canal.

"It's volume 1, No. 1 of the Perry Periodical, and covers five years of family residence in Long Beach. Editorials on topics ranging from world peace to family nicknames, chatter about relatives, friends and trips, an "In Memoriam," and some family pictures are features of the little sheet, edited by Mrs. Perry. As we've always said—a newspaper is the best way to keep everybody informed.

---

SOMETIMES I think it's too bad people don't wear license plates like automobiles.

If they did, we could and would print the identification of the sandy-haired, middle-aged fellow who performed a litterbag act at Fifth and Pine a day or two ago to the indignation of several observers.

It seems this fellow had bought himself a package of Country Doctor tobacco. As he stood on the corner waiting for the light, he dumped the tobacco into a leather pouch. Then he tossed the empty paper package on the street.

Not five feet away at the time was a rubbish receptacle, with swinging lid, ready to receive just such junk.

---

LONG BEACH banks are alert about what some people want to give for Christmas, and every year at the opening of the season they lay in supplies of crinkly new currency. They get it from the Federal Reserve Bank at L. A.

People who give money in currency form at Christmas invariably want it to be in new bills. The big demand is for fives, tens and twenties, but there are also requests for fifties, one hundreds and even a few five hundreds. (How lucky can some recipients get?)

One woman walked into a local bank the other day and asked for five new $100 bills to give to five grandchildren.

The banks get a few requests for new coins at Christmas time. New pennies, dimes and quarters are available, but new silver dollars are scarcer than the proverbial hen's teeth. Silver dollar requests, by the way, are more likely to come in connection with silver weddings than at Christmas time. Some banks will polish up old dollars for their customers.

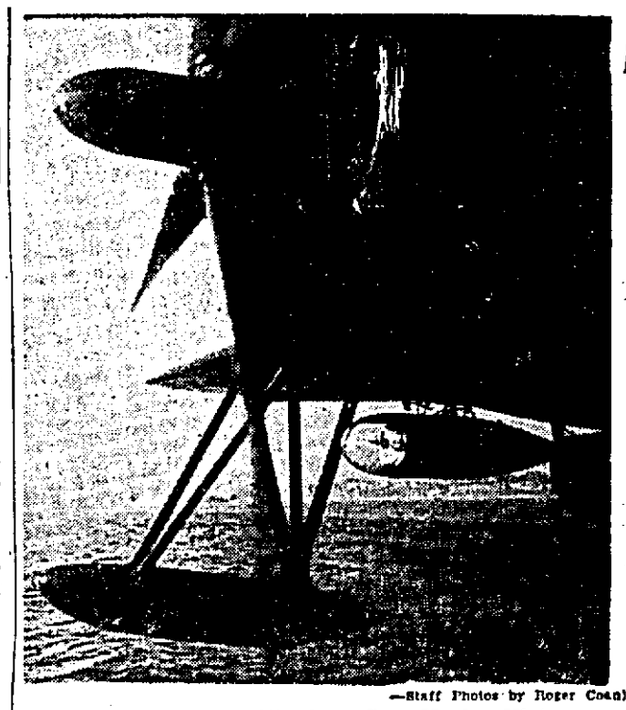

---

SPEAKING of giving money, how about you and the Christmas Cheer Clearing House?

Gifts of cash to the Cheer program have been meager this year. Time is getting short and there are commitments for turkeys and some other things that must be paid for in cash. Gifts of canned goods and other articles are welcomed, but there's just nothing to take the place of cash for certain purposes.

So why not dig down and give a little. It can be mailed to the Christmas Cheer Clearing House, 634 East Seventh St. Or better yet, take it there and see what's going on.

The Christmas Cheer people, by the way, will be glad to take just any old bills.

Flying Boat Joins Pack at 'Kill' Scene

By LEE CRAIG

How does it feel to go on a mission in a big Martin PBM flying boat and be in on the "kill" of an "enemy" sub?

An Independent, Press-Telegram reporter and photographer went on a special flight recently to watch planes of the Navy's Patrol Squadron 50 go through their paces in a phase of their Operation Final Exam offshore here.

Operating from their floating bases, two seaplane tenders anchored a hundred yards off downtown Long Beach, the squadron's 10 planes flew around the clock to prove fitness for their overseas assignment in January.

The PBMs, introduced during World War II, are primarily long range patrol planes, built to serve as the "eyes" of the fleet.

However, much of their value to the Navy has stemmed from their versatility. They're also used for bombing, aerial mine-laying, air-sea rescue work and anti-submarine warfare.

• • • • •

A SMALL NAVY BOAT took us from the tender USS Onslow to our plane, tied to a buoy a short distance away.

On the way, our pilot, Lt. (jg) Bob Meyer, explained:

"We're one of the last squadrons in the Navy to have PBMs. Most of the others have P5Ms, the PBM's successor. They're not much faster and their cruising range isn't much greater, but they carry greatly improved equipment.

"Another thing—pretty important to us—they're a lot more comfortable for those 12 or 14-hour flights . . . soundproofing, plush seats and more room."

The importance of these latter items became clear to us as the big seaplane lifted from the water.

The thunderous roar of the plane's two engines was deafening. And on the crowded flight deck, it was impossible to turn around without bumping a crewman or hitting a projecting part of the instrument-lined cabin.

• • • • •

OVER THE PLANE'S intercom system, Lt. Meyer's muffled voice came:

"We're heading for an area about 120 miles out to sea, where we have a couple of planes hunting for a submarine. If one of them finds him, we'll try to get there to show you what happens."

As we neared the area, our radar, manned by AT3 J. H. Smout, reached long, probing fingers ahead of us. We watched the "bogies" appear on the scope, then, minutes later, saw the ships which had made them slide by beneath us.

Suddenly we intercepted a message from one of the planes ahead, jubilantly announcing a "positive kill" on the submarine. They had tracked it down somehow in an area covering nearly 5,000 square miles.

At Lt. (jg) Noye Johnson, our

Jaycees Open Man of Year Nominations

Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce is searching for the city's outstanding young man of 1955, who will win a Distinguished Service Award at the annual Jaycee Week banquet Jan. 19.

Don G. Gill, vice president, announced that the award will be given to the young man chosen by a panel of judges as having performed the most direct and outstanding service to this community during the year. "Nominees need not be a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, but they must be 35 years of age or under," Gill stated.

The judges will be a group of leading citizens, all over age 35.

• • • •

PREVIOUS WINNERS of this honor have been Dave Hargrave in 1952, H. E. (Bud) Ridings in 1953 and Oliver Speraw in 1954. Speraw, a local contractor and member of the Water Commission, will present the plaque to the 1955 winner.

The award is sponsored jointly by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and the local chapter. Nationally during the week of Jan. 16-21. More than 2,000 other young men will be honored in similar ceremonies.

• • • •

ENTRIES are being accepted at the JCC offices in the Wilton Hotel Arcade. Special nomination forms are available there. Deadline for submission of entries is Jan. 13, 1956. All service clubs, fraternal groups, religious bodies, professional societies, industrial firms, and other organizations are invited to submit candidates for the award. They will receive the proper forms in the mail if they will telephone HE 7-3501.

Carol-Singing Fleet Cruises Here at 7 p.m.

Decorated boats carrying carolers will move through Naples canals tonight and Monday night in the eighth annual Christmas pageant sponsored by the Naples Improvement Assn.

Thirteen choruses and choirs will compete for trophies. The procession will begin at 7 p.m.

• • • •

MORE THAN 100,000 spectators witnessed last year's pageant.

Caroling chairman is Roy Campbell, director of the Naples School of Music.

Campbell said entries for boat space were limited to the best trained and directed groups available.

Criminal Law Course Slated by Pacific U.

The Law School of Pacific Coast University in Long Beach will offer a complete course on Criminal Law and Procedure. The class will meet Monday and Wednesday evenings at Wilson High School beginning Jan. 4.

The class is open to the public and credits many be applied toward the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Deputy District Attorney Lynn Compton, a regular member of the faculty of the Law School, will instruct the class. The basic teaching materials will include the three-volume work by Judge Charles W. Fricke, noted criminal authority of Los Angeles.

Written applications for admission to the class should be mailed to Dr. Carl H. Manson, 236 Newport Ave.

Money's Needed for Yule Cheer

With Christmas only a week away, the main needs of the Christmas Cheer Clearinghouse have narrowed down to three items, Dr. Godfrey Pernell, drive chairman said Saturday.

And they are:

1. More money contributions from the public to supplement earlier donations of food, clothing and toys for Long Beach's needy families.

2. Non-perishable foods, including cans of vegetables, fruit, soups, baby foods, cranberry sauce, etc., potatoes, cereals, canned milk. Items suitable for packing in the Christmas food baskets are in great demand.

3. Good toys for all ages of both boys and girls are at the top of many Christmas lists. The 5th Signal Co. of U. S. Marine Corps Reserve reports collections slow on their "Toys for Tots" drive. All toys collected by the Marines in this area will be distributed through the Christmas Cheer Clearinghouse.

• • • •

THE CLEARINGHOUSE in the National Guard Armory, 854 E. 7th St., is open daily 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Checks should be made payable to the Christmas Cheer Fund. Telephone numbers are HE 6-1506, HE 6-1518 and HE 6-3012.

Approximately 1400 families remain in the files of the Clearinghouse and they will have no Christmas unless enough funds are received within the next five days to cover the costs of necessary food, clothing and toys. Only 350 families have been adopted to date. All packages for these adopted families must be in the warehouse Monday. Deliveries began Dec. 14 and will continue through Friday.

• • • •

THE PLIGHT of one family may symbolize the need.

Pillagers plied their trade while this family was moving two weeks ago. When they returned for another load, the carefully packed household equipment had been "lifted" by other "movers" who gained entrance through a second-story window. Now this family of mother and four children under 6 years of age, is without dishes, bed, kitchen utensils, linens and chairs.

Of course they want food for Christmas, they told the caseworker who interviewed them, but it would have to be food they could eat with their fingers, for they have no forks, knives or spoons. A bed-divan would keep mother from sleeping on the floor. The father has deserted the family.

Commented the caseworker: "Let's hope the good citizens of Long Beach will not desert them."

Unexpected Yule Gift for L.B. Blind Man

An unexpected Christmas present will be presented to Otto G. Benten, 2615 E. 8th St., who recently became totally blind.

It will be a check for hospital payments from the White Cane Fund of the Downtown Lions Club. Joe Robbins, club president, made arrangements for the payment Saturday after learning that Benten and his wife faced Christmas owing $60 for hospitalization.

• • • •

BENTON, who was a barber at the Long Beach Veterans' Administration Hospital, lost one eye in an accident 30 years ago. Last October he bumped into a cabinet in his home, shattered his glasses and lost the sight of his other eye.

Part of the medical and hospitalization bill was covered by insurance. The Bentens sold their car to help pay the balance.

Lions' Club members sell miniature white canes on the streets in September to raise funds used exclusively to help the blind.

Furs Disappear With Redhead

A comely redhead in her late 20s found a novel way to get her Christmas furs a little early, according to a police report filed Saturday.

She went to the Lockwood Furs store, 711 Pine Ave., Dec. 8, and had the owner show her several stone martin furs. Then she changed her mind and asked to look at some mink stoles.

When the owner, Clay P. Marrow, checked his fur stock Saturday he found that a set of four stone martin furs was missing. He valued them at $250.

Yule Readings by Baxter Slated for State College

Dr. Frank C. Baxter, noted educator and winner of two awards from the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences will present a program of Christmas readings at Long Beach State College, Tuesday, 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre.

Dr. Baxter's TV program "Now and Then," which appeared on 95 stations was judged the best educational and information program in the nation for 1954.

• • • •

WINNER OF two "Emmys" for an outstanding educational program, Dr. Baxter last year completed his 25th year of teaching at the University of Southern California.

Regarded as one of the authorities of Shakespearian period, Dr. Baxter has presented a yearly program of Christmas readings which have become a tradition at USC.

There is no admission but reservations should be made. Tickets may be obtained by calling HE 4-3471, the College Activities office.

Senior Citizen Dinner Planned

Volunteers of America will sponsor a Christmas dinner for senior citizens and members of the Sunset Club Friday at Morgan Hall.

Master of ceremonies will be Don Thrall, who will be assisted by his wife, Glada, in a musical program. Sunset Club is a service of the Community Chest.

AT 71, DOLLS ARE FUN

Sunset Club, sponsored by Volunteers of America, has repaired and dressed 200 dolls for Christmas Cheer Clearinghouse. Mrs. Gertrude Gollaher, 71, president-elect of doll committee, gives final pat to coiffure of well-groomed playmate.—(Staff.)

NEW ROUTES EFFECTIVE

Buses Discover 'Lost Altos' Today

By GEORGE WEEKS

This is the day "Lost Altos" gets found—by the buses.

Service is being inaugurated this morning on extensions of two Long Beach Motor Bus Co. routes into the densely-populated easterly section of the city where thousands of new homes have been occupied in recent years. Improved service is also being provided for the State College area.

Both extensions were authorized last July by the State Public Utilities Commission, but the bus firm obtained a delay because of a mixup in proposed schedules.

Numerous Los Altos residents bitterly protested the postponement, asserting they had to walk "miles" to the nearest bus line.

THE EXTENSIONS, as posted in company buses and announced by Ronald K. Pitcher, superintendent of transportation, are:

Pacific Coast Hwy. Route No. 1—Stearns St. and Palo Verde Ave. Branch: North on Palo Verde Ave. to Los Coyotes Diagonal, northeast to Studebaker Rd.

Atherton St. Branch: East on Atherton to Palo Verde Ave., north to Stearns St., east to Studebaker Rd., north to Walkerton St., west to Los Coyotes Diag., northeast to Studebaker Rd.

Service is abandoned along Willow St., Nipomo Ave. and Ladoga St.

E. Anaheim—State College Route No. 4: East on Anaheim Rd. to Bellflower Blvd., south to 7th St., east to Campus Rd. West, north to Anaheim Rd., east to Studebaker Rd., north to Stearns St.

A portion of the old route along Anaheim Rd. between Campus Rd. West and Bellflower Blvd. is discontinued.

AT THE SAME TIME a minor change of the Bellflower-Clark Ave. Branch Route 11 is being made effective. The new route extends north on Lakewood Blvd. to Willow St., east to Clark Ave., north to Bellflower.

The section of the route along Spring St. between Clark Ave. and Lakewood Blvd. is discontinued.

Service frequencies on the extensions will range from 15 minutes to 60 minutes, depending on the time of day, the day of the week and the locations of the lines.

On both branches of Route No. 1 a fare zone is located at Stearns St. and Palo Verde Ave. On Route No. 4 the fare zone is at Palo Verde Ave. and E. Anaheim Rd. outbound, Campus Rd. West in front of State College for inbound buses.

Also being made effective today are minor route changes and some schedule curtailments on the E. Broadway-Seal Beach Branch Route 12 East. These were authorized by the state commission Oct. 5.

In Seal Beach the branch is operating over Central Ave. rather than Ocean Ave.

ALONG E. BROADWAY the base frequency is 12 minutes instead of 10 minutes, with a 36-minute frequency to Seal Beach and similar schedules to 72nd Pl. and E. Ocean Blvd. Frequencies on these branches were formerly 20 minutes.

The Seal Beach bus passes The Toledo, giving that Naples area alternate 12-minute and 24-minute frequencies in lieu of the former 20-minute headways.

After 8 p. m. the frequency will be 30 minutes along E. Broadway and 60 minutes to Seal Beach and to 72nd Pl. and E. Ocean Blvd.

A minor route change on the Santa Fe Ave.-Dominguez Route No. 12 West sends inbound buses on Anaheim St. to Magnolia Ave., south to Broadway, east to American Ave., north to the 3rd St. terminal, thence west on 3rd St. to Magnolia Ave., north to Anaheim St., west on Anaheim and continuation of the regular route.

Pitcher noted that some adjustments in schedules may be necessary to conform with running time needed between terminals on route changes and extensions.

How It Feels to Listen In on Sub 'Kill'

navigator, charted the submarine's position, he told us:

"For this operation, the planes carry miniature depth charges. If the sub people feel the charge landed close enough so that a real one would have damaged or sunk them, they let us know."

• • • • •

A FEW MINUTES LATER, just at sundown, we spotted two PBMs, "down on the deck," making runs over a section of water marked by smoking flares.

The two planes had traced the sub by dropping "soundbuoys," sonar listening devices, Lt. (jg) Ray Burris, the co-pilot, explained.

We "plugged in" with our own listening gear and heard the submarine propellers' metallic beat as the undersea craft twisted and turned, trying to evade the tracking planes.

In a few minutes, however, night had come. We turned back for home. The plane's tiny gallery produced steaming black coffee and we amused ourselves by picking out Long Beach Harbor landmarks on the radar scope from more than a hundred miles away.

A hour later, we were circling Belmont Shore, making our landing approach. Colored lights on the Christmas trees floating in Alamitos Bay twinkled brightly below us.

The old town never looked so good.

Transistor's Uses Subject of CC Forum

"The Transistor Story," will be the subject of a talk by Marvin Diefendorf, public relations assistant for General Telephone Co. of California, when he addresses Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Forum in Wilton Hotel at 7 a.m. Wednesday.

M. DIEFENDORF
Speaks to Chamber

Diefendorf will highlight his talk with explanations of the development of the transistor; its advantaegs and disadvantages in modern industry and how it can best be utilized.

For the past six years, Diefendorf has been engaged in telephone work, starting in 1949 as commercial representative in the West Los Angeles exchange. Diefendorf entered the Air Force Cadets in 1943 and flew with the 8th Air Force in Africa, England and Germany until his discharge in 1946.

Arctic Chill Moves Over Wide Area

By Associated Press

Zero weather held firm in the upper reaches of the Midwest Saturday.

Even at the "warmest" period of the day the mecury registered 5 below zero at the Duluth, Minn. airport, and International Falls, Minn., had a reading of 4 below. It was 2 above in Minneapolis.

Snow was reported in the northern Rockies, with temperatures under ten above zero.

A storm wes developing on the western plains. The weather bureau issued a blizzard warning for North Dakota.

Snow fell in southeastern Montana and western South Dakota.

There were few warm spots in the United States, although temperatures rose into the 50s by midday in the Carolinas, Georgia and northern Florida. Early afternoon readings were in the 40s and 50s in Oregon and California.

MARINES COMBAT CRASHES

Pendleton Cuts Accident Total

(Editor's Note: Something CAN be done to cut down traffic accidents involving servicemen—which around the clock, across the nation reach a horrifying total. Last Sunday The Independent, Press-Telegram set forth some of these servicemen-traffic accident problems. Today's story deals with how two U. S. military bases are trying to meet the situation.)

By VERA WILLIAMS

Accidents don't happen; they are caused.

With this belief, officers of the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton at Oceanside, conduct a relentless education, enforcement and engineering campaign. Traffic is under continuous study by staff officers. A Safe Driving Council meets monthly to consider the various aspects of the problem and make recommendations to improve Camp Pendleton's safe-driving program.

The regular training program for the U. S. Marine Corps includes the subject of Traffic Safety. In addition to service instructors, lectures are given by specialists from the state and local police. The Base Training Aids Library contains a number of training films on safe driving. By roadside signs, posters where men gather and film trailers at the camp theaters, the personnel is constantly reminded to practice traffic safety.

"STRICT ENFORCEMENT of traffic regulations is our policy," says Maj. Gen. George F. Good Jr., commanding general. "It is my opinion that accidents don't happen; they are caused.

"On this base all accidents are investigated and the person or persons at fault charged with a violation.

"Violators of the traffic regulations, in addition to other action taken against them, are required to attend a Base Traffic Safety School.

"Regulations limit the distance from camp that the men may go in a given period of time. This regulation appears to be well obeyed. I have noted that recent fatal accidents involving men from this base occurred at around midnight, within two hours' moderate-speed driving time from camp, six or seven hours before the required time of return, and that the drivers were in the 18-24 years of age bracket.

"In spite of the fact that the vast majority of our servicemen are in the 18-24 bracket, which corresponds to the higher premium age bracket established by automobile insurance companies, our accident rate is relatively low in comparison to accident rates in similar size communities. However, it is my intention that every effort be made to eliminate all avoidable accidents and reduce the toll of killed and injured among personnel of this base."

SCREENING the Camp Pendleton files for 1954 and 1955, the following statistics per 1,000 of population are shown:

| | | Killed | Injured | Accidents |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1954 | On base | .010 | 2.12 | 15.2 |
| 1954 | Off base | .240 | 5.92 | 10.3 |
| 1955 | (To Nov. 15) | | | |
| | On base | .089 | 2.73 | 9.82 |
| | Off base | .378 | 5.07 | 6.78 |

Camp Pendleton is the world's largest amphibious base, having an area of 124,198 acres. The average population of Camp Pendleton, consisting of military personnel, dependents and civilian employes, was approximately 25,000 in 1954 and 45,000 in 1955, and the number of automobiles owned and operated increased from approximately 16,000 in 1954 to 22,000 in 1955.

Even in view of the large increase in traffic the number of accidents per 1,000 people in 1955 decreased from 1954. In analyzing the increase in the number of killed, the primary cause was multiple deaths in recent traffic accidents.

In comparison, the nearest large city, San Diego, had 45 fatalities, 2,124 injuries and 7,087 accidents in traffic in the first 10 months of 1955.

Using an approximate population figure of 335,000 based on the 1950 census, this breaks down into .134 persons per 1,000 killed, 6.34 injured and 21.2 accidents during that time.

MILITARY PERSONNEL of Fort MacArthur at San Pedro have had only 17 motor vehicle accidents off duty, off post, in the last two years, according to John M. Hughes, public information officer.

The command has suffered three fatalities in the last five years. They occurred in privately owned vehicles, off the post.

In order to cut down accidents, the command under the direction of the post safety office has established intensive driver testing, training and retraining of personnel involved in accidents. The motor officer of the command investigates all traffic accidents and interviews the drivers to determine mistakes, if any.

TRAVELING CHURCH LEADER

Elder Reuben R. Figuhr (left), Seventh-day Adventist conference president, traces his travels for Elder Arthur J. Escobar, pastor of the church at 1001 E. 3rd St.—(Staff Photo)

Top Adventist Chief Visits L.B.

Reuben R. Figuhr, leader of more than a million Seventh-Day Adventists all over the world, visited Long Beach Saturday to deliver the Sabbath sermon at the local Adventist church, 1001 E. 3rd St.

Elder Figuhr is president of the General Conference of the church. His visit here was one stop on a cross-country trip he is making from the church headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Each year Elder Figuhr makes a 2½-month, round-the-world tour, visiting many of the 119 countries in which the church operates.

His next trip, beginning in January, will take him to the Middle East, India, Burma and Formosa. Last year he spent the major part of his tour in Africa, inspecting the church's missionary work there.

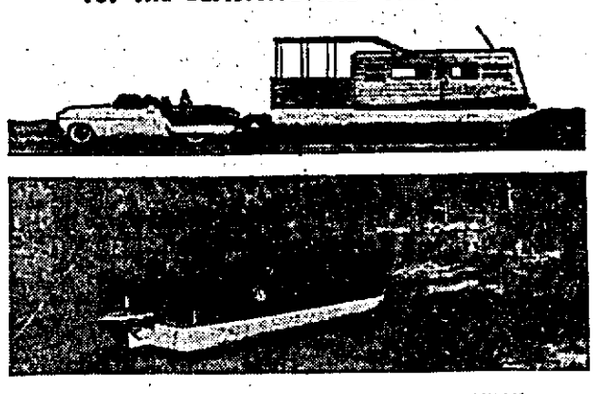

Elder Figuhr, 59, was born in Wisconsin and studied for the Adventist ministry at Walla Walla College, Wash. In 1923 he was sent as a missionary to the Philippine Islands, where he stayed 19 years. He was elected to his present office in 1954, after serving as president of the South American Conference.

Elder Figuhr spoke to the local congregation on "Living and Dying for God." While in Long Beach he was the guest of Arthur J. Escobar, minister of the church here.

DAILY CARE FOR 124

Mayor Heads Polio Drive for 5th Time

Mayor George M. Vermillion for the fourth consecutive year Saturday was appointed chairman for the 1956 March of Dimes campaign in January.

Mrs. Gail C. Hudson, chairman of the Long Beach Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced the appointment.

Mayor Vermillion, in accepting the post, said:

"The fight against polio isn't over yet. In our own area, the local chapter is helping provide daily medical aid for 124 persons for whom the Salk vaccine came too late.

"This year alone, 83 people in our district have been stricken with polio.

"The fight for them has just begun. Your dimes can help them in that battle. Your dimes literally can help them to learn to breathe again."

• • • •

EXTENSIVE PLANS for the January campaign have been drawn. Increased personnel and many more field workers will be needed.

The drive will open with a kickoff luncheon at the Lafayette Hotel on Jan. 5.

One of the major events, a March of Dimes Dance, will be conducted two days later at the Municipal Auditorium.

Sigma Pi, Long Beach State College fraternity sponsoring the dance, is arranging to secure a "big-name" band. Donation will be $1 per person.

A Blue Crutch Tag Day is planned for Jan. 14. The drive will end Jan. 31, with a Mothers' March.

• • • •

RECALLING THAT Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of a "medical milestone" vaccine, was trained under a fellowship made possible by the March of Dimes, Mayor Vermillion said:

"March of Dimes research must be supported with continuing enthusiasm if the job is to be finished. The Salk vaccine is still not 100 per cent effective.

"It will be a good many years before we can afford to stop training polio scientists for the laboratories and professional workers for hospitals—especially in view of the acute shortages now existing in these fields."

When Happiness Turns to Tragedy

JUDSON M. THORPE, 76, and his wife, Jessie, also 76, stood hand in hand at the curb of the busy street. On the opposite side was a bus stop.

Uneasily, hand in hand, they stepped into the street and started to run across.

They never got to the bus stop.

THEIR NAMES WERE ADDED to the Yule season's swelling list of traffic victims.

That list increases at a faster rate as the holiday period nears its climax.

The same bustle and excitement which are connected with the happiness of Christmastime also contribute to the human tragedies that occur at this time of year.

Pedestrians, making haste to take care of Christmas projects, tend to take chances they would not otherwise take. Carrying packages that cut down their visibility, they put themselves in greater jeopardy than usual.

Motorists, as a rule a discourteous and erratic crowd, become even more menacing. They're out in greater numbers, traveling longer distances faster than usual, and with a larger alcoholic content per capita.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, the only cheerful light, as far as holiday safety is concerned, comes from the fact that the office Christmas party featuring hard drinks is on the decline.

And, oddly, nobody seems to be missing it, which proves that it wasn't really a necessity after all.

The custom has been replaced in many cases with parties or projects which actually have some meaning and bring lasting happiness to someone.

Instead of sponsoring hectic drinking bouts which ends up with inebriated party-goers behind the steering wheels of speeding automobiles, business firms are tending more toward parties for employes' children, or the sponsorship of charities.

FOR INSTANCE, A LOCAL automobile firm last year calculated the amount of money it would have spent on a drinking party. Instead of buying the liquor, the firm turned the money over to a social agency engaged in doing welfare work for children.

Nobody loses when people celebrate Christmas that way.

Curtice and O'Mahoney Talk Turk--, Pheasant

WASHINGTON—The public has the general idea that hammer and tongs let fly at congressional hearings. Senators are supposed to look sternly at witnesses, badger them into testifying, threaten them with contempt if they flinch.

This was true at many of the McCarthy hearings, but other congressional probes are frequently featured by human interludes.

No moment in the life of Harlow Curtice, $686,100-paid head of General Motors, probably was more embarrassing than when Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) forced him to sit and listen to the testimony of critical General Motors dealers. However, this did not prevent Curtice and O'Mahoney from holding a pleasant aside on pheasants.

PEARSON

It began when Curtice asked Sen. Francis Case, South Dakota Republican:

"I should like to ask you about your crop of pheasants. I used to enjoy hunting in your state. What has caused the pheasant crop to reach such a low level?"

O'Mahoney—"They have migrated to Wyoming."

Curtice — "There were still thousands of millions of them in the old days. You mean they have some there in Wyoming?"

Case — "I have not even heard of an open season. Do you have an open season in Wyoming?"

O'Mahoney—"We protect our wild life."

Case—"Our pheasant hunting this past fall was by far the best in several years."

Curtice—"From a very low level."

Case—"You could get your bag limit this year in an hour and a half."

Curtice—"If you were a good shot—I do not claim to be one—you could get the bag limit, which was higher then, in much shorter time."

Case—"We had some very severe winters—hunting got low."

Curtice—"Could you not control the winter? Can you not speak to the senator here? Maybe you can get him to help control the winters up there."

• • • •

DIGGING DEEPER than pheasants, Sen. O'Mahoney has dug up some secret General Motors minutes that give a fascinating insight into the world's biggest corporation.

The minutes tell what happened to a top Buick-Pontiac-Chevrolet dealer for talking out of turn, president, Harlow Curtice.

Lee Anderson had been a GM dealer in Lake Orion, Mich., for 21 years—so hot a salesman that in 1941 he won first place over 18,000 other dealers in the nation. But he made one mistake. He spoke his mind last June to the Oxford, Mich., Rotary Club.

"The old song, I can get it for you wholesale, is heard throughout the land and it is driving many legitimate automobile dealers to red ink and distraction," Anderson complained to the Rotarians. "This situation is particularly acute in the trading area of automobile manufacturing towns, where about 1,000 automobile dealers face extinction under the impossible handicap of direct factory competition at new car discounts of $500 to $800."

THE AX FALLS — Exactly 20 days later, Anderson received simultaneous letters from the Buick, Pontiac and Chevrolet divisions, notifying him that his franchise would be cut off.

United Nations Now Revealed as Just Another 'Log-Rolling' Organization

WASHINGTON. The United Nations has revealed itself as just another "log-rolling" organization, with less regard for principle and morality than for political expediency. It's a blow from which the organization may never recover. For, once respect is lost, it is rarely regained.

• • • •

THE CONTROVERSY over admitting new members was on the same low plane that one would find in Tammany Hall in New York City or in the "smoke-filled rooms" of political conventions where "deals" and "packages" are manipulated with all the artful barter and selfishness of the market place.

Nationalist China alone, by her veto of Outer Mongolia, stood out as the courageous champion of morality. Yet it is a sign of the decadence of the times that newspaper dispatches are telling already of the intention of some governments to punish Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government next year and give her seat in the United Nations to unmoral Red China just because the Nationalist delegate didn't bow to expediency.

The day that Red China goes in the U. N., the demand for America to step out will be resumed. For it was Red China's murderous commanders who in Korea helped to bring about the death of 33,000 American boys and the wounding of 110,000 others. The same U. N. which declared Red China an aggressor now is reported to be ready to take the regime unto its bosm.

• • • •

BUT THE AMAZING thing is the way that supposed champions of virtue—those who extol the U. N. as the last word in international morality—are themselves surrendering principle and rejoicing that Soviet Russia did finally condescend to let 16 members come into the organization. The cry is for "universality" at any cost; as if numbers rather than the qualifications of the members to carry out the obligations of the U. N. charter were the real criterion of effectiveness.

It was Sir Percy Spender, of Australia, who, with startling frankness, said the other day: "It is not principle with which we are concerned here but expediency—the expediency of inexorable political circumstances."

This then is the new doctrine of the U. N. which in all the schools and colleges of America has heretofore been praised as the paragon of international virtue and as the last great hope of civilization to settle its disputes.

• • • •

HAVING FAILED to command universal support for armed intervention to repel the aggressor in Korea, the United Nations has since been compelled to rely primarily on moral force. But even this moral force now has deteriorated. For there can be no respect throughout the world for an organization that violates its own principles of law and order. The court of international justice, for example, is an advisory opinion sought by the U. N. itself, ruled in 1948 that "package deals" are illegal and that admission must be on individual merits of the member rather than dependent or conditioned on the acceptance of other members.

All this now has been brushed aside and the new slogan seems to be "numbers for numbers' sake."

• • • •

UNDER SUCH circumstances, it is logical for the United States now to ask all its 48 states be admitted to the U. N. It would augment the number of members considerably. After all, each of the 48 states is "sovereign" and, while the charter uses the term "sovereign equality," there is no inclination today in the U. N. to examine the qualifications of members too carefully.

Also it would solve the controversy here over the Bricker amendment, for if the various subsidiary bodies of the U. N. are to make treaties or agreements binding this country on certain domestic affairs, at least each of the 48 states would have some sort of opportunity to veto such legislation.

GOP Making Big Error in Permitting Public to Think Ike Will Run in '56

THE REPUBLICANS, it seems to me, are making a monumental mistake in permitting the country to assume that President Eisenhower will be a candidate for reelection.

It is the nature of politicians to be optimistic. But when House Minority Leader Joe Martin, Republican Chairman Leonard Hall and a host of minor GOP luminaries keep answering one and all that Ike will run, they are making an assumption which is not supported by anything more tangible than their self-interest.

KNIGHT

As an early and continuing supporter of Eisenhower, may I say that the opinion that his illness is one of the great tragedies of our times. He has been superb in his grasp of world affairs, a wise and temperate leader at home, a builder of faith and confidence in the future of our nation.

For these accomplishments, the President is esteemed and beloved by his countrymen who see in Eisenhower the qualities of leadership and inspiration which they admire and respect.

• • • •

NEVERTHELESS, it is folly to pretend that the President is not a sick man.

Granted that he is making a satisfactory recovery, for which we all rejoice, it cannot be safely assumed that the President is, or will be able to carry the burdens of his high office.

The Republican chorus, even after Ike had been told to "slow down," has not subsided. It ranges all the way from "Ike has never looked better" to Sen. Dirksen's warbling about "irridescent duty."

I sicken of all this palaver because of the underlying motives of those who spew it out. Many of them are candidates for reelection whose chances of winning will be enhanced by running on an Eisenhower ticket. Others, such as cabinet members and the White House staff, want to remain on the Eisenhower team. The rest, mainly centered around such shrewd and experienced politicians as Republican Chairman Hall, fully understand that without Eisenhower, the GOP 1956 Presidential ticket is in for trouble.

• • • •

THE PLOT, THEREFORE, is to surround Ike with bluff and hearty well wishers like Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, a former heart case, to prove that a coronary is not much worse than a bad cold.

Republican strategists are figuring that if Ike's decision can be postponed indefinitely, the President will ultimately be persuaded that his health is good enough for him to be a candidate.

Or, failing in this, that the time before election is so short that Eisenhower will have to name his preference for the Republican nomination to avoid a bitter contest within the party.

There are several flaws in this line of reasoning: 1—The President, after medical and family consultation, will make the decision. He is inherently too honest to yield to political persuasion. 2—President Eisenhower cannot transfer his popularity to another. 3—Undue postponement of the the President's decision will work against the "build-up" of other Republican candidates.

• • • •

QUITE APART FROM consideration of party strategy, I submit that the politicians should let Ike alone.

As a heart patient, he certainly is entitled to the same rest, relaxation and privacy with his family as any other man.

Strife Brewing in Both Parties on Pre-Primary Endorsements

RISKY as it may be from the standpoint of party harmony, organizations of both parties are wading into the field of pre-primary endorsements for 1956.

Already, there is some fighting about it. A notable current example is a ruckus between top men of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee and the Los Angeles County Republican Assembly over which group should endorse. Those familiar with the Democratic picture say it will be surprising if the pre-primary endorsement hurdle is crossed on that side without trouble.

This is touchy political business. The primary is supposed to be the place at which the rank and file members of a party choose its official candidates for the final election. Any attempt to give even a hint of official party support for one or another of opposing candidates before the primary is regarded by many persons as a violation of the principle of the primary. It can lead to bitterness and disunity that hurts in the subsequent general election race.

EPLEY

On the other hand, people in both parties feel that party interests are served by encouraging and supporting strong candidates. Candidacies must be launched before the primary, so then is the time for such encouragement. The GOP in California got into the pre-primary endorsement business years ago through the Republican Assembly, an unofficial but sometimes potent body. Democrats set up the Democratic Councils in 1954 along the lines of the GOP Assembly. These councils likewise are unofficial, so their action will not be construed as violating the moral (and some say legal) bar against pre-primary endorsements by the official party groups like the central committees.

• • • •

LOCALLY, THE REPUBLICANS have smoother sledding this time in solving the endorsement question. Their men—Congressman Craig Hosmer and Assemblyman Herbert R. Klocksiem and W. S. Grant—are the incumbents, and GOP Assemblies here have already endorsed them.

Democrats here may encounter more difficulties, depending on the extent of political ambition among Democrats this time. If there are a number of determined candidates for the various nominations, the endorsement issue could get hot.

The Democratic Councils in the 44th and slated to convene in March to choose the endorsee to run against Republican Congressman Hosmer. Endorsements by the Democratic Councils or the Republican Assemblies, of course, do not preclude anyone from running. Already there are rumors that some aspirants have said they will run for certain offices regardless of endorsing action by the Councils.

• • • •

AMONG THOSE MENTIONED as possible Democratic candidates in the 44th District are Richard Nussell, who ran unsuccessfully in 1954; Raymond Peterson, City Councilman D. Patrick Ahern and Paul De Pietro. "Mentionables" among Democrats in the 70th District include Dan Brice, Mrs. Roy Shaw and Harry Wade.

Wade has also been prominently discussed as a possible Congressional candidate. Among others who have been mentioned in the Congressional speculation are Mayor George Vermillion of Long Beach, Raymond C. Simpson, Mayor Angelo Iacaboni of Lakewood, Councilmen Ahern and John Baker, Dick Cartwright, and Joseph M. Kennick, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee in 1954 and 1952.

Endorsements for state and U. S. Senate positions will be made by the California Democratic Council in convention at Fresno Feb. 4 and 5.

A hot one may develop there over the Senate post. Sam Yorty had already declared for the office, but there are reports of strong opposition. Yorty was unhappy after the 1954 CDC convention, although it endorsed him.

• • • •

THE STATE DEMOCRATIC Council is officially set to avoid an endorsement fight over Presidential preference. With Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver slated to fight it out for California's preference vote at the primary, any endorsement attempt at Fresno could touch off a holocaust.

At a recent meeting, the board of CDC voted against permitting a Presidential preference endorsement by the Council. That, presumably, will be the policy, but the convention might take things in its own hands.

Stevenson is to be a principal speaker at Fresno, and it is reported Kefauver expects to "say a few words." Because of the aggressiveness of supporters of both men, the Fresno meeting could easily divide up into two armed camps.

• • • •

AND THERE IS A DEFINITE possibility that California Republicans could get into a battle over Presidential preference, with Vice President Nixon, Sen. Knowland and Gov. Knight taking a hand. A GOP fight on that score will be avoided, of course, if President Eisenhower decides to seek reelection.

College Takes No Sides in Election

TO THE EDITOR:

In a story which appeared recently in the press of this community it was implied that Long Beach State College is opposed to the passage of the Airport Bond Issue which will be on the Long Beach City ballot Feb. 9, 1956. In this respect may I state that the college, as such, does not support nor does it oppose any bond issue or proposition on the city ballot. Members of the college staff, of course, may make their own personal decisions as citizens of the community, but the college always has and always will hold itself aloof from local ballot measures.

• • • •

THE SAME news story reported that State College students were circulating petitions opposed to the bond issue. It is my understanding, after talking with the College Placement Office, that a list of available part time workers was given to an anti-bond issue committee desiring paid petitioners, as well as to a group which is supporting the bond issue. The fact that Long Beach State College students, as individuals, are working either for or against a ballot measure should not be interpreted to mean that the college either endorses or disapproves of the measure.

P. VICTOR PETERSON

President Long Beach State College.

L. B. Art Center Sign of Progress

TO THE EDITOR:

Let letter writers Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Brown be reminded that the Long Beach Municipal Art Center also sponsors a non-juried show each year in which the Sunday painters, hobbyists and other less enthusiastic dabblers of the arts usually choose to exhibit their particular brand of expression.

As an exhibitor and patron of the Art Center, I say three cheers for one of the most encouraging signs of progress Long Beach possesses.

Wails From Farm Folk Not Always Warranted

WASHINGTON (NEA)—When it comes to a showdown, some of the farmers who scream the loudest about their present plight may not be hurt as badly as they let on.

An example has just been furnished by Farmer Jay Boston, who operates 610 irrigated acres near Hereford, northern Texas.

When the Senate Agriculture Committee held hearings in Fort Worth, Farmer Boston grabbed the headlines with a proposition:

If Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson would come to Texas, take over the Boston place, run it under existing sliding scale price supports and show a profit, Boston would give his farm to Benson as a gift.

A CHECKUP by the Amarillo, Tex., Globe-News showed that Boston was no shiftless operator. He is recognized as the best farmer in his conservation district. His gripe now is that under existing supports on grain sorghums and a depressed hog market—on which two crops he has been specializing—he can't make money.

"I'm not denying that I made money on my place in years past," he says. "But I haven't made any this year."

The news traveled far and wide. Paul Horn, a Texas-born farmer who now operates a number of properties in the Moorhead, Minn., area—specializing in vegetables—read about it. He immediately wrote to Boston, offering to substitute for Secretary Benson, taking over Jan. 1, 1957.

• • • •

"I WILL TAKE OVER your farm for a period of four years," Horn offered. "If at the end of that time I cannot show a fair average return on the appraised investment, I will not only return the property in as good a condition as it was received, but I will also pay you a fair cash rental."

Horn attached only one string to his offer. He made it conditional on the present administration being continued in office after the 1956 elections. He said he wasn't interested if the federal government was going to dictate methods of farming and marketing.

"The disturbing thing about your statement is that it creates the impression that the farmers of this country are unable to make a living without financial help from the government." Horn wrote to Boston.

"The fact is that the vast majority of farmers in the United States are neither looking for handouts, nor do they expect the government to guarantee them a profit," he said.

• • • •

AN INQUIRY direct to Farmer Horn as to whether the Texan had replied to his offer brought back the reply:

"I have not heard from Mr. Boston to date, and until I do, I can pursue the matter no further."

From Farmer Boston the word is that: "I didn't make a wide open proposition for anyone who wanted to take me up on it."

Tentative regulations would permit the builder to fly within a radius of 25 miles from home base, in daylight and not over thickly populated areas. No passengers, either.

THE ANNUAL Christmas party and visit of Santa Claus will be on Saturday. Sunday's activities will start with a Christmas breakfast and candlelight service.

Workers have been busy reconditioning clothing and toys which local residents are contributing to the Salvation Army's Christmas drive.

The articles bring Yuletide cheer to less fortunate men, women and children. In addition, they provide occupational therapy for needy and handicapped men.

Local residents who have warm apparel or toys to contribute are asked to call the center, HE 7-1293, to bring a Red Shield truck.

Youths to See Films About Winter Sport

Films on winter sports will be featured at an open house of the Library Youth Council Monday at 7 p. m. at Alamitos Branch Library, 1836 E. Third St.

Following the films, Miss Kate Stone of the Recreation Department will speak on skiing. She will illustrate her talk with various types of ski equipment and will answer questions from the group.

• • • •

MRS. DOROTHY WATTS, coordinator of Work with Young People at the public library, will greet the guests. Refreshments will be served.

The Library Youth Council is a citywide organization with a chapter in each high school. School librarians working with Mrs. Watts and the Council are Miss Dolores Lawless at Jordan; Mrs. Lucille McGuire at Polytechnic; Miss Cecelia Burch at Wilson, and Sister Rose de Lima at St. Anthony's.

Chapters hold regular meetings at the school and at the public library. Members review and recommend books for their own age group, preview films, select records, plan and participate in discussion programs and contribute to "In Our Opinion," a periodical compilation of book reviews.

• • • •

OTHER ACTIVITIES include the arranging of displays in Young Moderns sections in branch libraries and occasional exhibits of books of special interest to teen-agers.

Monday's program is one of the few during the year which is open to both adults and young people, as well as the general public.

Supervised Play During Yule Holiday

Supervised playground activities are on tap for Long Beach-Lakewood area youngsters during the Christmas vacation.

Veteran play directors will be on duty daily from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at all Long Beach city parks and playgrounds, says Duane George, Recreation Department official.

In addition, members of the East Long Beach and Uptown Kiwanis Clubs will provide additional playground supervision at Admiral Kidd Park, Cherry Avenue Park, Atherton and Hillside playgrounds.

Kiwanians will be on duty at these spots each playground day from 9 to 11 a.m.

One of the highlights of the vacation playground schedules is the all-city playground marble championship finals, slated for Lincoln Park Dec. 27 at 1 p.m.

All playground areas will remain closed on Dec. 25 and 26, Jan. 1 and 2, Recreation Department officials said.

Far East Topic of Luncheon Meet

Bob Pearce of the World Mission, Inc., will speak on "Korea and the Far East" at a meeting of the newly formed Lakewood Christian Businessmen's Committee Tuesday noon in Hody's Lakewood restaurant.

All men in the Bellflower, Lakewood and Los Altos areas are invited to the luncheons, says the temporary chairman, Robert T. Anderson, City of Lakewood administrator.

A "posada," or party, will be seen on a visit to Chihuahua, Mexico, and the "procession of cooks" will come from the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, Canada. This event finds the chefs clad in medieval garb and carrying traditional dishes of Christmas.

In Havana we'll visit the world's largest nightclub, the Tropicana, where rehearsal for its Christmas show is underway and within the confines of the U. S. we'll visit New York City, Mount Washington, N. H., and Marietta, S. C.

Regan arrives and thinks he can wake up the village but learns in time that dreams are oftimes just as good as actuality.

---

AT 8 P. M. — Anna Marie Alberghetti and her family will again head the "Variety Hour" on (4) with Mickey Rooney, George Raft, Ben Alexander, Richard Carlson, Broderick Crawford and Eddie Mayehoff as special guests. # Bruins Fall to Wichita

WICHITA, Kan. (ILP) — Wichita University snuffed a determined closing bid by UCLA to gain a 76-68 basketball victory before 7,700 fans here Saturday night.

The Uclans outhit Wichita from the field 8-3 in the closing 10 minutes but Wichita connected with 16 of 19 free throws. At the end both teams had scored 21 field goals and Wichita had hit 34 of 45 charity attempts. UCLA connected with only 26 of 41.

Willie Naulls, UCLA's 6-6 center, captured scoring honors with 27 points. Wichita stopped everyone but Naulls from the field in the opening 10 minutes of the second half and the big center connected only twice during that cold spell.

Wichita was led by 6-6 Bob Hodgson with 25 points. The Shockers never let up although UCLA caught them at 27-27 late in the first half. Wichita led 36-31 at halftime.

JOCKEY COLLAPSES AFTER RACE

Arizonan Beaten by Pokey Vandy

By JERRY WYNN

The railbirds said it would take a track record to beat Arizonan in the $10,000 Autumn Championship Stake at Los Alamitos Race Course Saturday . . . and it did.

The feat was accomplished by a four-year-old mare with the mellifluous name of Pokey Vandy, who raced the 440 yards in 22 seconds flat to equal the world's record for the distance and smash the track standard by a full second.

With jockey Bobby Ford in the saddle, Pokey Vandy overtook Arizonan 75 yards from the wire, and never let up to beat the touted two-year-old by half a length. Miss Pitapat was a surprising, but weak, third, a length and one-quarter behind Arizonan.

"She did everything I asked her," said Ford, a 5-foot, short, 22-year-old native of Wyoming. "She broke well and was in the race all the way. When it came time, she just outrun 'em."

Very few in the getaway day crowd of 7,926 thought Arizonan, who set a world's record for 350 yards here last Saturday, could be "outrun." The Art Pollard gelding went postward a 6-5 favorite. No other horse in the field was below 5-1.

• • • •

POKEY VANDY, owned by Hugh W. Huntley and trained by Newton Keck, returned $14.70, $6.30 and $4.10; Arizonan, $3.70 and $3.00; Miss Pitapat, $4.90 The rest of the field finished in this order: Vanetta Dee, Black Mikette, Gold Note, Bobbie Leo, Moon Deck, Ridge Butler and Monita.

In a dramatic anticlimax to the race, Arizonan's jockey, Tommy Chavez—the meeting's top rider—collapsed shortly after dismounting. He was carried from the tack room on a stretcher, and taken to Community Hospital in an ambulance.

Contacted late Saturday night, hospital officials reported that he was suffering from a serious pneumonia attack but was expected to respond to treatment and recover.

• • • •

ARIZONAN BROKE on top and kept the lead until Pokey Vandy's emergence. Whether Chavez' condition had any effect on Arizonan's failure in the stretch must remain in the great realm of racing "might have beens."

The world record time for 440 yards had been set in 1948 by Woven Webb and equaled in 1951 by Monita, who, ironically, was last on Saturday. The track record was set in 1954 by Josie's Bar.

The supporting feature — the $2,500 Endurance Stake at 549 yards—produced a near triple dead heat with Red Pepper Dee nipping Rocket Bar and Aerial Gazelle, in that order, by a quarter horse's eyelash.

Red Pepper Dee paid $9.00, $5.60 and $2.90 across the board. Although no one realized it at the time, it must have been a brave but trying ride for Chavez, who was aboard the winner.

Featured guests in attendance were state Lt. Governor Harold J. Powers and Los Angeles County Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz.

31st Win in Row for USF

CHICAGO (ILP)—San Francisco's unbeaten cagers coasted to their 31st straight triumph Saturday night, 82-59, over De Paul before 11,448 fans, to capture the championship of the Chicago Stadium Invitational tourney.

Marquette won the consolation tilt, 83-59, over Duquesne as center Terry Rand tied the stadium scoring record at 43 points, although he played the whole game on a right foot "frozen" by a spray of ethyl chloride.

Guard Casey Jones was the main cog for the Dons, ranked as the nation's top team this season after winning the national title last year. Jones played roughly three-fourths of the game, but he dropped 15 points in the first 15 minutes to spark the Dons to a 25-point bulge and he finished with 23 for individual scoring honors.

• • • •

JONES WAS equally valuable on defense as the Dons racked up their fifth straight win of the season. He was a tight guard inside on De Paul's driving offense and snared nearly as many rebounds as lanky Bill Russell, the Dons' six foot-10 center.

Russell, though he made only 13 points, was a standout defensively, knocking away numerous shots by the top Blue Demon marksmen, Ron Sobleszczyk and Bill Robinzine.

Phil Woolpert, the Dons' coach, put into action nearly every player on his roster and eight men got points.

• • • •

DE PAUL HAD the score tied only at 2-2 and 4-4, and then the Dons slowly opened up their 25-point margin at 47-22.

Russell, an All-American last year, was named the most valuable player of the tournament by the Chicago Basketball Writers Association.

Freeman on 39-Pt. Spree as Bucks Win

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (ILP) — Hot-shooting Robin Freeman, who caged 39 points, and his rugged Ohio State teammates ended St. Louis University's winning streak Saturday night, 89-83.

The defeat was St. Louis' first in five games and OSU's fourth victory in five starts.

There was a brawling finish to the game as the Bills narrowed a big Ohio margin down to three points and Jim McLaughlin and Frank Howard of the visitors were ejected from the game for fighting.

The fabulous Freeman, who scored 20 points in the first half, was only one point away from 40 for the fourth straight game. He now has 186 points for five games and has boosted his season's average to 37.2.

Bill Wilson Sold to Toronto by A's

TORONTO (ILP) — General Manager Rudy Schaffer of the Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday announced the purchase of outfielder Bill Wilson from the Kansas City Athletics.

"Bill comes to us outright as part of the deal for Jack Crimian and is the right Christmas gift for Leaf fans," Schaffer said.

"He has been up in the majors since 1950 and we know he will do a wonderful job for us in 1956."

Wilson, who hails from Long Beach, Calif., began his professional career as a pitcher-outfielder in the Sunset League in 1947.

SOONERS VS. TERPS IN 'NATURAL'

9 of Nation's Top 11 Vie in Major Bowls

By Associated Press

National champion Oklahoma and Maryland, the unbeaten elite of 1955, meet in the Orange "natural" Jan. 2 to headline a post season football program almost free from the effects of restrictions.

There can be little argument with this year's major bowl slate which presents nine of the nation's top 11 teams according to the final Associated Press poll. Here's the lineup including team ranking and season's records:

Orange—Oklahoma (No. 1, 10-0) vs. Maryland (No. 8, (10-0).

Rose—Michigan State (No. 2, 8-1) vs. UCLA (No. 4, 9-1)

Sugar—Georgia Tech (No. 7, (8-1-1) vs. Pittsburgh (No. 11, (7-3).

Cotton — Texas Christian (No. 6, 9-1) vs. Mississippi (No. 10, 8-1).

Gator—Auburn (No. 8, 8-1-1) vs. Vanderbilt (unranked, 7-3).

Latest odds had Michigan State favored by 7 over UCLA, Oklahoma by 7½ over Maryland, Georgia Tech by 7 over Pitt, TCU by 6½ over Ole Miss and Auburn by 6½ over Vandy.

• • • •

UCLA AND Oklahoma, two of the unbeaten, untied powers of a year ago, were kept out of bowl engagements by conference rulings which forbid appearances by the same team in successive seasons.

The Big Ten-Pacific Coast Rose Bowl agreement and the Big Seven-Atlantic Coast Conference Orange Bowl tie-up drew cries of "mismatch" in '55 when Southern California, No. 2 PCC team, lost to Ohio State, 20-7, and Nebraska was swamped by Duke's ACC champions, 34-7. After all, UCLA had blanked SC, 34-0 and Oklahoma had bludgeoned Nebraska, 55-7, during the regular season.

But this time the bill of fare is more tempting.

True, Ohio State won't make the trip to Pasadena after finishing its second straight unbeaten Big Ten campaign, but Michigan State had a more successful season as shown by its No. 2 rating compared to fifth for the Buckeyes.

• • • •

THE TEXAS Longhorns saved the Cotton Bowl committee embarrassment by whipping Texas A&M in their final game. The Aggies, ineligible for post season competition as part of a conference penalty for a code violation, threatened to win the Southwest Conference title. However, Texas Christian took the championship with Texas' aid and assumes the traditional Southwest winner's role as the Dallas host.

The Sugar Bowl departed from its usual policy of inviting the Southeast Conference titlist by picking bowl-veteran Georgia Teach to face a Pittsburgh team enjoying its best season since 1938 and first bowl shot since 1937.

Even Georgia's Gov. Marvin Griffin failed to halt Tech's 11th trip to one of the five major bowls when his request to pull the Engineers out of the engagement on segregation grounds was rejected. Pitt has a Negro fullback, Bobby Grier, on the squad.

• • • •

THE FASCINATING aspects of the Oklahoma-Maryland clash extend to far beyond their unbeaten records, their reputations as the nation's leading split-T exponents and the memories of their tremendous defensive struggle won by the Sooners, 7-0, in

Fort Ord Smashes Pensacola

SAN DIEGO (ILP)—The Fort Ord Warriors pushed over two quick first period touchdowns and went on to a 35-13 victory over the lighter Pensacola Naval Air Station in the fourth annual Poinsettia Bowl football game Saturday.

Halfbacks Paul Cameron, former UCLA All-America, and Alex Burl paced the Army ground attack while quarterback Jimmy Powers, former San Francisco 49er, headed the passing game.

Cameron cut through right tackle, shook off two Navy tacklers and ran 23 yards for the first Army score. Al Dattola intercepted Navy quarterback Ernie Brown's pass on the Army 30 and ran unmolested 70 yards for the Warriors' second touchdown.

Early in the second period Powers pitched to end Ron Miller from the 10 for another six points.

Burl ran 25 yards for a touchdown to climax a 46-yard drive after the Army received the second half kickoff. Bob Reinhart capped another 46-yard march with a 10-yard touchdown pass to Dattola to complete the Warriors' scoring.

Pensacola's first touchdown came with 1:30 left in the second period when quarterback Dick Echard passed to end Chuck Wenzlau on the Army's 20 and he got away from two tacklers for the six points.

Halfback John Weaver made a great one-handed catch of Echard's 15-yard pass in the end zone late in the fourth period to account for the Navy's other score.

VIENNA MEET

VIENNA (AP) — The touring American swimming team, arriving only three hours before the start of an international swimming meet, Saturday won one event and led in another.

The U. S. won the 880-meter relay in 9:23.8. Skippy Browning of Dallas, Tex., took the lead in the springboard diving with 83.02 points.

Jim Steveson of Long Beach, Calif., finished second in the 100-meter freestyle with a 1:00.3 clocking. He was beaten by a hand's length by Schober of Austria, who was given the same time.

Spartans Hold 1st West Coast Drill

Michigan State dressed its Rose Bowl football squad in crisp new green-and-white game uniforms for the first Spartan West Coast practice Saturday.

The dandified dress was strictly for show and the photographers who turned out for a picture-snapping session at East Los Angeles Junior College.

As soon as the shutter session ended, the players started getting the uniforms grimy. Coach Duffy Daugherty had his 44-man squad getting in some good licks in preparation for the Jan. 2 date with UCLA.

• • • •

THE SQUAD took along box lunches to eat underneath the stadium—saving a trip back for dinner at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel headquarters at Pasadena.

The afternoon practice, without the distraction of the flashbulbs, was two hours of plain hard work.

"We've got to get on the job," Daugherty explained. "The weather was so bad back home that in our first outdoor practice the kids could hardly handle the ball because of the cold. And in the second session we had to run signal drills indoors on two sides of a basketball court."

The practice counted as the third of 16 allowed days for Michigan State. UCLA was on its sixth day but Coach Red Sanders explained he plans to skip a day or two during the next two weeks.

The UCLA squad concentrated mostly on reviewing its offense with an important point the testing of the passing of star back Ronnie Knox, being nursed back to health after an ankle fracture.

Dr. James Feurig, MSU team physician who had been worried about the climate change for the players from bitter-cold Michigan to usually sunny California, was pleased with the first day weather.

A heavy fog cut off the sunshine and the temperature was 57 degrees Saturday morning. The skies brightened a little in the afternoon.

"It's better working weather for the players than a real hot day or a dose of smog," Dr. Feurig said.

• • • •

SOPHOMORE END Bob Jewett of Mason, Mich., was bothered by a cold aggravated by sinus trouble. He had to leave the field for medication.

The squad was allowed a night out on the town Saturday night, "within limits," Daugherty emphasized.

Arrangements were made to take the players to church services of their faith this morning. This afternoon is free, with most of the players planning to take in a Hollywood tour.

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

Many persons may be wondering, in view of UCLA's fine defensive record, why Coach Red Sanders suddenly became concerned with his linebacking the past few days as the Bruins resumed practice for their Rose Bowl engagement with Michigan State.

First, it was noted that end Johnny Smith was being groomed for a linebacking role. Then, when he was injured, guard Don Shinnick was moved to this crucial defensive spot.

Sanders' move indicates that he is well informed on Michigan State's attack pattern.

Key to the Rose Bowl game, in our estimation, will be UCLA's defensive backfield . . . not only the quick reactions of the linebackers and other defensive backs, but also the Bruins' "secondary depth."

For instance, Notre Dame players told us following their game with SC out here a few weeks ago that Michigan State's play was featured by "the greatest line blocking we've run up against."

In addition, quarterback Paul Hornung told us that "it's hard to believe how one team can have so many men—linemen as well as backs—so exceptionally fast. The overall team speed is positively fantastic.

"Most teams usually wear an opponent down in the normal way of just overpowering them. However, Michigan State does it through sheer speed.

"When you play Michigan State, you'll find that your backs will make about 75 per cent of the tackles. This takes too much out of them . . . and along about the third and fourth period they are 'dead'—not only on defense, but on offense, too.

"Then, when they slow up a step or two, Michigan State just pours on a little more speed . . . and away they go!"

• • • •

THAT'S WHY Sanders is so concerned with his linebacking. He needs as much depth as possible at all defensive backfield posts because the backs are in for a real rough afternoon.

And it will be necessary to have enough fresh men in there at all times to contain State's tremendous speed.

Michigan State has averaged 6.3 yards per play this season in nine games.

The Spartan line — spearheaded by such standouts as Norm Masters and Buck Nystrom, a pair of All-Americans —charges so fast that State's swift backs are propelled into the secondary on quick-hitters before the defensive line can recover from the initial contact and get in position to make a tackle.

UCLA's basic defensive alignment this year has been a 6-2-2-1. With the emphasis on linebacking the past week, it could well be that Sanders will go with a 5-3-2-1 in an effort to keep the Michigan State quick-hitters to minimum gains.

• • • •

THE SPARTANS averaged 6.3 yards per play mostly because of their success in shooting their backs into the secondary on their quick openers.

In UCLA's "2-2-1" secondary behind a six-man defensive line . . . the linebackers were the center on the left and quarterback on the right; the halfbacks were the fullback and the right half, while the left half (tailback) played safety.

Sanders has pretty fair depth at all five secondary positions except at fullback where Bob Davenport's understudy, Doug Peters, has not been too steady in recent games. It is hoped by the Bruin camp that Davenport, a great defensive back, can go most of the way at top speed.

Thus, the big problem is to find men to fill the third linebacking post in a 5-3-2-1 that Sanders may elect to use.

If the Bruin secondary holds up under the pounding it is due to receive, we think the Uclans will win.

Notre Dame players, beaten 21-7 by Michigan State, don't see how any team can hold the Spartans to less than two touchdowns at the very least.

However, if the Bruins are able to contain them to two touchdowns, we feel they'll be home free.

We feel that UCLA has the striking power to punch over at least three!

Hungarian Pair Upset by Aussie

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Sandor Iharos and Laszlo Tabori, Hungary's two standout distance runners, were beaten in a 5,000-meter race Saturday by Dave Stephens of Australia in a major track upset.

Ivan Roszavolgyi, the third of Hungary's touring runners, won his 1,500-meter event in 3:54.0, but his clocking was far from the world record of 3:44.4 set by Australia's John Landy.

Stephens was timed in 1:07.2 for the 5,000 meters as he beat Tabori by 30 yards. Iharos finished 30 yards behind Tabori.

Bruins Top Team in Nash Ratings

By WARD NASH

Basic principle of football team ratings is to determine the average percentage of accomplishment against the varying strength of opponents. A team to have a 100 percent rating would have no defeats or ties, would be unscored upon and would have played all of the top eight, nine or ten teams in the country.

The strength of the opponent in the chart below is valued at 60 percent of the final percentage and winning over losing at 20 percent. Offensive points against defensive points also rate 20 percent.

Our top team for 1955 is UCLA, followed by Georgia Tech and Michigan State. Stanford had the toughest schedule in the nation. Oklahoma had the weakest schedule among the top 20 teams. SC had the largest total of points for and against of any team (423) and Georgia Tech held opponents to the lowest total (46). Statistics:

9 of Top 11 Teams in Bowls

the same Miami arena two years ago.

The question uppermost in the game is whether Maryland Coach Jim Tatum is right in a recent off-guard admission that "Oklahoma has too much speed for us" or whether a phenomenal Terp jinx will hold true.

Not since the middle of the 1948 season has a team which defeated Maryland escaped a beating at the hands of the Terps the next time around.

• • • •

THE SOONERS have to be considered the favorites. They have superior speed and must be granted an advantage in depth, too, though Tatum says his present College Park production has more manpower than his 1953 national champions.

Alternating the two fine backfields and two lines of nearly equal strength, Oklahoma is essentially a ground power but also counts on the timely passing of All-American Tommy McDonald.

Maryland didn't suffer for runners and got great work from halfback Ed Vereb. Quarterback Frank Tamburello, backed by Lynn Beightol, is an effective passer and a fine split-T engineer.

• • • •

THE ROSE BOWL encounter is another replay from the 1953 season when Michigan State defeated UCLA, 28-20.

Frustration is mounting for the Bruins. Like Mississippi, the team hasn't won a bowl game in three tries. And as a West Coast representative, it faces the dismal record of only one Pacific Coast Conference triumph in the nine contests played under the Big Ten agreement.

The coming game will show the fans in Pasadena and the television onlookers plenty of dressed up single wing offense. UCLA works from that formation and it plays a major part in the intricate multiple offense of the Spartans.

The celebrated Ronnie Knox is an uncertain performer as a result of a broken leg received late in the season but it is doubtful he'd get the starting tailback assignment anyway on the strength of Sam Brown's eye opening late season performance.

• • • •

IN MID-SEASON TCU Athletic Director Dutch Meyer said of the present Horned Frogs:

"We think this is the best team we've ever had at TCU. This crowd has more speed and defense than the great 1936 team of Sam Baugh and the great one of 1938 with Davey O'Brien."

The Frogs feature All-America Jim Swink, who has an uncanny ability to follow blockers and 125 points to prove it. But the secret of TCU success in a large measure lies in the befuddling fakery of quarterback Charlie Curtis and a rugged line.

Georgia Tech has an 8-2 record in the five major bowls and has won all three Sugar Bowl assignments.

California Wrestling Ban Possibility

SACRAMENTO (UP) — The possibility that wrestling might be banned in California was spoken of Saturday by the chairman of an Assembly subcommittee which is probing the sport.

"We know that the matches are pre-determined and yet we close our eyes to it," said Assemblyman Frank G. Bonelli.

"We are going to have to take some corrective steps in wrestling in California or the governor is going to take over," he said at a hearing held by his governmental efficiency and economy subcommittee on wrestling and boxing.

Bonelli, a Democrat, also said consideration will be given to recommending that wrestling be taken from the control of the State Athletic Commission.

The surest way to kill wrestling, said Commission Chairman Norman O. Houston of Los Angeles, is to require wrestlers to be "fair."

Requiring scientific matches instead of pseudo matches would kill wrestling, agreed Dr. Dan O. Kilroy of Sacramento, another commissioner.

Kilroy protested against taking the sport from commission control.

"Some semblance of decency must be enforced," he contended, to prevent wrestlers from mixing it up in fish, ice or mud, as he said they do in some states. Kilroy said a watch must be kept on what wrestlers wear and that the audience participation they sometimes encourage during matches does not become a riot. Their physical condition must also be considered, he added.

"It's true we haven't got full control over wrestling," said Commissioner Joseph J. Phillips of San Francisco, "but we have some control." He said it would be foolish to abolish wrestling because "thousands of people enjoy it."

Phillips said everyone knows wrestling matches are "exhibitions" but claimed "some are on the square."

He said more wrestlers than boxers require medical attention.

Kilroy said wrestling has changed slowly through the years to become "shows" instead of matches.

Referees Joe Woods and Al Billings of Los Angeles, who told the committee in October that bouts are fixed, asked the subcommittee to return to Los Angeles and continue its inquiry. They stuck to their previous testimony.

Woods said: "I have lost a lot of work since that hearing and a lot of money."

They asked that a determination be made whether three other referees who told the committee they knew nothing of fixed bouts were lying.

Woods and Billings said they were denied work at the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles and the Hollywood Stadium after they testified.

LIONS FALL, 84-61

Iowa's Big Second Half Routs Loyola

IOWA CITY (UP) — Iowa's Big Ten championship basketball team, inspired by the first appearance this season of Milton Scheuerman, poured it on in two second half sprees to win easily over Loyola of Los Angeles, 84-61, Saturday night.

Scheuerman was injured playing touch football in November and had not seen action this season.

He scored 15 points and added team balance and spirit as the Hawkeyes blasted Loyola in the second half after holding a 34-33 halftime lead.

It was Iowa's 69th straight cage victory against a non-conference foe on the home floor.

Tom Salvino of Loyola scored 21 points to lead all scorers, and Dave Benaderet added 19.

Iowa coach Frank O'Connor used 14 men of his 15-man squad in the victory.

Bill Logan, Hawkeye center and guard, bagged 17 points. Scheuerman played a minute of the first half and about 14 minutes of the second half, and was Iowa's No. 2 scorer.

It was Loyola's third successive Midwest defeat.

Bunte Paces Redskins to 5th Straight

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—University of Utah's Redskins smashed Washington State College, 91-56, Saturday night behind the 26-point performance of Art Bunte. It was the fifth straight win for the third-ranking team in the nation.

Bunte played only half the game but was a potent weapon while he was in. His three straight tipins in the early minutes sent Utah winging to a 17-8 lead, and his basket-making after the intermission enabled the Redskins to choke off a Cougar rally.

Utah Coach Jack Gardner sent in reserves after his regulars ran up a 32-18 advantage. Then Washington State's Larry Beck and Al Perry started pot-shotting and closed to within four points of the startled Utes at 36-32.

The Redskins first stringers returned and baskets by Bunte and Jerry McCleary made the halftime score 44-33.

Kansas State Nods Huskies

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UP) — Kansas State outlasted a second half Washington scoring surge to squeeze out a 74-69 basketball win over the Huskies here Saturday night.

The score was tied at 59-59, 61-61, 63-63 and 65-65 before K-State pulled away on free throws awarded when the Huskies pressed.

Top scoring for the night went to Washington's sophomore center, Bruno Boin, 6-0, who hit 25 points. K-State's miniature guard, Pachin Vicens, was high for the 'Cats with 20. The little Puerto Rican dropped in 10 straight free throws and led floor play when the Wildcats put on a stall act through the last 10 minutes.

The score changed hands 13 times and was tied six times. K-State held a 41-34 halftime lead which melted to a 57-57 tie nine minutes after the second half started.

California Whips Santa Clara, 59-51

The Bears won their initial college game of the season Friday night, when they beat College of Pacific, 70-57.

Negro to Play in Sugar Bowl Meet

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Al Avant, sophomore guard on the Marquette basketball team, will be the first Negro athlete to participate in the Sugar Bowl Sports Carnival, it was disclosed Saturday, but no trouble was anticipated.

Alabama Coach Johnny Dee, whose team along with Marquette, Notre Dame and Utah will play in the two-night tournament starting Dec. 29, said he definitely anticipated no problem arising from Avant's appearance in the event.

"I don't know whether our school authorities were aware of the fact when we agreed to play in the Sugar Bowl," he said, "but it doesn't matter anyway. We don't anticipate any reaction like that in Georgia."

DOAK ADDED TO WEST STARS

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Both East and West representatives to the sixth annual All-Star Pro Bowl football game here Jan. 15 Saturday named a 32nd player to their team rosters.

Veteran halfback Doak Walker, of the Detroit Lions, was added to the Western squad and offensive tackle Frank Varrichone of the Pittsburgh Steelers was named on the East team. It will be Walker's fifth appearance for the annual classic sponsored by the Los Angeles Newspaper Association.

BYU Rips Colorado

PROVO, Utah (UP) — Unbeaten Brigham Young University trampled Colorado, 84-53, Saturday night for its sixth straight win of the season and second in a row over the Buffalos. Friday night the eighth-ranked Cougars whipped Colorado, 70-53.

The Cougars' 6-foot 7-inch center, Herschel Pedersen, was high point man, with 25. Colorado guard Jim Ranglos was second high scorer with 21.

BYU jumped to an early lead and widened its margin until in the second half when Colorado rallied and came within 9 points. But then Pedersen, Terry Tebbs and Linn Rowe got hot to widen the margin, with the score with 10 minutes to go, 59-42, BYU.

Wilman Holds Lead in All-Star Bowling Tourney

CHICAGO (UP)—Joe Wilman of Berwyn, Ill., moved further ahead of the field in the men's division of the National All-Star Bowling Tournament Saturday night and Doris Porter of Los Angeles, held a slim lead in the women's division.

With the men finished with 44 out of a scheduled 64 games, Wilman had a 6.10 point edge over second place Ed Lubanski of Detroit. Wilman easily won his first two matches from John Quizi of East Rochester, N.Y., and Artie Papp of Akron, Ohio.

Wilman now has 213.01 Petersen points while second place Lubanski has 206.44. Close behind is defending champion Steve Nagy of Detroit with 206.12 points.

Kansas came out with a speedy second half attack, but SMU countered with its own fast offense to surge to a 63-46 lead midway in the second half. SMU took 61 rebounds, Kansas 29.

Pancho Nods Trabert in Three Sets

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Pancho Gonzales combined a booming serve with his accurate forehand to beat Tony Trabert Saturday night, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4, and take a 3-1 edge in their professional tour series.

Trabert won his first match Friday night.

Gonzales twice fought off set points in the first set, then lost in the 14th game as Trabert fired a cross-court forehand, then blistered a backhand passing shot for the winning point.

Bain Draws With Cotero

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Jose Cotero, 129, Mexico City, and Irish Tommy Bain, 125½, Syracuse, N. Y., battled to a draw Saturday night in a wild-swinging 10-rounder at the Legion Stadium.

Both boys started fast and kept the rapid-fire pace over the route. There were no knockdowns although Bain found the going tough in the last two rounds. Cotero was penalized one point on all cards for hitting low in the fifth round.

Referee Mushy Callahan, and judges John Tomas and Russ Bradford each carded the fight 54½-54½, under California's 11 point system.

Pick Olympic Five in Round-Robin

NEW YORK (UP) — The United States Olympic Basketball Committee will conduct a round-robin tournament next April to select the players that will represent this country in the Olympic Games at Melbourne, Australia, it was announced Saturday.

Four teams will compete in the tournament at Kansas City, April 2-4. One squad will be chosen from the college ranks and another from the military. The two finalists in the AAU basketball championships will round out the field.

The winning team will qualify no less than five nor more than seven players for the Olympic 12-man squad. The other members will be chosen by the committee.

The head coach of the team that wins the round-robin tournament will automatically qualify as the Olympic mentor, while an assistant coach will be picked by the committee.

The college committee may base its squad on the NCAA winner, plus outstanding players from the NAIA.

The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines will hold their own round-robin tournament at Louisville, Ky., March 22-24, to determine the representative for the Olympic finals.

SATISFIED. The nation's football coaches are well satisfied with the grid rules in their present form. Therefore, there will be no big, black headlines hitting the sports pages on rules changes when the National Rules Committee meets here in January.

About the only revision contemplated is a rule—or understanding—outlawing the sucker shift. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to phrase the rule tightly enough to eliminate the false start as sometimes practiced by a few of the nation's trickier teams and still permit a legal shift.

Therefore, it may be necessary for the rules writers to concoct an honor system provision involving the sucker shift. It's about the only cure possible for teams which deliberately try to draw the other team offside with an occasional sucker shift.

By and large, the nation's coaches are satisfied with the happy balance struck between the offensive and defensive phases of the games by the current rules. Consequently, the meeting here next month may turn out to be a nice social affair—an exchange of ideas, no more.

SOONERS. This Corner filled a vote with the Football Writers Association of America naming Oklahoma's Sooners as the national champions worthy of winning the Grantland Rice Award, first made last year to UCLA.

Briefly, the comment on my vote went like this: "The Sooners did everything asked of them. What better way is there to judge a team?"

COVETED. The NFL didn't exhaust the college supply at its Nov. 28 draft, by a long way. Thirty - seven collegians were picked in Philadelphia, but a lot more are still to be selected when the pro brass meets in Los Angeles during the Pro Bowl festivities.

One who ranks high on the wanted list is Charlie Sticka, the fine fullback of the two-year unfeated Trinity College team. Sticka, say the pro scouts, is something terrific in the linebacking art, so exceptional, actually, that his defensive efforts overshadow his offensive talents.

In three years, Sticka scored 227 points for Trinity and rolled up 2,202 yards by rushing. He has been picked to play on the East team in the Shrine game. Pro scouts will be there to see if he is a big frog in a big pond. If he is, the mad rush will be on.

Charlie has had an offer from the Canadian League, but refuses to make a move. Like Ohio State's Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Sticka is a baseballer of note and refuses to sign anything until after the college diamond season is over.

VISITOR. Gene (Skip) Rowland, the COP assistant coach, was a local visitor last week after scouting the Junior Rose Bowl game in search of outstanding junior college transfer talent.

He inferred that the Tigers were chiefly interested in Jim Waddell, Compton Tartar ace who was hurt early in the game. But then, he admitted, so were other scouts!

MAIL CALL. Last week This Corner nominated Leo Haggerty, St. Anthony's; Gordon Dooley, Poly, and Mike DeLotto, Long Beach State College, as our town's "co-coaches of the year", purely a personal choice. Comes now a dissenting voice, as follows:

"This is to correct your printed selection of Long Beach's coach of the year. I think the selection could well be cut down to two coaches—Mike DeLotto and Leo Haggerty. With all respect to a fine coach and gentleman, Gordon Dooley has to be dropped. Why? Because he had to win with the material at hand.

"Poly High School, as you all know, has for many years devoted itself to the "B" football team, which itself is wonderful, but someone has to suffer—the varsity.

"May I put a plug in for the third coach, if you have only a three-way pic—Vaughn Gordon of Jordan High—at least for honorable mention. That's all for this trip. Signed Martin Wierman, Huntington Beach Calif."

Balding, Oliver in Tee Lead

SANFORD, Fla. (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver, the Lemont, Ill., veteran, and Al Balding, young Canadian PGA champion, shattered par Saturday and grabbed the lead after three rounds in the $15,000 Sanford Open Golf tournament with nine-under-par 201s.

But Don Fairfield, a little known pro from Casey, Ill., shot the day's best golf, a brilliant seven-under-par 31-32—63. He set a new course record and climbed one stroke behind the leaders.

Sam Snead, who led the first two rounds, shot a one-under-par 69 but slipped to a three-way tie for fourth. He was deadlocked at 203 with Leo Biagetti and Dow Finsterwald.

Long putts accounted for most of Porky's birdies as he shot a 64. After two-putting the par 5 second for his first bird, Oliver sank putts of 40, 10, 15, 12 and 15 feet for his others.

Balding, who had nines of 35 and 31, also had his blade zeroed in, stroking home birdie putts of 20, 15, 4 and 20 feet.

A double bogey—a rare thing for Snead—cost the slammer a tie for the lead. He pushed his drive under some trees at No. 4 and made a poor out. After clipping to the green he three-putted from eight feet. Leaders:

Trabert Tops '55 Amateur Net Rankings

NEW YORK (UP)—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, who turned professional after sweeping the Wimbledon and U.S. tennis crowns without losing a set this year, was nominated by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association Saturday at the top of the national amateur rankings for 1955.

Trabert and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, America's veteran Davis Cup team, also were ranked No. 1 in doubles.

The rankings are tentative and must be approved at the annual USLTA meeting at San Francisco Jan. 21, but that usually is a mere formality.

It was the second time at No. 1 for Trabert and the fourth time in his career the stock 25-year-old Cincinnati star had been rated in the first 10. As U.S. champion in 1953 and 1955, he virtually was an automatic choice to lead the rankings. He was listed third in 1951 and second to Seixas last year.

Seixas was included in the first 10 for the seventh time in eight years.

Littler Drops 3 Off Pace

In a surprising turn of events which saw Gene Littler—the defending champion and almost unanimous favorite—drop three strokes off the pace, Jerry Barber and Al Feldman Saturday shared first place after the second round of the $5,000 Montebello Open.

Barber, the little Los Angeles veteran, carded a three-under par 68 while Feldman, an unheralded Tacoma, Wash., pro, had a 70 to meet at the 138 mark for 36 holes.

Littler shot a 73 Saturday for 141. "My putting and chipping were miserable," said the young San Diegan. "It wasn't my day."

The 68 by Barber and Jim Ferrier was the low score of the day. "Comeback" Lloyd Mangrum had a 70 for 142. Long Beach area leader was Johnny Anselmo of the Circle Fairways, also at 142. Lee Eaton aced the 165-yard hole with a 6-iron.

The tournament concludes today. Thirty-six hole leaders:

138—Jerry Barber, 70-68; Al Feldman, 68-70.
140—Dick Campbell, 68-72.

Kaline Youngest Bat King in History With .340 Mark

CHICAGO (UP)—Al Kaline, the Detroit Tigers' $35,000 bonus beauty, became the youngest batting champion in major league history this year when he led the American League with a .340 average.

Kaline, born on Dec. 19, 1934, is one day younger than was Ty Cobb when that greatest of all Detroit heroes won his first American League championship. Pete Reiser of Brooklyn won the National League title in 1941 at the age of 22.

Official figures compiled by the Howe News Bureau revealed that Kaline also led the circuit with 200 hits and 321 total bases.

Vic Power, Kansas City's sturdy first baseman, finished second to Kaline with a .319 average, followed by the Chicago White Sox' George Kell with .312 and Nelson Fox with .311. Harvey Kuenn, Al Smith, Mickey Mantle and Mickey Vernon were the only other players to reach .300.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox hit .356, but the slugging outfielder had only 320 official trips.

Mantle topped the league in homers with 37 while Ray Boone of Detroit and Jackie Jensen of Boston shared runs batted in honors with 116.

Pastrano in No Hurry, Will Wait 2 Years to Meet Rock

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Youthful Willie Pastrano, who recently turned heavyweight and is boomed as the ring's fastest and most skillful boxer above 175 pounds, said Saturday he wanted everyone to know that he's not after heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano right now.

The 20-year-old Pastrano, who was the No. 2 ranking light-heavyweight before making the switch a few months ago, also wanted it known he wasn't scared of Marciano, although he has a lot of respect for "The Rock."

"I just think it's good sense not to fight him right now," said Pastrano, who meets Rex Layne in a 10-round bout here Monday night in his second heavyweight fight.

"I just want to contradict the impression that I'm after Marciano now," he said. "I have no idea of challenging The Rock in the near future."

"When the time comes that I'm on Rocky's trail for a scrap, I want it to be so he's dodging me," Pastrano said. "Right now Rocky ain't dodging anybody.

"Maybe in two years or so he'll soften up and I'll get better. I don't think there's any doubt about either condition because I know he won't improve with age and I know I can't help but improve."

Pastrano is a product of the French market area of New Orleans and a stablemate of Ralph Dupas, the third-ranking lightweight. They have similar styles. Pastrano moves with the grace and speed of a panther, but is more of a puncher than Dupas.

WILLIE PASTRANO
Meets Layne Monday

Pastrano is expected to weigh in at 181 pounds for his important battle with Layne, a scrappy Irishman who has fought Marciano, Roland LaStarza and Ezzard Charles, among others. He will give the Utah fighter a 25-pound weight advantage.

Pastrano said he has felt much better since turning heavyweight.

"I've been a lot stronger since I've begun moving with the big fellows. Maybe this poundage is what I've needed to get more power behind my punches."

Pastrano expects an impressive win over the rugged Layne will push him up the heavyweight ladder. He also expects a number of top fights upcoming or planned will bring a lot of chatter for him to meet Marciano, particularly if he puts together a good string of victories.

"But I'm not going to let that happen if I do," he said. "I'm not ging to rush into a scrap with a man like Marciano now. Bring up the subject a couple of years from now and I'll tell you how I feel about it."

Name 18 for 'Anita Opener

The Palos Verdes Handicap, $20,000 opening day stakes at Santa Anita, has drawn the nominations of 18 outstanding sprinters for the six-furlong feature on Dec. 26, Racing Secretary Frank E. (Jimmy) Kilroe announced Saturday.

Topping the nominations were Porterhouse, co-holder of the track's six-furlong mark of 1:09, and El Drag, holder of the world's record of 1:20 for seven furlongs.

Weights for the Palos Verdes are to be announced by Kilroe Wednesday.

• • • •

TRAINER CHARLES Whittingham of Llangollen Farm also nominated Mister Gus and Ordained as a team with Porterhouse, with the likelihood that Mister Gus will be held out for some other stakes engagement at a longer route later on, however. Porterhouse may hook up with Rex C. Ellsworth's El Drag, which annexed the Hollywood Premiere Handicap last spring. Porterhouse's 1955 stakes victories were in the San Carlos Handicap and the Lakes and Flowers Handicap.

Other stakes winners nominated for the Palos Verdes include L. B. Mayer's Alidon (winner of five stakes in 1955), History Book (El Potrero Handicap), Karim (four stakes in 1955), One Ton Tony (Bing Crosby Handicap) and Travertine (Peninsula Handicap).

• • • •

NAGPUNI, BRED in Australia and owned by G. M. Bucknam, provides an international touch to the nominations. An Eastern invader listed for the Palos Verdes is W. M. Peavey's Spartan Jett, while also in the field is The Character, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ieardo's gelding that was clocked in 1:08 4/5 at Hollywood last summer.

Robert S. Lytle's Correlation, winner of two $100,000 stakes in 1954 and recent victor in sprint events at Tanforan, was also nominated.

Santa Anita's 55-day schedule will feature 32 stakes for a record total of $1,055,000 in added money. The gates will open at 11 a.m. with first post at 1 p.m.

CORRELATION THIRD

Tanforan Feature to Bobby Brocato

SAN BRUNO (UP) — Bobby Brocato, a hard luck horse in previous outings here, spoiled Correlation's comeback bid Saturday by romping to a wire-to-wire victory in the mud in the $35,000 Tanforan Handicap.

Taken to the front right at the start by Jockey George Taniguchi, Bobby Brocato was a length in front when the field of six horses passed the grandstand the first time in the mile and an eighth event.

He continued to increase that gap all the way around and finished four and one-half lengths in front of longshot Mintaka, with Correlation another half length behind.

• • • •

THE CROWD OF 14,862 fans had bet the entry of Bobby Brocato and Bassanio down to a 4-5 favorite. Correlation, who had won two sprint preps in the mud here, was 6-5.

Bassanio finished fourth, Grey Tower fifth and Author sixth.

There was an oddity in the betting in the show pool that resulted in a minus-pool of $7,377.57.

The bettors put a total of $57,745 through the mutuels on the show pool and of this amount $50,698 was bet on the winning entry.

There was so little betting on Correlation to show that if the entries had run out, Correlation would have paid about $5 to win and approximately $50 to show.

Future Book Offers 10% Refund Bets

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP) —Something never before attempted in the operation of a future book on a stakes race will be tried out by the Caliente Future Book on the Santa Anita Handicap, John S. Alessio, executive director of the border track announced Saturday.

Players will receive a 10 per cent refund if a horse bet upon is a starter but loses. And if any portion of a bet loses on a starter, the same refund would apply, Alessio said.

The track executive said that if a player wagered on a horse to win, place, show or run fourth and the horse finished third he would collect his show bet and 10 per cent of the amount bet on win, place and fourth.

The future book is a licensed, legal enterprise at this Mexican border track.

With 91 nominations for the $100,00 race next Feb. 25, a staff of six handicappers has been preparing a tentative opening line which will be posted Wednesday after the weights are announced for the Santa Anita Handicap.

Favor Browns by 3 in Title Tussle

Coach Sid Gillman eased up on the Los Angeles Rams Saturday but the training tempo will step up Monday for the National Football League championship game with the Cleveland Browns Dec. 26 in the Coliseum.

Gillman had the squad out for just a brief drill and today will be a holiday. Then hard work sets in.

The comparative lull between the end of the regular season last Sunday and the title game actually has been advantageous to the Rams.

It particularly will benefit two of the Rams' fine offensive ends, Bob Boyd and Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, both of whom have been sidelined with leg injuries.

• • • •

HIRSCH MISSED the last three games, Boyd got in as a decoy on one play in the Baltimore game two weeks ago, and for one pass reception last Sunday against Green Bay.

Hirsch said Saturday his injured leg is completely mended and he should be ready for starting duty against the defending champion Browns.

Woodley Lewis filled in admirably as a pass catcher, but the veteran is needed more in the position of safety man, Gillman says.

Over all, the club should be in the best physical shape of the entire season.

• • • •

LOCAL ODDS Saturday favored the Browns by three points, but most football men consider the game even.

At Cleveland Saturday, slush, cold and chill winds put the whammy on the Browns practice. If the foul weather continues, Coach Paul Brown may move his charges indoors.

With the mercury hovering around 30 degrees, the Cleveland training field figures to stay frozen and slippery. If it gets warmer, the oozing mud will make drills even less pleasant. Brown hinted that he might move his boys inside where he can better present his pet blackboard theories.

Despite the hardships, Brown will keep the team in Cleveland until Friday. "We can't chance our boys being worn out in the California heat," he said.

• • • •

THE LAYOFF after the close of the regular season has cleared the Cleveland roster of injuries. Middle guard Bob Gain went lame in the regular season finale, but the team medico said his ankle will be in good shape for the title tussle.

Brown credits his defensive team for 10 successive division titles. He never slights his point-making players, but for him a game is just about won when the other team's offense is stifled. "Almost any team in the league is capable of exploding in any game," he said, "and the team with the defense that can consistently stop the opponent's scoring ends on top."

L.A. CITY CHAMP

7-0 Win for South Gate

South Gate High, riding on the sparkling play of quarterback Bob Hivner, edged North Hollywood High, 7-0, before 8,000 fans at the Coliseum Saturday to win the Los Angeles City high school football championship. It was the first grid title in history for the Rams.

Only touchdown of the game came on the first play of the fourth quarter. Hivner tossed a six-yard pass to end Doug Pearson. Sam Boatright converted.

North Hollywood dominated the statistics, but five Husky passes were intercepted.

SECOND ANNUAL I-PT CONTEST

Lange, Griggs, Olson, White, Pinky Chosen 'Golfer of Year' Finalists

By JERRY WYNN

Larry Griggs, Jane Lange and Pinky Stevenson of Recreation Park; Craig Olson of Lakewood and Meadowlark and Neil White of Virginia and Meadowlark were named Saturday as finalists in the second annual Independent, Press-Telegram Long Beach "golfer of the year" contest.

The selections were made by a staff nominating board on the basis of performance and achievement during 1955. The five finalists will be voted upon this week by Long Beach club professionals. Their decision will be announced in next Sunday's paper.

Miss Lange won the honor and corresponding trophy last year in competition with Andy Holmes of Lakewood, Johnny Lucas of Recreation Park, Frank Morey Jr. of Meadowlark and Del Walker of Virginia CC. She is the only returnee.

PCC Regatta Ends at Newport Bay

By BOB RUSKAUFF

Regardless of who wins out, special attention will be levied on skippers Lewis Bedford and Jack Taylor of UCLA and their henchmen in the 11th Pacific Coast Intercollegiate regatta.

The two-day classic ends this afternoon on Newport Bay, but on Jan. 31 the salts from Westwood campus will be at it again in the 7th edition of the Rose Regatta on the same course.

If their rivals are as tough as the lads their gridiron team meets in the Rose Bowl, going won't be easy. However, two years ago UCLA defeated Michigan State in the series, which proved nothing at Pasadena.

Next up and a big thing is Sunday's Christmas Regatta, which has been a great fixture conducted by the Newport Harbor YC each year since the mid-30s. Over 125 boats in some 15 classes will race on both bay and ocean courses, according to Comdr. Harold Pearcy of NHYC.

• • • •

FOR THE 7TH time stock outboards will battle in another of their televised Sunday Speedboat Rodeos on Lake Los Angeles, Venice, starting at noon. Class B runabouts and A hydroplanes will feature the afternoon racing and stunt feature card.

Upward of 20 yachts are expected in the Jan. 15 start of the 1,450-mile San Diego-Acapulco race. This, the third edition of the ocean classic, will be accompanied by a chartered plane to speak with contenders during the whole trip.

• • • •

APPROXIMATELY a score of sleek yachts were set to leave at noon today in the first annual Portuguese Bend Yacht Club race to Catalina and back.

Five of the entries participated in last summer's Transpacific race to Honolulu. They are the Nam Sang, Diamond Head, Jada, Legend and Altamar.

The contest, which apparently faced inclement weather, is considered a "shakedown" cruise for vessels which will enter the Acapulco race in January.

Aitken, Sherwood, Goodson Lawn Victors

The team of Robert Aitken, R. Sherwood, and William Goodson captured first place in the Long Beach Lawn Bowling Club's annual Christmas Candy Tournament Saturday at Recreation Park. A total of 46 bowlers participated. Results:

1st Place—Robert Aitken, R. Sherwood, and William Goodson.
2nd Place — Paul McCreary, C. McClain, H. J. Goodman.
3rd Place—S. Mix, P. Featherson, Robert Sierret.

Jockey Returns

MIAMI, Fla. (CP) — Jimmy Stout, who rode his first winner at Hialeah Park in 1931 and retired from the saddle last year with 2,057 winners, Saturday was appointed as a patrol judge at the track.

Bradley Rolls Over Explorers, 93-78

PEORIA, Ill. (CP) — Bradley rolled to its fifth straight basketball victory Saturday night, defeating La Salle, 93-78.

The big cog in the Bradley offense was sophomore Shellie McMillon who netted 28 points, bagging 13 out of 18 field goal attempts. La Salle's leading scorer was Frank Blatcher with 20 points.

Grudge Race Highlights Drag Action

Feature event of today's drag races will match the Rakers Car Club of Long Beach and the Pacific Body Shop of San Pedro in the first "grudge" race to be held at the Lions' Associated Drag Strip, located between Santa Fe Ave. and Alameda St. on 223rd St.

The Rakers' BMC-powered '34 Ford coupe raced for the first time last Sunday, losing by three lengths after a poor start, in a trophy race with the Pacific Body Shop car. Confident that a better start would provide them with a win, they immediately challenged another race. The San Pedro car again proved faster, winning by 1½ lengths, while clocking a top speed in excess of 120 mph.

• • • •

PACIFIC BODY SHOP, racing a '34 Ford coupe equipped with a flat head Merc engine, is full of assurance that it will again trim the Rakers. A $25 U. S. Savings Bond will be awarded the winner of this race by the Lions' Associated Drag Strip.

Racing begins at 9 a. m. each Sunday and continues until 4:30. Any would-be contestant whose car can pass the safety requirements of the Drag Strip is eligible to enter events in which his car is classified.

Blind bogey (76) victors were George Green, C. T. Gates, John Copnolly, Gene Stanley, Dr. Vernon P. Brickey, Charles Whitchurch, T. F. McCarry, John Mead and Lowell Overlock.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

It has been said that no one can equal an unlucky fisherman's alibis, but close observation of the hunting fraternity has forced me to place the angler in second place to the nimrod, provided such a test were possible.

I have never made any claims about being a sharpshooter because I am not. I have done very little hunting. I am not prudish about hunting. I'd just rather fish. There are hundreds of men in Long Beach who hunt and who are tops in my book for conservation, good sportsmanship and for clean character. And I love 'em for their good conduct.

But there are—in hunting and fishing — men not of excellent character, but instead, CHAR-ACTORS! They start oiling their guns and getting ready for the big BOOM-BOOM before the trees leaf out in the spring. Sometimes they call, asking: "When's duck season this year?" When I tell them that the Fish and Wildlife Service won't designat general dates until late in August, they go into a rampage, shouting:

"Whatsamatter with our lousy government anyway? I want to set my vacation. I'll betcha them dopes in Washington use last year's dates—and was that ever lousy!"

They shout "lousy" so many times that the listener begins to scratch himself.

Then through the summer months they ask such questions as:

"Where's the best place for ducks this year?" . . . "How about Mexico?" . . . "Someone told me you can't use rifles, is that true?" . . . that true?" . . . etc. . . . etc.

• • • •

SO DUCK SEASON finally arrives and what do the CHAR-ACTORS do? They go rushing off into the smog, hell-bent for some pond they saw last March when water was plentiful. Now it's about the size of a pancake and two or three mudhens are trying to eke out a pitiful existence. After knocking down a barbed-wire fence on private property and firing wild shots at anything in sight, they are told by a farmer to get off his property. The farmer's lucky if they don't take a shot at him. At the best, he also hears "you lousy so-and-so" three or four times as they leave.

From there they may drive to the Salton Sea in a bright-color order 300-hp auto that will — AND DOES—90 miles per hour. On the way they fire at highway markers just for practice. Once there, the CHAR-ACTORS, clad in sports wear as bright as Christmas packages, stalk up and down the shore shouting: "Where are those lousy birds?"

You can't blame the ducks. Just one look at those clothes and off the birds go to South America.

The CHAR-ACTORS finally return home, sampling various sundry offerings of various and sundry distillers here and there. And then they tell you:

No birds!

Screwy guys scared the few birds away by shooting too high.

The weather was too..... (Check one: warm, cold, bright, windy, calm, foggy, smoggy).

What they don't tell you is that they never tried to build a blind and hide themselves; that they shot at anything in the air from 500 to 1,000 feet; that they had no decoys; that they had no dog; no boat; that they just sat and drank and played cards.

• • • •

WHAT I HAVE tried to say is this: Hunting is more than just taking a gun off the rack and heading for the nearest pond. There's more than just luck connected with hunting, just as there is in fishing.

You have to be smart in concealing yourself from the birds. You need a boat, decoys, a retriever, clothes that blend with your surroundings, no shiny objects flashing in the sunshine and dozens of other things. And you need patience. Read a good book on hunting and study the chapter on the type of hunting you wish to do.

Then if the birds are there, you'll have a better chance.

If you wish to be fancy about your hunting trip, there are other things you can get, says an article in the January issue of Esquire. Such as: decoys that swim, flap their wings and quack, artificial corn to fool the poor ducks; 30 kinds of duck calls; waterproof, electrically warmed suits for cold days; prefabricated blinds, belts to warm the kidneys (with or without pockets for flasks) and guns with every sort of loading and sighting device short of radar.

• • • •

HUNTING GADGETS have been selling like wildfire this season. Many of those will be under the Christmas trees and the hunters will have to wait for another season before using them.

Bob Greenwald, writing from New York, says that if a duck hunter wants to go de luxe all the way, there's a portable stove called the Skotch Grill, loaded with charcoal. Just take along steaks or hamburgers and, if the shooting's dull and you are hungry, fire it up and broil whatever you wish. There's also a flask — for milk, Bob says — that goes along with the grill.

• • • •

FISHING NEWS is at the lowest ebb of the year this week and few except the hardiest even give any kind of fishing a thought from now until after the first of the year.

However, a few boats are still running and it is possible to get a big catch of rockfish (you can almost pick your variety) any day of the winter season. We'll have an early roundup of local ocean fishing activity after the holidays.

Latest word from San Diego is that the yellowtail fishermen refuse to give up and they are being rewarded by occasional catches, even thought they are having to fish deep.

Troy Cagers Busiest With Three Games

SC's Trojans will be the busiest of the Southland's college quintets this week, playing three games.

Monday night Troy entertains Dartmouth's Ivy League travelers at Loyola. Wednesday night SC invades San Francisco's Cow Palace to oppose the Santa Clara Broncos, then plays a return game in the bay city Thursday night against Dartmouth.

Loyola winds up an eastern road trip Monday night at Duquesne, while Tuesday night Los Angeles State College entertains Redlands in the Diablo gym.

Pepperdine and UCLA will confine their efforts to squad practices this week. The Bruins, home from a short trip to Nebraska and Kansas, will sharpen up for their invasion of New York's Madison Square Garden, where on Dec. 26 they meet St. John's in the Holiday event.

RICHARDS IN K OF C MEET

BOSTON (UP) — Rev. Bob Richards, the pole-vaulting parson, will defend his title at the 50th annual Knights of Columbus track meet here Jan. 14, a spokesman said Saturday.

Richards, a minister from Long Beach, Calif., set a mark of 15 feet, 3¾ inches in last year's meet. Don Laz, who defeated Richards two years ago, already has agreed to participate in this year's meet.

The K-of-C Games will be the first major indoor meet of the 1956 season.

Skill, Ex-Poly Flash, to Coach Viking Gymnasts

Wayne Skill, former Poly High and UCLA gymnast, will coach the first gymnastics team in Long Beach City College history next spring, it was announced Saturday, following approval of his appointment by the Board of Education.

Skill, physical education instructor at Marshall Junior High School, will begin organizing the new team after the holidays, starting with members of the City College advanced gymnastics class.

The newest Viking coach won three gymnastics letters at Poly before graduating in 1943. Following a four-year tour of duty in the Navy, he attended Oregon State College and then UCLA, where he lettered on the Bruin gymnastics squad for two years. This is his first year of teaching in the Long Beach school district.

Since both LBCC and El Camino will enter gymnastics competition next spring, the Metropolitan Conference will now include six teams in the sport. Others are East Los Angeles, Harbor, Valley and Santa Monica.

Oil Derrick Becomes Big Yule 'Tree'

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Out in West Texas where the land is flatter than a bride's first cake, people judge the size of anything by how far it can be seen.

Poking 150 feet up above the western outskirts of this oil town and sporting 175 100-watt yellow, red and blue bulbs on 2,500 feet of electric wire, is a Christmas tree that is "about the top of the world for Christmas trees."

In old field terminology, a Christmas tree is an arrangement of valves to keep the lid on pressure from the bowels of the earth.

• • • •

BUT THIS SEASON, the oil workers decided to let the world enjoy one of the unexpected uses of an oil derrick.

The decoration job was done by the Parker Drilling Co. crew at Husky Oil Co.'s No. 1 Fasken wildcat. Bob Parker, president of the Parker Drilling Co., told his crew chief to "fix her up so she'll shine for everybody."

Hubert Whitfield, toolpusher and crew chief of the West Texas Santa Claus Helpers, said, "I've been on oil rigs 20 years and this is the first time I ever saw a derrick really light up like a Christmas tree."

• • • •

FOUR STRANDS of lights outline the four corners of the rig and five strands are wrapped around the derrick every 30 feet.

To top off the "Midas tree," an eight-foot star with 30 lights was placed on top of the derrick.

At the bottom of the giant-size decoration, a concrete walk circles the derrick enabling visitors to get a full view of the structure.

Rivaling tall buildings in downtown Midland, the Texas-size tree can be seen for miles and miles.

THEY'LL SLEIGH IN LAKEWOOD

Carolers from the Lakewood Evangelical Lutheran Church will sing Christmas hymns Wednesday evening from this sleigh mounted on a Park District truck. Other church and club groups will carol from the sleigh on Lakewood streets Monday through Friday evenings.—(Staff Photo)

500 to Ride 'Sleigh,' Carol Through Lakewood Streets

More than 500 youngsters and grownups will ride a Southern California-style sleigh through Lakewood residential streets stinging Christmas carols this week.

The sleigh really is a two-ton truck converted by the Lakewood Park, Recreation and Parkway District for the holiday season.

A Park District crew headed by Maintenance Foreman Adam W. Sofalko converted the truck by welding four park benches to the truck bed and adding a sleigh body made of plyboard.

Monday through Friday the sleigh will make three or four trips nightly loaded with carolers from 14 Lakewood churches, women's clubs, Brownie and Girl Scout troops, and the Lakewood Philharmonic Association.

Thomas in Japan

TOKYO (UP)—U. S. Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas arrived in Japan Saturday from Okinawa on a 10-day tour of the Far East.

Seeks Governorship

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Robert H. Mollohan (D-W.Va.) announced that he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the West Virginia primaries next year.

Mollohan, 46, is a member of the house armed services committee and chairman of a house government operations investigating subcommittee.

NAME HIM OSCAR

Don't Call Your Boy Francis, 'F.H.' Says

By F. H. BORDSEN
Associated Press Writer.

If you haven't decided on what name to bestow on your little boy, present or future, take a tip from a battle-scarred veteran:

"Don't saddle him with Francis, or Marion, or Gail, or Shirley—or any name which is more commonly applied to the female of the species.

Name him Oscar or Osiris, or Carlos. Just lay off the "Oh, that's a girl's name" type.

Otherwise you're storing up trouble for your little one. I've got the experience to prove it.

On my first day of school, bearing a bit of paper on which my mother had written my name, "Francis," I was the target of snickers and giggles when the teacher listed me among the little girls in the primer class. Of course there was the fight in the schoolyard, and I got a bloody nose.

• • • •

NEARLY EVERY YEAR it was the same—new teacher but old routine of being listed among the girls and having to explain that "Francis" and "Frances" were, well, quite a bit different.

Even at home it wasn't always easy. There was the time a relative we'd never seen sent us gifts from the West Coast. My brothers got cap pistols. I got a girl's hanky. Fortunately, I was able to trade this with my older sister for her share of the peanut brittle.

Before entering college, I refused someone's suggestion that I adopt the name "Frank." And I paid for that youthful error.

In my first week as a freshman, I got the works. There were invitations to sorority teas, I was urged to try out for the women's choir and even was assigned to the women's physical education class. During the war, while in correspondence with the Navy, I received glowing literature on the advantages of joining the Waves. Had to pass that one up, too.

• • • •

RIGHT THEN, I decided to use my initials. And I've stuck by it.

It works except when the government, or department stores, or utilities require the full name. Then it's the same old thing.

But once, waiting in a crowded room to take a driver's test, a stocky man looked at the paper in his hand and bawled out: "Francis—".

I broke in fast: "Here."

"Glad to know you," he said. "I've got the same name. So's my boy."

"And you call him that?" I asked.

"Naw. We call him Frank."

I named my son John. I know when I'm licked.

Predicts Big Real Estate Year Ahead

"Realtors are entering a golden era and every indication points to an active real estate market in the coming year" predicts John Cotton, San Diego, president for 1956 of the California Real Estate Association, who met with the Long Beach Real Estate Board last week.

Trends of population movement are continuing from the east to the west and from the north to the south, and this state, Cotton described, as the "end of the rainbow." He stated that people make markets and in the coming year "we will have more people than anything."

The Association president further stated that the combination of a presidential election year and our national and international policy indicate a continued high level of activity.

He advised realtors to continue their education on specialized subjects and techniques if they want to meet the challenge of competition. The last eight years has seen 45,000 enrollments in trade courses on real estate subjects and those not taking advantage of existing educational opportunities may find themselves left behind.

Ad Club to Aid Salvation Army

The Long Beach Advertising Club will hold its annual Christmas party to raise money for the Salvation Army at noon Dec. 22 in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Hazel O'Farrell, entertainment chairman, said the Bel Airs singing group will perform. Club members will donate each time they request musical selections.

Local Salvation Army officials have been invited.

McDermott to Speak Before N. L. B. Club

The North Long Beach Real Estate Club will meet at Mayo's Cafe, 5925 Cherry Ave. Thursday at 8 a.m.

Mrs. Vetra Redford, program chairman for the day, will introduce the speaker, B. McDermott, head of the claims department of the title insurance.

Would Quit Run

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Santa Fe Railroad has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon 4 miles of track in San Bernardino County, from Highland Junction to Del Rosa station.

Sales Gains for May Co.

ST. LOUIS—Sales of the May Department Stores Co. were up 15.5 per cent over last year's in the third quarter and for the full year are expected to exceed a half-billion dollars for the first time in the company's history, Morton D. May, president, said.

Net sales for the 3 months ended Oct. 31 were $123,275,000, as compared with sales of $106,727,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

Net earnings totaled $4,264,000, as against $3,003,000 in the third quarter of 1954. Earnings, after deduction of preferred dividends, were equal to 67 cents per common share, as compared with 46 cents per share.

For the nine months ended Oct. 31, the company's net sales increased by 11.3 per cent, from $298,519,000 to $332,193,000. Net earnings totaled $8,595,000, as compared with $6,205,000 a year ago. These were equal, after deduction of preferred dividends, to $1.31 per common share, as against 91 cents per share in the corresponding period of 1954.

Annual Party for Realtors

The annual Christmas party will be staged Tuesday morning at the breakfast meeting of the Board of Realtors at Lafayette Hotel. Dr. Russell Broughter will give the Christmas talk. Entertainment will be provided by several musical groups and door prizes will be awarded by the Independent, Press-Telegram. There will be an exchange of $1 gifts.

Directors of the board announced that Robert Devitt has been selected as the attorney for the board the coming year.

COMPLETE SPORTING GOODS STORE

Lonnie's Sporting Goods Store, shown here, will open Monday in Los Altos Shopping Center and will carry complete lines of equipment and clothing. The store will provide news on skiing and fishing conditions.

Los Altos Sporting Goods Store to Open

Scheduled for opening Monday in Los Altos Shopping Center is Lonnie's Sporting Goods store, termed by the owner as "the most complete sporting goods store in the Long Beach area."

It will be the second store owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Richmond and their sons, Bob and Kenny. They have been in the sporting goods business here 10 years and have been in a store at 4311 E. Carson St., the past 7 years.

Kenny Richmond will be manager of the new Los Altos store.

One of the features will be a big ski shop with expert professional advice on ski equipment and conditions provided. Complete snow reports will be available and rentals of ski equipment will be available. Famous international brands of equipment will be handled and Bob Richmond has helped in the designing of much of the equipment. The shop also will carry the foremost fashion in ski togs.

For the fisherman Dick Conde will be on hand to provide expert know-how on fishing tackle and equipment.

The store will have one of the city's most complete archery shops and a complete gun shop. There will be a large assortment of tennis rackets offered.

Skin diving equipment will be offered in another section.

"We will carry just about everything else in the sporting goods lines," said Kenny, "including equipment for basketball, bowling, football, baseball, track and field, and golf equipment. We also will have uniforms and apparel for all sports.

From the opening until Christmas the store will remain open each evening. Thereafter the hours will be 12:30 to 9:30 on Monday, Thursday and Friday and 10 to 6 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday.

The store is just north of Walker's on the east mall of the center.

Eastchester Park Terms Low to Vets

Eastchester Park has set new standards of home value, states Mel Mack, sales agent for the popular Fullerton development. Veterans may move into Eastchester Park for only $145, and if this is done before Christmas no payments need be made before February, Mack pointed out.

"The Eastchester Park homes offer the veteran the advantage of liberal terms and provide the kind of luxury features that all home buyers are seeking today," Mack said. "These 3 and 4-bedroom, 1-and-2-bath homes have monthly payments as low as $62.95, and non-veterans may purchase Eastchester Park homes for as little as $750 down."

Especially popular with the whole family are the spacious patios with built-in barbecues, available on most of the Eastchester models, Mack pointed out. The big living rooms have real fireplaces adjoining the barbecues, and the desirable tempo of relaxed indoor-outdoor living is captured by the "Ski-Vue" sliding glass walls in aluminum frames that overlook the patio and recreation areas.

Eastchester Park model homes are at Orangethorpe and Nicklett in friendly Fullerton. From Los Angeles take the Santa Ana Freeway and turn east on Orangethorpe to Nicklett. From Long Beach drive out Carson to Hwy. 39, turn north to Orangethorpe, then east to Eastchester Park.

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

Max Livoni Has Devoted 40 Years to Real Estate

A man with 40 years of successful real estate dealings, who also finds time for an active life in civic affairs, is the Realtor of the Week, honored by the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Mac Livoni, who always has advertised himself as "Your Realtor," and who long ago adopted a motto of "No Deal Too Small or Too Large" is the Realtor given this week's honors.

For many years Max operated his office at 2029 Atlantic Ave., and 13 years ago moved to his present office, 1101 Atlantic. He recently formed a partnership with L. E. Keller of 24 American Ave., and they are known now as Livoni-Keller Realtors. To his former slogan, Livoni has added one of Keller's, "Service In Action."

MAX LIVONI
Has 40 Years in Business

Livoni is past president of the Long Beach Board, an honorary life director of the California Real Estate Association, past vice president of the state group, past director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

In civic affairs he is director and vice president of the Long Beach Apartment House Association; member of the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Elks and Downtown Kiwanis Club. He is a former councilman and former civil service commissioner.

Max served as chairman of the War Bond Drive for the real estate division and was a member of the advisory board during the days of rent control.

Viola Collins, the Salesman of the Week, came with her family from Missouri to Long Beach in 1924. After finishing school and business college she worked as secretary for local doctors. In 1933 she was married to P. A. Phelps, affiliated with Richfield Oil Co., in the sales department. They had 3 children, a son and twin daughters.

In 1946 Mr. and Mrs. Phelps both passed their broker exams and planned to open an office. This plan never materialized due to the death of Mr. Phelps in 1947.

In 1950 she affiliated with Bess Colvert and A. A. King and in 1953 she was associated with C. Frank Kendall. Jo Broumley was in the latter office and the two discussed opening an office of their own. They now have this office at 2243 Pacific Ave.

List Reasons for Eating Eggs

KINGSTON, R. I. (UP)—What do you look for in an egg?

If you look for freshness and quality, you're in the majority—at least the majority of persons polled recently by W. H. Wallace and A. L. Owens of the State Agricultural Experiment Station.

They reported their findings in a station publication. About 40 per cent, they found, look for "convenience" and "satisfaction."

Only 21 per cent of the homemakers reported shopping around" or purchasing eggs from a special source to get what they believed was high quality.

The largest group of consumers, 38 per cent, bought eggs in two-dozen lots, while 34 per cent bought in one-dozen lots. The rest ranged from half-dozen to three dozen per-time purchasers.

School Provides Smoking Area

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—Officials of the new Veterans Memorial High School have taken official recognition that some high school students smoke.

They said that an area outside the school has been set aside for student smoking. They added however, that the school does not encourage smoking.

Sees Atom Power for All Ships

OKINAWA (AP)—Navy Secretary Charles Thomas predicts that naval surface ships will be atom powered within two years and atomic carriers will follow shortly after.

Thomas, on a tour of U. S. naval bases in the Far East, recently completed a one-week submerged cruise aboard the U.S.S. Nautilus when she passed her 25,000th mile without refueling her atomic reactor.

Highest Builder Honors Voted Lloyd S. Whaley, H. C. Roberts

LOS ANGELES—For the first time in its history, the Home Builders Institute has honored two of its members by electing them "lifetime members" of the HBI Board of Directors, it was announced yesterday by HBI President Walter W. Keusder.

Chosen were H. Cedric Roberts, native of Iowa who has been building homes in the Southland since 1923, and Lloyd S. Whaley, Long Beach, who came here from Nebraska and since 1937 has built homes or developed home sites for 11,000 Southland families.

In making his announcement of their election, Keusder said that the HBI Board of Directors had chosen Robert and Whaley to be the HBI's first "lifetime directors" for their service to the home building industry and to the Home Builders Institute.

• • • •

DESCRIBED AS two pioneer home builders who have made signal contributions to the development of San Fernando Valley, Long Beach and other Southland areas, both are charter members of the Home Builders Institute and both have served as elected members of the HBI's Board of Directors for more than 10 consecutive years.

As the HBI's first lifetime directors Whaley and Roberts will be honored by the full HBI membership at the annual meeting for installation of officers on Jan. 9 at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, Keusder said.

Whaley arrived in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area in 1935 and two years later had decided to become a home builder, primarily in the Long Beach area. His total production was 10 homes in his first year.

• • • •

NOW JOINED by his sons, Rod Whaley and Lloyd Dale Whaley, the veteran builder built a total of 1500 homes in 1948. At the present time he is busily engaged in selling homes in the 23rd and 25th units of his Los Altos community home additions—an 8000-dwelling project.

The Whaleys also have 411 residences under construction in Nevada at Greater Las Vegas additions No. 1 and No. 2 and are busy on plans for another big community for 1956—the Las Verdes Heights addition to Las Vegas.

A graduate from Iowa State College, Roberts first came to Los Angeles in 1920.

In 1923, he built his first house as a speculation on 11th Ave. near 48th St.

Since that time, he has built steadily at the rate of from 100 to 200 homes per year, moving his operations to the Burbank area in 1937 "so as to have more room to grow and to be nearer to available land." In 1943 he reached a high point of new home production by building 500 homes.

Roberts, who now heads up the firm of H. Cedric Roberts & Sons, has now transferred the major part of his activities to the Garden Grove area at Katella Park, a 100-acre development which calls for a total of 323 homes. Active with him is his son, Jim. His other son, Warren, expects to rejoin the firm after his hitch in the Army.

IN BROOKHURST PLAZA

Veterans may purchase homes such as this in Brookhurst Plaza with nothing down.

Brookhurst Plaza Holds Much Appeal to Buyers

Homes in Brookhurst Plaza incorporate all the excellent features home buyers of today are seeking, according to Reno H. Sirrene, sales agent.

Located in Anaheim, Brookhurst Plaza homes have 3 and 4 bedrooms and 2 baths, and are priced as low as $12,900 with payments from $66.44, Sirrene said. Veterans may purchase these homes with nothing down, and non-vets may purchase for only $1400 down on FHA terms.

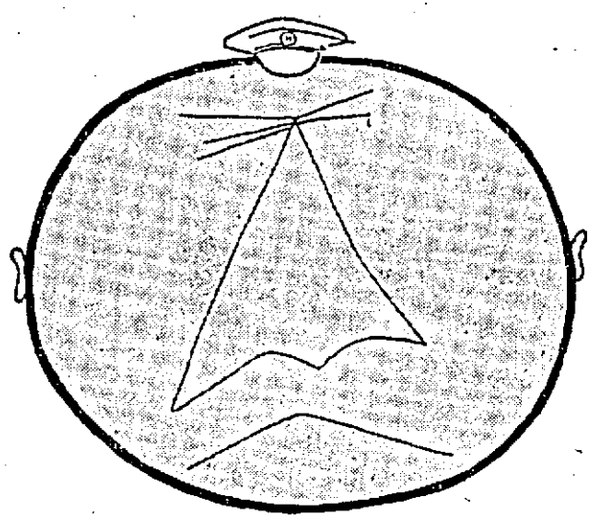

Brookhurst Plaza was built by R. & W. Construction Co., and outstanding features are the efficiently designed and handsomely appointed kitchens, which include built-in Western Holly ovens and ranges, easy to care for natural birch cabinets, electric exhaust fans, GE garbage disposals, convenient double compartments, sinks and breakfast areas.

In the 3-bedroom homes there are 75,000 BTU furnaces, with 100,000 BTU furnaces in the 4-bedroom homes. In the living rooms there are cozy wood-burning fireplaces and sliding windows with French doors that lead to the patio areas.

Brookhurst Plaza model homes are on Brookhurst Ave., just north of La Palma. From Los Angeles and northern areas, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to La Palma, then east to Brookhurst and north to the model homes. From Long Beach, drive out Carson (Lincoln Highway) to Euclid Ave., turn north, cross the Freeway to La Palma, west to Brookhurst and north to the model homes.

THIS VETERAN IS SORRY!

He qualified for a $14,025 house, so he bought it. Now he realizes an Award Home at $12,025 would have given him just as much. He had to move into his new home with his dingy old furniture. That $2,000 meant "No furniture!" His monthly payments are so high that his budget is straining at the seams. No fun for his family!

THIS VETERAN IS HAPPY!

He could have qualified for a $14,025 home, but he chose an Award Home for only $12,025. Now he finds that the size, construction, and luxury are at least equal to costlier houses. With the $2,000 he saved, he bought new furniture. His monthly payments are less than rent for his new Award Home—only $61.93. Plenty of money left over to enjoy life!

Mechanic Shortage Plagues Auto Firms

DETROIT (UP) — The automobile industry has launched a new campaign to try to solve the growing shortage of mechanics which is plaguing automobile dealers and car owners.

With the number of automobiles on the nation's highways doubling in the past ten years and the number growing at a rapid rate, the nation just hasn't been able to turn out enough automobile mechanics to take care of all the cars.

Dealers have had trouble finding enough mechanics to take care of all the cars they've been selling. It has left many motorists with a headache also, as a result.

Merle St. Aubin, director of the service section of General Motors, estimates the nation needs to turn out 40,000 to 45,000 new mechanics each year to take care of automobiles. But instead it is turning out only 10,000.

• • • •

ONE PROBLEM has been the lack of enough automotive training schools to train that many. Another problem has been recruiting teenagers to pick the job as a vocation.

The automobile industry, which normally is one of the most intensive competitive fields around, has joined hands — through the Automobile Manufacturer's Association—to try to lick the problem.

In cooperation with the American Vocational Association, it has prepared a new manual dealing with all aspects of the problem of recruiting, and teaching new auto mechanics.

• • • •

ONE OF THE SECTIONS can be produced by automotive schools as a pep talk, designed to explain the advantages of being an auto mechanic to youths with mechanical leanings. It is designed to encourage students to become auto mechanics instead of heading into electronics or other related fields.

Other sections tell trade schools how to set up automotive shops, what to teach, and how to train students. One deals with setting up cooperative training programs, in which students will get actual in-the-garage training at various garages.

By pooling experience and knowledge with educators, the industry hopes it will be able to help recruit new mechanics, encourage the formation of new automotive trade schools, and make the schools better at the job of turning out mechanics capable of repairing the automobiles which are becoming more complex each year.

Cleaning Bill Is $19 Billion

CHICAGO (UP) — Americans spent 10 per cent more this year than last for cleaning up dirt and litter in their homes and places of business, the National Sanitary Supply Association said.

The association estimated Americans paid $19,000,000,000 for the work force to help keep us clean last year and $1,000,000,000 for materials.

As a country, we spend more money than any other people in the world for cleanliness, but it pays off, according to Leo J. Kelly, executive vice president of the association.

Kelly said that as a result of keeping clean, along with a better standard of living, widespread immunization, better medical care and the expansion of local health services, the death rate from all infectious diseases in America dropped from 676 per 100,000 persons to 79 in the past 50 years.

Despite Fires State Has Huge Supply of Lumber

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Timberland and watershed blackened by fires in the last three months would equal a mile-wide strip reaching 400 miles from Los Angeles to Sacramento.

Of the 436 fires, man caused 377. It cost 3½ million dollars to put out the blazes.

But despite these ravages California has in its forests enough timber to build 35 million new homes—almost enough to rebuild every dwelling in the United States.

George S. James of the U. S. Forest Service, San Francisco, says the recent fire weather was the worst since 1924.

"The extreme temperatures, in combination with high winds and abnormally low humidities, created a reign of fire and holocaust between Aug. 27 and Sept. 13. Lightning and thoughtless action on the part of many people started 436 fires.

"NINE-TENTHS OF THE fires were controlled at less than 300 acres. Forty-one fires burned between 300 and 80,000 acres. More than 1¼ billion board feet of trees went up in flames—equivalent to one-fourth of California's annual lumber production. The functioning of watersheds has been seriously impaired. Homes, roads, orchards and other improvements lying in and below the burned areas will be subjected to damage from potential floods.

"Replanting with trees should be done before brush takes over the areas . . . The immediate job ahead is to salvage the killed timber in less than 2 years. The next most important job is to re-forest the logged and burned areas within 4 to 5 years."

JAMES SAID THE DEMAND for lumber will continue upward "if population forecasters are correct in stating there will be 21 million people by 1975. Californians are prodigious users of wood—some 500 board feet per capita each year, twice the national average."

The figures on California timber resources were given by President Charles T. Gray of the Stockton Box Co. He said it would take 12 million railroad boxcars to hold the state's sawtimber—trees 11 inches or over in diameter.

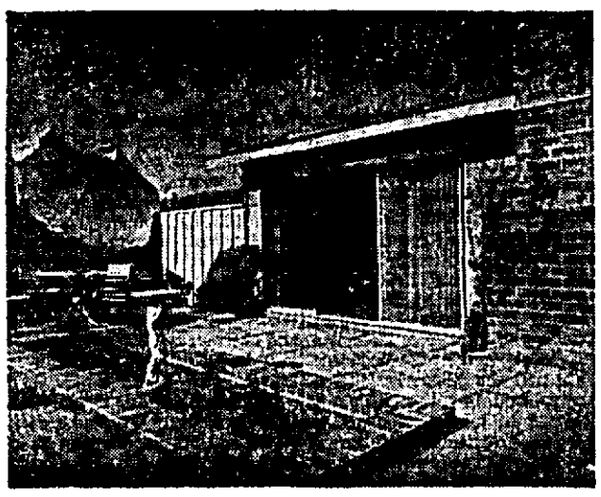

"A train of that many boxcars would reach around the earth at the equator four and one-half times," Gray said. He concluded, "Our forests can be our greatest resource to use and fully enjoy."

Huge Apple Pie Weighs 300 Pounds

BOSTON (UP) — The world's biggest apple pie was unveiled here.

The six New England governors sampled the prodigious pastry at the annual meeting of the New England Council.

Ten feet wide and weighing 300 pounds, the pie contained 255 pounds of New England apples.

VETS' LAST CHANCE

This is the final day which veterans may buy an Orangewood Manor home such as this on no-cash-down.

IN BUENA PLAZA

Increased demand for luxury-built three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes is met by Aldon with "Triumph Series" typified above in new unit of Buena Plaza on La Palma Ave., east of Hiller St., in close-in Buena Park.

Aldon's Custom-Designed Homes Offer Low Terms

Home buyers are becoming much more proficient in color selection for both interiors and exteriors, displaying an improved appreciation of harmonies and tone matching, according to specialists of the Aldon Construction Co. at the new $50,000,000 planned residential community of Buena Plaza.

"Our color selection department," a spokesman said, "reports interest keen in choosing colors which bring added harmony and beauty to the design of the home.

"Preferred color for living rooms are currently grays and beiges; for bedrooms, light pinks and blues, and for kitchens, pinks and yellows, while the most popular exterior hues are yellows, greens and pinks, in that order."

Color-matching by buyers extends in the kitchen to the Western Holly gas range and oven with copperized hood, which is built into every Aldon home in the new "Triumph Series" of three and four-bedroom, two-bath dwellings rising on La Palma Ave., east of Miller St., just off the Santa Ana Freeway.

• • • •

"WE ARE STILL able to offer these custom-designed homes to veterans at terms of nothing down but costs and impounds, and from $66.67 a month for principal and interest. It is also possible for non-vets to buy in Buena Plaza for as low as $990 down, plus costs and impounds in this $50,000,000 completed planned community."

Buena Plaza's "Greatest Home Show on Earth" has attracted thousands of visitors to the eight distinctively styled model homes, all furnished in varying motifs by Aaron Schultz of Long Beach and Anaheim, it was reported.

A second successful feature of the show is the impressive exhibit of luxury building materials, construction innovations and Aldon-pioneered techniques. Both the furnished home display and the building exhibit have played an important role in increased sales, according to E. "Billy" Hamburg, general sales agent.

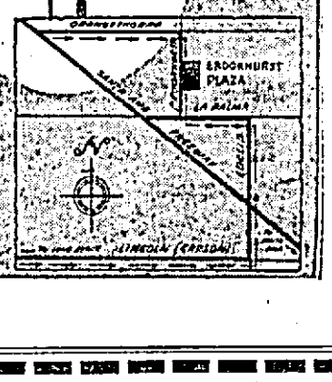

As developers of many planned communities and more than 25,000 custom-styled, moderately-priced homes in recent years, the Alden Construction Co. introduces still newer innovations in exterior treatments in the California ranch, modern, colonial, provincial and farmhouse stylings of the "Triumph Series."

In the 4-bedroom models there are 4 different treatments of floor-to-ceiling fireplaces.

Every "Triumph home has a built-in Western Holly gas range and oven, with copperized hood.

Orangewood Manor's No Down Ends Today

Today is the last day in which veterans may purchase in Orangewood Manor on "no cash needed financing," stated a spokesman for the McCarthy Co., sales agents for the Garden Grove development.

"Orangewood Manor," the spokesman continued, "is unusual in that a veteran earning as little as $295 a month may qualify for a $12,750 home which features built-in range and oven, fireplaces inside and out. Orangewood Manor homes are 3 and 4 bedrooms and 2 baths and all are on estate sized lots designed to give plenty of "elbow room to the growing American family."

Other features are: baths with Zolatone walls and asphalt tile flooring, Thermador electric bath heaters, stall showers and Standard colored plumbing fixtures; forced air heating, Pioneer 50-gallon water heaters, resilient cork tile flooring, walls of genuine lath and plaster, rockwool insulation, weatherstripping on exterior doors, heavy rock roofs in five decorator colors, and exteriors of California redwood siding.

Orangewood Manor is at Magnolia and Orangewood in Garden Grove. Visitors from Los Angeles are directed to take the Santa Ana Freeway and turn south on Magnolia. From Long Beach drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn north on Magnolia. Furnished models are open daily until 9 p. m.

Pembrook Village Sales Are Soaring

The holiday season has quickened the sales tempo at Pembrook Village where buyers are planning to move in these distinctive Early American homes before Christmas, states Mel Mack, sales agent for this unusual Garden Grove development.

"Because of the sales record in Pembrook Village, we have accelerated construction schedules so that buyers may move in in some cases as quickly as three days after purchase," Mack continued.

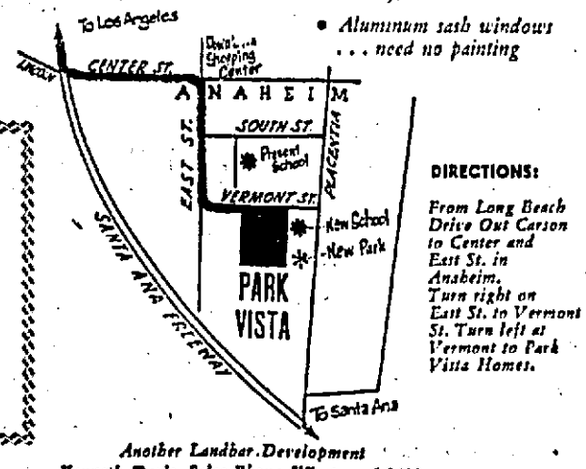

Pembrook Village homes are available to veterans with no down payment except costs and impounds. Non-veterans may purchase for as little as $995.00 down.

One of the most attractive features of Pembrook Village is the secluded location which is away from traffic congestion yet close to all worthwhile conveniences, Mack pointed out.

The picturesque qualities associated with rustic Early American design have been translated to the California style of indoor-outdoor living, the spokesman said, by the use of shake roofs, distinctive diamond pane windows and interesting window trim.

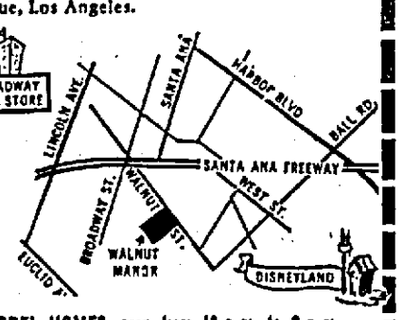

Pembrook Village homes have 3 and 4 bedrooms and feature living rooms with real brick fireplaces and walls of glass, efficiently designed circular hall floor plans, big kitchens and adjoining service porches.

To reach Pembrook Village from Los Angeles, take the Santa Ana Freeway and turn south on Harbor to Chapman; turn in at the Ojai gate. From Long Beach, take 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) and turn north on Harbor.

Smart conventional home, pictured above, at Magnolia Estates in Anaheim offers three bedrooms, large den and two baths with rear living room opening to garden. Home buyers may still move in before Christmas, it was announced by builders.

Buyers Get Chance for Quick Move-In

Prices start at $12,325 and veterans may still arrange loans requiring no down payment except closing costs and impounds. Non-veterans pay just $395 down on the lowest possible terms. Monthly payments start at $63, including principal and interest.

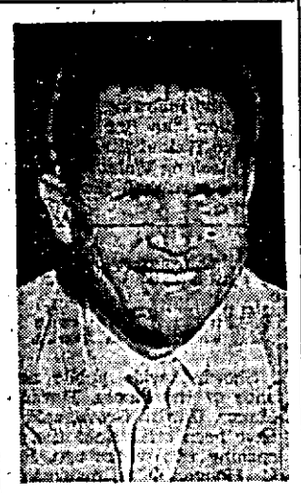

De luxe appointments, quality materials and skilled craftsmanship mark the construction of these homes. Some models have big dens.

These homes contain a minimum of 1,325 square feet of living space. Plastered walls and ceilings, with acoustical properties are standard construction with oak hardwood floors, Rockwool insulation and large service areas.

Luxury touches appear in the huge picture windows; the all-metal glass sliding doors to rear gardens; forced air heating with thermostat control; natural ash cabinets in the kitchens and lavish use of ceramic tile around the large sinks.

Tree Problem

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—City Forester Bert Roubos believes nearly one-third of Grand Rapids' 200,000 trees should come down. Roubos said many of the trees are too old, others are too big and break up sidewalks and damage utility wires and others are just "the wrong kind."

NEAR BEACHES

Second unit of Homestead Gardens, typified above, is being previewed today on Verano St., south of Garden Grove Blvd. Both vets' and non-vets' terms are available, and furnished model homes are on view.

Shamrock Park Reports Good Increase of Sales

"The increased sales tempo enjoyed by Shamrock Park indicates that many people are giving themselves a new home for Christmas," states Frank Hart, sales manager for Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents for the popular Garden Grove development. "Last week-end was one of the busiest yet at Shamrock Park," Hart continued. "Santa Claus made his appearance in person Sunday afternoon and lent his presence to the holiday spirit. He has promised to make a return appearance this week end."

Veterans may buy in Shamrock Park by paying only $145 down.

One of the things that has made Shamrock Park so attractive to veterans establishing their first home, is the fact that they may have their needed appliances, such as refrigerators, ranges, washers, etc., added to their loan, but requiring no additional outlay of cash.

Three and 4 bedrooms, 1 and 2 bath homes at Shamrock Park are priced at only $11,575, with veteran's monthly payments at $58.66 including principal and interest. Hart also pointed out that non-veterans can purchase at Shamrock Park for as little as $750 down.

To reach Shamrock Park model homes from Los Angeles, visitors are directed to take the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor and turn south. From Long Beach take 7th to Garden Grove Blvd., and turn south on Harbor. From Santa Ana go out Memory Lane and turn south on Harbor.

Mapes Hotel Plans Big Addition

RENO (AP)—Plans for an eight-story addition to Reno's Mapes Hotel have been announced.

Charles Mapes Jr. said it would add 240 rooms and suites, bringing the hotel's total to 550 units.

The new structure will include a swimming pool and sun-bathing deck. Mapes gave no figures on costs.

Wants Longer School Term

TOPEKA (AP) — Students in Kansas public schools may have a longer school term ahead of them next year if a proposal by the state superintendent of public instruction is endorsed.

Adel F. Throckmorton, writing in the department of education's publication, Kansas Schools, advocated a term of 9 full calendar months.

Throckmorton said under the present arrangement, with the customary vacations and teachers' professional meetings, there are not enough days between the first Tuesday in September and the third Friday in May to provide for 180 days of school.

Hot Branding Iron Source of Name

TULSA (AP)—It took a lot of convincing when a new recruit tried to get into the U. S. Army reserve unit here.

"My name's Poe "5" Lee II," he said.

After some fast explaining, Joe "5" was signed up.

He explained his father was Joe "5" the first and he got his name while a cattle rancher in northeastern Oklahoma. The senior Lee's brand number was "5" and one day he fell on a hot branding iron and emerged with a neat "5" on his stomach. Cowpokes immediately dubbed him Joe "5."

Award Homes Open 7 New Model Houses

Attracting special attention at Golden West St. and Garden Grove Blvd. are 7 new furnished Award Homes models built by a Volk-McLain Co.

These display homes are built in a landscaped court. Concrete walks form a border for the grassy lawn which these models encircle, assuring visitors of easy, comfortable access.

Presentation of Award Homes models in a showcase, grouping them around a court where they may be checked and rechecked for comparison, is the builders' practical way of helping home-seekers make up their minds which house is really for them.

Each model home has a different floor plan as well as a different exterior design. To make home-buying easier for those who can shop only at night, exteriors, patios and back yards of the model homes are floodlighted for after-dark viewing. The sales office is open seven days a week until 9 p.m. The builder reports sales activity weekdays and weekday evenings equal to that on weekends.

Monthly payments of $61.93 are set for the 4-bedroom, or 3-bedroom and den Award Homes, de luxe series, which are the most luxurious of the 3,200 built since 1950. All have 2 baths and 2-car garages. Veterans need make no down payment.

Award Homes are conveniently reached via Lakewood Blvd. to 7th St. in Long Beach, east to Golden West St., then south to Award Homes. From Long Beach, take 7th St.

The extra large ranch-type kitchens are a homemaker's dream. Included are full-formed plastic sink tops with back splash in newest colors and patterns, custom designed food bar, and natural birch kitchen cabinets. Also featured are garbage disposers and a forced air exhaust fan.

Large wall-of-glass picture windows face the patio to bring into relief the architect's design of outdoor-indoor living. Bermuda roofs with generous overhang are topped with white, red, green or pink crushed rock. Added to the outdoor motif are oversized covered and trellised porches and terraces.

Walnut Manor Stresses High Quality Construction

Never before has such a vast amount of living comfort been available for so little money, as in the Walnut Manor home development in Anaheim, declare the builders. They point out that Walnut Manor homes embody the latest architectural features, the finest construction materials.

These homes, available in 3 models, "The Bermuda," "The Coronet" and "The Rivera," are priced from $13,000, with payments scaled from $66.59 per month. To reach Walnut Manor, take the following route:

Follow the Santa Ana Freeway to Walnut Street, turn right one block on Walnut to the tract, where furnished models are on display.

The traditional styled 3 and 4-bedroom homes, which have been purchased by a number of construction men who are working on the development, include raised oak floors, attractive fireplaces, double garage with overhead doors of redwood, natural birch kitchen cabinets, all-steel sliding windows, sliding glass doors and walls of glass, large-rock roofs in color.

In addition, plans include forced air heat, Waste-King disposers, sprayed Zolatone bath and service porch, central hall plans, breakfast nook and rock wool insulation throughout entire attic. All homes are completely weather stripped.

IN WALNUT MANOR

Shown is "The Bermuda," one of three plans available in the Walnut Manor Homes track of Anaheim. The model features colored rock roof, attractive fireplace, interesting siding and other exterior detailing, and attached garage with overhead door.

Havenwood Manor Homes Win Quick Acceptance

Showing wide public acceptance of the homes, Havenwood Manor, Garden Grove, said sales have been brisk since the grand opening two weeks ago. Robert C. Hauge, sales manager and president of the Robert Realty Co., sales agents for the VA financed homes, expects a quick sell-out.

"Veterans may buy one of these customized homes at the remarkable price of $11,900 to $12,400, for nothing down except cost and impounds," Hauge said.

Monthly payments will be approximately $72.35, including principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

There are 18 different elevations available on these 3-bedroom and 2-bath or 2-bedroom with den and 2-bath homes.

Havenwood Manor, built by K. M. Thompson, for many years a contractor and builder in the Long Beach area, is designed in a contemporary style, with all models utilizing circular floor planning and large picture windows with aluminous frames to convey indoor-outdoor living.

Other features included are: Hardwood floors throughout, insulation, forced air heating, 40-gallon water heaters, sliding closet doors, linen closets with sorting counters in the halls and oversized 2-car garages.

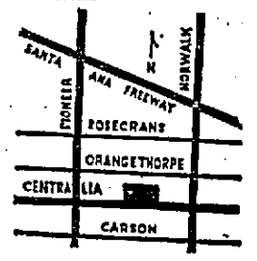

Exteriors are redwood siding and stucco, and roofs are a choice of colorful crushed rock or composition shingle.

Havenwood Manor model homes are at Trask and Verano in Garden Grove and are reached from Long Beach by taking 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Century Blvd., then right on Verano to Trask. Turn left on Trask 3 blocks to the model homes.

Cadillac

Already Has His Mind Made Up!

This handsome young lad has just received his first Cadillac!

And as you watch him here, you can see that he is giving it the care and affection that only a boy can confer upon his most prized possession.

In fact, we'd be willing to wager that he has already made up his mind what car he'd like to own when he grows up!

And what a grand and glorious thrill that next Cadillac will be!

We know because we've seen it happen so many times . . . and we've never found a man in a happier frame of mind than when he comes in, for the first time, to take delivery of a new Cadillac.

There's no mistaking the pride in his face or the happiness in his heart as he takes the keys . . . and slides behind the wheel . . . and heads for that happiest of homecomings.

No question about it—that will be his "day of days"!

• • • •

And this, by the way, is an especially wonderful year to make your own boyhood dream of a Cadillac come true.

Never before has the car offered so much by way of beauty or luxury or performance as it does today.

And on the business side of the ledger, the facts are equally impressive. There is Cadillac's surprisingly low original cost . . . its remarkable operating economy . . . and its great resale value.

So this year, why not follow your heart . . . and stop in at our showroom?

We'll be waiting for you with a warm welcome and a wonderful car.

Live Pink Trees Produced for Christmas Market

CHICAGO (UP)—Pink elephants, pink champagne, pink mink—and now live pink Christmas trees.

The world's largest processed Christmas tree firm, Halvorson Trees of Duluth, Minn., this year is producing pink trees in a big way for the first time.

"We've processed pink trees before," said Roy Halvorson, president, "but this is the first year we're mass producing them. Which means pink trees at popular prices for the first time."

Halvorson started his business during the depression. He decided that the tops of the scraggly spruce trees north of Duluth would make fine small Christmas trees for dinner tables and small apartments.

For months, Halvorson cut trees on week ends and brought them home. He and his wife, Ede, tried out hundreds of ways to color and preserve them. At last they hit on a solution of water and plant foods which, when sealed in a metallic tree base, acts as an artificial sap and keeps the trees fresh for weeks, even in a warm room.

* * * *

THE TREE TOPS are cut and hauled to the Halvorson factory in trucks. Then they're treated, colored and "frosted" with a special colored powder in a wind tunnel. Some 20 carloads a day are shipped out on railroad tracks directly from the factory during the Christmas rush season.

Only the tops of the trees leave the forest. The rest of the tree is left to decay. Halvorson says that rather than being wasteful, the cutting actually is a conservation measure.

* * * *

THE MINIATURE TREES come in dark green, white, silver and the new pink. There's also a gift box including a tree and miniature ornaments and miniature electric light strings with bulbs about twice the size of kitchen match heads.

Mrs. Halvorson oversees the office work at the plant and "checks on every order."

Her favorite is the green tree which closely resembles the natural shade. And one of her favorite decorations is the old-fashioned Scandinavian "spritz" cookie which can be made into ornaments of "S" and "O" shapes. Here's her recipe for these decorations:

Cream ½ pound of butter and ⅔ cup of sugar, then mix in 3 egg yolks, 2½ cups of flour and ½ teaspoon of almond extract. Put in a spritz cookie maker (or a star-shaped cookie press with a small tip) and form into "S" or "O" shapes. Decorate with colored sugar or silver balls. Bake on a cookie sheet at 400 degrees for 8 minutes and remove from sheet while warm. When cool tie onto tree with thread.

Death of Mate of Queen's Aide Ruled Suicide

CASTLEBLANEY, Ireland (AP) — A coroner's jury decided Saturday that 35-year-old John Michael Blair, husband of a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, committed suicide.

Blair, second husband of Lady Nancy Blair, was found shot dead in bed Friday while a guest at Lough Bawn House. Mrs. Ruth Julia Margret Tennison, owner of the house and its 300-acre estate, told the coroner she believed Blair "had a lot of family worry."

Lady Nancy Blair, 37, is a daughter of Queen Mother Elizabeth's eldest brother, the Earl of Strathmore.

START OF A TRADITION

DIRECTS ACTIVITIES

REHEARSE FOR HOLIDAY PARTY

Singing, playing and acting come naturally to these members of Phi Beta, professional music and speech fraternity, pianist Sue Croxton and sorority sisters, Alic Felkner and Joan Lee (standing). They are rehearsing for the group's alumnae Christmas party. This is one of the many activities of some 50 organizations at Long Beach State College, making it a popular campus.

STATE'S SERVICE AND SUPPORT

It isn't all work and no play for coeds at State as evidenced by members of Califias, the honorary women's service organization on campus. Preparing a tasty casserole dish for a dinner at the Armed Forces YMCA are, from left, Ursula Delworth, president; Carol Diffley and Connie Markel, vice president. In spite of all their other activities and heavy schedules they still find time to be of service to others.

TIME FOR PLAY AT STATE

Would-be thespians find time to play at the Hi Jinks for all women students. One of the skits by Alpha Phi Sorority featured Sonya Swayer, left; Virginia Cook and Te Rudd, who played the villain, heroine and prop man, respectively. This was a portion of the Associated Women Students dinner this month on campus, one of many student activities at Long Beach State College, to brighten school life.

Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

It seems like just last night we reminded ourselves there were only six shopping days left until Christmas. Come to think of it, it was last night. At this point we offer a tired and harried "Merry Christmas" to you all. Next Sunday we'll be more in a mood to mean it. Good luck this week. Don't stampede. Six, five, four, three, two, one—Bombs away!

There are those who plan their days, managing time for gracious entertaining as well as shopping and home decorating. Such are Katie and Bob Bailey, who spread the welcome mat on their doorstep last Sunday with one of the holiday's most hospitable dinner parties. Katie and Bob bid 60 guests to their new home at 1042 Tehachapi Dr. and from near and far they came to admire Katie's scrumptious decor and taste of her always delectable food. Nancy and Kenny Walker assisted mein host and hostess greet the crowd of current friends as well as old college chums. Irregardless of the festive decorations and the dinner (Katie is the kind of hostess who smokes her own hams—and did for this affair) the thing that was most impressive about the dinner was the salad bowl.

This requires a paragraph of it's own. The Bailey salad bowl is a gunner's bubble retrieved from a fightin' plane, cut down some, of course, but still a gunner's bubble of clear and heavy plastic. It's the biggest and most terrific "gadget" of its kind in town.

Grandest thing to happen to the Christmas season was the arrival in town yesterday of Lt. Col. Bill and Mary Green from Kansas City, Mo., with their three young 'uns to spend the holidays with Mary's folks, Dr. Fred and Myrle Clarke in their 1927 E. Ocean Blvd. home. It's their first trip "home" since they left here four years ago en route to Germany for Army duty. The family will gather as many of the Green's local friends together as possible for a cocktail party Tuesday. Marjory and John Clarke and Ann and Daulton Lee will co-host at Marjory and John's home on Los Altos. There'll be other parties for the popular pair including a cocktail gathering Dec. 27 at Dolores and Herman Weisskers and a luncheon to be given by Mary's mother.

Do believe the word merry was invented for two things—first for Christmas and secondly for Mickey and John McWhinney's parties. They had one of their famous Yule cocktail buffet suppers last evening in their home in Midway City for about 30 close friends. Conversation piece of the evening, as it is each Christmas, was their doll tree—a tree completely decorated with dolls from daughter Sherril's growing-better-ever-year doll collection.

It's "off with the old and on with the new" early for Dorothy and Phil Brady and 9-month-old daughter, Linda Dell, who moved into their new home at 289 Park Ave. Wednesday. They've been calling 296 Covina Ave. home before this.

From the white snows of Wisconsin to the green of the Tropics the Shank family will scatter this Christmas. Mildred and Carl leave Tuesday for New York where they will board the Mauritania for a Caribbean cruise while their daughter and son-in-law, Margaret and Allan Scherer, fly away from here Wednesday for Milwaukee to spend the holidays with Allan's parents, the A. I. Scherers.

If you want to send Christmas greetings to Nancy and Bill Brooks you'll have to send them immediately and by air to Redcap, Ocho Rios, Jamaica. That's where they are, ensconced in regal luziness. They left here Monday, by plane, natch, arriving by devious ways through Dallas, New Orleans, Miami and Kingston to this tropical Shangri-La. Sun-tanned and rested they'll be back about Jan. 11.

Bachelorette Club sisters of Ruth Miller are wondering if Ruth isn't trifling with club loyalty. She left yesterday by auto to spend the Christmas holidays with her best beau and his parents, Lt. (j. g.) J. S. Verret Jr. and the Verret Srs. in Texas. That's the sort of thing that can lead to sudden cancellation of a membership, y'know. Ruth will also visit the Bruce Barkis family, formerly of Long Beach, in Houston as well as Joe and his folks in Port Arthur. Joe, incidentally, is Navy stationed in Long Beach.

Kept our fingers crossed for Helen Brightman Wednesday. She was hostess to her sewing club for it's annual Christmas party. She was supposed to be last year, too, but on the appointed date was staring at the ceilings of St. Mary's Hospital! So this year, to make up for lost time, she entertained the gang at a luncheon at Virginia Country Club and gave all the members smart sequinned eye shades. Those invited to join the fun of the day were Dorothy Munholland, Floy Williams, Thelma Evans, Virginia Stephens, Betty Winkler, Elizabeth Sullivan, Georgienne Hunter, Thelma Pearsal and Gerry Harcus.

You can "gamble" on this: Las Madrinas members and their husbands had a good time at their annual Christmas party at Betty and Larry Hunts Park Estates home week ago Friday. The shindig was a Las Vegas themed party but (LBPD: take note) it was all in fun and only phoney money was exchanged. Cocktails and games then a midnight supper rounded out the evening nicely. Among the host of good friends at the party were Ginny and Rex Welch, Luella and Steve Pace, Jane and Phil Brewer, Jean and Jim Burdge and Mary and Reg Barden.

Santa Claus brought his gift to Mamie Krythe early. Santa was a friend in Chicago who sent Mamie a full page ad for Marshall Fields from the Daily News advertising their recommended book selections for Christmas gifts. Smack in the middle of the page, surrounded by the year's best sellers, was Mamie's own book—"All About Christmas"—which the big store sees fit to "push."

"Jingle Bells" will make way for songs like "Fight On," "Come Join the Band" and "Our Sturdy Golden Bear" around Lawrence Creasey's home at 73 Rivo Alto Canal today when Larry holds open house for friends of his in the college crowd whose loyalties are all bound up with such campuses as SC, Stanford, Cal, Occidental, UCLA, Princeton and Redlands to name a few which will be represented at the party by local boys.

All the good things of Christmas will be rolled up into one neat package for members of Community Players tonight when they join together for their annual party at the playhouse. There'll be the usual gay comaraderie of good friends, sparkling decorations, a home-cooked turkey dinner prepared under direction of Martha Knowles, a program and "white elephant" gift exchange. Florence Cole is in charge of the program which will have carolers, a one-act play and other specialties. A few of those participating will be Ruth Cozart, Keith Houdyshell, Marvin Cloyd, Mary Elder Denton and Charlotte Durham. The program is open to guests—but dinner is for members only.

It will be Christmas on the desert for Jim and Marie Sill and their young son, Jimmy. Jim has been booked for a two week's appearance with Milton Berle at the Las Vegas Riviera! They plan to leave tomorrow and home, while there, will be a dude ranch.

LONG WAY TO U. S. A.

We Welcome . . . . .

America's Best, Says Family

By JEAN B. MOORE

The story of Angelo and Rita Spampinato's life reads like an adventure book with all its complexities of plot, thrills, brushes with death and a happy ending. Tangled as a ball of string is their route to California. It begins in Scotland, runs into a snarl in Sicily and knots in Canada. In September, unraveled at last, the route smoothed out before them, and selling all their belongings except the contents of three trunks, they came from Montreal to Long Beach with their two children.

When Rita was working in Scotland as a civilian tent repairer for the Royal Army Ordnance Corps, she met her future husband. Taken a Sicilian prisoner of war in South Africa, he was transferred eventually to Scotland. There, for a small amount of pay, he was allowed to work for the British government along with other prisoners. That was the only time his wife was his actual boss!

After his release they were married in Sicily. Then followed years of red tape. Attempting to get her husband a visa to the United States was a long, agonizing and trying experience for Rita Spampinato. But she is not one to be daunted. Through all the long separations they wrote each other constantly.

Finally Angelo and his son, Tony, gained admittance into Rita's native Canada. Though he spoke halting English, Angelo became a house painter. In Sicily he was a manager of a sulphur mine, so when it looked as though visas would be a long time in coming, he took his family to Noranda in the province of Quebec, where he worked in the gold mines. But Noranda's temperatures averaged 52 degrees below zero (that's right—below!) and after three years they returned to Montreal. In all they waited five years before they finally crossed the Canadian border into the United States.

With his patient wife's aid and by reading newspapers Angelo is learning more English each day. Current strikes have prevented his finding contracting or sand blasting work, but he knows his new country has a job for him, even though it may take time.

Transportation being what it is in the Southland, he has learned to drive since coming here, quite an accomplishment in itself.

Angelo is not alone in Southern California. He has relatives in Santa Ana, Burbank and Glendale. Rita works with his Santa Ana cousin in demonstrating Mama Rosa's garlic spread made from an Italian recipe which she thinks is superb.

In Montreal the Spampinatos' television set picked up but two stations, French and English. The variety here delights them.

Rita likes to sew for herself and her daughter by a previous marriage, and to cook Italian food, a talent she developed to satisfy her husband's appetite. In fact, Angelo taught her to cook his native dishes. He can still whip up an out-of-this-world pizza, and his rice pie, a main dish with meat and secret things in it, is a gourmet's delight.

Afternoons, after attending John Dewey Continuation School, Tony works at the Ramona Bakery. When he and his father came to Canada, he spoke no English either, but through his school associations he has mastered most of its complications. Tony likes to do woodwork and has made a footstool and a jewelry box for younger Rita, among other things.

Vicaious younger Rita, born Rita Taylor, in Glasgow, has attended school in England, Scotland and Canada. She speaks Italian and French, and although this may be of no particular value in her job as stock transfer clerk with Coso Uranium Corp in Long Beach, a person never can tell when she might be dealing with someone who speaks only those tongues. When the time arrives, Rita's ready to converse.

Quick to learn, she worked for a while at the Canadian Naval Supply Depot before the family's migration to the States.

Mrs. Spampinato echoes the sentiments of the family when she says, "We all have traveled a lot and have lived many places. Of all these places we have been, you can't beat the United States.

Merry Season Brings 'Forty-Niners' Together

Traditional gathering of the "Forty-Niners," a group which comprised the Presidents Club of Long Beach during 1948-49, took place Wednesday in the home of Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell, 3845 Lime Ave.

"The Miracle of Christmas," read by Mrs. B. Fred Pennington, opened the program. Others heard were Mabel Crossley who read "The Christmas Story" and Mrs. Arnel Talbott and Mrs. Verne Morrill who conducted a musical guessing game, "Name That Carol." Fitting finale was "Amos 'n Andy Explain a Prayer," given by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Farrell.

Gleaming holiday decorations by Mmes H. E. Dixon, Myrl Cypher and Verne Morrill, adorned the luncheon tables. Assisting were Mrs. Thomas Stocker, Gladys Freeman and W. C. Hess.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Katherine N. Sharpe, new officers were elected. They include Mmes. Sharpe, re-elected president; B. Fred Pennington, vice president, and W. C. Hess, secretary.

Other guests included Mmes. Walter Ray, Athena Hall, Robert Tweed, James W. Bratton, Travis Pate, B. B. Braden, Ruth Congdon, George N. Coombs, Stella Noble, David Robinson, Charles F. Reed, Franz B. Buerger, Frank F. Mead, W. H. Gillis, Clara Fay, Gerald D. Kint, and Misses Alice Frank and Hilda Peterson.

Cocktail Party

The cocktail hour was a gala time Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Wing, 160 Argonne Ave. who entertained at that time in honor of the host's sister, Priscilla Alden Wing. Miss Wing, whose home is in New Bedford, Mass., is a house-guest of her brother and sister-in-law for the holidays.

Link Nash-Rudolph Names in Nuptials

When newlyweds Lt. (j.g.) and Mrs. Kingsley W. Nash (Dorothy T. Rudolph) departed from St. Lucy's Catholic Church following their wedding Dec. 3, their guard of honor was the uniformed Taylor Post American Legion Band of which the bride was once drum majorette.

More than 300 persons witnessed the ceremony joining the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil W. Rudolph of Long Beach and the son of Mrs. Alvah W. Nash of Bad Axe, Mich., and the late Mr. Nash.

The bridal pair is now honeymooning in Las Vegas and San Francisco. This week they plan to be at home in Honolulu, Hawaii, where the bridegroom is stationed with the Explosive Ordnance Disposal Unit One, Pearl Harbor.

Imported tulle over satin formed the bridal gown. A ruffle of tulle at the bottom of the skirt extended to a chapel sweep train. A cascade arrangement of lilies of the valley and white carnations surrounding a white orchid was carried by the bride.

In a waltz length gown of emerald green was Bucla Doolin, maid of honor. Colleen King, Lou Kravitz, Eleanor Miriani and Nola Sheldon, bridesmaids, wore sea foam green gowns of chromespun taffeta. All carried bouquets of red carnations.

Terry Lynn Trumbore, the bride's niece, was the flower girl in sea foam green net and Michael Cannon was ring bearer.

The bridegroom was served by Lt. (j. g.) Conrad Pearson, best man, and Lt. (j. g.) John M. Byers, Lt. (j. g.) LeRoy Hughes, Lt. Pat Hickey and Lt. Frank Maynard, ushers.

A reception followed in the church hall.

The new Mrs. Nash was graduated from Polytechnic High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Michigan State College and was president of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, professional honorary fraternity.

Comdr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Ward, formerly of Long Beach and now Navy stationed in San Diego, are visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Griep, 5638 Olive Ave. They are here specifically at this time to greet their son, Raymond L. Ward, who will arrive tomorrow from St. Louis, Mo. for the holidays. Raymond is now completing his last year at Washington University in St. Louis where he is studying for his PhD in chemistry. He is a graduate of St. Anthonys High School, Long Beach City College and the University of California at Berkeley.

The senior Wards will return to San Diego with their son for a few days before returning to Long Beach for Christmas with the Griep. They will remain for three or four days before going home again to the border city for New Years.

Holiday Trip

Leaving by plane Thursday to see her family in Greenwich, Conn., was Mrs. William Van Deren of this city. During the three-week vacation she will visit with her daughter, Mrs. Mary D. Helme, and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklin Van Deren of Greenwich. A grandson and family, Dr. and Mrs. James B. Helme and daughter, Susan, of Nashville, Tenn., will be in Connecticut for the holidays.

Student Exhibit Ends Today

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

Today is the last day to see the pre-Christmas exhibition of paintings by students of Ben Messick at the Custom Paint Center, 4800 E. 2nd St. Pictures largely are still lifes and landscapes.

Exhibited are paintings by Ben and Velma Messick, Margaret Royer, Elsie Holt, Doris Lewis, Willa Case, Clarion Drew, Helen Wilson, Harlan V. Boyer, Kay Pearson, Catherine Hartman, Juanita Godwin, Ila Goetting, Leatrice Kreiger, Virginia Mead and Esme Ratzlaff.

Members of the Spectrum Club today will sketch at the old barn and corrals, 19th St. and Temple Ave., Signal Hill. Says President Bob Peck "For those who haven't been there, you have a surprise in store—it's hard to believe such suitable material can be just one block off busy Hwy. 101. If you don't like barns, paint each other. And here's a suggestion: this may be a good time to paint that Christmas present."

Next meeting of the South Gate Art Club will be Jan. 9 in the South Gate Auditorium. Roger Cloutier will demonstrate and talk on art, Mrs. Judy Sterens will demonstrate making copper enameled jewelry.

Following a custom of many years, Paul Conner will have an exhibit of paintings until after New Year's in Pacific Coast Club Gallery. His desert paintings are especially highly prized. Conner has asked several friends to exhibit with him.

Exhibitions in the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park, Los Angeles, through Jan. 1 include 25 lithographs by Ralston Crawford, contemporary American artist, the first Western showing of prints in color and black and white made by the artist in Paris while working with the famous French printer, Tutin. There also is a special showing of imperial robes and textiles of the Chinese court, drawn largely from the Museum's Mabury collection.

Marking the opening of his new exhibition, a reception in honor of Albert Londraville, artist, is slated for Friday evening in the Contemporary Galleries of the Pasadena Art Museum, 46 N. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena. The Pasadena Art Museum also is showing "The New Decade: 36 American Painters and Sculptors." The exhibition, selected by the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York for the opening of its new museum last spring, is devoted to the work of American painters and sculptors who have come to the forefront of American art in the post-war decade, 1945-55.

Ellen Sheridan's original Christmas decorations will be shown until Christmas Eve in the American Gallery, 240 Statler Center, 900 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Leo Hills Host Holiday Party

Christmas candles — the "king size" variety — lighted the path leading to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Hill, 5530 Rolanda St., Saturday evening when the Hills entertained at their annual holiday party.

The traditional gaily lighted Christmas tree was center of interest, framed against a backdrop of mobile gold baubles in varying sizes. Buffet refreshments were served by the hostess, and a gift exchange followed. Sharing in the old fashion good time were members of their office staffs, their husbands and wives.

Entertain at Dinner Before Dance

Parties glitter this week like shiny baubles on a Yule tree as Christmas brings forth a myriad of holiday festivities. One of the prettiest parties of the season was arranged Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Milton Roberts. They entertained friends at cocktails and dinner preceding Balboa Bay Club's gala Christmas Tree Ball.

Mrs. Roberts selected for her clever table decor six tall modern reindeer pulling a sleigh. Favors, gold pencils for the women, and playing cards for the men, were tied to the packs of individual Santas. After dinner couples danced to the music of two orchestras.

Bidden were Messrs. and Mmes. Don Berry, Cartwright Hunter, Harold Maggart, Russell Pray, Stanley D. Weiss, P. I. Wilsey Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Houston C. Fairley, Mrs. Frieda Owens and Dr. V. DeMott Sedgwick, all of Long Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Gould of Newport Beach.

Bachelorettes Learn of Nancy Telegdi's Betrothal

More than usual excitement sparked a recent meeting of the Bachelorettes Club of Long Beach, for Miss Nancy A. Telegdi's name was found coupled with Roger W. Bloxham in the box of chocolates traditionally signifying engagements.

A past president of Bachelorettes, Miss Telegdi is the daughter of Mrs. John Telegdi, 4318 Shaw St. She was graduated from Wilson High School and City College where she was affiliated with Mahabharata.

The prospective bridegroom, now a resident of Long Beach, formerly lived in Mason City, Ia. He is the son of Merlin Bloxham of that city and Mrs. Orville Harris of Lewis, Wis.

Deep Reverence Touches Vows

Soft blue light casting a halo-like glow over a huge white cross at the altar gave a deep feeling of reverence and spirituality to the exchange of marriage vows by Patricia Ann Dial and Earl A. Newkirk on Tuesday evening at Atlantic Avenue Church of Christ.

Donald Hardage, minister, led the double ring ceremony as the bridegroom placed upon his bride's finger the circlet of diamonds belonging to her paternal grandmother, Mrs. D. R. Dial of Atlanta, Ga.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dial of 4219 Olive Ave., was escorted down the bridal aisle by her father, between clustered pine bows tied with white satin ribbons which marked the pews.

Complementing the bride's brunette radiance, was a gown of ivory satin, lace and tulle. Lace detailing marked the neckline, and again was repeated as edging on the peplum-effect of satin extending down onto the floor length skirt of bouffant tulle. Her tiered wedding veil was caught to a pillbox of white satin edged in pearls, and in keeping with the holiday season, she carried a shower of white poinsettias.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Turner, as matron of honor, and Janet Nowling, Gay White, Diane Owens and Ardith Vail, bridesmaids. Bridal attendants all were gowned in princess style dresses of red velveteen with matching slippers and tiny red velvet hats with rhinestone studded veils. They carried sprays of holly with red carnations and green satin ribbon.

Flower girls were Kathy and Linda Turner, nieces of the bride. They wore ballerina length dresses of pink nylon and tulle, with pale pink rosebud headpieces. They scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newkirk of Anaheim, asked his brother, Lyle Newkirk, to serve him as best man, and ushering duties were performed by Walter Williams, Len Wettstein, Bill Goodman, Jim McGee and John Scoggins.

Added to the ethereal qualities given by the special lighting at the altar was shimmering candlelight cast by tapers in 7-foot candelabra at either side of the large cross. Lighting for the ceremony was arranged by Frank Nightingale, close friend of the Dials, who is widely noted for his lighting effects. Harp music further enhanced the lovely service, as did readings by Gladys Davis of the Pepperdine College Drama staff who offered "How Do I Love Thee" and "Tribute to My Beloved."

Mrs. Earl A. Newkirk

—Silverman Studio.

A reception in the church social room for the 400 wedding guests followed. The four tiered wedding cake rested in a setting of gardenias and fern as centerpiece on the cutwork and fillet lace draped table. Scattered tinsel led to Christmas trees bearing silver baubles at either end of the long table.

Mrs. Lyle Newkirk was in charge of the guestbook, and reception hostesses were Mrs. Walter Williams and Mrs. Len Wettstein, sisters of the bridegroom, and Mmes. W. S. Rucker, Hansel Nowling, William Abrams, Bulach Turner, Leroy Gilpin, Donald Roswurm, Clara Marble, and Misses Sara Bingham and Betty Brougher, sorority sisters of the bride.

Prior to their departure on a flying trip to Hawaii, the newlyweds were showered with miniature heart, wedding bell and horseshoe symbols of romance and good luck, along with the traditional rice. They will return to Long Beach on Dec. 25 to make their home.

The new Mrs. Newkirk attended Progress School and was graduated in February from Pepperdine College where she was an affiliate of Zeta Kappa and Phi Beta. Her bridegroom received his schooling in Anaheim, and is newly returned from four years service with the Air Force in Hawaii.

Boles to Introduce Daughter-in-Law

The very new daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. James Bole, 5475 Anaheim Rd., who became the bride of their son, James Bole Jr. on Thanksgiving Eve, will receive a handsome introduction to local friends of the family at a reception today in the Boles home. The bride is the former Miss Lee Fraga of Honolulu.

Guests will find their way to the gracious entrance of the Bole's home along a brightly lighted candy cane lined pathway during the hours from 5 to 9 p. m. Receiving at the door will be several young friends of the bridegroom including Misses Karen Brown, Paula Chace, Erleen Gill of Los Angeles, Rosemary Pilcher of Riverside and Mrs. Allen Stockstill of Sierra Madre as well as Jim's brother, Frank Bole, Richard Huddleson, Ernest Ewing of Burbank and Robert Pilcher of Riverside.

Mrs. Bole Sr. will greet her guests in a suavely simple white and silver sheath dress while her lovely daughter-in-law will be gowned in a gold and white striped ballerina gown fashioned of gold tissue with gold cummerbund. Decor of the living room, with its beautiful heirloom furniture, which belonged to the hostess' grandmother and great grandmother before her, will be created from pungent evergreen, white carnations, white roses and gold and silver Christmas trimmings.

Refreshments will be served in the dining room where an epergne filled with white carnations, gladioli, and white roses will complement the all pink decor of the room. Antique candelabra will flank the floral arrangement topped with tall, white tapers.

More informally, punch will be served in the family room where a big Christmas tree will spread its warm glow.

Mrs. Charles D. Wailes of Sierra Madre will assist the hostess with the festive duties of the afternoon. Also assisting during reception hours will be Mmes. Leonard Albrecht, George Cerveny, Sydney Elliott, Louis Gunn, Robert Huddleson, John Kelly, Wilbur McColm and Rupert McCook all of Long Beach; Mrs. Clinton Bockemohle of Artesia; Mrs. Carl Ewing of Burbank; and Mrs. Rufus Pilcher of Riverside.

Kamins Felicitated at Bridal Reception

One of the most attractive receptions of the holiday season was given last Sunday by Mrs. Emilie Krick Gump honoring her daughter, Diane, and her new son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kamins in the spacious East Ocean Blvd. home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crawford.

The surprise marriage took place Thanksgiving Day in Los Angeles. A picture of bridal loveliness, the beautiful brunette Mrs. Kamins wore a white afternoon dress, styled with an off-the-shoulder blouse of imported French lace and a sunburst pleated chiffon extended skirt. A cluster of white orchids were a charming accent note.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Gump, received guests in a Dior blue peau de soie sheath and wore an orchid corsage.

Jeweled soft pink desert holly, white stock and delicate pink carnations repeated the bridal theme in the exquisite appointments of the tea table. Assistants at the silver tea set and punch bowl wore corsages of delicate pink and white to match the table color scheme. Mrs. John Henderson presided at the guest book.

Assisting Mrs. Gump were Mmes. Crawford, R. G. Akers, Harry Witz, A. A. Carrey, Harold Beckley and William Wallace.

The popular justweds greeted a hundred and a quarter close friends who called to offer felicitations. Mr. and Mrs. Kamins will make their home in Hollywood.

PARTY PREPARATIONS

Getting ready for the annual holiday party of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Auxiliary to be given Dec. 20 are (from left) Mmes. Louis J. Murray, president; Blanche Canady, Robert C. Fussell, first vice president, and Gertrude M. Winslow, editor of the 1956 Yearbook. The auxiliary arranges a benefit each month to raise funds for the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital that serves Southern California.—(Staff photo.)

Sister Kenny Auxiliary to Give Party

The Sister Elizabeth Kenny Auxiliary will have its Christmas luncheon and gift exchange Dec. 20 at 12 noon in the home of Mrs. William H. Loomis, 419 E. 16th St. Canasta and other card games will be the afternoon's diversion. Members will be guests of the executive board.

Work of the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital and Rehabilitation Center in El Monte has been expanded this year in a far-reaching program of service which includes, in addition to polio, treatment and hospitalization for victims of other neuromuscular diseases.

It was the late Sister Kenny's dream that someday facilities and personnel of the Sister Kenny Foundation could give service to victims of other afflictions as well as to those of polio—particulary those diseases which affect the lives of children. She restricted her efforts to polio because it presented the greatest need at the time.

Now with every indication that polio cases will be greatly reduced in 1956, the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital will begin to admit victims of celebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis and other allied diseases.

A free examination is available to any victim of a neuromuscular disease by calling the Admissions Clinic of the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital for an appointment. If the medical examining committee believes a victim will benefit from intensive treatment and hospitalization, the patient will be admitted regardless of race, religion, color, age, residence or ability to pay.

At the Christmas party of the Long Beach Auxiliary, new members to be welcomed will include Mmes. John J. Cotugno, William D'Andrea, T. J. Davis, Louis J. Gillespie, Harold C. Heidenreich Emil P. Kirk, Harry Lund, C. F. Richter, Ethel Salisbury, Hazel Thompson Lucy Whiting and Zara Larsen.

Outshine Your Christmas Tree!

By MARY LOU ZEHMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Women's Editor

There is only one who can outsparkle the Christmas tree this year—and that's you! If you feel that's a bit presumptuous of you, your mind will be changed when you try the glowing make-up created by Layne Marlin, a Long Beach beauty expert who has been named "King of Beauty" by the Make-up Guilds of America in New York.

One day last week he asked to "re-do" my face . . . and that he did in the space of 90 minutes . . . with a make-up so glowing, clean and fresh that I not only looked like a new person, I was. For, a face rejuvenation is to me what buying a hat is to other women!

"I concentrate on all pastel tints," said Marlin as I relaxed beneath a mud pack for 20 minutes in Leon's House of Beauty. "I have gotten away from the heavy make-up, for too many women look like they apply it with a putty knife. Your face is what you make it. Keep cream out of eyes and eyebrows, to prevent pencil and mascara from smearing, and then remove." For best results Marlin recommends a soft flannel cloth for removing cream and advises always the upward and outward motions to avoid skin sagging.

"The moist climate in Long Beach presents a special problem for local women," Marlin said. He advises a thin layer of avocado oil beneath make-up for smoothness and wearing sunglasses to avoid squint wrinkles.

At this point, I removed the mud pack with a hot, moist towel, and with my skin tingling and pink, Marlin started his simple, yet most effective, process of applying make-up. First my face was massaged in cucumber cream, which not only cleanses but acts as an astringent. "Buttermilk is another good natural cleanser," Marlin related. "And grated raw potatoes applied over the eyes will help eliminate bags and black circles. Leave on for 20 minutes . . . the starch in the potato works wonders."

Then followed an oil lubricant which forms a protective film over the skin. Its base is cocoa butter, a skin food. The first powder base Marlin used was dark; this covers blemishes, and he applies all liquids with a silk sponge. Then comes a lighter powder base, also a liquid, which brings it up to your skin tone. "By all means wear a lighter make-up in the evening, covered with a small amount of powder, in a shade to blend with the foundation," advises Marlin.

FOR BEAUTY THAT GLOWS

Layne Marlin, named "King of Beauty" by the Make-Up Guilds of America, surveys the result of his artistry after applying his special "glow" make-up to Mary Lou Zehms, Independent, Press-Telegram Women's Editor. The picture might be titled, "From mud pack to mascara in 90 minutes."—(Staff photo.)

This gives your skin a soft luminous look—the effect of holiday candlelight. Now the eyes — the point of emphasis and the center of attention; with an eye pencil in black, line the upper lid close to the lashes from the inner corner slightly past the center, and then draw the line on the lid gradually away from the roots of the lashes and extended slightly beyond the outer corner. On the lashes use mascara from the inner to the corner of the upper lashes.

Eyebrows should be drawn with soft, feathery strokes to make the brow into a full, high arch with a slight flare upward at the ends.

And now the mouth: Outline it first with a dark shade of lipstick, then go over it with a lighter shade. This is particularly effective if you use an extension to the mouth line; be sure to outline it with a darker lipstick first. Use of the two shades gives your mouth almost a three-dimensional look!

Here are a few tips from the King of Beauty:

Never leave cream on the face for more than 20 minutes, after that time it loses its action;

Use a cucumber pack at least once a week to tighten the skin, to cleanse it and to remove blackheads; this is exceptionally good for treatment of blemished skin;

Use a damp silk sponge to remove excess foundation then let dry for 20 minutes before dressing, this will help keep the necklines of dresses clean;

If your nose is oily, but rest of face dry, use a natural bristle complexion brush and rub from the nose to the cheekbones, it will help distribute the oil evenly; and

Remember that ice water is the best possible astringent (not ice cubes)!

"Worry, tension and negative thinking can cloud a woman's face like static ruins a television picture," Marlin explained. "These days it isn't how old you are but how young you look that matters. Beauty is as beauty eats and sleeps," he philosophized, and added that it is the theme of a lecture he gives for many women's clubs and organizations throughout the Southland.

Now to you ladies, don't blame the Christmas tree if its radiance dims when you enter the room, just enjoy your reign as the star of the show—and glow and glow and glow!

Virginia Bottorff Is Bride of Dr. Ignacio Alcantara

Mexico City is the new home of Dr. and Mrs. Ignacio Garcia Alcantara. The couple repeated their nuptial lines recently in an afternoon ceremony at Lakewood Village Church with Rev. W. R. Hall officiating. The bride, the former Virginia Deane Bottorff, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deane Bottorff of 5607 Naples Canal.

For her wedding, the bride chose a pale lilac sheer wool princess style dress complemented by a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and violets.

Her attendants, Mrs. William A. Stenzel, matron of honor, and Michele McMillan, junior bridesmaid, wore periwinkle blue sheer wool and cyclamen and white polished cotton respectively. Mrs. Stenzel carried red roses and ti leaves and Miss McMillan's bouquet was of lilies and white button chrysanthemums.

The bride, a graduate of Wilson High School and UC at Berkeley, is a member of the California Club and Prythagean. Her husband, son of Senor Atenogenes Garcia L. and Senora of Mexico City, is a graduate of the University of Mexico.

Hostesses at the reception which followed the wedding were Mmes. R. S. Prest, Virginia McMillan, Lowell Weeks and Carl Brown and Miss Ruth H. Kirkland.

Margaret Elizabeth Rupel

State College Sweethearts Plan to Wed

Planning to speak their nuptial lines in February are Margaret Elizabeth Rupel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Smith, 3466 Clark Ave., and Bruce Trevor Bullock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Wilson Bullock of Redondo Beach.

Miss Rupel and her fiance are both juniors at Long Beach State College. The bride-elect, a native of Long Beach, is a graduate of Wilson High School and Long Beach City College where she was affiliated with Alpha Gamma Sigma and Fremtid Laerer. She appeared with the College Choir and Royal Stanton's Madrigal Singers and was one of the college's "Young Careerists" of 1954-55. At State she is working toward her bachelor of arts degree and a general elementary credential.

The bridegroom-elect, who served two years with the U. S. Army, attended El Camino Jr. College, Arizona State and graduated from LBCC where he was a member of the debate squad. He is majoring in speech at LBSC, working toward a general secondary credential.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

The enterprising International Relations Club at LBSC has cashed in on the Christmas season for a worthy cause. Nine hundred children will have enough milk to drink for a week; 10,600 children need not fear tuberculosis; and an entire village can be protected from malaria for a week thanks to the hard working group.

The group has sold over 100 boxes of Christmas cards designed by famous artists to sell at $1.00 a box. The money will go directly to the United Nations Emergency where the money will be distributed to needy children all over the world. A worthy service for a worthy cause carried on by a worthy organization.

One of the Southland's most distinguished educators, lecturers and TV personalities will speak at Long Beach State College next Tuesday.

Dr. Frank C. Baxter is well known in the Long Beach area. He has spoken for different groups and organizations and last year presented a Christmas program at LBSC similar to the USC program which has become a tradition.

Dr. Baxter's Christmas program is a series of readings taken from world literature, the past to the present, and is presented in the manner that has made him famous on his television programs.

"Shakespeare on TV," and his recent show "Now and Then" both have won awards for the scholar. Some of the honors awarded to Dr. Baxter are "The Speaker of the Year Award, for 1954," 14 national and local awards for his Shakespeare series on TV, and two TV "Emmys" from the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Baxter has been overwhelmed by requests for him to present his program of Christmas readings, and the Evenings on Campus Committee at Long Beach State College feel that they have been very fortunate in securing him. If you've heard him before, you'll want to hear him again, and if not it's really an experience; in any case for seats, telephone LBSC and ask for the activities office. Admission is free.

The January Graduates, and it is getting that time for some students to become alumni, will be honored at the annual semi-formal Blue Book Ball which is sponsored by the senior class. The dance is named after the books in which students write their exams. The go-away dance will be held at the Irvine Coast Country Club at Newport Beach, and plans for the dance call for a Blue Book Belle, who must be (a) a senior, and (b) sponsored by some campus organization. Miss Blue Book Belle, or the Queen of the Blue Book Ball, which ever she prefers, will be crowned the night of the dance which has been tentatively set for January 26.

The Harlequins of the speech and drama department are getting ready to get their feet wet, production wise, with a bill of three one-act plays.

The plays are "Trifles," "Another Way Out" and "The Drama of Job." The shorties are scheduled for Jan. 13 and 14. Admission for the general public is 50 cents.

Members of the LBSC Newman Club will don their dancing slippers tonight in the Catholic Center at St. Anthony's High School at the annual Christmas dance, sponsored jointly with LBCC club.

Placer Miner is also taking a vacation as is everybody else, but only away from school. School is out and won't be in session again until next year, but for most students no school means merely changing one kind of a job for another. The placement office at LBSC had a record number of inquiries for jobs and a record number of jobs given to them for placement.

Some students are working for the Post Office, others in markets, service stations, clothing stores, selling Christmas trees, yard work, just any kind of a job to make some money for Christmas and put a little away for next year. Taking a full-time college job isn't conducive to getting good grades or even passing. The school figures that it takes a minimum of two hours of study out of class for every hour of study in class. Taking a full-time course of 16 units means about 32 hours of study a week out of class, or a full-time job.

The vacation part comes into the picture because it's a change to what everybody has been used to. But like everybody else, Placer Miner is putting away the books for a couple of weeks, and welcomes the opportunity to say "It's a Great Life, and

Dental Assistants Join Throng of Clubdom's Party Makers

By ANNE GILCHRIST

As eagerly an anticipated party as any of the year will be the annual Christmas cocktail and buffet dinner dance which Dental Assistants will give tomorrow evening in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette Hotel for members, their dentist "bosses," wives, and special guests.

Table decorations will carry out the Christmas theme in individual tables placed cabaret style around the dance floor. A huge Christmas tree will dominate the room and beneath its branches will rest the gay gifts to be distributed in the traditional exchange. A surprise Santa Claus will give the gifts which each person attending will contribute. Also, members will bring cans of food for the Christmas Clearing House to aid a needy family.

Executives' Secretaries

It was a tremendous party and it was a party "with a heart." That's the sum and substance of the cocktail buffet which James H. Nicholson, owner of Kitt Trailer Manufacturing Co. gave for members and guests of Executives' Secretaries in his beautiful home, 269 Argonne Ave, last weekend. "Ticket of admission" to the lavish affair was one or more toys per person. There were at least 450 people who accepted the Nicholson hospitality and, in turn, contributed handsomely so that toys collected were in truckload number.

These toys will provide foster children of Long Beach with a joyful Christmas. Nicholson will play host to 100 of the foster children at a turkey dinner and Christmas party in his home on the afternoon of Dec. 24. The others on the secretaries, "Santa Claus list" will receive their gifts by special delivery the E/S.

Secretaries who took an active part in assisting host Nicholson with the project were Dorothy Kane Oleson, president of the Long Beach chapter; Ruth Dye, vice president and philanthropy chairman; and Alice McCullough, Flo Courte, Meredith Griffiths, Agnes Herbst, Dorothy Jacke, Peggy Maloughney, Clarlece Baber, Charlene Bennett. Miss Bennett is Mr. Nicholson's executive secretary. All other members of the club contributed splendidly in making this event a success and will again contribute their time in assisting with the children's party.

Quota Club

Lights glittered on the Christmas tree, champagne sparkled in the punch bowl and they weren't all that glittered anod sparkled Quota Club's annual Chistmas party for members, an affair of Monday given in the gracious home of Rita Stanfield, 3940 Linden Ave.

The champagne punch was served in the large rumpus house which occupies the Stanfield lot behind the main house. Here members were asked to relate the most memorable Christmas experience they could recall. This merrily accomplished, everyone retired to the main house where a huge Christmas tree held their attention and gifts from beneath its boughs were distributed. A lively game of charades, followed by the traditional reading of the Christmas story by Fanny MacEnroe and the reading of a quaint and humorous Irish Christmas story by Helen Cameron, completed the informal participation program. Refreshments and visiting concluded the evening.

Soroptimist Club

Members of Soroptimist International of Long Beach turned their luncheon meeting of Dec. 9 into a "welcome home" for Mrs. Lydia Jones, member and past president of the club who repaid them for their interest with a gracious talk of her impressions of England, gained during two years residence there.

She told of visiting the Soroptimist International of Ellesmere Port, sister club of Long Beach Soroptimists. She found the spirit and friendliness of it's members very little different from here. Ellesmere Port grew up during the war when Liverpool was so badly bombed. On a clear day, she said, one can see the big cathedral in Liverpool.

Mrs. Jones spent most of her time at Oxford where her son, Vincent, was a Rhodes scholar and where she continued her music study. She quoted some amazing figures about England, one of the most startling being that, per square mile, England has ten times more people than the United States; twice as many as India; and four times as many as China. Food in private homes was quite excellent but in restaurants rather poor. Where a Frenchman will spend two thirds of his income on food and an American two thirds on gadgets (television, electrical appliances, etc.), an Englishman will spend two thirds of his income on his garden! Still on rations while she lived there, she commented on the extreme courtesy of the English when in queue lines.

The speaker augmented her talk with some beautiful colored slides. Gladdes Neff president, conducted the meeting and welcomed Mrs. Jones home on behalf of the club.

Legal Secretaries

There will be smiles on every face and joyous shouts of Merry Christmas" this afternoon throughout the Towne Club when Legal Secretaries gather there from 1:30 to 5 p.m. for their annual Christmas party. A program, community singing and refreshments will be features of the afternoon. In lieu of the usual gift exchange between members it was decided each would bring a gift, or gifts, for a girl between the ages of eight and 18 to be donated to the 75 girls of Girls Town in Arlington.

High School Ball Tuesday

Gay Yuletide decorations will glamorize Lakewood Country Club when Phi Gamma Chi sorority of Polytechnic and Wilson High Schools give their 33rd annual White Christmas Ball Tuesday night from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Gleaming blue ornaments will adorn the branches of a serene silver Christmas tree as dancers enter the club. White boughs and blue balls will add seasonal flavor to the table decorations, while an artificial snowbank will be massed around the bandstand.

Chairman of the decorations committee is Molly Moffatt, and she is being assisted by Mary Kay Barker, Melinda Lelliott, Irene Angle, Carol Howison and Sharon Stimson.

Music for the formal ball will be provided by Monte Le Bonte's orchestra.

Bids for the affair are gold and white, enriched with the sorority's crest.

Ebell Slates Masquers Foursome

At Christmas time, when so much accent is upon music, Ebell Club is no exception. For its program Monday afternoon in Ebell auditorium it will present the Masquers Quartet, composed of Olive Rice, soprano; Lucille Dellano, mezzo-soprano; Tony Stambaugh, tenor, and Francis Barnes, baritone.

Their repertoire ranges from ballads and musical comedy to light opera and opera, offering a satisfying balance of solos, duets, and trios as well as a blend of all four voices.

The group was founded by Curtis Stearns, director and accompanist.

Honored guests for the day will be members of the Presidents Club of Long Beach.

The traditional Christmas tea will be served after the program by Mrs. Robin L. Hadley, hospitality chairman, and her committee.

Pythian Sisters

Long Beach Temple 63, Pythian Sisters will gather Dec. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Machinists Hall for a Christmas party and gift exchange.

SHOPPING SENSE

One thing is for sure this week . . . if you're looking for something that isn't a Christmas present, more likely than not you'll get it gift wrapped, 'cause that's the spirit that's in the air. This week's Shopping Sense notations . . . and it's fun discovering every one of them . . . cover a broad horizon. The jaunt went not so far in distance as in mood, for there are Christmas ideas and gifts to suffice the needs of children and adults, men and women. In Lakewood Triangle, you'll sigh over the beautiful costume jewelry and furs at Estelle Thompson's, while down in Belmont Shore at Egyptian Drug you'll find so many delightful fragrances it's impossible to choose a favorite, and at George Lake's Recreation Park Golf Shop it's fun to putter around, even for a non-golfer! Downtown, Penney's is in the Christmas spirit with sleepy suggestions for the Lollipop Brigade, and for the man on your list Belcher & Schacht and the Safari Hut are full of unusual gifts. And, who doesn't like to sit down with a fascinating new book? You'll find a wonderful selection at Mayfair Church Supplies, for any age group. When all your looking and buying is done, it's time for you to spend a stimulating evening in Ernie Glaser's newest showplace, Heidi's Village . . . but for now, take this shopping tour with Shopping Sense in your easy chair, and remember that if you have any shopping inquiries about places to go, things to buy and customer services, phone Lisa Towne at HEmlock 5-1161, extension 249, and let us help you be dollar-wise with Shopping Sense.

Heidi's Village

Those who are acquainted with Ernie Glaser's flair for originality in creating a showplace with atmosphere will be pleased to discover his newly opened HEIDI'S VILLAGE, 245 East Ocean Blvd. The Swiss-Bavarian motif is carried out with miniature Alpine mountains, a running waterfall and tiny chalets with an old-world charm. Over this vest-pocket country called "Swissany," Heidi Glaser will preside during fun-filled evenings of community singing and entertainment. So put HEIDI'S VILLAGE at the top of your list during the holidays.

For the Littlest Angel on your Christmas list, something cuddly, soft, warm and pretty in sleepwear for boys or girls is in order, and in the Girls' & Infants' Dept. on the Balcony at PENNEY'S, 6th & Pine, the perennial flannel sleeper is now available in two-piece pajama sets with non-skid plastic soles that make tiny feet secure on slippery floors. Size 1-3 have gripper snappers down the back, size 4-6 the pullover style with boxer waist. Both styles have elasticized ankles, are cut extra large and come in machine washable party pastels . . . at the very little price of $1.49 a pair. You'll also find many other smart styles of pajamas and nightgowns for the younger set on PENNEY'S Balcony.

Good costume jewelry is always correct, and when it's from the glittering collection of stunning pieces by Hobe, Her Majesty or Paulette of New York it's the perfect gift . . . to give or to receive. At ESTELLE THOMPSON'S, 4146 Viking Way in the Lakewood Triangle, you'll find these choice necklaces, earrings, bracelets and pins, from just $5, and Tommy Thompson has designed some furs and glamorous fur accessories to suit all budgets, so be sure to have your husband consult the THOMPSON'S on that special gift for you this Christmas.

For the man who's mixing your holiday potables, THE SAFARI HUT, 214 East 4th St., has the standard and novelty bar equipment to help him do it in style . . . there's the smart, handy and compact brass trimmed wooden Keg Bar, a Karoff Original, complete with mixer and gold rimmed glasses, $39.50 . . . or for travel, the easy to tote Pony Bar with thermos and plastic accessories, case in Palomino or Sorrel, $24.50 . . . and as a present for your home there's a boxed set of 8 thumb print Mexican crackle glass tumblers, $4.95.

Perfume is a universally desired Christmas gift, and you'll select from the world's finest lines at EGYPTIAN DRUG CO., 5128 East Second St., in Belmont Shore. The complete line of Caron has been imported from France, including the exciting new "Le Muguet du Bonheur" and the perfume extrait "Poivre". There's a delightful purse size sculptured flacon of "Les Miniatures de Caron" at $12.50, and an unusual and extremely refined cologne disclosing a real perfume in "Ecusson" by Jean d'Albert. Nina Ricci has created arresting bottle designs to complement her exquisite fragrances—"L'Air du Temps" in a beautiful bird flacon, "Coeur Joie" which is heart-shaped, and "Fille d' Eve" for the apple.

The man or woman golfer on your Christmas list will appreciate a gift from GEORGE LAKE'S RECREATION PARK GOLF SHOP, where you'll find a smart selection of Catalina nylon sweaters, White Stag water-repellent jackets, fleece-lined White Stag orlon jackets, golf shoes, stretch socks and warm-up mitts as well as golf umbrellas, Bag Boy seats, golf carts and clubs . . . or for something novel, how about the Putt Pin game or the electric practice putter? Three inspiring new books that are ideal for Christmas giving are "The Sure Victory" by Madame Chiang Kai-shek, "The Answer Is God," the story of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, by Elsie Miller Davis, and "Billy Graham: A Mission Accomplished," by George Burnham. You'll find them now at MAYFAIR CHURCH SUPPLIES, 219 East 4th St., your headquarters for religious books, an unparalleled selection of Christian pictures and Scripture stationery and greeting cards for Christmas and everyday.

Don't Expect Children to Take Adult Responsibility

By ANGELO PATRI

Sincerity is the essential element in any human action, and education is no exception. There are a few new ways of teaching being introduced that lack that essential quality and should be quietly dropped. This because they are likely to give the children a wrong impression of their ability and therefore of their place in the adult world.

Why, for example, have a second-year grade in elementary school to read a story and then write a "Book Report," a critique as it were? The children assume an attitude of wisdom and authority when they are given a task with this high-sounding name. It is known as "the buildup," "strengthening of the personality, of dignity."

An important civic group sitting in deliberation of juvenile delinquency invites two high-school students, 15 years of age, to sit in with them and give their ideas on the subject. That is a sort of nonsense that we should not approve. What those children say will not modify what those responsible adults think and do to the extent of a single comma. Why the show and the sham. What effect will it have on the children?

Children, and please understand that boys and girls in their early teens are children, should not be allowed to believe that they have ability, comprehension or skill in fields that are beyond their experiences. They should not be made to feel a load of responsibility that they have no way to carry out. That sort of thing does not strengthen, does not add power nor dignity to the children.

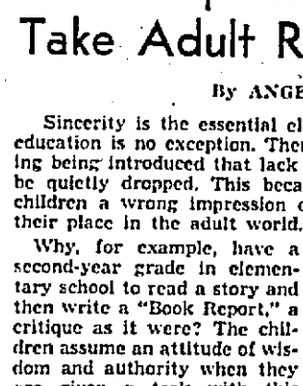

Our young people need guidance, fine leadership and a job to do. To share in the civic project, to do a good piece of work in school routine, this guidance and leadership must be evident and it must be authoritative. If children did not need these, the schools, the teachers and the leaders of youth would be unnecessary. The children could be on their own.

To be sure, social problems can be discussed in the schools with profit to the students—provided always that the discussions are guided and led by understanding people who are sincere in their dealings with their classes. There can be trips to the various departments of government. There can be studies made and reports written to the great gain of the students. But that is not to be made a matter of public notice, given apparently grave consideration by the city fathers. It must be a sincere study by students who are not to be placed in the light of an advisory body to the responsible authorities. That is unfair to the children.

Does your child cry at bedtime or refuse to take his bath? You can change his habits by changing the way of doing things. Dr. Patri explains how to give children a new start in leaflet P-10, "Changing Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Chef of the Week

Irishman Brews Tasty Casserole of Spaghetti

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

A comedian and a mimic — he's even funnier than the original production. A ready wit is very much a part of Chef of the Week Edward T. Jordan, for shure 'n' ya can bet he's Irish, his 'maather 'n' faather' having come from the County Cork in 1906.

Jordan was born in New York City—educated in its public schools and at Fordham University His first position was that of analyst and accountant for a Wall Street brokerage firm; but in 1939 he switched his vocation to the field of selling.

It was World War II, however, which placed him in the proper environment for his present position, that of manager of the General Telephone Directory Co., directing that company's operations in California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona. He not only oversees the printing of the telephone directories, but those of Santa Monica, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Pomona and many others, as well.

He became a private in the U. S. Army in 1941, and received his commission in the artillery in 1942. Additional education followed in military government at University of Virginia, before he was discharged with the rank of major in 1945. I was the California army service in 1913 which brought about, not only his return to our city, but that of his parents, his sister and brother. They have a family community all their own in Lakewood.

A member of the Long Beach Rotary Club, he was among the chartered few at the Lakewood BPOE, Lodge 1865. He belongs to St. Cyprian's Church, and is active in Community Chest and other civic projects.

Though football and bowling are among his chosen interests, his real hobby is prognosticating. He studies the financial reports of different corporations and then predicts their price in the stock market. He budgets his lunch hour between "grub staking" and a trip to the local brokerage office to watch the tape, either refute or bear out his predictions.

Whenever he's really lost, however, he's usually to be found at the "Y" getting the "works." He feels that procedure necessary to his method of addition and subtraction.

Contrary to your expectations, his recipe today isn't for Irish stew, it's for spaghetti.

SPAGHETTI

1 lb. spaghetti, cooked
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
3 tblsp. parsley, chopped
1 tsp. sugar
2 tblsp. oil
1 lb. ground meat
1 4-oz. can mushrooms
1 large can tomatoes
1 can tomato sauce
2 or 3 pinches Italian spices —or a dash thyme, oregano and majoram
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute onion, garlic and parsley in oil. Add meat and cook until lightly browned. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, spices and pepper. Cook very slowly, without a lid, for 2 or more hours, until thick. Alternate in layers with cooked spaghetti in casserole. Top with cheese and bake for 20 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Look Who's Dancing . . . . .

(These articles will appear regularly in Sunday's Independent, Press-Telegram to announce meetings of invitational dance groups at Fine Arts Center.)

In the midst of frantically checking name lists and filling his increasingly bulging pack Santa Claus will take time out to preside over young dancers gathering at Fine Arts Center this week.

Surrounded by glittering Christmas baubles, merry old elf holds a prominent place on the ballroom wall, but he may find himself tempted into taking a quick turn around the floor with a daintily gowned young miss, or suavely gliding along in a romantic tango as the students go through their paces.

Committees in charge have planned special holiday favors and refreshments for the entertainment of attending members.

Why Grow Old?

It Isn't Too Late to Plan Your Christmas Shopping

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I feel like a race horse at the beginning of the last stretch. I will be off tomorrow when the alarm clock rings and try to win by the 25th. What about you? Perhaps you are one of those I always plan to be, but never am, one who has finished her Christmas shopping early. From the crowds in stores I judge I have plenty of company in my sad state.

Although the inclination is to dash madly about, or just start running, actually that is the worst possible thing to do in such an emergency. The thing to do now is to sit down quietly and think.

Get a pencil and paper and give some thought to what the ones you still have to buy for would enjoy. After that jot down the names of the stores in which you are apt to find these articles. Then call the stores to see if they have them.

Next, you can make a list of what you are going to look at in each store and chart your course so that you will not backtrack. I am an old master at this art, and believe me, it will save you much wear and tear. You also will finish with more acceptable gifts for your friends and relatives. Otherwise you will come up with the weirdest assortment!

There is such lovely variety in cosmetics and perfumes which every woman would enjoy. And there are little luxury items in this category which many women feel that they cannot afford as a daily habit.

I think, too, that many people make Christmas shopping difficult by forgetting books and flowers as gifts. If your victim loves to read and you know his taste in books you have a cinch. However, this is dangerous business if you do not know what kind of book he enjoys.

There is nothing more heartwarming than having a lovely bouquet or plant arrive at your door on Christmas Eve.

Music Can Be Employed as Personality Yardstick

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case Q-324: Marcia B., aged 28, is a very popular music teacher.

"Dr. Crane, don't you think music is an essential course in the school system?" she asked. "I find, however, that many parents have the idea that music is a 'frill' or non-essential in the curriculum. Don't phychologists recommend music for mental patients?"

Shakespeare employed music as a yardstick for evaluating personality when he said:

"The man that hath no music in himself,
"Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
"Is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils."

In my college textbook "Psychology Applied," I have devoted an entire chapter to the "Psychology of Music and Morale," and I opened that chapter with Shakespeare's discerning quotation.

"Music is the only language," said John Erskine, "in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing." Music is also an international language, understood by Russians and French, Germans and English, even though we may not converse in the same tongue.

Last Easter when our daughter Judy was in Italy, she reported that she couldn't understand the Italian church service, but she felt at home because the hymns were familiar.

Music is also the melodic Pegasus on which our spirits may soar above this mundane earth as we become exhilarated with lofty emotions of love and unselfishness.

But music can also inflame and produce warlike moods, so the Marseillaise has actually been forbidden to the French soldiery at times to prevent untoward incidents in time of crisis.

King Saul depended on David's playing at the harp to soothe his tortured spirit and prevent an attack of madness.

And in modern times we have found a similar great value in music. A few months ago, Drs. Raymond B. Cattell and Jean C. Anderson thus reported their use of music with the patients at Manteno State Hospital in Illinois.

This excellent research by these University of Illinois psychologists, holds tremendous promise. In general, it was found that the mentally ill preferred slow, simple and sad music. The maniacs, however, preferred brightly colored music of the fast, exhilarating type.

In childhood, youngsters seem to have no inherited tastes for music and can't even keep step for marching purposes. Kindergarten teachers thus are forced to accept the stressed beat and drill youngsters for months to get them to appreciate such a simple characteristic of music as its accented beat.

And the emotions that attach to music are learned reactions. If you feel tears come to your eyes and a lump in your throat, it is not the rhythm or tempo, but the "halo" of emotions which you have subconsciously attached to that specific melody because of some childhood situation.

Music is actually one of the most profitable inclusions in the curriculum. It excells many supposedly more essential courses, of which we often recall but isolated fragments in later years.

Child Care

Motherhood a Drain in Middle Age

By JEAN H. SELIGMANN and MILTON I. LEVINE, M.D.

(Q) "I have a son almost three years old who sure tires me out. He is an active child and keeps me on the go. I was 40 years old when he was born. I also have two other children, one 26 years old and the other 24, both of whom are married. I don't remember having so much trouble bringing them up.

"This child has a mind of his own and does everything we tell him not to do. We've spanked him, punished him, and tried talking to him—but nothing does any good. There aren't any children to play with in our apartment house, so he's mostly by himself. But if children come to visit he pushes them and doesn't let them play with his toys.

"He's very bright and often very lovable. But at times he gets me so nervous I just sit and cry. Please can you help me."—Mrs. I. L.

(A) It is quite understandable that you should tire more easily now than you did when your older children were small. But there is no reason to feel that your age—which is really not very unusual for motherhood—should make you less adequate as a mother than you were before.

The problem with your little boy may be due in part to the fact that he is really an only child. Your older children could not have had the concentrated attention which this boy probably gets.

Punishments, spankings and scolding usually don't help too much in this kind of situation. Like every child, he needs reasonable discipline and definite authority, but understanding guidance as well. Also, he should have other children to play with.

We would suggest that he go to a good nursery school if this is possible, so he can learn about sharing and discover that all the attention cannot be focussed on him.

There are a number of good pamphlets on children of 2 to 6, the titles of which we will be glad to mail you if you send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

All questions possible will be answered through this column. Send them to CHILD CARE in care of the Press-Telegram.

Double Bid May Tip Bridge Foe

In certain bidding situations you get the opportunity to use a penalty double as a way of suggesting a lead to your partner. If you're not careful with these doubles, however, you may give the opponents more information than your partner. Today's hand illustrates the point.

North's response of three clubs was part of the Stayman Convention, asking South to show a biddable major suit if he had one. Everybody at the table knew the meaning of this bid, and knew likewise that it would be purely coincidental if North really had a club suit.

East doubled partly to suggest a club opening lead to his partner and partly with the naive hope that the opponents would be frightened into bidding less than the true value of the hand. As it turned out, the double merely encouraged South to bid boldly.

South ignored the double to begin with, showing his biddable spade suit as requested. When North promptly jumped to six spades, South considered the fact that he had all four aces and that East's double had located the king of clubs in finessable position. Encouraged by this last fact, South went on to the grand slam.

West opened a club, as expected, thus solving one of South's problems at the grand slam contract. The only remaining problem was to draw trumps without the loss of a trump trick.

After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs, South led the ace of spades. West followed with the eight of spades, hoping to persuade South to take the second trump trick with dummy's queen.

South had made up his mind, however, that East was long in clubs and was therefore likely to be short in spades. Declarer therefore took the second trump trick in his own hand with the king, discovering the distribution of the trumps. It was then easy to finesse the ten of spades in dummy, draw the last trump and run the rest of the tricks.

Molly Mayfield

Don't Write, Keep Him Guessing

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Here it is. I am 16 and supposed to be going steady with a boy who is 17. We live in different states and write to each other. I guess boys don't like to write very often, although he does pretty well.

What I want to know, Molly, is should I write him as often as I want to? Or should I wait and answer each letter as he writes them?

Another thing. He is coming to visit me. Do you think it would be all right for him to sleep at my house? My parents will be home.—PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED:

I think you have a problem that a lot of girls are faced with. And I know it's a problem. If I were you, I don't believe I would write him much more than he writes you, even if you are supposed to be going steady. And, by the way, isn't that a little hard to do when you live in different states?

I definitely wouldn't write him every day, or even every three or four days if he only writes to you about every two weeks. After all, you want to remind him that you're still alive, but, remember, things we get too easily generally don't mean too much to us.

He probably either knows or is meeting a lot of people that you don't know, and these people include other girls. (I know you don't like to think about this, but you know it must be so.)

I think it would be a little smarter to let him worry a bit about whom you might be seeing or meeting, rather than deluging him under a downpour of mail. Especially as he doesn't show much sign of wanting to deluge back.

My guess is that his not writing you so often is his way of showing that he doesn't want to feel tied down when he's making new friends—and that goes for being postage-stamped down, too.

Of course, it's all right for him to stay at your home while he is visiting you. I imagine that your parents have been expecting him to do so. But let up a little on that pen pushing, won't you?—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

There is a disagreement between me and a group of buddies I work with. I would be very grateful if you would clear it up.

You see, there is this girl that I used to go steady with. We broke up about seven months ago and I hadn't seen her until recently when I started dating her again. On our second date we had one of the best times we have ever had together.

Naturally I felt all full of beans and at the end of the evening I tried to kiss her and she refused. Some of my buddies think this was right, and I think it was wrong. We want to know what you think.—JACK.

DEAR JACK:

To begin with, I'm surprised you told your buddies about your attempted goodnight kiss. Seems to me matters of this kind ought to be kept strictly between the gal and her young swain.

But since apparently it's become a subject of general debate, I'll join in. And I think you're right. Since you had been going steady up to seven months ago and since you've started dating her again, I see no reason why you shouldn't have a little goodnight smooch. Especially at the end of an evening during which you had so much fun.

I'd try again on the next goodnight. Good luck, and don't tell the boys.—M.M.

Christmas Whirl for Service Set Is Brilliant Kaleidoscope of Parties

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Like a gay Christmas window the procession of parties is exciting and colorful — some have happened; others still are circled on the busy, busy service set holiday calender.

Coming events include the annual semi-formal dinner dance to be given by the Officers Wives Club of the Long Beach Air Force Base honoring their husbands. This gala occasion will take place tonight at the cocktail hour at the Officers Club on the Air Base.

An attractive holiday party that has just happened was the Christmas dinner party given by wives of officers attached to the USS Los Angeles at the Officers Club, NAS, Los Alamitos. Santa Claus was there with gifts for all. Hostesses were Mmes. C. O. Akers, H. E. Austin, C. H. Black, R. R. Midday.

Another cheery yuletide party was the cocktail hour given by Comdr. and Mrs. E. Westbrook Jr. last Thursday honoring officers attached to the USS Belle Grove and their ladies.

Among the coming holiday gatherings will be a coffee hour on Dec. 21 given by Mrs. Leo May and Mrs. George Foott.

And next Wednesday Mrs. Menard Steltenkamp will entertain a group of friends at a Christmas party followed by cards in her Belmont Shore home.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Harry A. Guthrie had as their recent house guests from Santa Paula Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCulley and sons. The Guthries plan to enjoy Christmas in Santa Cruz with Mrs. Guthrie's mother, Mrs. Olive Berg.

Last Tuesday the chaplains' wives in this area enjoyed a lovely holiday luncheon party at the home of Mrs. K. Cassady of 3744 Brayton Ave.

Comdr. Kenneth B. Hysong, attached to the staff of Amphibious Squadron Seven, and Mrs. Hysong are proudly telling the world of the arrival of their baby daughter last week.

Comdr. and Mrs. E. W. Hermanson are welcoming their many friends during the holiday season at their new home at 3810 Elm Ave. Mrs. Hermanson recently entertained a group of friends at Welch's, when they dropped by with gifts and to wish her a "Happy Birthday."

Capt. and Mrs. Jack Murphy are expecting Mrs. Murphy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Baldner, from Iowa for Christmas.

Pretty Lael June McCabe, daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Ward McCabe will enjoy Christmas vacation in North Hollywood with her grandmother, Mrs. R. M. Rosales.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Palmer have as their house guests the colonel's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Studley, from San Diego.

Lt. (jg) and Mrs. William Garrison and Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Robert Crane were co-hosts Friday night at a cocktail hour yuletide party. Attending were officers attached to the USS Plumas County and their ladies.

Lt. Comdr. Ted Clark, who was recently relieved as Commander of LST Division 75 by Lt. Comdr. L. G. Edgerton, has left with his family for new residence and duty in the 8th Naval District, New Orleans.

Before their departure, the Clarks were entertained at a dinner party by Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Edgerton and among the guests were: Lt. and Mrs. Keith Brown and children, and Lt. and Mrs. Dale Cress.

It's a happy holiday for Mrs. Fair as Capt. Gene Fair has recently returned from the hospital and is doing nicely.

Lt. and Mrs. Jerryl Hascom are heading for Old Town, Maine, to spend a white Christmas with relatives there.

Comdr. and Mrs. Donald Grader are back from a pleasant vacation in San Francisco.

Holiday wedding bells rang out last Friday night for Lt. (jg) Glen Wiprud of the USS Mathews and pretty Virginia Miller, assistant society editor of the Los Angeles Times.

Capt. and Mrs. Frank M. Parker have as their Christmas house guests Mr. and Mrs. Warren Schroeckenphaler and son Warren Jr. from Wisconsin.

Capt. A. W. Anthony, USMC, and Mrs. Anthony recently welcomed a new arrival and now are at home in El Monte.

Tuesday Dec. 20 is the big day out at the Long Beach Air Force Base when ole' Saint Nick, USAF, will arrive by jet for the wonderful annual Christmas party for the children of service personnel attached to the Air Base. This party with gifts, games and refreshments is sponsored jointly by the Officers Wives Club of the Air Base and the NCO Auxiliary there.

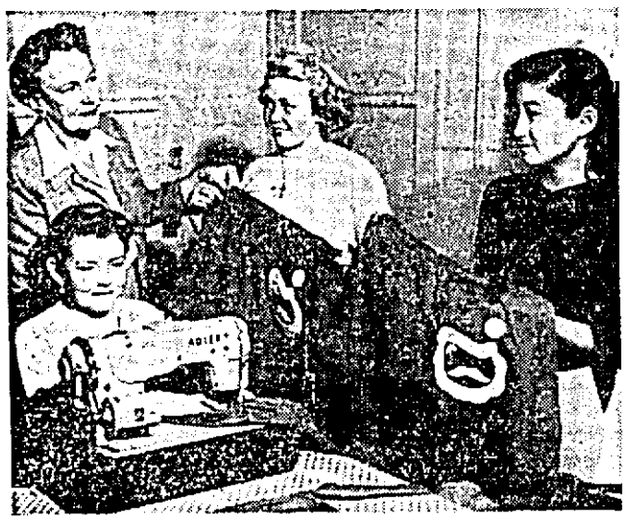

Lt. and Mrs. Edward Main entertained at a dinner party recently honoring Capt. and Mrs. R. Ellsworth from San Diego.

Seen in Hollywood together, watching the Bob Hope show and dining out, were Capt. and Mrs. Robert Olbinsky and Capt. and Mrs. Nick DeGilio.

And also in the movie town Capt. and Mrs. Floyd hosting a group of friends at "Okla- he[illegible]"

ONLY THE GIVER knows the true meaning of Christmas. Members of the West Long Beach Girls' Club have been busily preparing for the holiday season. They have fashioned ornaments for the club Christmas tree, baked cookies and made ceramics for gifts. Above, Peggy Worthen, Dorothy Braddock and Ruby Hada, from left, get sewing advice from Mrs. B. J. Young. Club members will enjoy a Christmas party Dec. 20 at the clubhouse in Truman Boyd Manor.

Madonna Collection of Interest to Friday Club

When Friday Morning Discussion Club members were bidden to a buffet luncheon in the home of Mrs. Arthur Bonzer, 3715 Gardenia Ave., they were enchanted with the hostess' collection of artfully placed Madonnas. Of particular interest was a life-size figure painted on one of Mrs. Bonzer's windows.

Furthering the theme, the hostess related the history of her Madonna collection and entertained with a selection on her antique melodeon.

On the buffet table a white Madonna stood serenely amid calla lilies and cedar sprigs on a silver stand. White tapers formed an effective background.

Mrs. L. J. Oberson, president, poured.

At a recent meeting of the club in Municipal Art Center, speakers were Mmes. H. E. Lewis, Mattie Stuthman, Robert Greeley, Ada Lyon, G. E. Trout and Misses Steela Olcott and Elsie Schulz. Mrs. Alden C. Carlson gave the English lesson.

Prior to the business session a tour of the Art Center and its current showing was made under guidance of Miss Judith Cieslak, education curator.

Resort Sportswear Follows Narrow Line With Emphasis on Tunics, Overblouses

Resort sportswear fashions fall right in line with the narrow silhouette, without narrowing any of the wearability of clothes essentially casual. Slim dresses use pleats, panels and slashes to add width without seeming to. Slim separate skirts often take an easy overblouse or middy top. Maillot swimsuits couldn't be more pared down, but this restricted silhouette calls for an overskirt. New-looking, but still comfortable fashions are the results.

The same kind of tempered acceptance goes for the Oriental slant. This strong theme continues (very much in conjunction with the slim trend), but again designers have taken a moderate approach. The tunic and kimono are the best adapted in play, beach or at-home clothes. For more formal daytime wear, traces of the Orient are seen mostly in fabrics like silk, or are simply echoed by details like mandarin collars.

So long in coming, the two-piece look has arrived for resort. It asserts itself in tunics, overblouses and middies, the fashions that often top pants and shorts, another aspect of the slim look.

Great quantities of silk fabrics for casual dresses, shirts and separates reaffirm that sportswear is both casual and elegant. The silks favored include textured types, with either raw or linen-like surfaces; woven plaid patterns, and soft allover florals or Oriental motifs on both shantung and surah.

The lace-lightness of 1956 woolens adds another significant fabric for resort wear, making it an all-year fabric, like cotton. Designers recognize that resort spots are not necessarily tropical and that evenings are cool, and that wool fashions are good travelers.

Wool jersey is coordinated in tone-on-tone colors to blend with silk, linen, even cotton separates. Pastel wool flannel and tweed coordinates are strong in the classic field.

Separates and dresses in cotton rely heavily on novelty appeal. Cotton looks like anything but cotton. Some versions resemble silk, either in print types or in lustrous surfaces. Many resemble tweedy wools, as do a good number of the linens in resort dresses, skirts and shorts. Oriental printed cotton provincial type patterns, and finally rustic textured cottons are well represented.

The prevalence of Empire cuts in resort collections contributes to the interest at the top, frequently accented with short boleros, back buttoning brief jackets and curved shrugs that stop just below the bustline and give the high Empire look.

Loose but shaped jackets are one of the newest components that make a dress a costume. It can be cropped below the bustline, go to the waistline or end just above the hipbone, but it generally has side slits and a mandarin neckline and tops a sheath.

One of the dominant impressions for resort fashions is the one-piece dress with attached or simulated boleros over panel-back skirts. The full-skirted dress with soft inverted box pleats that give a panel effect, has a youthful look with the pseudo bolero. Many of the slim sheaths have attached panels that add a floating fullness with these back closing bolero effects.

This year one of the favorite ways of adding glamor to stark sheaths is with romantic shaped sleeves.

The day Bettyann came home

REUNION: Bettyann Culver and her father, Basil O'Connor, smile over her gradual recovery.

by BASIL O'CONNOR
President, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis

Five years ago tomorrow seems a long time, measured on your fingers. It seems like yesterday to me — the day my daughter, Bettyann, came home for Christmas.

We all know the old sayings: "It can't happen here." ..."Truth is stranger than fiction."..."It's a small world after all." Something has happened to all of us to which they apply — always unexpectedly.

I had been president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis since its start in 1938; I knew polio all too well. I had seen it cripple Franklin D. Roosevelt, my former law partner. In the early days after the creation of the Warm Springs Foundation and the March of Dimes, I watched the lines of wheel chairs grow row on row. But I never thought a wheel chair could mean anything personal to me.

Then in July 1950, while I was having lunch in New York with Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation, I had a phone call. Bettyann was calling from her home in White Post, Va. "Daddy," she said, "I think I have some of 'your' disease..."

Polio! At that moment I was not president of the National Foundation; I was a father whose daughter had been stricken. Bettyann was 30 then. She, her husband and their five young children lived on a Blue Ridge mountain farm that seemed about the healthiest place in the world. There had been an epidemic in the southwest part of the state, but far from White Post.

Dr. Van Riper and I hurried down from New York and moved Bettyann in an ambulance to a Richmond hospital where some of the epidemic victims were being cared for. Then I settled down to wait and worry. None of the children was stricken, but Bettyann told me her left leg, shoulder and arm — plus her back and abdomen — were hit. And then she said:

"Now look here. I know who's taking care of me, but who's taking care of you?"

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"I mean you had better pull yourself together."

That broke the tension. In two weeks my daughter was moved to Warm Springs, the place I knew so well. Thereafter, as our various schedules permitted, we visited her there — her husband, my wife and I. We watched her fight her way back to health, asking every day about the children back on the farm. She never lost her confidence. Despite her condition, she even looked forward to sharing Christmas with her family.

And she made it. On December 19 I waited for the Culvers at Union Station in Washington, D.C. Down the platform came Bettyann, not on a stretcher but in a wheel chair, beaming, loaded down with Christmas presents.

"Pull yourself together," she called cheerfully. ■

THE ANIMALS TAKE OVER

Offbeat holiday movie short offers a warning

Mankind's extinction through warfare is the somber theme of an unusual animated cartoon to be released by MGM next Friday. Entitled Good Will to Men, the eight-minute, Technicolor fable opens in a ruined church, where a choir of mice is caroling, "Peace on earth, good will to men." One asks, "What are men?" — and the leader explains. With the help of background battle scenes, he describes how humans destroyed themselves by failing to practice what they preached. The result is odd Christmas movie fare — but it does provoke sober thought. Example: Breaking a 30-year precedent, the Southern California Motion Picture Council has given the film its highest citation, never before awarded to an animated cartoon.

BEWARE THE NEW MEDICAL QUACKS

Today they offer streamlined 'clinics' and uranium 'cures.' But they still are peddling death

by GEORGE P. LARRICK COMMISSIONER, FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON.

LATE IN 1954, reputable doctors notified an aging postal clerk that his cancer-stricken wife would die. In his grief he heard about a "cancer clinic" which, he was told, had effected remarkable cures.

This man was no ordinary sucker for fake medicine vendors. As a postal clerk he had seen the mail of such operators stamped "Fraudulent." He knew of the Government's efforts to stop such rackets.

But the accounts he now received dealt with no snake-oils, no mysterious rays, no miracles, no panaceas. They concerned a "clinic." To the mailman, as to most people, "clinics" meant solemn men in white working to save lives — in short, expert treatment. He fell for the racket, and a pathetic story began to unwind.

He called the "clinic." For $500, plus the airplane fare (paid in advance), a "specialist" would come and examine the patient. Family cash was long gone, but that made no difference to the postal worker. He borrowed the money and begged the "doctor" to hurry.

On a Sunday morning, the out-of-state practitioner solemnly examined his patient, then conferred with the husband. He said he could not promise a cure but claimed he had cured more advanced cases of cancer in the past. Medicine, in this instance, would cost $400. The grief-racked postman borrowed an additional $100, promised to send the rest when he could get it. The visitor left.

A week later — after several doses of the wholly ineffective medication sent by the "clinic" — the patient died.

An extraordinary case? Not at all. Simply a peculiarly heartless example — one of pitiful thousands — illustrating the slick techniques used today by medicine's con men.

Our records disclose that the same "cancer clinic," whose imposing fake specialist flimflammed the old postman out of better than $800, treated more than 6,000 misguided patients during a recent two-year period. The medicine these victims received was an herb concoction which a Federal court has found to be utterly worthless against cancer.

No, medical quackery isn't dead. We still have the magnetic-ray belts, the secret salves and tonics. Today, however, you can hardly find such articles in any store. Medical quackery has simply changed its ground. The big operators have modernized it to become more dangerous than ever. The death dealers of medical fakery now wear the trappings of science and professionalism. They may even be located in imposing quarters, with white uniforms and gleaming equipment to impress the prospective customers.

Today these charlatans lead their victims to believe that they can cure cancer, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, arthritis — anything and everything. Many legitimate medical and scientific centers struggle along in surroundings much less sumptuous than quack clinics. No wonder the public is taken in.

Medical fakers use today's headlines to their advantage. For example, the public interest in uranium, the source of atomic energy, has resulted in a whole series of phony cures. Some promoters in Western states who had been unsuccessful in mining uranium started charging admission to their abandoned mines. They sold tickets to people with arthritis, rheumatism, sinus trouble and other ailments, who paid as much as $2 an hour to sit inside the mines for "treatments."

Other operators actually have put uranium rock in packages and sold it. One of them used ordinary mattress ticking to make a "therapeutic" pillow. Three sizes were manufactured. The small size ($7.50) was for sinus trouble. The large size for arthritis cost $30.

Still other operators set up uranium "tunnels." Usually these were located in vacant stores and resembled large closets lined with packages of uranium rock, with cushions of the rock on benches along the sides.

Rocks Without Value

State and Federal authorities promptly cracked down on these operations. Radioactivity from low-grade uranium ore is without medical value. In fact, FDA tests showed there is more radioactivity in the dial of a wrist-watch than in those rock-stuffed pillows.

However, exposing swindlers does not always permit legal action against them. The Food and Drug Administration cannot regulate the practice of medicine. We touch only the interstate shipment of drugs and medical devices. Much money is available to contest every effort we make to enforce the law.

Bad as it is, medical fakery would be relatively minor if its practitioners cheated only hopeless cases. In such instances Quack Medicine's offense would in reality be simple fraud. But no such limitations are possible. The medical gyps often kill people who would not otherwise die. Thus their guilt, in many cases, is really that of murder.

In one case a young mother had a good chance of recovery before a quack saw her and made a successful pitch. She had noticed a small lump in one breast. Her family physician advised and even arranged an immediate operation. Then backyard gossipers told the woman about a "wonderful man," Otto Soles, whose treatment, they said, would prevent surgery.

The patient called on Soles. She found a man 69 years old living alone in the back room of what had once been a grocery. Across the front window was a sign, "Keystone Laboratories." Soles' products consisted of numerous "secret salves," a hair restorer, liquid solder, motor tune-up fluid, a battery additive and automobile polish. Incredibly, this formidable array of nonmedical products failed to daunt the young mother, and she agreed to try Soles' cancer salve.

After a few applications and several visits Soles advised his patient that her cancer was "dead." Of course, he was just talking. A little later the cancer became inflamed and ulcerated. Even then she accepted Soles' diagnosis: a "cold" in the "dead" cancer. The unfortunate woman continued under Soles' treatment for two and a half years before returning to her family doctor. Then she learned that it was too late for an operation to save her. Shortly afterward she hanged herself with a cord dangling from the call bell over her hospital bed.

Otto Soles was brought to court charged with practicing medicine without a license. The jury found him guilty. The judge imposed the maximum sentence under state law: $500 fine and six months in jail.

An even more flagrant case of killing by quackery involved a 17-year-old boy with diabetes. This once-fatal illness, like many others, has lost its former terror but does require careful treatment — frequent insulin injections and a strict diet. Naturally, diabetics dislike their "shots," which often are the only insurance against death.

For 11 years, the young man lived a normal life under the insulin-and-diet treatment. He became an architect and earned a good living. One day his father and mother overheard a conversation between two strangers about a new "treatment" for diabetes involving a product, made from cactus, called Sugretus. Later, they got some literature which stated that Sugretus would eliminate diabetic diet and hypodermic injections and cure diabetes.

The most casual inquiry at this stage would have elicited damning facts against the producer of Sugretus, a man living in San Diego. With no medical education, he had been in the roofing business when he decided to set up shop as a "laboratory." Moreover, he already was under Federal court probation for marketing his product as a treatment for diabetes.

Despite all these facts, the son bought some Sugretus; at the same time he was given the name of a practitioner in his home town. Under this practitioner's care, his insulin intake was first cut in half, then discontinued. About 10 days after his last insulin shot, the young man came home from work because he felt sick. The next day he went into a coma, and insulin was injected. It was too late. Two days later he died.

Like Otto Soles, the maker of Sugretus was hauled into court. His sentence was a $750 fine and a warning.

Both Sugretus and Otto Soles' "secret salve" are typical of the products promoted by medical fakers, who usually work with two major tools: the secret formula and written testimonials. Sometimes these are so transparent that they appear ridiculous, but sick and frightened people keep on falling for them.

Unquestionably, the defrauder's most effective tool is the testimonial. These documents — framed, published, shown privately to patients — serve the medical faker two ways. They substitute (remarkably well) for the medical degree which he doesn't have. And they tell the ailing sufferer exactly what he wants to hear: that a similar sufferer has been cured.

When legal action threatens, the quack usually seeks refuge in testimony of "satisfied" customers. Since the passage of the first food and drug law in 1906, the Food and Drug Administration has had to investigate thousands of testimonials. Investigation always reveals flaws. These may range from the simple case in which the "satisfied customer" did not exist, or at least did not know his name was being used, to the complicated situation resulting from mistaken diagnosis by a reputable physician.

Fortunately, there are not many instances of mistaken diagnosis available for the quack's use; but every big operator acquires a few of these gilt-edged "cures." However, the courts have long recognized that even sworn testimonials are unreliable and will not admit them in evidence.

Quack salesmanship often includes attacks designed to undermine confidence in accepted treatment and in the medical profession itself. In the language of the quacks, surgery is "butchery," and X-ray or radium treatments are "cooking" or "burning."

Ironically, the most cursory check will usually unmask quackery — but many sick patients don't want to unmask the fraud. They much prefer to believe even if their belief is ill-founded. Here, the ethical physician can do much to protct his patient from quacks. Dr. Charles S. Cameron of the American Cancer Society points out, "When the legitimate physician gives up the fight, patients naturally seek out the cancer quacks... There is no doubt that the responsible doctor's place is beside his patient through good times and bad. There is never any need to say to anyone that all hope is gone — for it never is."

"RADIOACTIVE" PAD is shown in use. Sold as a sinus cure, it proved to contain "no detectable radioactivity."

Medical quackery is one of America's most desperate health problems, and it is growing daily. The Food and Drug Administration can deal with only one phase of this problem: interstate traffic in fake medicines and phony medical devices. Our manpower for this work alone is inadequate. True, the Federal Trade Commission and Post Office are also working to stamp out medical fakery, to prevent false advertising and mail-order swindles. But more is needed.

America needs to wake up to the fact that a cult of medical swindlers is at large peddling death and fraud.

We must realize that these evil practitioners are criminals and should be dealt with like other criminals.

Much good work is already underway. This work must be expanded. More interest is needed on the part of the health professions; so are better state medical practice laws and more effective enforcement of these laws.

Finally you, the reader of this article, have a public duty to be interested in this critical problem. Inform yourself about the qualifications and standing of those to whom you entrust your life. You wouldn't call in a plumber to fix your television set, but that would make good sense compared to calling a quack to tinker with your health.

If I could impress upon you only one thing, based on my 32 years of law-enforcement experience in this field, it would be this: Don't be a sucker about your health. ■

HOW TO TELL A QUACK

1 Is he licensed to administer the kind of treatment he offers?

2 Is there something "secret," special or exclusive about his formula or device?

3 Does he use advertising or testimonials to attract patients?

4 Does he promise to cure?

5 Does he say that medical science is against him or fears his discovery?

6 Does he attack recognized methods of treatment and seek to undermine your confidence in the medical profession?

If you or your family have had recent experiences such as those described in this article, write to:

we're SKATING!'

owe their medals and Olympic hopes to Mom — who doesn't skate

will do a double axel — two turns in mid-air — a stunt done only by her and Tenley Albright.

OZONE PARK, N.Y.

There is talent in every child, believes Mrs. Marie Heiss. "It is up to the parents to find that talent and help it grow," she says. "The best way to find it, I think, is to play with your children as often as you can."

While playing with her older daughter, Carol, Mrs. Heiss found the tot — then 2½ — roller-skating with the zip of a teenager. Two years later she took Carol ice-skating, was astonished to see her tiny daughter skim breezily around the rink. That convinced Mrs. Heiss; she got Carol a professional instructor.

Now 15, Carol (at right on cover) will waft onto the ice at Cortina, Italy, next month to compete in the 1956 Winter Olympics. A member of the U.S. figure-skating team, Carol is rated second best in the world — topped only by teammate Tenley Albright, 20.

Mrs. Heiss didn't stop her talent hunt with Carol. When her daughter Nancy and son Bruce successively reached 5, they too went out on the ice with Mother. Today — at 14 and 12 — they're hopefuls for the '60 Olympics.

Ahead, though, are more hard work and staggering bills. Each morning Mrs. Heiss routs her brood of skaters out of bed here at 5:30, bundles them off to the New York Skating Club in Manhattan. Under the eye of instructor Pierre Brunet they practice from 7:30 to 10 or later, then trot off to the Professional Children's School. After three or four hours of intensive study, they're either back on the ice till 5 in the afternoon, or at ballet class (a must for figure skaters).

This schedule is expensive. Brunet's lessons are $6 a half hour for each child; ballet costs $10 an hour. There are tutors' fees when they miss school ($5 an hour), skating costumes ($60 to $80 each), traveling expenses (Carol's Olympic trip will be her third skating jaunt to Europe, but the first paid one; her mother, as always, will pay her own way).

The bills — over $15,000 for Carol alone so far — are borne cheerfully by Mrs. Heiss and her husband, Edward, a baker. (Neither, oddly, was ever much of a skater.) They get tempting cash offers for Carol to turn pro, but Mrs. Heiss wants Carol to go to college. "If she wants to turn pro after that," she says, "it will be up to her. We've done our part by helping her find what she can do." ■

'COMING OF AGE' IN 3 FAITHS — NO. 3

A Catholic Girl Takes Her Vows

At her Confirmation, a 9-year-old is anointed a 'soldier of the Lord'

READY in white Confirmation gown, Sharon gets final check from mother.

by JACK ANDERSON and FRED BLUMENTHAL
PARADE WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS

WASHINGTON, D.C.

This year Sharon Ann Stoffel, 9 years old and a leggy 53 inches tall, found classwork harder at St. Francis Xavier parochial school here. She entered Grade 4A, which meant starting to study history and geography — and a new look at the outside world. More important, she began preparing for Confirmation as a Roman Catholic — a new look inside herself.

The religious lessons and practice ceremonies left Sharon a bit awed. A thoughtfulness touched her piquant, lightly freckled face. There was a shade less abandon in the shake of long dark curls around her shoulders. As a devout young Christian she anticipated — correctly — a momentous event.

To a Catholic, Confirmation represents one of the supremely sacred rituals of a Christian life (though not absolutely requisite to salvation). Confirmation is a spiritual coming of age, the rite in which the Holy Ghost or Spirit is invoked by the Bishop and descends to abide in the Christian soul. With Confirmation, a Catholic becomes a soldier of the Lord, a defender of his faith. He shoulders the responsibility to proclaim his religion, to be faithful in its practices and to give his life — if need be — for his beliefs.

Occurring usually about two years after the first Con-

Tape them in a gay border around your mirror, mantel or archway, or hang them as ornaments to trim a "Friendship Tree". Tight-sticking "SCOTCH" Cellophane Tape holds cards securely. Tape them to glass or woodwork (not wallpaper or painted walls).

Another bright decorating idea: use colored "SCOTCH" Gift Wrap Tape to make attractive designs . . . trees, stars, flowers . . . right on a window or mirror! It's so easy to be clever with tape—no wonder these new Christmas customs grow more popular every year!

SETTLED in their pews, young confirmands listen as Archbishop O'Boyle steps down from altar to tell them of the importance of the Sacrament they are about to receive.

Rich pageantry of Confirmation brings children into church fellowship

CLIMAX of the rite comes for Sharon when she kneels before Archbishop to be anointed and receive blessing. Woman touching her shoulder is one of two sponsors.

fession and Communion, the Confirmation ritual represents a religious evolution from the original laying-on-of-hands practiced by Christ's Apostles. Attendant ceremonies are among the most solemn of the seven Sacraments on which rest the Catholic faith. Preparations for Confirmation are meticulous.

Every day for three weeks in school Sharon and her classmates were lined up according to size and put through the entire ceremony in practice. Altar boys substituted for the Bishop and priests who would officiate at the real services. Afterward, Sister Superior Margaret Elizabeth conducted classes on the meaning of Confirmation.

Upon Confirmation, she explained to her young charges, the Holy Ghost would come to each of them in a special way. This Spirit, she promised, would bring divine light for the intellect and strength for the Christian will.

Almost every day in school, the young Confirmation candidates were told edifying stories about steadfast Catholic youths. One they particularly liked was about a Catholic boy who found a White House pouch and promptly returned it. As a reward, he was invited to the White House to lunch with the President himself. The meal seemed fit for a hungry boy — turkey with all the fixings — but the youngster, newly confirmed, spoke up politely that it was Friday and, as a Catholic, he couldn't eat meat. Impressed, the President cheerfully changed the menu to fish.

At Sharon's home, 43-year-old Ted Stoffel and his auburn-haired wife, Catherine Ann, shared their small daughter's preparations. They coached her on her Catechism and rehearsed questions the Bishop might ask before the ceremony.

A high point for Sharon was selecting a new name of a Saint whose virtues she would strive to emulate. Her choice: the Blessed Virgin Mary. Two of her aunts bore the Confirmation name Mary, and Sharon herself had been cast as the Blessed Virgin twice in school plays. After Confirmation, she would not only try to attain her Patron Saint's qualities of purity and holiness but would be entitled to sign her name as Sharon Ann Mary Stoffel.

Two near-catastrophes almost wrecked the family's plans for Confirmation. Mr. Stoffel went to the hospital for an emergency appendix-gall bladder operation and returned only two days before the "deadline." Then, barely 48 hours before the services, Sharon awakened with a slightly woozy feeling. She was almost panic stricken. If she missed the 1955 Confirmation at St. Francis Xavier parish, she would have to wait a full year for another.

Then . . . the Big Event

Mrs. Stoffel hustled her daughter to the doctor, who diagnosed the trouble as a slight virus infection. Back home she went and into bed, where she was dosed with antibiotics. Up again Saturday, she took no chances and stayed indoors. She played with her next-door girl friend, Gloria Fiordaliso, and romped a bit with Vicky, her bulldog.

Early Sunday morning, Sharon and her mother rode to church with Gloria and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fiordaliso. The girls received Holy Communion at a special children's Mass, then hurried home for final preparations.

Fully an hour before Confirmation, Sharon and 161 other young worshipers assembled at the school adjoining St. Francis Xavier Church, excited and ready for the big event. They quieted solemnly as the Sister Superior formed girls and boys into separate columns.

Gifts, a party and congratulations bring Sharon's great day to a close

then gave the word to march into the church.

Right on schedule, the children moved into the soft light of the church, their red and white robes gleaming against the dull maroon backdrop of the high brick interior walls. Hands folded in supplication, they marched slowly up the long aisle toward the candle-lit, flower-decked altar. Soft harmonies of a mixed choir singing in Latin echoed from the choir loft.

Attired in the scarlet robes of his office, Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle waited before the altar while the children filed into the front 15 pews, boys on one side, girls on the other. Then he stepped down to chat informally with the children and ask questions about Confirmation. Sharon, eager to answer, raised her hand at each question, but the Archbishop gave each child his or her turn. After the informal quiz, he spoke gravely about the ceremony ahead.

"After you receive the Holy Spirit in Confirmation this afternoon," the Archbishop told the children, "you are made strong in the faith and you have a new Grace . . . By receiving the Holy Spirit, you will love your God and love your neighbor. It will be a terrible calamity if you receive the Holy Spirit and love God less than you do now. It would also be a tragedy if you loved your neighbor less . . . Ask God immediately after you receive Confirmation to make you strong in the faith."

Concluding his brief talk, the Archbishop mounted the altar and turned to face the congregation. He was an impressive figure in crimson against the flame of six altar candles behind him. He extended his hands and prayed that God might send the Holy Ghost, with His seven gifts, to the children confirmed. Making the sign of the Cross, he took his seat in the Faldstool, an armless straight chair backed against the altar between two standing priest-assistants in cassock and surplice.

The Master of Ceremonies for the ritual, Father Walter Schmitz, stepped forward and carefully placed the gold miter of his office atop the Archbishop's red skull cap, called a zuchetto. He placed the golden crozier, shaped like the shepherd's crook it represents, in the Archbishop's left hand. The formal ceremony began as the sound of Catholic hymns in Latin again swelled from the choir loft.

The children came to the altar from their seats by twos, first the boys and then the girls. Each child handed to one of the standing priests a card bearing both family and Confirmation names. The youngster knelt devoutly before the seated Archbishop. Two sponsors took places at their sides, with a hand on the right shoulder of each candidate for the Sacrament.

The priest standing on the Archbishop's left lifted a small golden vessel containing the Holy Chrism, a mixture of olive oil and the juice of balsam trees, symbolizing Grace. The Archbishop dipped his right thumb and anointed each kneeling child on the forehead with the form of the Cross as he spoke a prayer and a blessing. He then gave the child a light blow on the cheek with his open hand, a symbol to remind the child that he must be ready to suffer everything — even death — for the Lord.

"I sign thee with the sign of the Cross," the Archbishop intoned in Latin

READY FOR BED after a full and exciting day, Sharon kneels to say evening prayers — which now have a new meaning for her.

as he anointed, "and I confirm thee with the Chrism of salvation, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

As the last two children were confirmed, two altar boys approached the Archbishop, one bearing a vessel containing sliced lemon and bread crumbs, the other a pitcher of clear water. The Archbishop cleansed his hands of the sacred Chrism oils with lemon juice and bread crumbs, rinsed them with water, then rose and gave the Confirmation benediction: "May the Lord bless you from Sion, that you may see the blessings of Jerusalem all the days of your life and that you may have eternal life." The ceremony was finished.

Children in the front pews remained reverently silent throughout the ceremony, although inevitably there was some fidgeting. They all were scrubbed within an inch of their lives, and it was quite obvious that each boy had been to the barber for a fresh haircut. From the adults in the rear pews came whisperings and rustlings as fond parents craned their necks to keep sight of their offspring. Afterward, in the bright sunshine outside, children met their parents, then headed home for post-Confirmation celebrations.

A gay party awaited Sharon at home. She found the dining-room table laden with cakes, cookies, candies and fruits. While her mother prepared coffee for the grown-ups and soft drinks for the youngsters, Sharon excitedly opened her Confirmation presents.

The house quickly jammed with guests, including Protestants and Jews who stopped in to congratulate Sharon. Friends continued to show up intermittently until after dark. At last, at 8:30, Sharon, happy but exhausted, was glad to be tucked into bed — but not until she knelt to say her evening prayers. ■

TEEN-AGE TOPICS

Many parents find it difficult to answer their children when they ask about sex — either because their own knowledge is faulty or because their own questions to their parents were sloughed off with embarrassed evasions. The best advisers say that children should be told the answers to the specific questions they ask, but should not be given long scientific explanations before they are ready for them. Many of you are writing to me because you have had difficulty discussing this matter with your parents. Here are some of your letters.

Q. I am a 12-year-old girl. I have asked Mother about sex, but she says she will tell me when I am older. I have talked about it with a girl friend, but what she told me just puzzles me. I think if I'm old enough to know the stork didn't bring me I should have an explanation, don't you? — S.H., La Junta, Colo.

A. Girls and boys ask these questions at different ages; perhaps your mother does not remember being interested in the subject so early. Educators know, however, that some children begin to ask such questions as early as the third or fourth year and feel that they should be told what they are able to understand.

Some time ago I mentioned a booklet put out by the Child Study Association of America. As a result, the Association received many requests for it from readers of this column. It is called When Children Ask About Sex. (Write to the Child Study Association of America, 132 East 74th St., New York 21, N.Y., enclosing 30 cents in stamps or coins.) Call your mother's attention to the booklet; it may help her discuss the subject with you comfortably.

Q. I am a girl almost 14. My parents have reason (they think) to believe that I am turning bad. I like boys, but what girl doesn't? At what age is it proper for girls to go in cars with good boys? At what age is it permissible to smoke? — R.C., Fairfield, Conn.

A. A child that does not have his parents' complete confidence is often unhappy and defiant. I know that some parents are excessively anxious over their daughters' reputations; however, it is a very difficult age for parents because it is hard indeed to protect children against the very real evils in every community. If the relationship between child and parent is such that discussion of problems seems very difficult or embarrassing, the child should have an opportunity to talk to the family doctor, a teacher or other adviser about the things that puzzle him.

Parents are usually the best judges of just who is bad company for a child. Let them meet the boys with whom you wish to go in cars, and abide by their rules concerning your returning home.

I do not like to see teenagers smoke at all. You must work this out with your parents.

Q. I am a girl 12 years of age and many people take me for 15 or 16. I don't look a bit my age, except that I don't wear make-up. My parents take me for a baby; I can't wear even a dash of lipstick. — S.C., Valley Stream, N.Y.

A. I think your parents are very sensible. Most girls of 12 like to pretend that they look at least 16. Although in some communities girls of your age wear a little light lipstick, at least to parties, I don't like to see it even then. You have plenty of time in which to grow up.

Q. You are insulting juveniles' dignity and self-respect by persisting in your column that we let our parents have the final word as to whom we should date, when we should be back home and other matters of etiquette. I know that state laws give our parents the right to control our lives, and no one should be encouraged to try to violate the law, but you could use your influence to correct those laws. Or are you one of those Victorians who believe we are too stupid to run our lives and so should stand helplessly by while our parents ruin them for us? — B.L., Salem, Va.

A. I believe in the protection of minors. The parentless "wild children" of wartime and postwar Europe are pathetic examples of what happens when children must fend for themselves.

Seamed and weather-beaten at 55, Tracy's face still transmits humor and strength — male qualities both.

Hollywood's least-known star . . .

Spencer Tracy

He wanted to be a doctor—and later sold pianos. He also learned, as few others have, the fine art of acting. Here's how he hit the top.

. . . Second of two parts

by LLOYD SHEARER PARADE WEST COAST CORRESPONDENT

HOLLYWOOD.

When Spencer Tracy first came here 25 years ago, he played the part of a dapper young convict in a prison film, Up the River, with another newcomer, Humphrey Bogart.

The picture finished, executives of the old Fox company advised Tracy that he lacked the indefinable magic it takes for stardom. Subsequent screen tests by other studios confirmed this opinion. Wrote one MGM observer, "If this fellow can act, he sure does an admirable job of hiding it." Cracked another, "Spencer Tracy has as much sex appeal as a watermelon."

Today, as he approaches the peak of his career — The Mountain (recently finished) and The Old Man and the Sea (upcoming) probably are his last pictures — Tracy is good-naturedly tolerant of these judgments.

"The plain truth," he says, "is that I never thought I'd last in pictures. Matter of fact, I don't know how I have. Guess it's luck."

This statement is no affectation on Tracy's part. At 55, white-haired and venerable, he seems genuinely incapable of analyzing a success that over two and half decades has brought him wealth, prominence, two Academy Awards, boundless popularity, an asking price of $250,000 per picture and the rare high regard of both critics and colleagues.

"I'd like to say," he admits, "that I have a theory about acting. But I don't. It's just that I was born a sentimental Irishman, and I play the parts the way they react on me."

Clark Gable, one of Tracy's buddies — they co-starred in three memorable films, San Francisco, Test Pilot and Boom Town — feels that Tracy's success can be attributed in part to the catholicity of his appeal. "He's got the kind of personality," Gable says, "that seems to belong to the common man. He has a tremendous range. A woman sees him in a movie, and she goes home and says to her husband, 'Why don't you behave like Spencer Tracy?' Everything Spence does on the screen seems plausible."

"He is one of those few actors," adds Elmer Rhoden, chief of Fox West Coast Theaters, one of the largest chains in the country, "who is liked equally well by men, women and children of all ages. For years his name on a marquee has meant money in the box office."

In Hollywood, where he is known as "the actors' actor," Tracy is credited with the introduction of the subdued "underplay" technique, the restrained throw-it-away type of acting currently in vogue. Whenever he's making a picture the sound stage is crowded with young players come to learn.

What they see is a painstaking, finicky actor. No matter how well he does a scene, he rarely is satisfied with it. "What I try to do mostly," he says, "is play a part honestly."

"What Tracy really does," says director Eddie Dmytryk, "is to watch himself in every scene. He rarely goes in for broad emotion, and he usually directs himself."

Carroll Tracy, the star's older brother and business manager, points out: "Spence is a damn' good actor because he spent years learning his trade. He was 30 before he came to Hollywood, and for years he'd been earning a living touring the country as a stage actor. Unlike many of the kids who get a break in films today, Spence came up the hard way."

Spencer Tracy was born on Prospect Avenue in East Milwaukee, Wis., on April 5, 1900. "My father," he says, "was John Edward Tracy, an upstanding God-fearing Irishman who was general sales manager of the Sterling Motor Truck Company. My mother, Carrie Brown Tracy, was descended from American colonial stock. Under the circumstances neither of them wanted me to become an actor."

Priest, Trucker or — ?

John Tracy hoped that his red-headed, freckle-faced son would succeed him in the trucking business, while Carrie Tracy suggested the priesthood as a likely career. (One of Tracy's aunts was a nun.) But the boy had no fondness for schooling.

When World War I broke out, he quit school for the Navy. He put in six months at Norfolk, Va., then was honorably discharged with a monthly education allowance of $30. Returning to Milwaukee, he changed his mind again, finished high school and enrolled in Ripon College (Ripon, Wis.) with the notion of becoming a doctor. One day his English instructor stopped him in the hall. "Tracy," he said, "you're always arguing so much. I want you to join the debating team."

From debating Tracy progressed to dramatics. Suddenly bitten by the acting bug, he decided to go to New York and join the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. (Years later Ripon College awarded him an honorary degree in dramatics.) One evening he phoned his father and broke the news.

"It sounds like a silly idea to me," the elder Tracy replied. "But if you really want to become an actor, I'll pay your tuition if you can live in New York on the Government's $30 a month."

Bad parts once drove him to drink. Today, things look brighter

Spencer agreed and moved into a West 56th Street boardinghouse with a boyhood friend named Pat O'Brien, who also had come to New York with dreams of becoming a big actor.

"That $30 a month didn't go very far," Tracy remembers. "I was broke several days before the end of each month. So I studied dramatics as I'd never studied anything before in my life. Always in the back of my mind was the idea that I'd never have enough money to finish the course, and that I'd better learn all I could as fast as possible.

"Pat and I used to read lines to each other, rearrange the furniture and pace back and forth doing bits of business as if we were in front of the footlights. The other roomers used to yell at us to shut up. When I look back on it now, it seems like a lot of fun. But at the time it was rough.

"One week I missed eight meals in a row. I was still attending class, but I knew I simply had to get a job or starve. I hit every Broadway agent in town. Finally I went down to the Theater Guild and asked for any kind of work. I must've looked as if I needed it. They put me on as a $10-a-week robot in the play R.U.R."

In Tracy's second play, The Man Who Came Back, he was advanced to a speaking part. He was given one line to shout at the end of the first act. The line was, "To hell with him!"

"It wasn't very much," according to Mrs. Tracy, "but Spence yelled it so loudly he always got a round of applause."

A Backstage Romance

The actor met his future wife, Louise Treadwell, when both were members of the same stock company; they were married between a matinee and an evening performance. Louise soon retired from the stage, and to supplement his earnings Tracy took her back to New York and temporarily became a piano salesman. For a while he also worked as an auctioneer. Then he learned that there was a role open in Ethel Barrymore's Royal Fandango company. He got it, but the play itself fared none too well. More stock company work followed.

In 1925 the Tracys' son John was born — deaf. This was a turning point in Spencer's life. To give his boy the best medical care available, he threw himself into his work with unrestricted energy.

All told, he appeared in more than 200 plays before landing the role of Killer Mears in The Last Mile on Broadway in 1930. The play was gradually dying when a prison break in Auburn, N.Y., made the front pages. Overnight The Last Mile began to play to standing room only.

In a matter of months, Tracy was in Hollywood for a convict's part in Up the River. At that moment another unknown actor was playing Killer Mears on the Los Angeles stage. His name: Clark Gable.

For the next two years Tracy played "nothing" parts in "nothing" pictures: Quick Millions, Goldie, Six Cylinder Love, Society Girl, Bottoms Up. Hardly anyone remembers them. Many Hollywood veterans, however, remember this as "Tracy's drinking period." Says one friend:

"He got involved in an emotional problem, his son came down with polio and he was getting absolutely no satisfaction from his work. He began hitting the bottle."

Tracy himself is refreshingly candid about it. "There was a period," he says, "when I was drinking pretty heavily between pictures. I guess it was a question of frustration. I was hoping month after month to get something in which I could make a name for myself. But they gave me nothing but junk. My brother Carroll used to come around and say, 'What are you dissatisfied about? Stick with it. What more can you ask?' Well, eventually they fired me at Fox. But I was lucky. Metro took me on and finally I got a couple of good parts.

FIRST REAL RECOGNITION of Tracy's acting ability was 1938 Academy Award for Captains Courageous. Here he is seen with Freddie Bartholomew (left) and John Carradine.

ROMANTIC PARTS came Tracy's way during the World War II shortage of leading men. He was 45 when he starred opposite Katherine Hepburn (above) in film, Without Love.

SINCE THE WAR Tracy has returned to character roles, as in 1950's Father of the Bride, with Elizabeth Taylor (above), and his Western hit of last year, Bad Day at Black Rock.

The Big Change

"I did Riffraff with Jean Harlow, Whipsaw with Myrna Loy, Fury with Sylvia Sidney — we put in a lot of 21-hour days on that picture. Then I did San Francisco with Gable. And after that people would come up and say, 'You sure have changed. What's made the difference?'

"The difference was that I felt I was going somewhere, accomplishing something. I wasn't just standing still."

By 1938 Spencer Tracy was the No. 1 U.S. box-office attraction. A year later he won a second Oscar (his first was for Captains Courageous) with his sensitive portrayal of Father Edward J. Flanagan in Boys Town. Simultaneously he began to worry whether he'd last.

"I wonder," he used to say, "whether the public will accept me as a priest . . . I wonder if I can get away with playing Thomas Edison . . . I wonder if I can ever play a romantic part."

"For years," claims Eddie Mannix, MGM general manager, "Tracy has spent most of his spare time worrying. He is without a doubt the world's champion worrier."

In 1945, for example, when Tracy decided to return to New York to star in the late Robert Sherwood's play, The Rugged Path, he drove almost everyone concerned to the brink of a nervous breakdown.

"Suppose," he would ask the author, "I forget my lines?" Or he would approach director Garson Kanin: "Suppose we find ourselves playing to an empty house? Suppose I louse up the second-act curtain? Suppose I can't hold the audience?"

Eventually, Tracy got so worried that he decided to abandon the play before it even opened. At this point his friend Katharine Hepburn told him to come to his senses, and Tracy snapped out of it. However, he has not appeared in a play since.

For many years Tracy lived in a Spanish-type ranch house in the San Fernando Valley where he helped raise two children, John (now 31) and Susie (now 23), plus chickens, horses and dogs. Recently the house was condemned to make way for a highway, and Tracy moved to Beverly Hills. But he still refuses to permit photographers or reporters to invade his home.

When I suggested to him that after 220 plays, 59 films and 25 years of stardom he was entitled to see his life story in print, he cocked his white-maned head to one side and grinned.

"I'm not kidding myself," he said. "In this racket I'm just a passing fancy. Who cares about Spencer Tracy? In our family it's my wife who counts." ■

Sky-borne and deadly, the Stratojet is the "office" aloft of a native Santa Anan, Maj. Jose L. Holguin, USAF, a career man of the Air Force and the "three-headed monster" of the crew—navigator-bombardier-observer.

By Maj. Grover Heiman Jr.

IF HERNANDO CORTEZ had had any idea of the military capabilities of a descendant of one of his young naval captains, he might have developed an inferiority complex.

If not that, the 16th century conquistador of Mexico no doubt would have gladly traded his entire military force for the services of this descendant and his B-47 Stratojet and crew.

The descendant is Maj. Jose L. Holguin, observer on the three-man crew of a B-47, the medium all-jet bomber of the Strategic Air Command, the nation's long-range nuclear striking arm of the U. S. Air Force.

The officer recently topped 14 years of Air Force duty by putting his crew in the winner's circle during the recent SAC Bombing and Navigation Competition at March Air Force Base. Holguin and his teammates represented the 93rd Bomb Wing, which is stationed at Castle Air Force Base, Calif. They outperformed all others during the week-long event.

It was a gruelling contest, calling for three 3,000-mile missions to be flown over a route which covered the west coast like a blanket. Bomb runs were made on targets in Los Angeles, Sacramento and Spokane. In addition, Holguin had to solve a series of intricate navigation problems from his darkened "office" in the nose of the speeding Stratojet. He helped prove in a large measure the aircraft's bombing capabilities.

HOLGUIN HAS STRONG ancestral ties to Spain on both his mother's and father's side. His father, Jose S. Holguin, traces his family back to a naval captain who came with Cortez from Spain in 1521, and settled in the area of Guadalupe, Mexico. His mother's ancestors came from Oviedo, a little coastal fishing town in Spain, and settled in the same general area of Mexico in the 1600s.

The major was born in Santa Ana on Feb. 1, 1921, shortly after his parents came there from Guadalupe. His mother's grandparents migrated to California around 1880; she met his father during a family trip back to Guadalupe in 1919.

Holguin has two sisters, born during visits to his grandparents' ranch near Guadalupe, and a brother born in Arizona. Both sisters, Hope (Mrs. Don Pruett) and Angelina (Mrs. Manuel Villalobos), now live in Los Angeles. His brother, Ruben, is a professor of art, Spanish and history at a Los Angeles High School.

Before entering the military service Dec. 17, 1941, Holguin attended Belmont High School in Los Angeles, where he was a member of the Eulexian Society, a scholastic honor society. His principal sporting activity during high school was track.

JUST 10 DAYS after Pearl Harbor, Maj. Holguin checked into the Army Air Corps flying school at Mather Field. By August 1942, he had won his navigator's wings. In November of that year, he wound up combat phase training in B-17 Flying Fortresses at Tucson.

When Christmas of 1942 rolled around, Holguin found himself a member of the 43rd Bomb Group, based at Port Moresby, New Guinea. He flew 40 combat missions with the 43rd before he came a cropper.

In June, 1942, while on a raid against the Japanese naval base at Rabaul, New Britain Island, his B-17 was shot down. Holguin was wounded, but managed to evade capture almost a month. He spent the remainder of the war as a Japanese prisoner. Once, during the confusion of an allied air raid, he was creased on the scalp by a bullet from the rifle of a trigger-happy Japanese guard.

After the war, he served a brief tour with the recruiting branch of Headquarters Fourth Air Force in San Francisco. In June of 1946, he was reassigned to Randolph Field, Texas, as an instructor and liaison officer for South American students training at Randolph. While there, he received a letter of commendation from the Guatemalan government for his work. He also served a tour of duty at Williams Field, Arizona, in the same type of job.

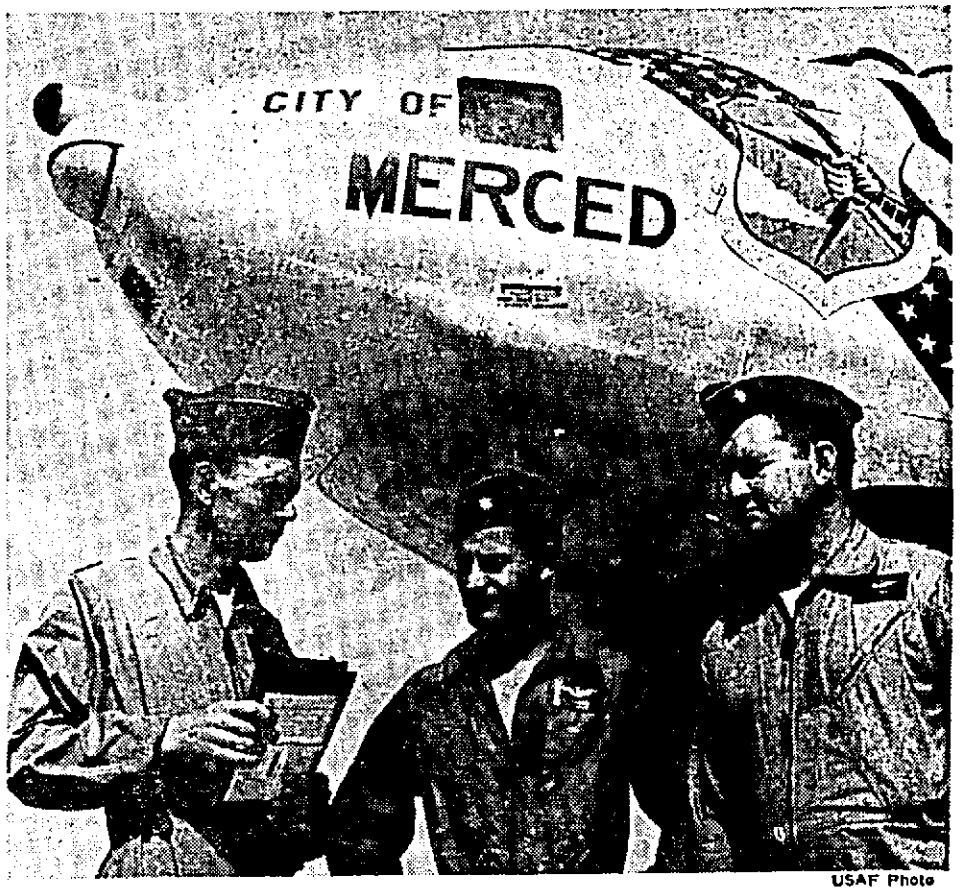

In 1948, Maj. Holguin began to get back into the bombing business when he attended the Air Force Bombardment School at Mather Air Force Base, Calif. At graduation in 1949, he placed second in his class in both bombing and academic phases.

THEN CAME HIS longest tour of military duty at one station. He was assigned to Castle Air Force Base, Calif., where he served six and one-half years continously as a combat crew member, actively participating in the development of the Strategic Air Command medium bomber force from the propeller-driven B-29 of World War II fame to the modern all-jet B-47 Stratojet. The major served as radar operator on both the B-29 and its modernized version, the B-50.

After conversion of the Castle wings to B-47s early in the medium jet transition program, Major Holguin became the observer —the "three-headed monster"— of a three-man Stratojet crew, performing the functions of radar operator, navigator and bombardier.

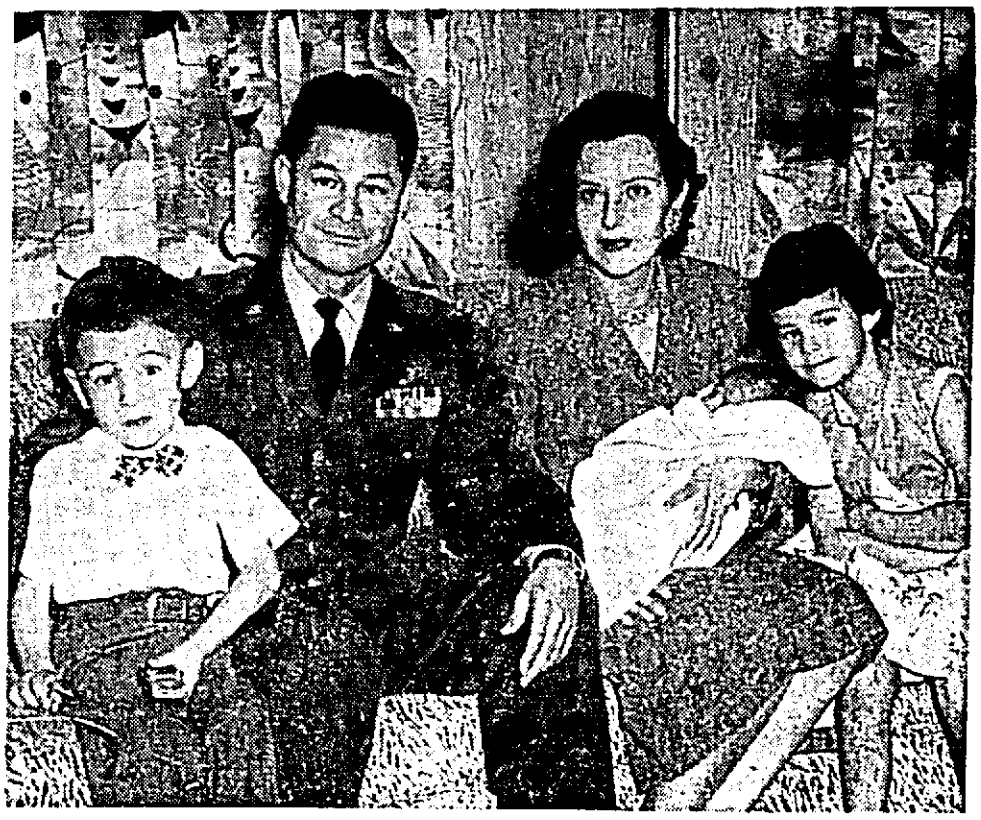

The major has made strong contributions to the world-wide reputation of SAC crews for bombing accuracy. In 1949, he was instrumental in the development of an automatic, slant-

Santa himself is big attraction in Santa's Village at Skyforest, above San Bernardino. Here he feeds burro.

Opportunity to ride a sleigh drawn by real reindeer is feature of Santa's Village. Here's one of the reindeer, surrounded by group of happy gnomes.

The North Pole Is Nearer Than You Think

Giant Jack-in-the-Box smiles down on gnomes, visiting children as they pamper the tame, playful livestock.

Through a Gothic archway, visitors may enter Chapel of the Little Shepherd to view a scene of Nativity.

By Harry Karns

SOME FOLK still think the North Pole is at the northern end of the earth's axis.

Humbug.

It's about 80 miles from my house by car, and much nearer by flying sled.

It's at a place called Skyforest near the Rim O' the World Highway in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The North Pole is there, and it is made of real ice. Also there: A Santa Claus whose whiskers won't pull off, a sleigh pulled by real reindeer, multicolored toadstools, gnomes, and a toy soldier and a jack-in-the-box who stand three times as high as the average 35-year-old boy. Also: A giant candy cane that would give Paul Bunyan a tummyache, a clock that tells time in months, a chapel with a nativity scene, and a lollipop tree—all tucked away in an evergreen forest.

MAYBE SANTA comes to your house only once a year. But if you live in Southern California, you can go to Santa's just about any time of year. (They'll be closed Christmas Day, however.)

For instance, four smaller children and I visited there late in August and found the sleigh bells ringing merrily along with the cash registers. Santa's Village is not only a very pleasant and attractive place, but also a most successful one. In its first six months of business, it has drawn 400,000 visitors, counting grownups.

What fascinates most visitors about Santa's Village is the animal life. Nonchalant, self-confident reindeer, burros and goats wander around the premises poking their noses into coat pockets in search of apples.

The reindeer, by the way, were imported from Alaska. They number more than 30.

According to the management, Santa's Village has the world's first and only sleigh ride drawn by reindeer.

THAT IS, THE FIRST and only such ride that ever existed outside a story book or the imagination of small folk.

You might expect such a distinction to go to a reindeer's head, but actually there isn't an arrogant reindeer on the premises.

AVAILABLE at Santa's milk bar are baby bottles—not for human babies, but for the goats and burros. I saw no reindeer drinking from baby bottles. Reindeer are too dignified for that sort of thing. A burro, however, will drink from your bottle, search you for peppermint, and follow you to an outdoor table and sit down to share your lunch.

If you have never eaten lunch with a burro, you are not a cosmopolitan. It is not exactly like eating with Emily Post, but you would be charmed I'm sure.

For this kind of entertainment you spend very little. However, if you feel determined to spend money at Santa Claus Village—well, I cannot tell a lie, it is possible. The management has thoughtfuly made gift shops and rides available at strategic spots.

WHILE CASH REGISTERS jangle in the Village, they are discreetly located at the exits. During your stay, you carry a little card on which your hosts keep a record of purchases. On the way out your bill is tallied.

Explains H. Glenn Holland, president of the enterprise: "Santa's purchase order system was instituted so that his visitors would not be exchanging money in every one of his workshops. Our feeling is that this helps preserve the tradition of Santa in the eyes of his sharp-eyed little visitors."

There's some good psychology in that. Though I heard one little sharp-eyed visitor arguing with his daddy:

"Why can't I ride the sleigh again? It doesn't cost you nothin'."

GRAMMATICALLY SPEAKING, that's correct. But to be fair, the prices are in line with other Southern California amusements.

And how can you put a price on this kind of dialog:

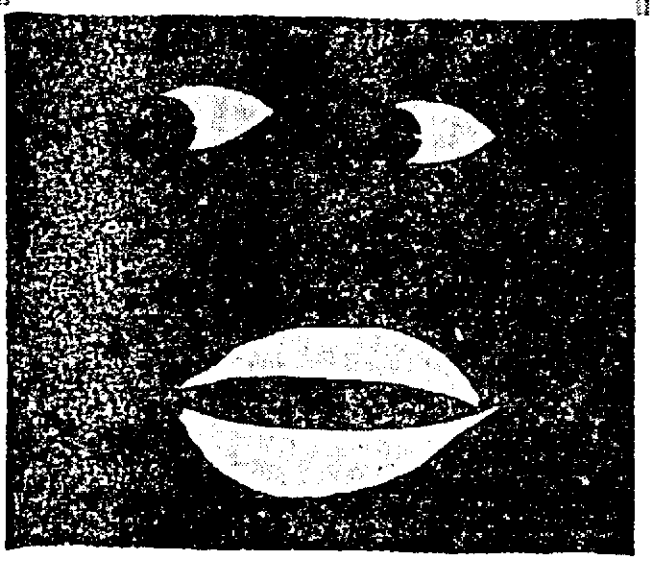

"Daddy, I'll be right back. Watch my malted milk, will you —don't let the burro get it."

From Long Beach follow Highway 18 until you come to a livestock crossing where a burro is sitting under an evergreen drinking malted milk.

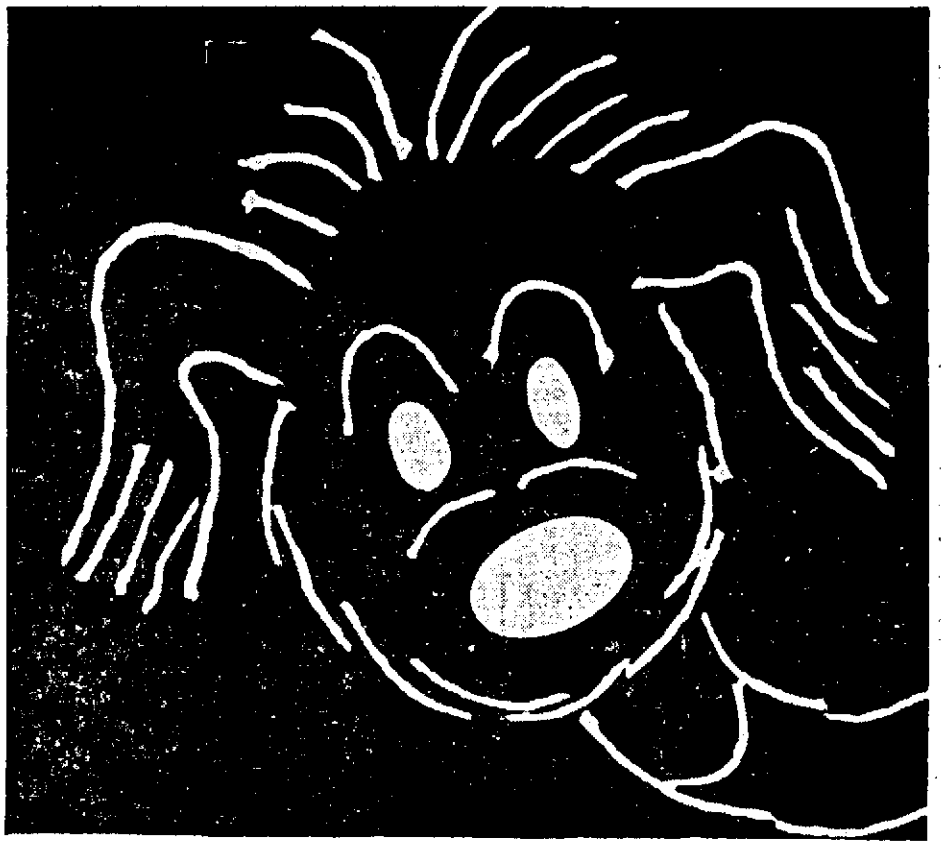

Toy soldier towers tall, straight and dignified.

Look Ma! No Camera!

Here's a native of Darkest Africa in a coal mine at midnight, lights out. Made of leaves, paper cutouts.

Even "Fido" joins the photogram family album. His sweet eyes are sugar-coated almonds, sticky nose is a paper label, the rest of him is twine.

By Michael Kosinski

ARE YOU dissatisfied with your snapshots?

Are your pictures out of focus?

Are there too many gadgets on your camera to understand it?

Are you a—er—lousy photographer?

If your answers to the above questions are yes, you can produce portraits "the photogram way." You'll be proud to hang the results in any saloon (or is it salon?).

Anyone can produce photograms. They are pictures made without a camera by direct exposure of opaque and transparent objects upon photographic paper.

For a cash outlay of about $2 your local photo dealer will supply you with easy-to-mix chemicals, instructions and photographic paper with which you can make 25 8x10 photograms.

No previous photographic experience is necessary—only a minimum of materials and a resourceful imagination. If you experiment with such objects as thread, clips, coins and paper, soon you'll discover that your photogram will mold into any composition, texture or design

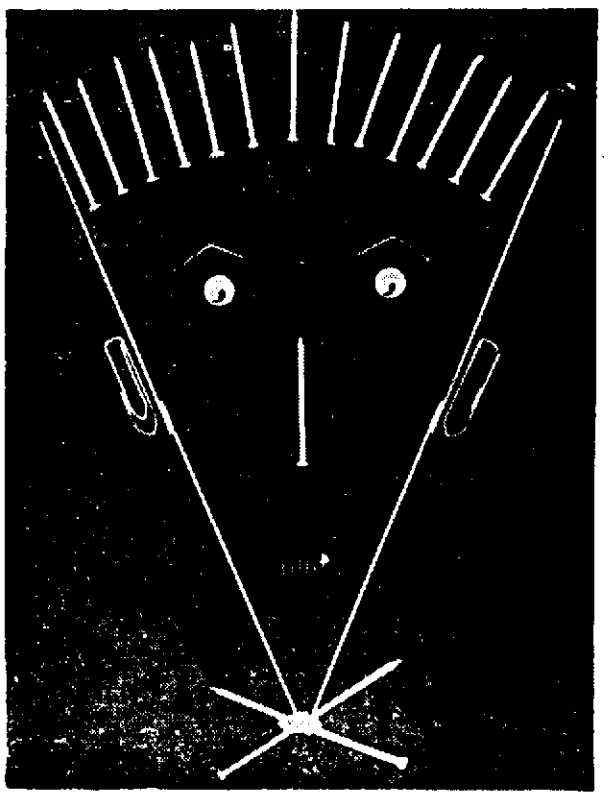

Your production of photograms does not require any complicated equipment or costly materials. In a dark room with a red or amber safe light, the photogram is made by simply placing objects —such as keys, feathers, your own hand—directly upon the photographic paper and turning on the room light for a few seconds. The opaque objects, not permitting light to pass, leave that area on the paper white, while the uncovered portions of the paper turn black when placed in the developer for a minute or two.

In an illuminated room you can compose more complicated designs on a sheet of clean glass which is later placed upon the photographic paper for exposure to light.

The photograms which you see here are a new dimension in photography and humor. It doesn't take much time to imagine appropriate objects for humorous photograms. The opportunities you'll find are unlimited.

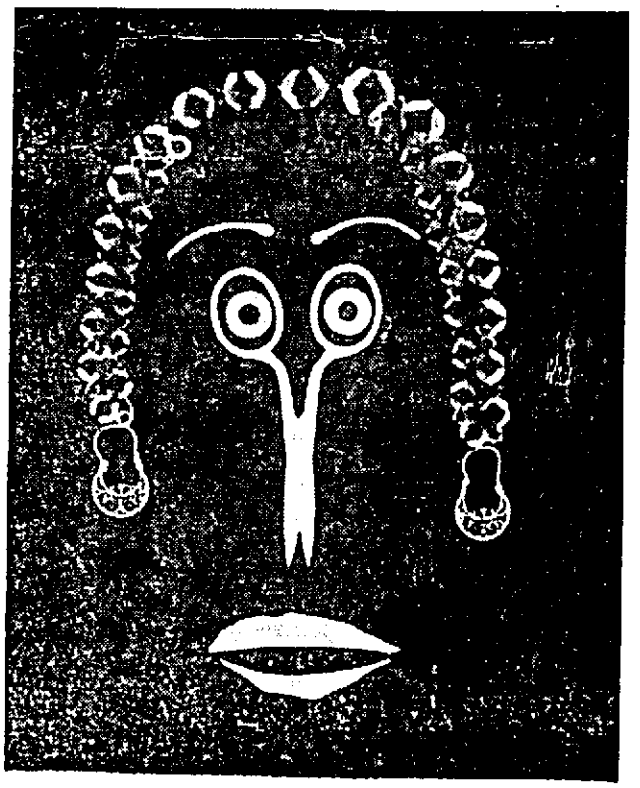

"Woman Just Out of Bed." Chin of camera release cable, nose of girdle garter clasp and hair of rubber bands.

This is a self portrait of the author, with eyes of thumb tacks, a spring mouth—you can recognize rest.

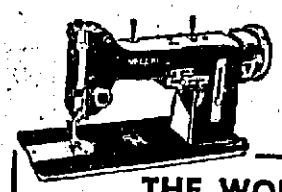

"Uncle Zeke Sees a Bikini." Rubber, paper washers are eyes; cotton, cord and a compass complete the rest.

Grandma's nose is very sharp, lips are dried leaves. Earrings, washers, matchsticks, beads finish portrait.

While some of his colleagues look on, Dr. Roy Alexander Thornton (right) shows how Santa should look.

Santa Claus Professor

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

DR. Roy Alexander Thornton, business administration professor and corporation consultant who now makes his home in Huntington Park, has won many distinctions in the pursuit of his educational specialties but around the campus—and even in the directors' board rooms of the country's leading business institutions—he's most frequently referred to as the "Santa Claus professor," a title that delights him more than a whole string of doctor's degrees. Dr. Thornton is a foremost authority on the subject of Saint Nick and conducts extra-curricular courses on the history of the jolly, white-haired gent and other Christmas lore.

It all began as a hobby about 15 years ago and later developed into a major research project when Dr. Thornton's own three small youngsters kept pestering him the year around for more of his enthralling Christmas stories. As he delved deeper into Yuletide history, Dr. Thornton became a veritable walking encyclopedia of everything pertaining to Christmas down through the ages.

Today his lectures on the subject fill auditoriums in a dozen California towns whenever his regular work schedule permits him to accept engagements to speak before civic groups, conventions and Sunday school classes.

"PSYCHOLOGISTS MIGHT find something significant in the fact that my Santa Claus lectures often are better attended than my business administration classes," Dr. Thornton says. "It would seem that people are more interested in folklore than in the hard realities of economic life."

Santa Claus—as we know him—has existed only since 1823 when Clement Clark Moore wrote the poem, "The Night Before Christmas," says Dr. Thornton This inspired Thomas Nast, famed cartoonist, to make the first sketch of the beloved character shortly before the Civil War.

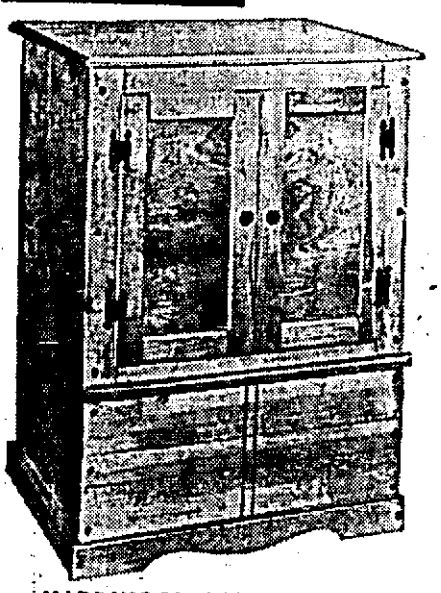

"Gift giving at the Christmas season began in the Fourth Century," Dr. Thornton recalls, "when Bishop Nicholas of Myra in Asia Minor—now Turkey—started giving food and clothing to the needy on his own birthday, Dec. 6. After his death, the custom continued as a memorial and Dec. 6 was called St. Nicholas Day.

THE CUSTOM SPREAD to Europe and in Holland the words "Santa Claus" appeared for the first time, according to Dr. Thornton's research. Spelled Klaase, the word is a German derivative of the Christ Child and the Dutch Santa was an elfin-like representative of the Child who appeared on St. Nicholas Day, and took orders for delivery on Christmas Eve. He wore a flat black hat and long-tailed Flemish coat, and when he returned on Christmas Eve, he was supposed to ride a white horse.

"The word "yuletide" stems from a midwinter celebration of pagan northern Europe, called "Hweoltid," later changed to "yuletide." This festival, Dr. Thornton's study revealed, came about because, as the days grew shorter in winter, the pagans feared that the world was going into permanent darkness. So, when Dec. 21 had passed and they could see the days beginning to lengthen again, there was fasting and jubilation, and masters gave gifts to their servants. The church accepted the returning light to Hweoltid as a gift from the Christ Child, who brought light to the world.

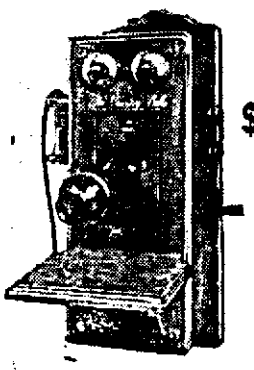

"But Christmas in America will always be exemplified by the kindly and bewhiskered old gentleman with his sleigh and prancing reindeer," Dr. Thornton acknowledges, "a priceless gift of poet Moore's fertile imagination."

New Queen of Musical Comedy

HAVE YOU MET Shirley MacLaine, blue-eyed, long-legged, curvaceous and freckle-nosed 21-year-old who skyrocketed from obscurity to top stardom on stage, screen and TV, all in one little old year?

You may have that opportunity during the Christmas holidays when "Artists and Models," Paramount's VistaVision-Technicolor film musical comedy is scheduled for release.

Shirley wowed movie scouts in her very first appearance in "The Pajama Game," hit Broadway stage show. And why not? She's 5 feet 6 inches tall, measures 34-24-34. Besides, says Hal Wallis, producer of "Artists and Models," she's a "near-genius," that she "combines continental charm with American wholesomeness."

In her newest screen role she models, romances with Jerry Lewis, plays receptionist, and dances, dances, dances!

Paramount, which claims to know a good thing when it sees one, regards her with the degree of affection that might be accorded a newly-found uranium mine.

Queen of "Artists and Models," new musical comedy film, is blue-eyed, freckle-nosed Shirley MacLaine.

Shirley is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, measures 34-24-34. And she dances, dances!

Her producer says she combines continental charm with U. S. wholesomeness.

It's Strictly for the Birds

By Helen Smith

Washed up on the beach by a comber, this iron kettle now hangs in an apple tree as a feeder for the birds.

FREQUENTLY the items that make the most desirable and interesting features around the household are not the things purchased in the stores.

Because of an unusual find, one of the favorite spots of our home centers around our apple tree. It is not the crisp fruit the tree bears each fall, nor is it the pink and white blossoms clothing the branches in the spring that is the chief attraction.

Rather it is the "different" bird feeder hanging within the shade of the spreading boughs that causes this place to attract the entire family.

The bird feeder, a little iron kettle just five inches in diameter and obviously many years old, came rolling up on the beach via a huge comber one summer day, possibly from the bottom of the ocean, where it may have been confined in the galley of an old sailing vessel for decades.

ALTHOUGH IT MUST have bubbled with many a concoction in bygone days, the kettle now holds offerings for the birds as it swings in the breeze. In the spring and summer there is an assortment of seeds. Now that winter is at hand, pieces of suet and bird "cookies" made from ground fat and peanut butter lure the migrating songsters.

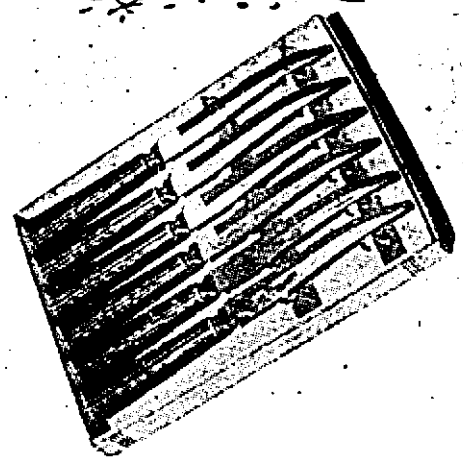

While the birds nibble at the food we like to imagine the dishes the little kettle once produced. Pungent, rich sauces perhaps. Or delicious delicacies redolent with spices from the Far East to tempt the captain's palate as a schooner followed the four winds over the blue-green sea.

Now the little kettle, rocking gently in its quiet haven, is content to hold only sustenance for the feathered visitors to our garden.

Cockroach in the Compass

By Clarence Bernard Propes

IT IS PRETTY WELL established that the Scandinavians were in America before Columbus.

First of all they settled Iceland and they tell of finding Irish books and other objects when they landed. There is even a pamphlet called "The Irish In America Before Columbus."

The Welsh would probably sneer at such Irish claim for they are said to have had settlements on the Florida coast before Columbus appeared. They could also tell of a Welshman captured by the Tuscarora Indians of Virginia in 1685. He got along fine for Welsh seems to have made up a great part of the tribal language.

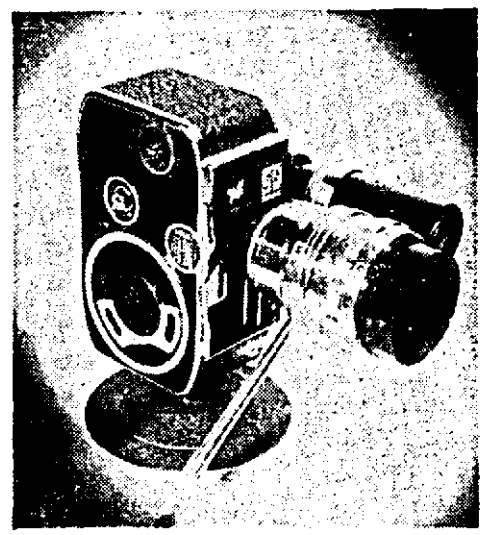

IF PHOENICIANS were still around they would sneer at the claims of everyone for they would call attention to certain Phoenician inscriptions high on some rocks near Rio de Janeiro. According to some scholars, these were engraved 800 or 900 years before Christ. Other scholars say the writing is strictly phony but no one has yet been able to prove anything. The Chinese enter the picture, too. If they are anything like their Russian brethren they will start making claims of various "firsts." Chinese history is long and glorious and their literature is vast but they will turn to an American newspaper to prove they discovered America. The paper will be the New York Tribune of Sept. 10, 1890.

It isn't unlikely that Chinese, as well as other peoples of the Pacific Ocean, landed in North America. A current flows from the far reaches of the Pacific to these shores. A drifting boat, caught in this current, would almost inevitably land on this coast. For instance, glass floats from the nets of Japanese fishermen can be found in many curio shops. Many of these floats were found on California beaches. However, there is a great deal of difference between flotsam and discovery.

Because of a bug in a compass, 'tis said, a Chinaman discovered California.

ACCORDING TO the Tribune, proof was found that the Chinese discovered America 200 years before Christ. An American missionary, the Reverend Dr. Shaw, discovered a manuscript in an obscure Chinese town which revealed the discovery.

According to this document a Captain Hee-Ll, the owner and commander of a trading vessel, was caught in a great storm and driven far out to sea. When the storm abated the captain set a compass course for the east and home. It seems that a "yang-si" bug which closely resembles our cockroach had died under the compass needle, wedging it so that it pointed south instead of north.

It should be mentioned that

Dig That Young Man-About-Town

"Dress-alikes and "Just-like-Dad's" ride the crest of the tide of new, colorful ideas in California designers' fashions for spring. For instance: new continental-collared casual jackets for boys that imitate Dad's. They have waist-length styling with insets of elasticized all-wool knit for a trim and bulk-free look. The Bee "easy-open" neckline is a feature of shirts for the whole family and is a gimmick of the dress-alikes that's popular. Sportswear gains new designs and color combinations. Men's suits and accessories acquire new treatment in a trend to bring back individuality, elegance of age when men wore more frills.

Two young men about town, each reflecting in dress the California trend toward casual jackets for little boys that look exactly like the clothes for Dad.

"Crazy Stripes" puts the whole family in dress-alikes . . . comfort assured, and ultra-stylish, too. Broad front panels offer contrast with the stripes.

These Girls Are Mostly French

Trans World Airlines' high flying hostess corps — over 900 strong and handsome — is 20 years old this month.

These smartly attired, personable young women symbolize TWA service over the airline's 33,000 miles of world air routes, according to Meriam Filkins, TWA's flight service manager, who heads the corps.

She recalls the first class of 23 hostesses, of which she was a member, who went aboard TWA's latest and fastest transport—1935 version—the Douglas DC-2. All of them were Registered Nurses, between 21 and 26 years of age, between 5 feet and 5 feet 4 inches tall, and somewhere between 100 and 118 pounds—minus their heavy gray serge, man-tailored, long-coated uniforms trimmed with epaulets and patch pockets.

As the air transports increased in size and configuration over the years, so did the hostess group. Today's fashionable TWA skygirl is between 21 and 28 years old, between 5 feet 2 and 5 feet 8 inches tall, and between 105 and 135 pounds and has some college or three years of business experience behind her. If she serves on TWA's international routes, she generally knows another language beside English.

About 80 of the more than 900 hostesses flying TWA routes are based in Paris and fly within Europe, Africa, the Middle East and India. In the majority, the girls are French.

Hostess training classes—in both Kansas City and Paris—are always in session because of high marital "attrition" among the group. The girls are trained for a period of four to five weeks, then are given a period of in-flight training.

COOKING

Festive Christmas Breakfast

By Mildred K. Flanary

Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

IT'S HOLIDAY TIME! Holiday time brings throughts of gay decorations, mysterious bundles, great quantities of wonderful foods and, of course, lots of at-home entertaining. The mood and the hour of these festive occasions are usually governed by family tradition.

In the Palos Verdes home of Dr. and Mrs. Grant Beckstrand, 1400 Via Monte Mar, a holiday breakfast is being planned. With the unique and luscious menu underway, Mrs. Beckstrand is giving equal attention to the decor. Tinsel, Christmas baubles, mistletoe and sprigs of holly berries will all weave themselves in to a warm and festive setting, thoroughly in keeping with the piece de resistance of the day.

Her menu reads like this:

Fruit Juices—Orange, Grapefruit, Tomato
Oeufs a la Suisse
(Eggs Swiss Style)
Little Pork Sausages
Mimi's Muffins
Coffee

Now for you who are all agog with anticipation of partaking in Oeufs a la Suisse, here is Mrs. Beckstrand's recipe:

Oeufs a la Suisse

In an earthenware casserole place 2 cups grated Swiss cheese, 3 tablespoons butter, dotted over the cheese; 1½ cups champagne or dry white wine, 1 teaspoon each finely chopped chervil, parsley, chives, and shallots; salt, coarsely ground pepper and a small grating of nutmeg. Cook the mixture over a gentle flame, stirring constantly until the cheese melts and bubbles. Lower the flame to the finest peint and beat into the mixture, 6 egg yolks, beating briskly after each addition. Then add, mixing well, the 6 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Continue cooking the mixture, stirring constantly from the bottom and sides of the dish until it is well scrambled. Serve immediately on fresh made toast. To heighten the flavor, each piece of toast may first be spread with 3 tablespoons butter, mixed with ½ teaspoon each anchovy paste and onion juice.

Mimi's Muffins

2 cups cake flour
2 rounded teaspoons double action baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
5 eggs
½ pint thick cream

Beat egg yolks, add sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add cream and beaten egg whites. Stir. Bake 20 to 25 minutes at 375 degrees.

For those of you who find the holiday hustle and bustle has left you short on time, we suggest a Breezy Broiler Breakfast:

The Menu:

Broiled Grapefruit
Honey Muffets
Pineapple 'n Meat Broil
Toast Butter Jelly
Milk Coffee

HONEY MUFFETS

Mix together 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespons honey and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Place a tablespoon of mixture on each of 4 Muffets (the round shredded wheat biscuit).

GRAPEFRUIT

Cut each grapefruit in half; section each half and sprinkle 1 tablespoon brown sugar on top.

PINEAPPLE 'N MEAT

Arrange all foods on broiler rack; broil about 4 inches from heat until sugar is bubbly on Muffets and grapefruit. Serve grapefruit on small plates, the Muffets in cereal dishes with milk and the meat on an attractive platter. Easy? Yes!

Baked Eggs

Chop very fine 1 medium-size onion. Cook until golden brown in tablespoon butter. Add 3 tablespoons minced canned mushrooms, 1 teaspoon chopped chives, 1 tablespoon Sherry wine, 3 tablespoons tomato sauce, 3 tablespoons bouillon and let cook until reduced to one-half. Divide evenly in 6 baking dishes. Break two eggs in each dish and pour 1 teaspoon cream over each dish. Sprinkle with salt. Set in hot oven for 5 minutes or until eggs are just set.

Potato Pancakes

¾ cup mashed potatoes
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup flour
4 eggs, separated
1½ cups equal parts potato water and evaporated milk
½ cup chopped onions (if desired)
Pepper

Mix potatoes with flour and salt. Combine beaten egg yolks and liquid and add to dry mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on hot griddle. Makes about 14 cakes.

Festive with gay baubles is the scene for Christmas breakfast being prepared by Mrs. Grant Beckstrand.

Only the Best in Recipes

Aiming at making "just average" cooks great ones and good cooks "masters," Marvin Small has compiled a volume to delight the heart of any gourmet in his "World's Best Recipes" (Hawthorn Books, $5). Small admits a measure of literary license in his title but does claim to have a prize collection of cooking achievements on a world-wide scale.

Small has made his selection from among the recipes of the top chefs, best restaurants and leading authors of books on cooking, to whom an egg is far more than just something the hen laid and a stew is a work of art, not just a mess of boiled up meat and vegetables. Among his sources, too, are many of the world's leading restaurants and their most successful recipes. Scores of his recipes are preceded by chatty comments well calculated to tickle the funnybone as well as stimulate the appetite. His field ranges from the everyday to those culinary specialties not for the gouty.

Provincial Charm in Cape Cod Manner

Brick barbecue, pass-through and spacious floor area combine to make the Don Stages' family room a splendid place for entertaining, family activity.

Photos by H. S. Melvin

Cape Cod tradition was followed in styling the exterior of this house. Dormer windows offer interest.

By Eileen Ball

MANY PERSONS devoted to the early American trend in furniture and architecture haplessly acquire the belief that such allegiance must necessarily include much detail, use of the so-called "warm" colors and an endless array of such bric-a-brac as salt boxes, old butter churns and wash boilers (all converted to planters).

Actually, much of what was best about the typical American house of the 18th century (and this still stands for good taste today) was the prim simplicity that lent many Cape Cod houses an atmosphere of near-severity.

This purity, descriptive of the typical wooden, dormer-windowed house of that era, made the Cape Cod structure capable of accepting almost any style of furniture providing it was modest.

Apparently well versed in the background of the Cape Cod cottage are Mr. and Mrs. Don Stage whose two-story 3200-square-foot, early American house at 5250 Los Flores attests to this young couple's cognizance of just what was best in the residence of the 1700s.

The gray shingle siding used for the exterior is modestly trimmed in snowy white, for the muntins of the multi-paned windows, the shutters, dormer window boxes, paneled recessed porch and for the prim coach lantern post that stands beside the winding brick pathway leading to the door.

RUFFLED UNBLEACHED muslin tie-back curtains at the three dormer windows echo the handsome, fully-pleated and tied-back muslin curtains that hang in rich, opaque folds across the living room bay.

The entry hall is unusually interesting with its paneled walls painted soft buttercup yellow. The wallpaper is pale yellow, gold and snowy white in a traditional colonial medallion. And the focal spot of this area, the one that meets the eye from the doorway, is a recessed wall niche "framed" with a scalloped molding painted yellow. Within the niche is a small baroque-framed gilt mirror below which is a container (hidden by the molding) that holds seasonal flower arrangements. Thus, the atmosphere of the house — one of warmth, hospitality and traditional dignity — is established right here where apple blossoms, ruddy chrysanthemums, holly berries or daffodils "bloom" in season.

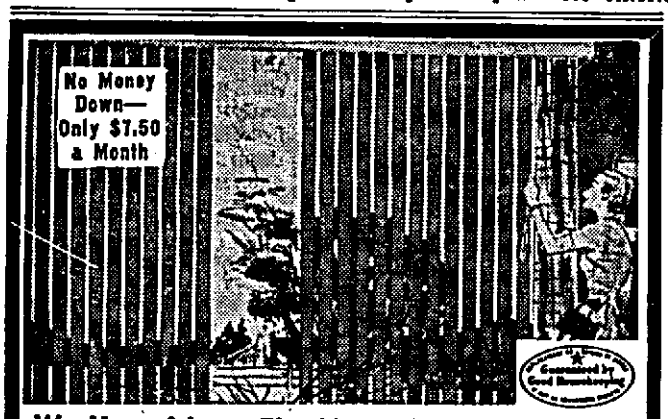

THE LIVING ROOM, in combination with the dining room, is imposing for its size and for the dignity of its appointments. It is paneled in Wedgewood blue and the paneled fireplace is painted to match. The firebox is faced around with pale blue tiles overglazed with white provincial figures and motifs. Brass sconces, an antique clock for the mantel, a polished tile hearth, on which the fire is merrily reflected, and a gaily painted, black tile wood bin accessorize the fireplace.

Spanning the width of huge bay windows in both the living and dining areas are padded cornice boxes covered in the same soft colored, floral-patterned chintz that was used for the upholstery of a pair of high-backed wing chairs that stand "pretty as a picture" in the living room bay.

THE DINING AREA, somewhat narrower than the extraordinarily wide living room which it adjoins, may be completely and attractively closed off with folding, louvered doors painted the same soft blue as the walls. Folded back, the doors are an attractive feature that effectively set off the dining set of provincial fruitwood.

The kitchen has all the modest charm associated with those of the old Cape Cod cottages. Its sunny yellow linoleum floor is banded in strips of chocolate brown. Richly waxed knotty pine cabinets hinged with black iron are integrated with yellow tile work counters. The service area, which is divided from the the preparation area by a low partition, is papered in a tiny-print "calico" floral employing tones of yellow, brown and china blue. The same paper was brought into the kitchen area above the plate line. A built-in pine desk and fully ruffled yellow organdy tie-back curtains complete this charming provincial picture.

The family room is handily located next to the kitchen which it joins by means of a divided Dutch door. Flanking the door is a wide pass-through that greatly facilitates the serving of food to large companies of guests. And well able to accommodate such groups is this roomy 17x22 foot area with its copper-lined brick barbecue capable of cooking to perfection a dozen steaks at a time.

THE ENTIRE ROOM is panelled with channeled knotty pine. Further adding to the atmosphere of provincialism are exposed rafters, a wide expanse of windows completely installed with adjustable pine shutters, wall-to-wall carpet of colorful random tweed, and a ceiling fixture consisting of an old wagon wheel hung with oldfashioned lanterns.

Near the Dutch door stands the round maple table with its lazy susan server and charming tavern chairs. Deeply comfortable chairs stand near the fireplace and in still another area of the room is a handsome pumpkin colored tweed wing sofa and round maple coffee table.

A short hallway from the family room leads to the master bedroom and its adjoining bath.

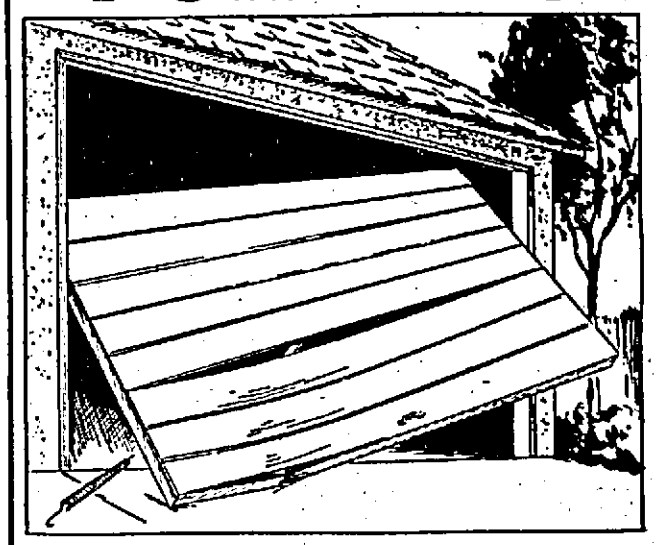

The bath, carried out in wedgewood blue and pale yellow, is extremely large and features an entired mirrored wall "framed" with a scalloped molding behind which fluorescent lights have been installed.

The master bedroom is furnished in antiques, the most outstanding of which is a high four-poster bed spread with a handmade ecru crocheted coverlet. The wallpaper is ivory with random clusters of oldfashioned field flowers. The trim is pale yellow, in coordination with the bathroom.

THE GUEST ROOM, located to the left of the entry, is carpeted in Confederate grey and, like the master bedroom, is outfitted with antique furniture. The coral bedspread has echoed

5 Million Acres Sprayed

The "spruce budworm" destroys tree life by eating the leaves.

This summer 2 million acres of trees, in Idaho, Oregon and Montana, were sprayed with insecticide, from airplanes.

In the years 1949 to 1954 six similar annual "budworm" control projects were carried out on three million acres in Oregon and Washington. The mortality average was 98 per cent.

The cost runs a little over $1 per acre. This is borne proportionately by the land owners; Federal, State and private.

The threatened timber in Idaho alone is estimated to be capable of producing 800 million dollars worth of semi-manufactured products.

She Rehabilitates Women Alcoholics

By Herbert Ford

Miss Lorraine Otis, above, reading Scriptures, leads L. A. program for rehabilitation of women alcoholics.

IN A SPRAWLING, 19-room home at 318 S. Occidental Blvd., Los Angeles, just off Lafayette Park, a quiet purposeful woman is pioneering in one of the most difficult areas known to sociologists — rehabilitation of women alcoholics.

Miss Lorraine Otis knows the scope of her task well, for she was once a hopeless alcoholic herself.

For the past year Miss Otis has been reclaiming alcoholic women from Los Angeles' Lincoln Heights jail, bringing them to her home, personally helping them guard the dangerous "fringe" areas that might lead back to uncontrolled drinking, fortifying them with strong practical and spiritual principles, and finding useful jobs near the home where a quck phone call can be made if "trouble" starts again.

"The job is slow and needs an almost uncanny understanding of the particular problems these women face," Miss Otis says. "Practically every area of these lives has to be completely reconstructed by patient, slow, and expertly guided work."

WHAT IS THE PROGRAM Miss Otis uses?

"First of all we are careful in our selection of girls at the jail," she says. "If a girl does not want to conquer her problems then there isn't much we can do for her. But if there is a spark of hope in her life she is a good prospect."

Miss Otis presents a weekly religious program at the jail and in this way brings "an awareness of eternal values and obligations" to otherwise hopeless lives.

"At the home we continue to cultivate this spiritual concept. But the purely physical and mental aspects of rehabilitation receive just as much attention. For example, normal social contacts, good reading material, group solving of everyday problems as well as individual self-reliance are stressed."

MANY GIRLS have "graduated" from the home to useful and successful jobs. Miss Otis is especially proud of one young lady, for 10 years a narcotics addict, who is today completely cured of her former habits and is one of the home's biggest boosters.

The road hasn't been easy for the slightly-built, courageous woman who has dedicated her efforts to this unusual work. Operated on a self-supporting basis, the home is always "just this side of the rent bill."

No religious or civic organization supports the home, for Miss Otis wants the program "unhindered by religious dogma or organizational complication. It operates best when it is simple," she says.

"OUR GREATEST SUPPORT comes from individuals who feel that reclaiming otherwise lost lives is one of the most important works in the world. Though this type of contribution is usually smaller than might come from an organization, still it means more for it is given 'without strings attached' and can be put to immediate work."

A devout member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church who was converted at one of the church's annual camp meetings in 1951, Miss Otis looks forward to a bright future for her alcoholic rehabilitation home. "Whenever people visit our home and learn of the program, they immediately want to help. And when more people hear of it there will be more help. Then we can care for more girls and the problem of rehabilitation of alcoholic women, in the entire Los Angeles area, will be lessened."

Man With a Lot of Drag

Editor of "Drag News," Dean Brown can no longer participate in racing but has never lost his interest.

—Drag News Photo

Sizzling action marks every session of the hot rods on the courses especially built for them. Here, a test of car and motorcycle is settled.

By Vera Williams

"THERE'S A LITTLE bit of the Barney Oldfield in everybody."

So says Dean Brown, 26, and because he believes it and because he has been a hot rod enthusiast all of his life, he publishes what he believes is the only drag strip newspaper in the United States.

He does it from a wheelchair because, in August 1952, he broke his neck in a highway traffic — not drag strip — accident near Blythe, and doctors say he will not walk again.

Brown's publication is Drag News, which comes out every other week, a 12-page newspaper covering the news of Southern California drag strips, their drivers and their cars. Newspaper offices are at 1736 E. Broadway. Drag News is published by the Independent, Press-Telegram job printing department.

THE PAPER has national circulation, although of course circulation is concentrated in this area. It may be obtained by subscription, or it may be bought at drag strips or speed shops.

Eventually Brown hopes to expand it to cover news of the upwards of 500 drag strips in the United States.

There are, he says, something like 10,000 hot rodders in California, something like 50,000 in the nation. In the main, they are boys and young men with a flair for speed and talent for building, rebuilding and handling cars. But there are some girl and young women hot rodders, and some of both sexes who are adults. Readers of Drag News largely are in their 20s.

"'HOT RODDER' isn't a term of criticism," says Brown, eyes flashing. "Your true hot rodder doesn't jeopardize life or limb — his own or anybody else's — on the highway. He goes to a drag strip, where he can race his car under approved conditions.

"He either has a car built for racing or a stock car that he has modified — at the expenditure of $100 to $200 and quite a bit of time. Generally speaking, he uses his car for regular transportation, to get to school or the job and home again, to take his girl out on dates.

"But — " Brown warms to the subject. "Drag strips also are open to Mr. and Mrs. Citizen who have no real interest in racing but would like to know their car's capabilities. Speedometers aren't always accurate; Mr. and Mrs. Citizen know better than to run their car at its top speed on the highways.

"They can go to a drag strip and for $1.25 or so get a complete safety checkup of their car, race it to find its top speed in the quarter mile and if successful in class eliminations, take home a trophy.

"TIMING IS FULLY electronic and is accurate to one-hundred thousandth of a second."

Timing distance of drag strips, says Brown, always is a quarter of a mile, 1,320 feet, with ample stopping room. Two cars race at a time. They start from a dead stop. They are timed two ways: the elapsed time, in seconds, required to cover the quarter-mile, and top speed, expressed as miles per hour, attained as the vehicle crosses the finish line.

Southern California drag strip records thus far are 152.007 miles per hour, and 9.68 seconds elapsed time, according to Brown. The 152.007 speed, chalked up by Lloyd Scott of Long Beach at the San Fernando strip last October, is considered a world drag strip record.

Local hot rodders usually go to the Lions Associated Drag Strip, opened by far-sighted Lions Clubs of this area last October at 223rd St. and Alameda Blvd.

OTHER DRAG STRIPS in this area are at the Orange County airport near Santa Ana, Los Angeles County Fair Grounds at Pomona, Morrow airfield at Colton, San Fernando airport and Saugus airport.

The all-out drag vehicle is stripped of nonessentials, and especially of nonessential weight. Its engine is toward the rear, resulting in more weight on the driving wheels; it utilizes a specially built body, and often as not a fuel injection system rather than conventional carburetors.

Instead of gasoline, a dragster is likely to burn such high oxygen-bearing fuels as methanol or nitromethane. Such fuel blends can cost as high as $20 a gallon, but the phenomenal engine outputs obtained apparently justify the expense.

BROWN, who was born in Salina, Kan., came to Long Beach in 1940 and was graduated from Wilson High School in 1947. He worked for North American Aviation Co., then served four years in the Air Force as a jet engine instructor at Sheppard Field, Tex.

The Blythe accident was followed by two years in the Veterans Administration Hospital. He and his wife, Billie, 25, a former Community Hospital nurse whom he met when he came home on furlough one time, were married last Feb. 13.

Billie is stenographer-secretary-cashier-telephone operator for Drag News; Dick McMullen, 25, who was a jet pupil of Brown's in Texas, is general manager; Carl Johnson, 36, whom Brown met when they both were VA Hospital patients, is business manager. Johnson, injured in World War II, also is in a wheelchair.

BROWN, McMULLEN and the Drag News photographers, Ed Teets and Bob Knight, spend Sundays at the drag strips covering events. Billie compiles the race results.

Crop in Close to Your Subject

IF YOU EVER find among your snapshots one in which your primary subject doesn't stand out as much as you'd like . . . if you are wishing you'd have moved in a little closer with your camera, stop the wishful thinking because the situation can still be remedied.

This remedy has a name. It's called cropping and enlarging. That's because you "crop away" all of the picture that you don't want, and enlarge the part that's left.

It's a regular practice among professional photographers and amateurs who do their own darkroom work. We know people who just never seem to make a print of a whole negative. Thus, they have a chance to improve their composition after the picture is taken.

But so does everyone—whether you do your own printing or not. Your photofinisher can do it for you.

All you need do is select the square or rectangular area of the snapshot that you'd like enlarged. Mark it on the print (use grease pencil and take it, with your snapshot if you want to save the negative, to your photofinisher.

It's a good idea to consult him about the size of your enlarge-

range computer for the Q-13 Bombing Computer, which greatly increased the bombing accuracy of B-29s operating from the Far East during the Korean War.

In 1951, he developed an attachment for a later radar bombing computer, which has since been incorporated in most of SAC's bombers and is now installed as standard equipment at the factory on the new eight-jet B-52, now being phased into the command at SAC's long-range, heavy bomber.

HOLGUIN HAS participated in five of SAC's seven annual bombing and navigation competitions. In 1952, he was a member of a crew that helped win the Fairchild Trophy for the 93rd Bomb Wing of Castle, the outstanding unit of the competition.

In 1954, his crew was the second highest scoring B-47 crew. This year, he and his fellow crew members out-navigated and outbombed all comers to top all crews entered in the competition, and to demonstrate to the world the extreme accuracy of the all-jet medium bomber.

In 1951 and 1953 he served as an operations staff member with the bombing and navigation competition organization.

Under SAC's spot promotion program, whereby flying crews are rewarded for outstanding performance with advancement in rank ahead of normal schedules, the major has held the rank of lieutenant colonel on two different occasions . . . once for two years for high crew proficiency. Upon winning the recent bombing and navigation competition, Holguin and the two other crew members were promoted again on the spot to lieutenant colonel.

IN JUNE of this year, Maj. Holguin's bombing proficiency made him the recipient of the first 15th Air Force Commander's Trophy, presented by Major General Walter C. Sweeney for outstanding performance.

Maj. Holguin was assigned to Strategic Air Command Headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., in September of this year as an operational staff officer. He was assigned as aircraft systems officer in the Tactical Requirements Division of the Directorate of Operations.

A future issue of "Combat Crew," SAC's monthly magazine devoted primarily to flying safety, has scheduled an article authored by Maj. Holguin on the observer in the jet age.

The major has more than 4,000 flying hours, including 500 hours in jet aircraft. His service decorations include the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross with one cluster, the Air Medal, the Purple Heart with one cluster, the Presidential Unit Citation with three clusters, the Asiatic Pacific Ribbon with three campaign stars, and appropriate service ribbons.

Today, Maj. Holguin is a solid family man. His wife, the former Celia Rebecca Martinez, of Garden Grove, has presented him with four children: Rebecca, 6; Curtis, 5; Claudia, 3, and Carlos, one month old.

The Holguins own their own home at 1028 North Olive St., Santa Ana, although they are currently residing at 910 S. 87th St., in Omaha.

EARL EVERELY again will play Santa Claus at the annual Christmas party of the Long Beach Cinema Club at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Houghton Park Clubhouse. Phyllis Weethee is entertainment chairman.

LONG BEACH Camera Guild will have a color slide competition at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Winners in the December black and white competition were Virginia Callender, first; Murray Shaner, second; R. Selvester, third; Murray Shaner and Clare Grounds, honorable mention. K. C. Grill, graduate of Los Angeles Art Center, judged the contest and answered questions about camera repairs.

Gene Nye, Guild exhibits chairman, has arranged a showing of black and white prints in the Jergins Arcade. Most of these 25 prints have won prizes in contests of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs, with which the Long Beach Guild is affiliated.

Murray Shaner won an award in the color slide contest, Triple A class, of the Photographic Society of America, held recently in Poly High School.

Cockroach

the Chinese did not use the marine compass until the Sixth Century A. D. and theirs pointed south instead of north.

THE CAPTAIN thought it mighty peculiar that he wasn't getting home, but he had faith in the compass so he sailed on and on.

One of the brainier seamen noticed something odd: "On the 25th day Hi-Thinc, one of the crew, suggested they must be sailing east since the sun constantly rose before them and set behind them, but Hee-Li promptly threw him overboard saying his fathers had trusted the compass since the Chow-Chop-Suey dynasty" and no uppity sea-lawyer was going to tell him how to navigate. He continued to sail on and on and on.

On June 10 he landed at what is now Monterey. Two days later one of his crew was polishing the compass and found the dead yang-li bug. At that point certain puzzling matters became clear to the indomitable Captain Hee-Li.

HE EXPLORED the coast 50 miles south and 100 miles north including San Francisco Bay. He traded with the natives and was deeply impressed by the glorious California climate. On his return to China he recounted his adventures and trade was set up with the California natives. Dr. Shaw could give no reasons why the trade died out.

This report seems to be the only written evidence that the Chinese discovered America. Orientalists have speculated on the matter and searched Chinese records but they can only find mentions of America well after 1492.

There is a liar there somewhere. Dr. Shaw may have been the liar. The reporter could have been a liar. Someone was. It's a cinch that Hee-Li wasn't.

PROVINCIAL CHARM IN THE CAPE COD MANNER

The Stages' family room achieves a feeling of provincial charm with its use of pine paneling and shutters.

he color predominant in the oral-swagged wallpaper featuring blossoms of pale coral and light blue against a ground of cream. An old cane-seat rocker and lavishly ruffled muslin tiebacks add notes of charm.

Located between the master bedroom and guest room is a tiny and completely captivating sewing room papered in oldfashioned cranberry-and-white print paper. White organdy curtains hang in prim flounces in the bay window. A sewing machine, vast cupboard and closet storage and a studio sofa combine to make this a wonderfully welcoming and handy place, not only for sewing but for "getting off to one's self" with a good book.

The second story is partially completed, featuring a large bath and a spacious bedroom for the Stages' two sons.

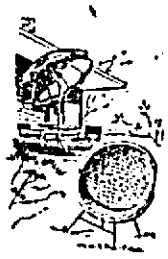

The vast uncompleted room occupying all that area above the living room, family room and kitchen is currently being used as a play area for the boys. Future plans entail its being divided into an overnight guest room for friends of the boys and a rumpus room complete with fireplace, refreshment bar, pool table, dumb waiter and dance floor.

PET PARADE

If Santa Claus Brings a Pet

By Eleanor A. Price

Puppies rate high on Yule gift lists. This basketful of mischief belongs to Peggy Pucci and Irene Coverley.

IT'S NOT EASY for parents to resist their youngsters' pleas for pets for Christmas, as children have persuasive ways. Their persistence brings to mind the cartoon by Galbraith in which one little boy says to his pal, "I can't tease Mom too much about the bike — I've got to keep her calm for my big job of pestering her for a dog!"

Therefore, next Sunday, many parents will find that their children have discovered a live animal under the Christmas tree.

It is an old, old theme, but it cannot be stressed too thoroughly or too frequently that a new pet that comes into the home must be treated gently and lovingly, and parents who consent to accepting a pet should realize that they are dealing with a life that is dependent on them for shelter, food, medical attention, perhaps exercise, training, grooming, and proper handling by the small children.

It is hoped, of course, that most parents do understand that teaching children the care and training of pets helps build character. Such groups as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Boys' Clubs and others actively encourage pet care, and it is never too early for the pre-organization youngster to learn to respect and protect his pet under all circumstances.

IF PARENTS cannot or will not take the time to assume the responsibility of teaching their children how to treat pets, then they should not permit Santa Claus to put one under the Christmas tree.

Right here it should be stated that it would be far better to arrange to have the pet delivered either a day or two before Christmas or after the day's confusion is over. A puppy or kitten plopped down in the middle of a bedlam of shouting children and mountains of ribbon and tissue paper might be frightened beyond bearing and get off to a bad start. And if he is handled and mauled to excess, even from adoration, and dragged around for the neighbors to see, the family may end up with a very sick animal, or a dead one.

So let the little fellow adjust himself to his new surroundings in a serene and relaxed way.

BEFORE TAKING the new puppy or kitten into the home, be sure to select a spot in the house he will be able to call his own. Have the proper bed ready to place there and one or two suitable toys. Certain other pets, too, may need corners of their own.

If the pet is to be a puppy, get in a stack of old newspapers in case the weather is damp and you have to paper-break him. If the pet is to be a kitten, he will need a box or low crate lined with oilcloth and filled with clean sand or prepared material available at pet stores. For other pets, have the proper facilities or cages ready.

Getting the Christmas pet started on the right foot is very important when it comes to food, for real kindness to an animal includes giving him a balanced diet in suitable quantity.

IF WHAT YOU serve is eaten and the pet thrives, then that food is probably right for him. The former owner of the pet may have valuable information to give you. Consult a veterinarian if in doubt.

THANKS to E. H. Speckman for this reminder: Fireproof Christmas decorations are poisonous to parakeets. The Speckmans know, for they lost a parakeet last year after it had sampled artificial snow under the Christmas tree.

CHRISTMAS-MINDED readers (and aren't we all?) should not miss the inspiring Christmas carols of the King's Canary Chorus in the Kings' Melody Patio at 1165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Daily from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., and intermittently throughout every day during this season (and after), these beautiful songsters perform free of charge, accompanied on the Hammond organ by Mrs. Bessie King. A tape recording was made when this unusual chorus thrilled an audience on Dr. Peter Slack's program, and it will be heard recurrently on radio across the country during the holidays.

'Aloha!' With a Lei

Colorful, sweet-scented "lei village," near Honolulu Airport, is popular with Hawaiians who select leis for traditional greeting to friends arriving by air.

UNIQUE among airport facilities the world over are the colorful lei booths which grace the approaches to Honolulu International Airport. Here youthful Hawaiian maidens and portly matrons prepare and sell the many-hued floral garlands which have become the trademark of Hawaiian hospitality.

Leis are among the most unique and colorful of Hawaiian traditions. Originally made of the green, sweetly-scented maile leaf, leis were worn only by Hawaiian alii, or leaders, on important occasions.

TODAY, with nearly 80 per cent of Hawaii's visitors arriving by scheduled airlines, lei-making activities have shifted to the airport, where nearly 100 Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians prepare an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 leis daily the year around, making use of as many as 140,000 individual blossoms each 24 hours.

Leis are presented to arriving passengers, with the traditional "Aloha!" greeting, from a variety of sources. United Air Lines, which links 79 mainland cities with Hawaii, presents leis to each passenger on its first-class DC-7 Mainliners.

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"Is it true that Swiss watches and such are a better buy in Tijuana than elsewhere in Mexico? How about Guatemala?"

I NEVER HEARD that either Tijuana or Guatemala or anywhere in Mexico was good for Swiss watches. But I can't honestly say they are not. I just don't know. I buy Swiss watches in Switzerland or, better, in Hong Kong. The way to figure on inexpensive foreign imports is whether the country is a free port. Or for some reason has very low import duties. As I remember, Swiss watches in Mexico City were not an exceptional buy. And I would be afraid to buy anything expensive in Tijuana. These border towns are pretty well geared to hit-run tourist buying.

"I am 16 years of age and will be 17 when I go to Paris next summer to study French. I will stay one to two years. Where can I stay?"

MOST AMERICAN students stay at one of the thousand cheap hotels in the Latin Quarter. Some of them are pretty basic. Three that won't be too much of a shock are Hotel des Etats Unis near Montparnasse; Hotel de Siene near St. Germain des Pres; Hotel de Tournon near Luxembourg Gardens. After that, take a look at the school bulletin board. You ought to find families wanting to take in students. That's the way to learn French.

"Perhaps you can give me advice as to driving in Europe as far as a driving license is concerned."

The easiest way is to get an International Driving Permit. You get these from the AAA offices right here in the States. Cost about $1, I think. This is a good overall permit though, under new rules, your State license is good in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Italy.

The international permit takes care of everything though except England where you have to get a local license. Phone the Royal Automobile Club. They'll tell you.

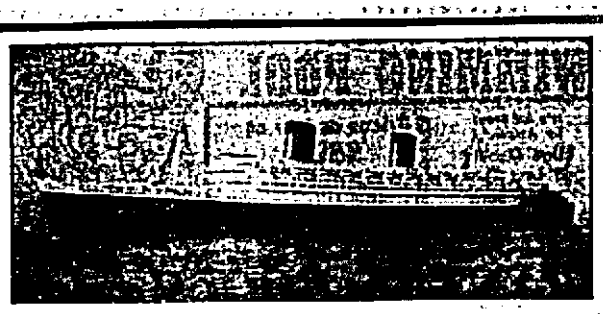

* * *

"Is it worth while to spend Christmas in Mexico?"

WELL, I THINK SO. It's a good season of the year and Mexico is fun at almost any time. Personally, I'd spend it right in Mexico City, rather than out in the country. Probably more holiday feeling.

If you are going to the Capri or the Versailles Room that night, you'd better start on the reservations now.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to: Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

What Makes the Big Wheels Roll

CAMERON HAWLEY, who wrote the best-seller, "Executive Suite" and established himself as an outstanding chronicler of our times, now offers "Cash McCall" (Houghton Mifflin, $3.95).

The hero is a modern American businessman who has a talent for buying heavy industries, revitalizing them and reselling them at a substantial profit. But he's not a "company man," does not operate the plants.

Like "Executive Suite," this novel tells about human beings who people the big business world — how they think, feel, react, love . . . and like his first novel, this is an exceptional production. The story was first told, we recall, in Life Magazine, a too-generous free sample of a story the reader should follow as it develops.

It was, we recall, this same magazine that whined recently about the lack of authors who could write about the contemporary American scene.

The thin Minnesotan, Sinclair Lewis, achieved great fame with cynicism. Cameron Hawley has more sympathy. Hawley needs no caricatures, he is warm and sure. This is easily the best novel to fall into this corner this year.

Cash McCall (if you need to know the plot) buys Grant Austen's plant through some legal, but misunderstood, chicanery. Cash meanwhile rekindles an old love for Austen's daughter, Lory. The crisis is a sort of indefinite, yet positive thing: McCall needs no man's approval to justify his project, Austen needs everybody's . . . so, naturally, Lory and love win.

Tain't the plot, it's the telling of it.—G. C. F.

IN AN ERA of "do-it-yourself," complete with kits, the author of "The Word Beyond Words," Gardner Hunting (Dodd, Mead, $3), presents his own design for living. Prayer is the application of faith; not so much faith in a generous Being as faith in one's self. Mr. Hunting argues that prayer will not influence God, or persuade Him to act; the purpose of prayer is to build up faith. With full faith there seems to be little which will not come to the believer. Certainly the author has his own faith, which has earned the respect of past readers, and to know Gardner Hunting is to have a new faith in what man can be.

The author was a resident of Long Beach for many years, and now lives in Glendale. His own life has been a broad application of the spirit with which he writes. If one reads with an open mind, he will certainly benefit beyond measure from this fine book of common sense.—G. L.

IF THE SQUIRE of your household likes to cook, or thinks he can cook, the most unique gift you could give him is "Esquire Cook Book" (McGraw-Hill, $5.95). Not only is it a volume handsomely done to a man's taste, but assuming that the reader knows absolutely nothing about cookery, it takes him by the hand and shows him, step by step, how to work with recipes and then cook anything that suits his fancy, from eggs au gratin to the most complicated dinner entree or the gaudiest, champagne-flavored dessert. It makes barbecuing sound as simple as brewing a pot of coffee, garnishing a Canadian goose as easy as preparing a three-minute cereal. And there's a glossary of cooking terms, not to count a complete calorie counter for the plump wife's protection.—F.T.K.

"French Girls Are Vicious" is the title of a highly entertaining book of nine short stories by James T. Farrell (Vanguard, $3.50). Obviously based largely on his extensive travels and experiences, and with their emphatic quality, these light tales have a reality not often found in fiction.

DR. WILFRED FUNK, for 30 years with Funk & Wagnalls Co., the dictionary and encyclopedia publishers, is author of "The Way to Vocabulary Power and Culture" (Grosset & Dunlap, $1.98), which is a bargain if ever there was one. Dr. Funk lists 5,654 words which he calls "key words" to masterful writing and speaking, first defining and pronouncing each word, and then illustrating it in a sentence to give its precise meaning. There are chapters on "Verbs of Power," "Adjectives of Power," and so on, and included, too, are vocabulary tests.—F. T. K.

WHEN LEO DUROCHER was a boy, he was a nervous specimen who loved baseball and did not give a hoot about dodging trouble. When he became a man, he was the same way, until he met Laraine Day. Leo's life (up to the time just before the Giants fired him) is told in "The Leo Durocher Story," by Gene Schoor (Messner, $2.95).

THE COMMON grizzly bear didn't become the emblem of California for nothing. Common since the days of the Indians, it has been very much in the California picture for two centuries. Awkward and big (he has been reported weighing up to a ton), this sanguinary beast was held in awe by the Indians, feared as a depredator of livestock on mission and rancho in the days of the Spaniards and Mexicans, hunted for bear-and-bull fights in the gold rush and a source of meat and robes to early settlers. Not completely extinct until the 1920s, he has been the source of many exciting experiences of Californians and more than a few of these episodes are set down for the first time by Tracy I. Storer and Lloyd P. Tavis Jr. in "California Grizzly" (University of California Press, $7.50).

IN A SMALL Missouri town, three people seek their place in the world. One chooses it within the rigid framework of her church (Latter-day Saints), another by giving generously and asking (and getting) little, and a third to take from the community only that which she needs. A warm story, told leisurely by Agnes Adams Fisher in "Daylight and Dark" (Funk and Wagnalls, $3.75).

AUTHOR of numerous magazine articles, some of which have appeared in Southland, Caroline Louise Clough of Long Beach has written a book, "His Name Was David," which deals with the life of Dr. David Paulson (Review and Herald Pub. Co.). She tells how Dr. Paulson, her brother-in-law, founded the now famous Hinsdale Sanitarium in a Chicago suburb and conquered life's exigencies through prayer. A solid book, and good reading.

"THE MERMAID'S WISH" (Story Book Press) is a book of charming verse, poetry and song by Mabel Dobb Hester, 716 Olive Ave., which has gone into its second printing. An infinite variety of subjects is covered, each with grace and heartfelt understanding.

THE CARD PLAYER never lived who wouldn't want "The Bridge Player's Bedside Companion" (Prentice-Hall, $4.95), a sparkling collection of stories, anecdotes and articles by half a hundred well-known writers. The editor is Albert A. Ostrow and there is a generous sprinkling of cartoons by H. T. Webster.

MOST COMPLETE profile yet about the Nevada gambling metropolis is a not-too-long book, "Las Vegas: Playtown U. S. A.," by Katharine Best and Katharine Hillyer, magazine article writers of Virginia City (David McGay, $2.95). The foreword is by a widely known fellow townsman, Lucius Beebe.

PAPERBACK BONANZA — Here are some new paperbacks to suit every taste: "Frontier — 150 Years of the West," the story of the West and the men who opened and conquered it, edited by Luke Short (Bantam, 35c); "The Sayings of Confucius," a translation by James R. Ware (Mentor, 35c); "Queen's Own," a novel of violence set in India, by George C. Appell (Dell First Edition, 25c); "Marx and the Marxists: The Ambiguous Legacy," by Sidney Hook (Anvil Original, $1.25); "Best Loved Books of the Twentieth Century," essays about 52 best-read books, by Vincent Starrett (Bantam, 35c); "The Long Playing Record Guide," an evaluation of more than 7,000 recordings, by Warren De Motte (Dell First Edition, 50c); "Modern Japan: A Brief History," by Arthur Tiedemann (Anvil Original, $1.25).

This Band Puts Oomph in Its Toot

Invited to be New Orleans' guests at the Mardi Gras. Long Beach Youth Band plans a show and dance to get rail fare. Rita Lynch is band's head drum majorette.

By Caroline Coleman

LONG BEACH Youth Band, made up of 60 musicians, majorettes and banner girls, Monday will celebrate its sixth birthday.

In the six years the band and majorettes have made 450 uniformed public appearances, have won more than 400 awards and have traveled 15,000 miles.

Now the band has received its finest honor — an invitation to attend the Mardi Gras in New Orleans in February. The official invitation from the Rex organization (official host of the Mardi Gras) came through a Mardi Gras representative who saw the band at this year's Las Vegas "Helldorado" celebration, where for the second consecutive year it took the sweepstakes award for the outstanding out-of-state unit.

In addition to appearing in the parade of His Majesty Rex, King of Misrule, the band has been invited to attend the grand ball. New Orleans has offered housing for the group during the five-day stay. Radio and television programs are slated.

TO RAISE FUNDS for the New Orleans trip, the Youth Band will give a show and dance Jan. 13 in the Convention Hall of the Municipal Auditorium. The show is scheduled for 8 to 9 p.m., followed by dancing until midnight.

Ninety-five per cent of the band's awards have been first place and sweepstakes, according to Gordon Carmen, organizer-director.

Twenty persons were present for the first rehearsal when the band was organized Dec. 19, 1949, according to Carmen. Within a month enrollment had jumped to 155 band members and 35 majorettes.

At the third rehearsal, the name "Long Beach Youth Band" was chosen, as was the band's motto "Character Building Through Music."

Within two months after its organization, the City Council gave permission for the band to place the city seal on its drums, stationery, and other equipment and officially represent the city in its appearances. The band also represents the state.

THE GROUP made its first appearance at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino in March 1950.

In July 1950 the city took over partial sponsorship by accounting for about 30 per cent of the band's transporation expenses.

In July 1952, the City Council allocated funds to furnish the band with 50 snappy blue and grey uniforms.

All services given the band by its members, parents, adult advisory board and band director are voluntary. None of these people is paid.

Helping celebrate the band's sixth anniversary are Monzell Seckington and Clarence Nies, assistant directors; Betty Nies, senior secretary; Priscilla Marshall, head line majorette; Gail Marshall, recording secretary; Cheryl Martin, head librarian; Ronald Bannister, band president; Curtis Chenowith, transportation chairman.

GORDON CARMEN organized the band when he was 19 years old. He has been associated with the Los Angeles Rams band, Loyola University band, Long Beach Veterans Community Band and American Legion Band. A champion military and twirling drum major, he won more than 300 awards. He has made a number of radio and television appearances, and has emceed a number of shows.

Rita Lynch, the 12-year-old "baton whiz," head drum majorette, a band member for more than five years, has won 43 trophies, 50 medals and many ribbons.

The band points with pride to the fact that thus far it is the only California musical group invited to the Mardi Gras.

The band has a limited number of openings for boys and girls aged 13-17. Youths interested in joining and their parents are invited to attend rehearsals at the Edison school, 7th St. and Maine Ave., between 6:30 and 9 p.m. Thursdays.

Let Fire Dance in Your Garden

Leading the flower parade for 1956 is Fire Dance, a large, hybrid, scarlet-red, yellow-throated petunia.

By Walter Finch

FIRE DANCE, big hybrid scarlet red petunia with flashy yellow throat leads the flower parade for 1956.

Paleface, the white hybrid multiflora, is a 1955 introduction because a few seeds were distributed last spring, but it is widely available this season. It won the All-America Selections bronze medal award but there were insufficient seeds for general notice or offering by seed stores last year.

Paleface petunia is the white counterpart and with most striking color contrast to the outstanding red hybrid multiflora Comanche. Both belong to the already famous "Redskin" series of large, plain-petaled bedding beauties.

Fire Dance belongs to the grandiflora class, with much larger, fringed or ruffled flowers. And, they are freely borne on dwarf, compact spreading plants for bedding use.

PREVIOUS WINNERS in this class are the beautiful bright rose Prima Donna of 1955 and salmon Ballerina of 1952 introduction, also vigorous growing first generation hybrids. All provide exquisite cut-flowers and bloom continuously from spring until fall frosts.

Why are there more petunia winners than any other flower? The obvious answer is that more breeding work is done on petunias, but why? Well, they are in colorful bloom throughout the growing season, even through the winter in warmer areas. They are used for growing in pots and urns, porch and window boxes, edging along fences, walks and drives, for solid or ribbon beds, for dashes of color in perennial borders and foundation plantings. Petunias grow and bloom profusely in sandy to clay soils, from salty seashore air to mountain heights and from extreme north to tropical climates.

They are practically free from disease and insects. They are pleasantly fragrant and provide graceful cutting and arrangement material in foliage and flower. Varieties are available in most all color shades from white to deep blue and violet, including bicolors, except for yellow. Cream or buff is the closest to yellow so far in petunias although a couple with definite yellowish tones were recent trial entries.

FIRE DANCE is the newest and most striking colored hybrid grandiflora petunia. If you know Tango, Fire Dance is of similar rich scarlet-salmon, with the addition of a large and contrasting yellow throat for spectacular distinction.

Flowers measure four inches in size, beautifully ruffled to appear fringed and are freely produced from spring to fall. While plants reach only 12 inches high, with space available they will spread as much as 30 inches. Thus, a few plants can make a colorful display. Gardeners suggest setting plants at least 18 inches apart.

Where to get them? Order seeds early, right away, from any reliable seedsman. Start them in a pot or flat in the house or garage, preferably on a window sill, from now into February for this area.

How to Force Bulbs

By Henry Pree

THE HOME gardener with thoughts of forcing tulip and narcissus bulbs for indoor decoration should get busy at once and place them in pots.

Forcing bulbs is not always successful because most gardeners will not follow the rule that bulbs insist upon darkness and a cold temperature for a couple or more months so that they can develop roots to support the plants.

Bulbs potted now and put in the ground at once will have made sufficient root growth by the end of January to be ready for transfer to the warmth of the house.

The potting soil should consist of two parts of good garden soil, one part of old manure, leafmold or peatmoss, and one part sand. The mixture must be porous, and if the garden soil is heavy, then more sand must be added.

A TEASPOONFUL of a 4-12-4 fertilizer should be used for each pot of soil. Good draingage in the pots is essential.

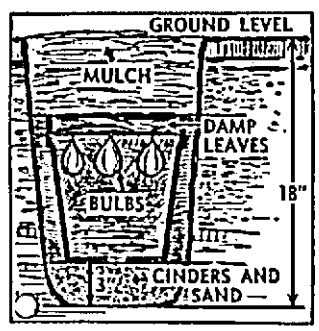

The bulbs, three to seven depending on their size, are placed close together, but not touching, in the pots with their tips just level with the top, and covered with soil. Then soak the pot well from below and bury in an 18-inch-deep trench outdoors, or in an empty cold frame.

The old gardener recommends placing the pot on a two or three-inch layer of cinders or sand to insure proper bottom drainage.

Pack damp leaves, straw or other litter about and over the pots, one inch deep, and then mulch above with more leaves, straw and soil to a depth of a foot. Root formation occurs during this period. The pots are then brought indoors as desired to provide the succession of bloom.

WHEN FIRST brought indoors, they should be watered lightly and kept in a cool place and in half light for a few days. Then gradually bring them into sunlight, warmth and plentiful watering.

Blooms will appear in five to eight weeks, depending upon earliness of the variety and temperature of the home. However, it is well to remember that when the blooms appear the plants should be removed from full sunlight.

To force potted bulbs, place pot in ditch 18 inches deep and cover foot deep with mulch.

Man Who's Chin Deep in Mums

Author's Photo

When Juan Hernandez of Paramount moves about in his chrysanthemum garden, he is chin-deep in the blooms.

By Walter E. Hempstead Jr.

BURIED ALIVE in his own flower patch is the way Juan Hernandez looks when he cultivates his brilliant garden of chrysanthemums at 14000 Orizaba St., Paramount.

"Do you still grow onions and carrots?" asked his amigo barber some six years ago.

"No," replied Hernandez. "Such truck did not even pay for my gasoline to haul it to the Los Angeles markets."

"Now I grow flowers," he said. "Customers have to buy them — when babies are born, lovers are married and friends die off," Hernandez observed shrewdly.

Home growers, who would like to be banked by flowers when they must bid "adios" to this earth but who like nothing better than scratching around their own shrubbery while still kicking, may not have the right bouquets for the crisis events of etiquette. So they quickly order from florists or beat a path to the Hernandez door.

"CHRYSANTHEMUMS are basic necessities in the floral kingdom," said Hernandez. "I like all flowers, but mums are big and bright, and really carry a friendly message on the inevitable occasions of life or death."

Thus in crowded urban districts there remain few "farms." Nevertheless, the traffic is quite large scale in the nation's floral industry. A neighbor and patron of Hernandez, Mrs. Nellie Kious Jones of 8141 E. Rosecrans Ave., recalls the still-operating "White Cloud Mum Farm" near her old home town of Joplin, Mo. "Beginning with two acres around that ranch house, of white, cloud-like mums," said Mrs. Jones, "the entire 100 acres are now given over to chrysanthemums exclusively. That is significant commerce," she added.

Hernandez, with his wife, Guadalupe, arrived in this part of California in 1910. He obtained a poll tax receipt, issued to him for $2 by the Los Angeles County auditor in 1914. In those early days, he used the strange certificate as a customary alien clearance equivalent to a visa or a passport for those who worked in the fields. (California today has no poll tax law.)

JUAN'S FLORAL experience is life-long. He and his wife are natives of the state of Guatapato in the central western interior of Mexico. Their families were farmers there.

"Best country in the world," declares Juan Hernandez, "is the United States; and the best place for flowers, especially chrysanthemums.

"Soon as my wife's recently broken leg is mended," he declared, "we both plan to apply for U. S. citizenship. We have met all the requirements and are eligible through the Department of Justice."

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to prune back too heavy shrubs that have been allowed to grow wild. If they have a tropical nature, it might be advisable to stake them, rather than pruning. Cutting the stems encourages soft, new growth which is susceptible to frost damage.

Deciduous trees may now be pruned to remove all superfluous growth. This should be taken care of in windy districts to allow the wind to penetrate through the center of the trees. This treatment should reduce wind damage.

Plants that grow in the shade of trees require extra portions of food and drink. Also if the shade becomes too dense then thin out the tree. Additional light will encourage improved growth of these smaller specimens.

This is a good time to work plenty of humus into the soil. Getting ready for the spring planting season. Also give the soil a thorough working over at this time.

HOW TO Make a Small Room Look Large Through Smart Decorating Ideas

WHY IS IT SOME SMALL ROOMS look big? If you study them carefully, you'll see the answer is smart decorating.

This room is a case in point. It is only 11x13 feet, but appears much larger and serves as well as many rooms twice the size. The space-making ideas are pin-pointed here to help you use them in your own home.

In a small room, it's even more important to preplan the use of the space you have available. Try experimenting with arrangements on paper first. It's easier than lifting heavy furniture pieces.

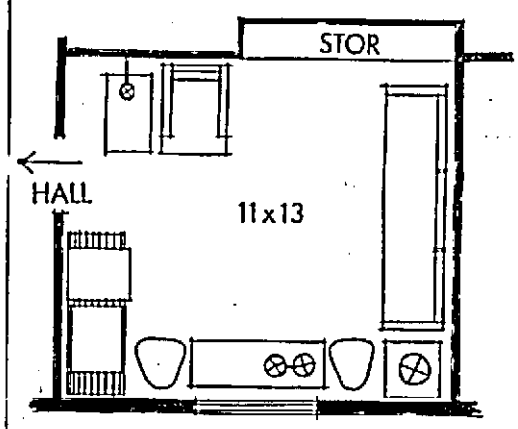

1. MIRROR FOOLS the eye. Looks like a big room, doesn't it? The large mirror behind the sofa doubles, visually, the size of this small guest-study. Storage wall, open at top for books and accessories, has closed storage below to keep necessary clutter out of sight and store guest-room bedding. The large sofa can double as extra guest sleeping space.

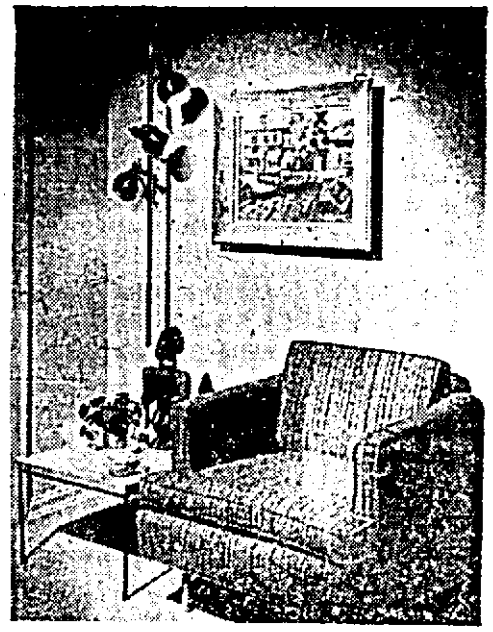

2. SIMPLIFY backgrounds. Walls are a light, neutral color. Only one pattern is used on the draperies. This simplified look is important in a small room where too many colors and too many patterns would give a feeling of clutter and confusion.

3. GOOD LIGHTING is important. Well-planned lighting turns dark corners into light, usable areas. Light appears to push walls back for a larger look. Wall-bracket spotlights leave the table top free.

4. FURNITURE HUGS the walls, making it possible to get maximum seating space in this 11x13-foot room.

TONY GUILLEN
Special Fare for Tots

WHEN TONY GUILLEN opened his El Patio No. 2 cafe last February in a brand new building at 3503 Atlantic Ave., he thought its seating capacity of 200 would be more than sufficient.

Tony, a modest, friendly fellow, definitely underestimated his own popularity.

People just love his chicken enchiladas, tamales, tacos, burritos and guacamole salads — all of which are very reasonably priced. They arrive at El Patio No. 2 in such droves that there are times when Tony must seat the overflow in his banquet room, which accommodates 40 persons.

One of Tony's most popular items is his Combination Special. For only $1.25, it includes all of the following: A dandy tostada (salad on a crisp tortilla); an enchilada with cheese, taco with beef, plump tamale, frijoles and fluffy Spanish rice. The food is served piping hot on pre-heated plates that keep everything warm until the last morsel is eaten.

THE COMBINATION is served at both of Tony's restaurants. El Patio No. 1, Tony's original cafe at 337 Pacific Ave., is devoted almost exclusively to Mexican dishes. But El Patio No. 2 also caters to persons who desire other bill of fare, such as steaks or hamburgers. One of El Patio No. 2's specialties is a $2 T-bone steak dinner, which includes a big, 16-ounce steak, soup, tossed salad, French fries or frijoles and Spanish rice; choice of beverage and choice of ice cream or pie.

Since Tony has several children of his own, he has a good idea of what youngsters like. At El Patio No. 2 he serves special children's plates for 50 cents, including soup, taco, beans and rice or soup, hamburger steak, beans and rice. El Patio No. 1 also offers special fare for children.

El Patio No. 2 is open daily from 11:30 a. m. to midnight and closed Tuesdays. El Patio No. 1 is open daily from 11:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. and closed Sundays.—TEDD THOMEY.

That problem again—

LANCE

WARREN TUFTS

Lance, Blaze, and Fitzpatrick continue their march to the mountains. With them now is a child, orphaned as the result of a barbaric plains attack by "bad mens with feathers".

Now the plains are behind them. The country grows torturous. Again driving winds and rain halt the march . . .

And again the daily ritual: a warm fire, supper, bedtime stories, sleep . . .

For the first time since they found the girl, Lance talks about it. "I'm going to find who did it, Fitz."

"Injuns ain't easy to—"

"You SURE it's Indians?" Lance snaps. "Why didn't they take the girl? Why didn't they steal the clothes off their victims? They took everything else!"

Before Fitz can answer a voice hails from below. "Hallo by th' fahr! Be yew whites up thar?"

"Whites!" Blaze calls.

The visitors are free trappers. "Barley Joe hyar, Little Ernie thar, cuzzins. Man, we're stove—ditchin' Pawnee three day! Lost our pack string, drowned a mount, ben ridin' double-up! Hongry!"

"Squat an' dig in," Fitz offers.

The down-and-outters gorge themselves, then sprawl contentedly and talk of their troubles until the rain lets up.

"Five o'clock," Barley Joe notes.

"That's a fine-looking watch," Lance says.

"Shore is, sojer—traded me a squaw fer it at th' Spring rondayvoo . . ."

A small voice booms from the shadows. "That's my DADDY SIR'S watch! Give it back!"

KINKAJOU, THE HONEY BEAR, LIVING AMONG THE TREE-TOPS OF SOUTH AMERICA, HAS DEVELOPED A FIFTH "HAND"!

FOUR "HANDS" OFTEN AREN'T ENOUGH WHEN THE MOST LUSCIOUS FRUIT IS AT THE TIPS OF SLENDER BRANCHES

AND THE KINKAJOU LOVES WILD FRUIT!

SO HE HAS BECOME AN EXPERT AT USING HIS LONG PREHENSILE TAIL FOR GATHERING FOOD

HOLDING ON TO A STURDY LIMB WITH HIS ALLOTTED FOUR "HANDS," HE REACHES OUT WITH HIS REMARKABLE TAIL...

AND TAKING HIS CHOICE OF THE RIPEST FRUIT, HE PLUCKS IT FROM THE TWIG...

WHILE THE LESS GIFTED MONKEY LOOKS ON WITH ENVY!

SO POWERFUL IS THE GRASP OF THE KINKAJOU'S TAIL AND FEET THAT LITTLE SHORT OF DEATH CAN TEAR HIM FROM HIS PERCH

KINKAJOU, HONEY BEAR, AND MONKEY LION, ARE THE NAMES GIVEN THIS FRUIT-EATING COUSIN OF THE RACCOON

TAKEN YOUNG THE KINKAJOU CAN BE TAMED AND WILL BECOME A GENTLE PET

Crest Toothpaste with Fluoristan actually strengthens tooth enamel to lock out decay

FLUORISTAN IS FLUORIDE IN ITS MOST EFFECTIVE FORM—PREVENTS CAVITIES FOR ADULTS AS WELL AS CHILDREN

Miracle of the Towns Without Toothaches. For years, children growing up in several Western towns were virtually without tooth decay. Then science learned why: nature's decay-preventive, fluoride, was present in their drinking water!

Science Long Tried To Put Fluoride—only medically approved preventive of decay—in a toothpaste. But merely adding fluoride does not work. At last, university scientists and Procter & Gamble found the answer: Fluoristan, exclusive fluoride compound.

Fluoristan Makes Possible Crest Toothpaste—world's greatest weapon against tooth decay. Unless you get Fluoristan, you cannot get the full benefits of fluoride in a toothpaste. Protects all permanent teeth, for adults and for children, six and over.

Actually Strengthens Enamel. Crest combines with and strengthens tooth enamel as you brush. Microphoto at left shows how, enamel strengthened by Crest ingredient defies decay acids, while unprotected enamel (right) is eaten away by decay acids.

Prevents Most Cavities Where Toothbrush Can't Reach! Even between teeth, where food particles lodge (arrows), Crest gives the greatest protection ever known. Crest penetrates between teeth, strengthens enamel of entire tooth against decay.

Never Before Such Decay Prevention! Crest has been proven in the most extensive and best-documented research ever conducted on a toothpaste. The record of decay prevention established by Crest has never been equalled by any other product.

Tastes Wonderful—Refreshes Your Breath! Crest locks out bad breath caused by decay as no other toothpaste can. Gives you cleaner, whiter teeth. Best tasting, by actual tests. Remember: Every Crest brushing strengthens tooth enamel against decay! Get Crest today!

Fluoristan is Procter & Gamble's trademark for Crest's exclusive fluoride tooth decay fighter.
